PUSH DOWNTOWN RENEWAL

Talks Sought On Properties

A campaign to enlist the cooperation of property owners in the revitalization of downtown Arlington Heights was to be launched this week with mailing of letters to persons whose property does not conform to zoning standards.

The letters, from Village Pres. John G. Woods, ask recipients to contact the village manager before Jan. 1 to arrange a meeting to discuss the status of the property.

Woods said the village wants meetings with individual property owners to discuss potential redevelopment of their land, inform them of contacts the village has had with financiers and developers and to hear their ideas for development of parcels.

THE APPROACH follows one discussed last July when the Tec-Search plan for downtown development was presented. The approach is basically to seek support and cooperation among property owners before the village decides whether and where to flex its legal muscles.

A study of all downtown parcels subsequently was prepared by the building department giving the status of each piece and its use. Determination of who receives the initial letter is based on that study.

The area affected is that in the area zoned B5 (90-foot high rise) a year ago. It is bordered by Sigwalt Street on the south, Highland Avenue and its extensions on the west, St. James on the north from Highland to Vail, Eastman for the remainder of the north side, and State Road on the east.

It contains 30 properties — mostly with frame residences — which the building departments study notes are both non-conforming structures under the building ordinance and non-conforming uses of land under the zoning code.

SINCE THEY were non-conforming under the former B2 classification, the amortization "grace" period has elapsed on all of them, and the village could take legal action on all of them if it chose.

The study also points to nine properties — mostly with masonry business establishments — with non-conforming buildings or uses. In only two cases does the "grace" period extend beyond 1968.

A THIRD category of 13 properties — mostly with frame buildings housing business or professional establishments — consists of non-conforming buildings but conforming land uses. "Grace" period is not finally determined in the study.

The fourth — and largest — category consists of 62 parcels which, without thorough inspection, appear to be conforming with respect to both the building and zoning codes.

Downtown Houses Pay Small Taxes

The building department's study of downtown properties highlights one concern of village officials which is woven through the entire discussion of downtown revitalization:

Many downtown parcels contribute less in property taxes than the typical residential lot in the village. The assessed valuation on many parcels and the improvements on them is below the average homeowner's valuation.

Of special significance is a comparison of categories within the study of downtown properties:

CATEGORY I with 30 parcels, mainly with frame residences, has a total assessed valuation for improvements of $57,862. That's an average assessed value of $1,929 per property for improvements.

Category II with 9 parcels, mainly masonry buildings with a non-conforming business use, has a total valuation of $70,914. That's an average of $7,897 per improvement.

Category III with 13 parcels, mainly non-conforming frame buildings with a conforming business use, has an assessed value of $59,410. That's an average of $4,570.

Category IV with 62 parcels, conforming in structures and use, with a total assessed value of $1,877,848. That's an average of $30,288 per parcel for improvements.

THE LAST category generally is composed of larger parcels. It also includes nine parking lots with little or no assessment for improvements.

The figures give the distinct impression that many downtown properties, in their present state, do not carry their share of the tax burden in comparison with other downtown and even residential areas.

Lowest assessed valuation on a building in the B5 area, a frame residence, is $825. Highest valuation, on the Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Eastman Street office, is $318,350.

Developer Agrees To Extend Street

Approval of the preliminary plat of the 42-lot Arlington Highlands subdivision was given by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday.

But not before trustees decided to change it to extend Vail Avenue into the subdivision.

The plat for the subdivision, proposed by developer Harold Eberharde north of Arlington Knolls and east of Wilson School, would have made permanent the ending of Vail at the border of the Knolls subdivision.

EBERHARDE'S plat would have included a public walk, mainly for the benefit of school children, from the end of Vail a half block to a new east-west street, Lillian.

Trustees Frank Palmatier and John J. Walsh Jr. argued strongly in favor of extending Vail over that stretch, reducing the width of 18 side lots to make the street possible.

Lad Still In Critical Condition

A 3½-year-old Arlington Heights boy injured in an accident Nov. 29 remained in critical condition at Northwest Community Hospital early Wednesday.

Hospital officials said the boy, who suffered brain damage and is in traction for a broken leg, had not emerged from a coma since the accident and had not responded in any way.

HE IS ROBERT Armstrong, youngest of five children in the Hugh Armstrong family of 726 N. Douglas Ave. He is in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The child was struck by a car at the corner of Euclid and Douglas.

Dies as Car Overshoots Intersection

Arlington Heights' second traffic death of 1965 occurred shortly before 5:30 a.m. Sunday when a car driven by a Round Lake Beach man overshot State Road, at Hintz Road and overturned.

Pronounced dead at Northwest Community Hospital was John A. Piraino, 42, of that community. He was driving west on Hintz and apparently failed to see it ended at State Road until it was too late.

Police said skid marks indicated he was traveling about 70 miles an hour. The car struck a stack of 16-inch sewer tiles before coming to a stop.

Variation Asked, Hearing Dec. 17

A variation in front yard requirements for a lot on the east side of Waterman Avenue, 229 feet north of Olive Street in Wheeling Township, will be sought at a hearing of the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals Dec. 17.

The hearing will be at 10:30 a.m. in Room 310 of the Chicago Civic Center. Sought is a reduction from 40 to 30 feet in the front yard setback requirement for the half-acre, single-family lot.

Development Okayed At Central, Wilke

Zoning of a 40-acre tract at the southeast corner of Central and Wilke Roads—one-third commercial and the remainder apartments—was approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday.

The development, just west of the Arlington Heights Nike base, would eliminate a jog in Wilke Road south of Central, according to an agreement mapped out by a special village board committee and developer Joseph Bernstein.

THE AGREEMENT grants Bernstein the zoning he had sought in a petition originally heard by the plan commission last January. The northern 10 acres will be rezoned B2 general service and the southern 20 acres R5 multiple.

But the developer will not get a major concession he had sought—five-story apartment buildings. They are not permitted under the R5 zoning class (which allows a maximum of four stories) and Bernstein agreed he would drop that request.

The proposal had rested in the special committee since March, when it was referred to the village board without the blessing of the plan commission. Trustees originally were unhappy about the height requested and the zoning.

BUT ONE significant change in the area has occurred since March: the land immediately south was annexed and zoned multiple after its owners sought multiple zoning in the county. That left the Bernstein land with apartment zoning to the south and west (in Rolling Meadows).

Trustee Roy A. Bressler, presenting the committee report which the board accepted, said the village would grant the zoning, and Bernstein had agreed to dedicate up to 100 feet along his east property line if the Army refuses to dedicate land, for Wilke's extension.

The committee recommended, and the board accepted, a suggestion that a special use permit be granted for a service station on a triangle in the B2 area that would be isolated by Wilke's extension. The board asked village Atty. Jack M. Seigel to determine whether a hearing will be needed on that permit.

MONDAY'S ACTION, directing the attorney to prepare ordinances, was not final. But final approval normally is a formality after that instruction is given.

Ask Law Aimed at Parents of Vandals

A resolution urging the legislature "to impose civil and criminal liability upon parents of minor children for the vandalism and other tortuous conduct" of the children was approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday.

The resolution, recommended by the Youth Council, is an outgrowth of the recent discussion of vandalism in the village.

TRUSTEES decided to send copies of the resolution to legislators living in the newly carved out district which includes Arlington Heights. Trustee John J. Walsh Jr. said State Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) already has written the Illinois Legislative Council and has indicated a willingness to sponsor such legislation.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said similar legislation was passed by the legislature in 1961 but vetoed by the governor.

Probationary Officer Named

Robert E. Atkinson was appointed as a probationary patrolman Monday by the Arlington Heights Village Board on the recommendation of the Fire and Police Commission.

Library Expansion Needed

Bursting at Its Seams

by Dan Baumann
News Editor

(This is the first in a series of reports on the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, its growth, and plans for a $1,235,000 referendum Jan. 8 to replace the present structure with a new facility.)

Arlington Heights Memorial Library has slightly less than 50,000 volumes available to the public.

That's about all it will continue to have, unless greatly expanded facilities are built.

The library, only 13 years old, is bursting at its seams. "It is physically impossible to add any consequential number of volumes to the existing plant," according to the head librarian, Mrs. Mary Lee Ewalt.

THAT DOESN'T mean the book-buying program has come to a halt: "We have to continue buying new books," said Mrs. Ewalt.

But librarians will have to start placing volumes in dead storage, unavailable to library patrons.

And a small increase in the number of volumes on the shelves will occur as librarians add small shelves in corners not previously considered for them.

Still, the disturbing fact remains that some books remain on portable racks for days waiting for an opening on the shelves in the proper category.

ANOTHER disturbing fact: against an approximate physical limit of 50,000 books, the Arlington Heights library today should have a minimum of 85,000 volumes to serve the current population. A more satisfactory stock, according to most library experts, would consist of 106,000 to 116,000 books, based on 2½ to 2¾ books per capita.

Even those figures will be outdated in the next few months as the village continues its rapid growth.

Today's needs are a far cry

Interested persons may now learn and ski at the Fox Trails sports area, within an hour of Arlington Heights.

An orientation lecture and demonstration, to which all interested individuals are invited, will be held at Pioneer Park feldhouse next Thursday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m. Registrations also will be taken.

THE SKI program will consist of four trips to Fox Trails from Monday, Dec. 27, through Dec. 30. The basic fee for those who have their own equipment is $18. Ski equipment may be rented for a fee of $2 a lesson. The fee for the bus is not included, but will be collected each trip. The basic fee includes intensive two-hour lessons, ski tow tickets and extra skiing time.

The schedule for the holiday trips will be bus pick-up at 9 a.m., returning at 4 p.m. Skiers are asked to bring their lunch, although a snack bar is available.

A SESSION of weekly ski lessons will be given in the early evening Jan. 13 through Feb. 3. These Thursday evening trips will also be given at the basic $18 fee.

Further information may be obtained by calling the park district office, CL 3-0620.

Utility Question May Slow Building

Building permits may be held up on some homes in the new Airy Trace subdivision, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said Monday, pending settlement of a question raised by the Homeowners association of Arlington Heights Gardens subdivision.

Association Pres. Robert Walsh asked Hanson at Monday's village board meeting about the status of the inquiry. Since it was annexed, residents of the subdivision — north of Airy Trace — have been paying a monthly charge to purchase the lines of the private water utility which formerly served the Gardens.

THE HOMEOWNERS group indicated the new subdivision was using part of those lines and asked whether the Airy Trace development should share in the cost of acquiring the utility.

Hanson told Walsh he had not yet been able to meet with officers of Realcoa, which is developing Airy Trace, and he added, "We're not issuing occupancy pemits and we haven't set [illegible]) meters." (A

Utility Question May Slow Building

Building permits may be held up on some homes in the new Airy Trace subdivision, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said Monday, pending settlement of a question raised by the Homeowners association of Arlington Heights Gardens subdivision.

Association Pres. Robert Walsh asked Hanson at Monday's village board meeting about the status of the inquiry.

Since it was annexed, residents of the subdivision — north of Airy Trace — have been paying a monthly charge to purchase the lines of the private water utility which formerly served the Gardens.

THE HOMEOWNERS group indicated the new subdivision was using part of those lines and asked whether the Airy Trace development should share in the cost of acquiring the utility.

Hanson told Walsh he had not yet been able to meet with officers of Realcoa, which is developing Airy Trace, and he added, "We're not issuing occupancy pemits and we haven't set [illegible] meters." (A

Service Station Tie Vote Is Up to White

Trustee John F. White will have all the honors at the next meting of the Arlington Heights Village Board.

White was absent from Monday's meeting, when the board deadlocked on approval of a service station at the northwest corner of State and Palatine Roads.

Trustees put over until their next meeting—when White could be present to break the deadlock—action on the service station.

THE DEADLOCK came after extended deliberations in which the board agreed: 1) to annex a portion of the corner not presently in the village and 2) to rezone to B2 (general service) the entire 225 by 217 foot parcel.

They became mired in the question of a special use permit for a 150 by 150 foot piece of the property for a Marathon station, as recommended by the plan commission.

Several trustees were skeptical of the need for a station at the corner. They began to hammer out a restrictive covenant which would become part of the special use permit requiring that the station be torn down or converted if it went unoccupied for a period of six months. Marathon spokesmen said they would not object to that.

Entering a jarring note, Trustee John J. Walsh Jr. called the suggestion "well intentioned" but "naive" and of "slight nuisance value." Himself the manager of a service station and tire store, Walsh said the firm could circumvent the restriction by opening the station for a few days if it fails to maintain a lease on the property.

ON A MOTION by Trustee Roy A. Bressler to deny the permit, Bressler, Walsh and Thomas Hanlon voted "yes." Trustees Carl F. Mees and Frank Palmatier and Village Pres. John G. Woods voted "no."

With no further action possible, trustees voted to table action until the next meeting, when White could be present. And they voted to reconsider the commercial zoning, to take it up with the service station permit.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson urged trustees to require early action by the owners to clear up a sanitary problem on the land. Several old houses, to be cleared for the station, have septic fields. Hanson said they were flowing onto neighboring properties and into a State Road ditch. (A

Two Are Hurt In Auto Skid

Two persons were injured early Monday when their car plowed across State Road, at Ivy Lane, into a drainage ditch.

They are Ray D. Harrison, 36, and Mrs. Dorothy Harrison, 37, of 1129 Beverly Lane. They were treated for cuts at Northwest Community Hospital.

Harrison told Arlington Heights police he was westbound on Ivy Lane; when he saw the street ended at State Road, he braked but the car skidded on loose stone. Harrison said he was unfamiliar with the street, in Ivy Hill. (A

Developers Drop 21-Acre Proposal

Plan for a controversial 21-acre development northeast of State Road and Noyes Street was withdrawn from village board consideration Monday.

In a letter read before the Arlington Heights board Monday, Atty. Edward Hofert representing the owners said they had been unable to agree on the extension of Lincoln Street through the development.

THE PROPOSED development would have included business and apartment zoning, a small single family area and a park site. Village board objections apparently had narrowed down to the fact Lincoln Street was not extended through the development to State Road.

Hofert asked for a delay in consideration a month ago while he negotiated for sale of that portion owned by the Santucci Construction Co. to owners who would agree to extend Lincoln. He said the other owners involved, the Bradley family, had agreed to extend the street.(A

A resolution approving use of motor fuel tax funds to improvement of Olive Street from State Road to a point 132 feet west of Dunton Avenue was approved by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday.

The MFT funds will pay the public benefit portion of the new street, which is to be improved by an assessment against abutting property owners. The board at the same time agreed to guarantee $200 for soil tests—needed to get state MFT funds. The village guaranteed to pay that cost in the event the special assessment proceeding is abandoned. Q. When one is eating grapes at the dinner table, how are the seeds properly removed from the mouth?

A. As inconspicuously as possible with the fingers. Never be guilty, under any circumstances, of dropping them directly from the mouth onto the plate!

Developers Drop 21-Acre Proposal

Plan for a controversial 21-acre development northeast of State Road and Noyes Street was withdrawn from village board consideration Monday.

In a letter read before the Arlington Heights board Monday, Atty. Edward Hofert representing the owners said they had been unable to agree on the extension of Lincoln Street through the development.

THE PROPOSED development would have included business and apartment zoning, a small single family area and a park site. Village board objections apparently had narrowed down to the fact Lincoln Street was not extended through the development to State Road.

Hofert asked for a delay in consideration a month ago while he negotiated for sale of that portion owned by the Santucci Construction Co. to owners who would agree to extend Lincoln. He said the other owners involved, the Bradley family, had agreed to extend the street.(A

Smoke Signals

By THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fires at Christmas time are particularly tragic. Yet on this day thousands of homes are carelessly and unwittingly converted into dangerous fire traps, regardless of warnings by fire department officials and safety authorities. This is because the Christmas tree is a potential fire hazard. Therefore, caution should be taken in its selection, placement in the home and maintenance. Here are some suggestions:

1. Play safe by choosing a small tree—it can be just as beautiful and much safer.
2. Keep the tree outdoors until ready to set it up.
3. After bringing the tree inside, cut the butt slantwise to open the pores, then stand it in a tub of water or moist earth.
4. Be cautious of chemicals or other substances sold for "fireproofing" trees. In some cases this process is ineffective. Remember a flocked tree is not fireproof.
5. In placing the tree, it's best to avoid "hot spots" such as those near the fireplace, stove, television set, radiator or electric bulbs.
6. Use non-flammable decorations of glass or metal, and "fireproof" snow in decorating your tree.
7. Never use untreated paper ornaments or untreated cotton batting or gauze for decorations. Batting and gauze can be made flame-resistive by dipping in a gallon of water mixed with nine ounces of borax and four ounces of boric acid.
8. Use only electric lights, never candles. Be sure, too, that wires are in good condition and bear the UL mark denoting Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., which shows they have been tested for safety. Frayed electric cords are a fire hazard.
9. The switch for turning on the tree lights should be placed some distance from the tree. Never use an outlet or plug under the tree or run electric trains around the base.
10. If decorations are used abount the house, do not permit them around or near chairs and other places where people may smoke. It is preferable to have them near the ceiling, well above the head of anyone standing up.
11. After you have opened your Christmas presents, remove all the gift wrappings and packing material from your living room and dispose of them.
12. Immediately after the holidays remove the tree from the house.

Another 'Dear Tom'

GOP Captain-at-LargeIs Fired by Houser

A second "Dear Tom" letter has been sent to a prominent Wheeling Township Republican by Township Committeeman Thomas Houser.

The Herald learned Houser had removed Thomas W. Novotny, president of the township Republican Workshop from his post as a captain-at-large. He had removed Thomas H. Hanlon, president of the Regular Republican Club, as Precinct 36 captain several months ago.

Novotny received his dismissal letter Friday. The Herald learned of it from a third person and did not see a copy of it.

HOUSER TOLD Hanlon he was removing him for "non-performance." He said Tuesday that was the reason cited in his letter to Novotny, too.

But he reportedly also told Novotny the Workshop was a "paper" organization enhancing Novotny's political image, and he suggested Novotny devote more time to that organization.

Houser acknowledged "differences" with both Hanlon and Novotny, but insisted the dismissals were based on performance in the captain posts:

"I am satisfied there is adequate record of this, or I wouldn't have exposed myself."

Novotny said he would "rather not comment" on the dismissal. But he defended his role as Workshop president. In the same mail with Houser's letter, he said, he received a copy of the state Workshop publication praising the approach of the Wheeling Township organization.

A SOURCE friendly to Houser said disagreements among Houser and the two captains had been "long simmering" and involved insubordination. Since neither Hanlon nor Novotny is regarded as politically lazy, any serious acts of non-performance probably resulted from their personal differences.

After Hanlon received his letter, he wrote a rebuttal to Houser, suggesting the committeeman's performance be re-examined, and he sent copies to other party leaders. He acknowledged only one point of non-performance cited by Houser and said it stemmed from disagreements with the committeeman.

Though a fight apparently is brewing, the effect of the disagreements and Houser's actions is a matter of speculation. There have been no formal announcements for next spring's party election contest.

The principals all indicated their differences were over party operation rather than philosophy.

NOVOTNY, CURRENT president, was head of the Workshop when it was organized in 1961. A resident of the Westgate area of Arlington Heights, he was captain of Precinct 31 from 1961 to 1963, after which he was an area chairman and captain at large.

In May, he resigned as area chairman, citing the press of business and disagreement on party operation, but he stayed on as captain. (AF (GF

Annexation Challenge Dismissed

Arlington Heights Gardens subdivision is still a part of the Village of Arlington Heights.

A state Appellate Court panel last week upheld the Cook County Circuit Court in dismissing a suit brought to challenge the annexation of the subdivision. The suit was brought by several residents of the subdivision.

In a complex legal decision, the court agreed that petitions of annexation filed in April 1963 did not meet all statutory requirements. It noted the same objection was raised by Pine Homes, Inc., builders in the subdivision.

THE VILLAGE and Pine Homes subsequently agreed to a consent decree and the County Court in June 1963 issued an order authorizing the annexation. The Appellate Court said the suit brought by the individuals, most prominently Albert and Barbara Vidmar, on July 6, 1964—the date the village approved the annexation ordinance—came "more than a year after the order of annexation" and the trial court "properly denied the petitions."

The court also said the method of challenge—a petition for injunction—was faulty because the village already had de facto control when the case went to the Circuit Court. It said the proper proceeding would have been a quo warranto action — challenging the existing condition.

Another 'Dear Tom'

GOP Captain-at-LargeIs Fired by Houser

A second "Dear Tom" letter has been sent to a prominent Wheeling Township Republican by Township Committeeman Thomas Houser.

The Herald learned Houser had removed Thomas W. Novotny, president of the township Republican Workshop from his post as a captain-at-large. He had removed Thomas H. Hanlon, president of the Regular Republican Club, as Precinct 36 captain several months ago.

Novotny received his dismissal letter Friday. The Herald learned of it from a third person and did not see a copy of it.

HOUSER TOLD Hanlon he was removing him for "non-performance." He said Tuesday that was the reason cited in his letter to Novotny, too.

But he reportedly also told Novotny the Workshop was a "paper" organization enhancing Novotny's political image, and he suggested Novotny devote more time to that organization.

Houser acknowledged "differences" with both Hanlon and Novotny, but insisted the dismissals were based on performance in the captain posts:

"I am satisfied there is adequate record of this, or I wouldn't have exposed myself."

Novotny said he would "rather not comment" on the dismissal. But he defended his role as Workshop president. In the same mail with Houser's letter, he said, he received a copy of the state Workshop publication praising the approach of the Wheeling Township organization.

A SOURCE friendly to Houser said disagreements among Houser and the two captains had been "long simmering" and involved insubordination. Since neither Hanlon nor Novotny is regarded as politically lazy, any serious acts of non-performance probably resulted from their personal differences.

After Hanlon received his letter, he wrote a rebuttal to Houser, suggesting the committeeman's performance be re-examined, and he sent copies to other party leaders. He acknowledged only one point of non-performance cited by Houser and said it stemmed from disagreements with the committeeman.

Though a fight apparently is brewing, the effect of the disagreements and Houser's actions is a matter of speculation. There have been no formal announcements for next spring's party election contest.

The principals all indicated their differences were over party operation rather than philosophy.

NOVOTNY, CURRENT president, was head of the Workshop when it was organized in 1961. A resident of the Westgate area of Arlington Heights, he was captain of Precinct 31 from 1961 to 1963, after which he was an area chairman and captain at large.

In May, he resigned as area chairman, citing the press of business and disagreement on party operation, but he stayed on as captain. (AF (GF

Annexation Challenge Dismissed

Arlington Heights Gardens subdivision is still a part of the Village of Arlington Heights.

A state Appellate Court panel last week upheld the Cook County Circuit Court in dismissing a suit brought to challenge the annexation of the subdivision. The suit was brought by several residents of the subdivision.

In a complex legal decision, the court agreed that petitions of annexation filed in April 1963 did not meet all statutory requirements. It noted the same objection was raised by Pine Homes, Inc., builders in the subdivision.

THE VILLAGE and Pine Homes subsequently agreed to a consent decree and the County Court in June 1963 issued an order authorizing the annexation. The Appellate Court said the suit brought by the individuals, most prominently Albert and Barbara Vidmar, on July 6, 1964—the date the village approved the annexation ordinance—came "more than a year after the order of annexation" and the trial court "properly denied the petitions."

The court also said the method of challenge—a petition for injunction—was faulty because the village already had de facto control when the case went to the Circuit Court. It said the proper proceeding would have been a quo warranto action—challenging the existing condition.

School Architect Told: Trim $40,000

The architect has been asked to shave $40,000 from the construction costs of the Juliette Low School in Elk Grove School District.

The school board will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday to consider the cuts and accept a contractor's bid for construction. The foundation of the school in the Surrey Ridge Subdivision in Arlington Heights already is in.

The three low bidders on the remainder of the work will be asked to submit new bids on the revised building designed by Orput-Orput and Associates of Rockford.

THE LOW bidders were: Warchol Construction Co., $469,126; Egyptian, $483,208; and Wil-Fred's Inc., $492,222.

The school district had requested the architect to design to a $410,000 cost.

The school administration cited approximately $30,000 they would cut from the building.

Cuts would be made through: elimination of skylights, decreasing a hardware allowance, elimination of folding doors and substition of block wall, change of gypsum roof to a less expensive material, lower gauge wire in sidewalks, elimination of a flagpole, redesign and simplification of the chimney, decreasing of testing, changing of a generator, elimination of two sinks, elimination of a library workroom, decrease in light fixture quality, elimination of some cabinets, and redesigning of a lobby-teacher area-stage to eliminate the stage.

SUPT. ROGER Bardwell told the board the building would continue to meet the educational needs for which it was designed. The school district will pay more for the unusual shape of the building but it is not out of line, he indicated.

The cost of the building will be slightly more than $14 per square foot. It amounts to less than $1,000 per pupil cost which is considered low, he added. Mark Hopkins School cost $14.20 per square foot.

Board members showed some reservations for changing the roofing material. This might be a false economy since the district has had roof leaking problems, they said.

The school board will accept a bid that includes an alternate for two kindergarten rooms.

CONTRACTORS AND their bids were: Joseph J. Duffy, $507,871; Fleetwood Contractors Inc., $539,108; Kenneth P. Johnson, $552,086; William C. Kuhlmann Co., $493,395; and Ragnar & Olson, $508,702.

The kindergarten alternate bids were: Egyptian, $23,865; Duffy, $22,493; Fleetwood, $21,500; Johnson, $20,130; Kuhlmann, $29,135; Olson, $22,602; Warchol, $29,940; and Wil-Freds, $24,250.

Hong Kong Girl, 11, 'Adopted' by Woman

Mrs. F. W. Hamilton, 127 S. Brighton Place, Arlington Heights, has financially "adopted" Chan Sui Oi, an 11-year-old Chinese girl living in Hong Kong.

The girl's parents were farmers in China before they fled to the British crown colony in 1951 to join the paternal grandmother. Her father does odd jobs at a dockyard, earning an average of $1.23 a day; her mother sews gloves at home, supplementing the family's income by about 11½ cents a day.

THAT IS THEIR total income to support themselves, the grandmother and their seven children. The family pays $4.40 a month for tuition for the five older children.

The family of 10 lives in a cubicle in an old tenement building. Mrs. Hamilton's "adoption" of Sui Oi is financial and not legal. It costs $15 a month for a minimum of one year, through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc.

Fast-Rising Population Has Outgrown Library

from those of Arlington Heights in 1887 when a group of five women opened the village's first library in a private home.

They're nearly as far removed from the village's needs in 1952, the year the present building was opened at 112 N. Belmont Ave.

THE LIBRARY then served a population of 10,000 compared with today's, which is in excess of 42,000.

It had 1,455 patrons, compared with 25,425 today. It had 11,490 volumes. It circulated 29,017 books in 1952, compared with 236,334 in the fiscal year which ended last May 30.

It circulated 429 magazines and pamphlets in 1952, compared with 9,996 last fiscal year. It had a staff of three, compared with today's 21, in each case including one full-time librarian.

PLANNING WAS started on the present library in 1950, with the woman's club leading a campaign for an $85,000 bond issue. An additional $11,000 was raised by the Community Council and veterans organizations for land purchase.

The 4,500-square-foot building was adequate, by today's standards, for the 1950 population of about 9,000. Library experts suggest .5 to .6 square feet per capita.

As the village population grew, the basement level was finished in 1956, adding new space.

WHY HAS THE relatively young building become totally inadequate for the village's library needs? Because of unforeseen growth, said a consultant firm which filed its report on the library a year ago.

Noting that the village population grew 218 per cent from 1950 to 1960, the report states:

"The fault lies not in the library board or the staff; two reasons for the library's inadequacy are: 1) the extremely rapid and extensive population growth, and 2) greatly increased use per capita of the library's resources. The latter is a national trend which is expected to increase rather than diminish in the future."

PLANS FOR THE new library call for a structure of 40,862 square feet to be completed in the spring of 1967. Of the total, 34,934 feet would be finished immediately—enough for a population of roughly 57,000. The remaining 5,928 square feet would be finished when village population growth rendered the first stage inadequate.

The completed building would be slightly less than the 43,670 square feet recommended in the consultant's report. But it would be within the .5 to .6 feet-per-resident generally recommended, based on an ultimate projected village population of between 70,000 and 80,000.

School Bus Driver Licenses Tightened

Arlington Heights' Village Board Monday agreed to strengthen an ordinance the village hasn't begun enforcing yet—the licensing of school bus drivers.

Such licensing was discussed in the aftermath of a school bus accident in the village this fall, and the public safety committee, in several meetings, mapped out what it wanted in a licensing ordinance.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel told trustees Monday a licensing provision was included in the village code during a massive, year-long revision formally approved earlier this year. The code revision is still at the printer, and the licensing provision, only a small part of the code, apparently had been forgotten.

SIEGEL SAID it contains most of the committee's recent suggestions. It requires drivers obtain village licenses, that they be 21 years old, that they provide character references from four village residents and that they submit to photographing and fingerprinting. The chief of police would rule on the individual's qualifications and determine the truth of statements in his application.

Siegel submitted an amendment, incorporating additional suggestions of the committee, requiring the applicant be in good health, have had a driver's license for at least five years and not have had a suspension or revocation during the preceding five years.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said he was not certain how long it would take to set up the licensing procedure.

Fast-Rising Population Has Outgrown Library

School Bus Driver Licenses Tightened

Arlington Heights' Village Board Monday agreed to strengthen an ordinance the village hasn't begun enforcing yet—the licensing of school bus drivers.

Such licensing was discussed in the aftermath of a school bus accident in the village this fall, and the public safety committee, in several meetings, mapped out what it wanted in a licensing ordinance.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel told trustees Monday a licensing provision was included in the village code during a massive, year-long revision formally approved earlier this year. The code revision is still at the printer, and the licensing provision, only a small part of the code, apparently had been forgotten.

SIEGEL SAID it contains most of the committee's recent suggestions. It requires drivers obtain village licenses, that they be 21 years old, that they provide character references from four village residents and that they submit to photographing and fingerprinting. The chief of police would rule on the individual's qualifications and determine the truth of statements in his application.

Siegel submitted an amendment, incorporating additional suggestions of the committee, requiring the applicant be in good health, have had a driver's license for at least five years and not have had a suspension or revocation during the preceding five years.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said he was not certain how long it would take to set up the licensing procedure.

from those of Arlington Heights in 1887 when a group of five women opened the village's first library in a private home.

They're nearly as far removed from the village's needs in 1952, the year the present building was opened at 112 N. Belmont Ave.

THE LIBRARY then served a population of 10,000 compared with today's, which is in excess of 42,000.

It had 1,455 patrons, compared with 25,425 today. It had 11,490 volumes. It circulated 29,017 books in 1952, compared with 236,334 in the fiscal year which ended last May 30.

It circulated 429 magazines and pamphlets in 1952, compared with 9,996 last fiscal year. It had a staff of three, compared with today's 21, in each case including one full-time librarian.

PLANNING WAS started on the present library in 1950, with the woman's club leading a campaign for an $85,000 bond issue. An additional $11,000 was raised by the Community Council and veterans organizations for land purchase.

The 4,500-square-foot building was adequate, by today's standards, for the 1950 population of about 9,000. Library experts suggest .5 to .6 square feet per capita.

As the village population grew, the basement level was finished in 1956, adding new space.

WHY HAS THE relatively young building become totally inadequate for the village's library needs? Because of unforeseen growth, said a consultant firm which filed its report on the library a year ago.

Noting that the village population grew 218 per cent from 1950 to 1960, the report states:

"The fault lies not in the library board or the staff; two reasons for the library's inadequacy are: 1) the extremely rapid and extensive population growth, and 2) greatly increased use per capita of the library's resources. The latter is a national trend which is expected to increase rather than diminish in the future."

PLANS FOR THE new library call for a structure of 40,862 square feet to be completed in the spring of 1967. Of the total, 34,934 feet would be finished immediately—enough for a population of roughly 57,000. The remaining 5,928 square feet would be finished when village population growth rendered the first stage inadequate.

The completed building would be slightly less than the 43,670 square feet recommended in the consultant's report. But it would be within the .5 to .6 feet-per-resident generally recommended, based on an ultimate projected village population of between 70,000 and 80,000.

Journal Features St. Viator Digest

"The Muse," semi-annual literary journal of St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, is cited in the December edition of the "Catholic School Journal."

The purpose and format of the 89-page, semi-annual digest are explained in an article by the Rev. Edward T. O'Neill, head of the St. Viator English department. The unusual high school publication was started in 1962.

WRITTEN BY students under supervision of their instructors, "The Muse" has covered subjects ranging from Shakespeare's characterization of Cassius to the motivating forces of Dr. Tom Dooley.

"The Muse," according to Father O'Neill, "serves a two-fold purpose. First, it develops the ability of the student to handle difficult literary subjects with insight and with confidence.

"In this respect, it serves the same useful purpose as written assignments in a course in English literature. Second, it develops the student as an individual by encouraging him to think independently, to analyze and come to his own conclusions."

The traditional between-holidays lull in social activities has set in, as most of us look forward to a brief period of relaxation between the busyness of Thanksgiving and the hectic moments of gift purchasing, card adressing and letter writing which precede Christmas. Although there is a reduction in entertaining and travel, an interesting amount continues as travelers return and guests arrive.

Dec. 2 was the date chosen by Mrs. Marvin Prellberg, 1237 N. Dunton, and Mrs. Herman Meyer, 507 E. Euclid, to act as co-hostesses in the Prellberg home at a post-nuptial shower honoring the new Mrs. Alan Roth of Miami, Fla. the former Jean Daniels, daughter of Mrs. Milton Daniels, 805 N. Dunton, and the late Mr. Daniels. She was married in Miami on Nov. 12. Mrs. Prellberg and Mrs. Meyer, friends of the new bride's mother, entertained at an afternoon courtesy at which there were 30 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Opela, 636 N. Dunton, have had several recent visitors, including Mrs. Opela's mother, Mrs. Emma Snell, and Mrs. Ann Limburger, both of Manor, Pa. The guests, who also were entertained at the home of Mrs. Snell's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Snell of 3 E. Hawthorne, left Arlington Heights in late November following a five-day visit.

ALSO VISITING the Opellas was Mr. Opella's nephew, Terry, of Lancaster, N. Y., who arrived here by plane from Viet Nam, where he was serving with the armed forces.

Mrs. E. J. Dresmal of Lafayette, Ind., was a recent weekend visitor of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Soprano, 1106 W. Wing. Mrs. Dresmal, a former resident of Arlington Heights, also visited friends and relatives in the area, including her daughter and son-in-law, the Dennis Blewitts of Park Ridge, and her son and daughter-in-law, the James Dresmals of Evanston.

Judy Eriksen, daughter of the Peter Eriksens, 5 W. Orchard, spent the Thanksgiving holiday in the home of her parents, Judy is a student at Wisconsin State University in La Crosse, majoring in English.

Recent visitors in the home of the Malvin Ryghs, 215 S. Donald, were former residents, the Robert Wright family of Grenwich, Conn. They spent a day and night in the Rygh home before continuing on to Kansas City.

MR. AND MRS. Carl Behrens, 525 W. Kirchhoff, returned Nov. 30 from a month's visit to the Orient, where they were members of Gov. Otto Kerner's Trade Mission. Leaving Nov. 1, they and the group with whom they traveled made their first stop in Anchorage, Alaska, and flew from there to Tokyo.

The Behrens and their companions also visited Nikko, a resort area north and west of Tokyo; Lake Hakone and Kamakura. One of the highlights of their stay in Japan included a trip from Tokyo to Kyoto by way of the new railway system, which features a noiseless, motion-free train traveling at speeds which exceed 170 mph. In Kyoto, the cultural center of Japan as well as the home of the geishas and the silk industry, the group was entertained by the geishas and were priviledged to meet the geishas' instructor. The trip led them next to Nara, where they visited the numerous awe-inspiring temples maintained by the combined Buddist and Shinto religious sects. In Osaka, the manufacturing center and their final stop in Japan, the Behrens wished once again that their stay might have been longer.

THE NEXT STOP for the trade mission group was the island of Taiwan, where they arrived in time for a national holiday at which general Chiang Kai-shek was present. They then moved on to the Philippines and spent some time seeing the sights of Manila. Mrs. Behrens and a number of the other ladies were surprised by their discovery of a fabric resembling silk which is made of pineapple and banana fiber which abounds there.

Bangkok, Thailand, was a very special place for Mrs. Behrens. She found it to be the most different from our occidental world of all the cities and countries visited, but also among the most charming. Among the points of interest there was a visit to a Thai restaurant, where the patrons, seated upon the floor, were served by waitresses who were also seated on the floor. Another highlight in the visit to Thailand was a visit to a silk center.

Hong Kong also deeply impressed Mr. and Mrs. Behrens. In addition to being a shopper's paradise, Mrs. Behrens described it as "A fantasy within a fantasy."

The Behrens concluded their trip by flying back to Tokyo, then on to Hawaii, where they spent almost a week relaxing and enjoying the sun before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Drimba, 102 S. Brighton, will attend the Mannequin Charity Ball Friday, in the Drake Hotel. The ball, an annual event, is given as a benefit for the Re[illegible]itation Center. Mrs. Drimba, a member of the Mannequin Guild, is currently enjoying a stint at modelling in the Answer Shop at Marshall Field's in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack [illegible], 848 S. Belmont, recently returned from Warren, Ohio, where they attended a large family reunion. They were guests of her sister and brother-in-law, the Robert Franks, and were joined by her two brothers and their families, the Bruce McKays of Royal Oaks, Mich., and the William McKays of Baltimore.

The Robert E. Mitchells were hosts at their annual Christmas party Saturday to a large circle of friends. This party, their seventh, will be the last in their Stonegate home. They will move to Delavan, Wis., later this month.

MARY FRANCES Hutchinson, 444 S. Vail, was honored at a luncheon and miscellaneous bridal shower Nov. 27 given by Mary Jane Brine and her mother, Mrs. W. M. Brine.

The 20 guests present were local friends, former college classmates and teaching associates.

Arlington's Miner, South and Thomas Junior high schools and the District 25 Administration Building played host to the teachers of Arlington's K-5 schools last week.

The event, dubbed "Operation: Musical Chairs" took place on Monday, December 6. The K-5 visitors were divided into groups of 10-12 and arrived at the assigned junior high at 4 p.m. They paused five minutes at each appointed stop, including the homemaking, physical education, music, French, art and science rooms, where two teachers were present to explain their method of teaching. Many of the stops had top students demonstrating. Refreshments were then served in the cafeteria and the event came to a close at 5 p.m.

R. E. Clabaugh, superintendent of District 25, said the purpose of the meeting was to provide an opportunity for members of the staff to get acquainted with one another and learn something about the programs of other schools."

Last April a similar teacher exchange took place when the junior high school teachers toured the K-5 schools and the administration building.

Doll Clothes Needed For Viet Nam Project

The first toy shipment to the Can Gio province of Viet Nam is on its way, Mrs. Franklin Friday, president of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club and chairman of the project, has announced.

"Everyone has been very generous," she said. "However, we had not anticipated one problem. We have many dolls which arrived in various states of undress, including total. We would be grateful for contributions of doll clothes of all sizes and kinds."

Mrs. Friday also said that the clubs could use volunteers to clean the toys up and pack them for shipment. She suggested that anyone wishing to contribute call her at CL 9-3325, or one of the presidents of the other participating clubs.

THEY ARE Bud Matt, Young Republican Club, CL 3-0247; Thomas W. Novotny, Republican Workshop, CL 5-3494; and Thomas H. Hanlon, Regular Republican Club, CL 9-3337. All are in Arlington Heights, except for Mrs. Friday who lives in Mount Prospect.

In Wheeling toys may be left with Charles Mihalek, LE 7-0888, and in Buffalo Grove with William Means, LE 7-5136.

Collection stations are in the four high schools of District 214, and at Randhurst Shopping Center. Others are in The Bank of Arlington Heights, the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan, the Mount Prospect State Bank and Keefer's Pharmacy in Mount Prospect.

The toy collecting drive for Vietnamese children was begun as the result of a letter written by Captain Walter Kroeber, head of a military advisory team in Can Gio province, to his parents, who live in Arlington Heights.

In it he said that he had never seen a Vietnamese child with a toy.

NEWS OF THE project spread throughout the Chicago area, and contributions have come in from residents of Chicago, Westmont, La Grange and several other communities.

The Republican clubs involved have sponsored fund-raising events to pay the postage, and a few individuals have also contributed. (ACM

Al's, Tri-S Record Wins

The Arlington Heights Park District Sportsmen's volleyball league opened the season of 1965-66 with two games being played last weke.

Al's Old Town Inn edged the Hustlers in the first game 15-10, but in the second game, the Hustlers buried Al's 15-5. Al's Old Town came back strong in the third game 15-7 to win the match.

The Tri-S Club took two straight from the Stags. The first game was a tough one with Tri-S taking it 16-14. The second was a little easier, 15-7.

The Net Prophets will open their season this week.

Classic Averages 'With Best'

Three members of the Paddock Classic Traveling League hold averages "with the best" in Chicagoland, though many kegling fans are unaware of this because of the PCTL competition being traveling scores, while marks in other leagues are all compiled within the same house.

Thus Joe Simonis, who is currently averaging "just" 201 in the PCTL, ranks seventh in the entire Chicago area with a 206 mark at his own Striking Lanes.

Les Zikes, president of the PCTL with a 195 mark, ranks tenth in the Chicago area by virtue of his 204 in the Miami Bowl Classic loop.

Mike Dinschel is carrying a 190 mark in the PCTL but is holding forth with a 202 in the Miami Classic.

Chicago Bowler newspaper released its list of "top 32" bowlers in the Chicago area, all of them over 200 averages.

PCTL enthusiasts point with pride at the 19 men carrying averages equal to Dinschel's, or better, in the Paddock Classic loop.

Mat Meeting Set Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday (Dec. 15) the Mid-States Wrestling Officials and Coaches Association will hold its first clinic of the current school year.

Site of the meeting, intended to cover standing and mat wrestling, illegal holds and potentially dangerous holds, will be Prospect High School, located on Foundry Road in Mount Prospect. Time of the meeting will be 7:45 to 9:45 p.m.

Speaking at the meeting will be Dick Mudge, state rules interpreter. Mudge is the Prospect varsity wrestling coach.

The M-SWOCA was, until November 18 of this year, the Mid-States Wrestling Officials Association. On that date the organization name was changed and it received official sanction from the Illinois High School Association. Secretary of the group is Forest View varsity wrestling coach Hal Henson.

Trip Tips

Wayne Griffin

Set a spell, podner, and we'll talk about ranch life in Arizona. It's a surprisingly good life, I found out, after spending a weekend in Tucson staying at a dude ranch.

We flew on TWA's Convair 880 jet aircraft both directions and the service is superb. In short order we were out of the cold and stepping off at Tucson's new airport. Thence to the ranch.

Our home was the Tanque Verde ranch about 17 miles east of town, nestled in the foothills. Cottage type accommodations are very modern and the food—well, I like to eat and I was very happy. Especially those cook-outs which are so popular at the ranches. Food does seem to take on a new taste and flavor when your cooking is done outdoors.

In all, we visited about 11 ranches — each one a little different from the next. They are working ranches for the most part and you can join in, if you want to. Then, there's Old Tucson, where we witnessed a gunfight just like in the movies, and the Desert Museum — both wonderful.

If it's ranch life you're a-craving, just drop in and set a spell, and I'll tell you all about it. That's at Wayne Griffin Travel, 104 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, or phone CL 5-7010 and we'll send a folder.

River Trails Tops MacArthur

River Trails Jr. High eighth grade basketball team of Mount Prospect won its second game in as many starts against MacArthur Jr. High of Prospect Heights, 42—22.

Scott Feige was the leading scorer with 26 points followed by Steve Spencer with 10 points. Feige also led his team in rebounds with 21.

As seventh graders, this team won 11 of 12 games. This week River Trails travels to Jack London Jr. High in Wheeling.

Times Are Tough?

The number of persons filing personal bankruptcy petitions has increased 251 per cent in the past 10 years.

Auto Mayhem

More than 47,000 people a year are being killed in auto wrecks in the U. S., and another 1,700,000 are disabled.

State Rehabilitation Record up 60 Per Cent

An all-time record for the number of disabled men and women rehabilitated was established by the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation during the last fiscal year.

Alfred Slicer, director of the division, said 6,011 persons completed vocational rehabilitation through the division. This exceeds by 60 per cent the number of persons rehabilitated by the division during the previous year.

The division served 19,543 handicapped persons in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1965.

IT IS ESTIMATED the 6,011 rehabilitated persons will earn about $15,442,440 in their first working year. From these estimated earnings, they will pay about $2,161,941 in federal income taxes, plus other state and local taxes. More than 950 received public assistance or were in a tax-supported public institution at a yearly cost to the taxpayer of over $1,114,750.

"Thus," said Slicer, "the money invested in their rehabilitation will be returned by them many times over during their employment years." He explained that the job skills of these newly rehabilitated citizens of Illinois cover a wide range—professional, semi-professional, technical, agricultural, clerical, skilled, non-skilled, homemaker and service occupations. Their disabilities stemmed from several causes with severe diseases, deafness, blindness and mental retardation leading the list.

"Vocational rehabilitation is not merely a story of numbers, neat statistics, or dollar savings; it is a story of people when considered in light of its value to the individual, the family, and the community," Slicer emphasized.

The division has 25 offices located throughout the state. Information regarding their location may be obtained from local telephone directories or by writing to Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, 623 E. Adams St., Springfield. (A15

State Rehabilitation Record up 60 Per Cent

An all-time record for the number of disabled men and women rehabilitated was established by the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation during the last fiscal year.

Alfred Slicer, director of the division, said 6,011 persons completed vocational rehabilitation through the division. This exceeds by 60 per cent the number of persons rehabilitated by the division during the previous year.

The division served 19,543 handicapped persons in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1965.

IT IS ESTIMATED the 6,011 rehabilitated persons will earn about $15,442,440 in their first working year. From these estimated earnings, they will pay about $2,161,941 in federal income taxes, plus other state and local taxes. More than 950 received public assistance or were in a tax-supported public institution at a yearly cost to the taxpayer of over $1,114,750.

"Thus," said Slicer, "the money invested in their rehabilitation will be returned by them many times over during their employment years." He explained that the job skills of these newly rehabilitated citizens of Illinois cover a wide range—professional, semi-professional, technical, agricultural, clerical, skilled, non-skilled, homemaker and service occupations. Their disabilities stemmed from several causes with severe diseases, deafness, blindness and mental retardation leading the list.

"Vocational rehabilitation is not merely a story of numbers, neat statistics, or dollar savings; it is a story of people when considered in light of its value to the individual, the family, and the community," Slicer emphasized.

The division has 25 offices located throughout the state. Information regarding their location may be obtained from local telephone directories or by writing to Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, 623 E. Adams St., Springfield. (A15

Suburban Sites Pass Inspection by AEC

A northwest suburban site passed inspection, along with four other suburban Chicago sites, when a team of Atomic Energy Commission officials visited the area last week in search of a home for a $300 million research facility.

The site is at South Barrington. AEC officials indicated it and the other sites — Wauconda in Lake County, Weston in DuPage County, Joliet Arsenal in Will County and Argonne National Laboratory near Lemont — apparently met the requirements for the installation, a 200-billion electronic volt accelerator.

POTENTIAL IMPACT of the facility on the area is evident in the raw data: It would employ more than 3,000 technical personnel with a payroll estimated at more than $700,000.

The South Barrington site totals 9,000 acres. It is bounded on the west by the Cook-Kane county line, on the north by Palatine Road extended, on the east by Barrington Road and on the south by the Northwest Tollway.

Gov. Otto Kerner has indicated he would call a special session of the Legislature to authorize purchase of the site for $12- to $15 million, if it is picked. A final decision is expected early in 1966, after the inspection team has visited 85 sites in some 45 states competing for it.

The accelerator, a research device to speed atomic particles, will consist of a series of four doughnut shaped buildings, each covered with a layer of earth. The largest will be a mile in diameter.

THE OBJECT IS to accelerate atomic particles, passing from the smaller to the larger rings until they are finally flung into the mile-wide ring.

AEC plans to ask Congress for $7.5 million to start work in 1966 and $300 million in 1967. Completion is scheduled in 1974.

A strong pitch for a midwestern site has been made through the Midwest Resources Association. State Rep. John A. Kennedy (D-Winnetka), one of the governor's consultants on scientific development, said the resource group's report did not stress a particular Midwest site but was an attempt to sell the region. Volunteers Paint Clearbrook Center

Twenty-eight volunteers, including members of the Arlington Heights Jaycees, parents, and teen-agers, last Saturday helped paint the interior of the new Clearbrook Center for the Retarded in Rolling Meadows.

Most volunteers worked at least three hours during the day. Considerable progress was made in the decoration, according to Charles Barclay, who supervised the day's activity. The group is attempting to complete painting the walls before the tile is laid next week.

Coffee and lunch were provided to the workers by women volunteers.

THE CLEARBROOK Center is scheduled to be dedicated in January. Classes were moved into the new building this week from their previous location in the space donated by the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

The painting volunteers have been asked to return to the center Saturday and Sunday so the work will be finished this weekend. Any area resident interested in lending a helping hand is invited to call the center during the day at CL 5-0120. In the evening, calls should be made to CL 5-6399. (B-10

Teens Gain Coveted Posts in Youth Orchestra

'It's a Challenge,' They All Agree

by Joan Lorenson
Staff Writer

Half a dozen commuters heading to the Loop each Saturday morning are bound for a "shirtsleeve practice" of the Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago.

The members of this orchestra have arrived in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra league for high schoolers. None will complain of having to get up on a Saturday to be ready to practice at 9 a.m.

The chance to play a classical repertoire at this level and the association with others interested in music make the Youth Orchestra experience a coveted one.

Abby Carter, 2600 E. Higgins Rd., considers her successful audition with the orchestra one of the high points of her year. She recalls her nervousness in auditioning for a bassoon chair.

The local suburban students all admit they did not join the orchestra on their first try.

A Paddock Exclusive!

Prospect High School senior Jim Brasic, 210 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, went to a Youth Orchestra concert as a seventh grader and determined he wanted to join the group. As soon as he was eligible, he tried out and was admitted to the group his junior year.

IN ONE OF their practice sessions another Prospect High School senior Gail Nix, 215 We-Go, Mount Prospect, recalls orchestra leader Dudley Powers' admonition, "You're playing like a high school orchestra." The Youth Orchestra is expected to perform at a higher level since its membership is culled from the best in young musicians in the Chicago area.

These top players, drawn from about 200 high schools in the Chicago area and from as far away as Rockford, Racine, and Freeport.

The Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago is the product of a small group of student musicians and the father of one of them. The students from Evanston, New Trier, and Highland Park high schools returned from Interlochen Music Camp with the idea an area high school orchestra should be developed.

In 1947, Dr. Owen R. O'Neil, father of one of the students, formalized an organization, obtained student applications, arranged for a practice place and Orchestra Hall for a concert, and received small financial help from the community at large.

THE YOUTH Orchestra of Greater Chicago has 12 specific objectives. It hopes to provide musically advanced high schoolers with the opportunity to play fine music with their contemporaries and under competent leadership. The orchestra's present director is a professor at Northwestern University and a member of the Chamber Music Society and the Sheridan String Quartet.

"It provides a challenge," admits Abby, a Forest View High School senior. Gail and Jim agreed many of their fellow musicians were worth emulating. They gained perspective of their own ability when comparing it to their contemporaries.

Gail smilingly recalled a recent practice in which she almost had to fill the first chair bassoon position and noted she would have had difficulty.

Most of the orchestra members have to practice and work hard at home on the repertoire the orchestra plays. This is a contrast to the band playing which they seem to agree comes easily.

ANOTHER AIM of the orchestra is to focus greater interest in music as an educational, recreational, and cultural medium. Gail and Abby plan to pursue music professionally while Jim will make it an avocation.

"These kids have something... there's something to them," Abby evaluated. Personalities are varied but the students are friendly and "have something clicking upstairs," she adds.

Gail and Jim add ready agreement and believe the orchestra reflects students with athletic and student government interests. Gail dates an orchestra member.

Jim admits the friendships he and the others have made have broadened their viewpoint of Chicago and south suburban high schoolers.

ONE OF THE prerequisites for membership in the orchestra is regular lessons on one's instrument and membership in a high school band or orchestra.

The three tenagers credit teachers with great help in increasing their musical competence. Jim and Abby are studying with Emil Eck, a veteran musician and retired Chicago Symphony Orchestra member. Abby has lessons weekly with a present Chicago Symphony Orchestra musician, Wilbur Simpson. The three students believe their teachers have the unique quality of getting across their points.

Gail believes it is most discouraging for a student musician to have to constantly switch teachers and have to learn new techniques. They find their teachers exacting.

More than 19 years after its origin, the youth orchestra has alumni in professional and amateur orchestras throughout the country.

The Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago presents two concerts each year in Orchestra Hall.

A recent concert included selections from such composers as Dvorak, Handel, Stravinsky, and Sibelius. Programs lean to traditional composers though Gail and Jim recalled a "wild" Quincy Porter violin concerto.

SANDWICHING IN enough practice time presents a problem to orchestra members. Jim, for example, is heading for a pre-medical program in college and has to make acadmic work in other subjects come first. Abby juggles a job in addition to her school work. Something like SAT college boards, marching band, and other activities fight for time in these students' lives.

But the consensus of members of the Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago seems to be any sacrifice is worth the experience of being with this group. (A-15

Teens Gain Coveted Posts in Youth Orchestra

'It's a Challenge,' They All Agree

by Joan Lorenson
Staff Writer

Half a dozen commuters heading to the Loop each Saturday morning are bound for a "shirtsleeve practice" of the Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago.

The members of this orchestra have arrived in the Chicago Symphony Orchestra league for high schoolers.

None will complain of having to get up on a Saturday to be ready to practice at 9 a.m.

The chance to play a classical repertoire at this level and the association with others interested in music make the Youth Orchestra experience a coveted one.

Abby Carter, 2600 E. Higgins Rd., considers her successful audition with the orchestra one of the high points of her year. She recalls her nervousness in auditioning for a bassoon chair.

The local suburban students all admit they did not join the orchestra on their first try.

A Paddock Exclusive!

Prospect High School senior Jim Brasic, 210 N. Elmhurst Ave., Mount Prospect, went to a Youth Orchestra concert as a seventh grader and determined he wanted to join the group. As soon as he was eligible, he tried out and was admitted to the group his junior year.

IN ONE OF their practice sessions another Prospect High School senior Gail Nix, 215 We-Go, Mount Prospect, recalls orchestra leader Dudley Powers' admonition, "You're playing like a high school orchestra." The Youth Orchestra is expected to perform at a higher level since its membership is culled from the best in young musicians in the Chicago area.

These top players, drawn from about 200 high schools in the Chicago area and from as far away as Rockford, Racine, and Freeport.

The Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago is the product of a small group of student musicians and the father of one of them. The students from Evanston, New Trier, and Highland Park high schools returned from Interlochen Music Camp with the idea an area high school orchestra should be developed.

In 1947, Dr. Owen R. O'Neil, father of one of the students, formalized an organization, obtained student applications, arranged for a practice place and Orchestra Hall for a concert, and received small financial help from the community at large.

THE YOUTH Orchestra of Greater Chicago has 12 specific objectives. It hopes to provide musically advanced high schoolers with the opportunity to play fine music with their contemporaries and under competent leadership. The orchestra's present director is a professor at Northwestern University and a member of the Chamber Music Society and the Sheridan String Quartet.

"It provides a challenge," admits Abby, a Forest View High School senior. Gail and Jim agreed many of their fellow musicians were worth emulating. They gained perspective of their own ability when comparing it to their contemporaries.

Gail smilingly recalled a recent practice in which she almost had to fill the first chair bassoon position and noted she would have had difficulty.

Most of the orchestra members have to practice and work hard at home on the repertoire the orchestra plays. This is a contrast to the band playing which they seem to agree comes easily.

ANOTHER AIM of the orchestra is to focus greater interest in music as an educational, recreational, and cultural medium. Gail and Abby plan to pursue music professionally while Jim will make it an avocation.

"These kids have something... there's something to them," Abby evaluated. Personalities are varied but the students are friendly and "have something clicking upstairs," she adds.

Gail and Jim add ready agreement and believe the orchestra reflects students with athletic and student government interests. Gail dates an orchestra member.

Jim admits the friendships he and the others have made have broadened their viewpoint of Chicago and south suburban high schoolers.

ONE OF THE prerequisites for membership in the orchestra is regular lessons on one's instrument and membership in a high school band or orchestra.

The three tenagers credit teachers with great help in increasing their musical competence. Jim and Abby are studying with Emil Eck, a veteran musician and retired Chicago Symphony Orchestra member. Abby has lessons weekly with a present Chicago Symphony Orchestra musician, Wilbur Simpson. The three students believe their teachers have the unique quality of getting across their points.

Gail believes it is most discouraging for a student musician to have to constantly switch teachers and have to learn new techniques. They find their teachers exacting.

More than 19 years after its origin, the youth orchestra has alumni in professional and amateur orchestras throughout the country.

The Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago presents two concerts each year in Orchestra Hall.

A recent concert included selections from such composers as Dvorak, Handel, Stravinsky, and Sibelius. Programs lean to traditional composers though Gail and Jim recalled a "wild" Quincy Porter violin concerto.

SANDWICHING IN enough practice time presents a problem to orchestra members. Jim, for example, is heading for a pre-medical program in college and has to make acadmic work in other subjects come first. Abby juggles a job in addition to her school work. Something like SAT college boards, marching band, and other activities fight for time in these students' lives.

But the consensus of members of the Youth Orchestra of Greater Chicago seems to be any sacrifice is worth the experience of being with this group. (A-15

YOUTH ORCHESTRA of Greater Chicago is coveted goal of many student musicians. Forest View High School senior, Abby Carter, 2600 Higgins Road, auditioned successfully this September and speaks in superlatives about the orchestra experience. Students practice each Saturday morning at the Fine Arts Building in Chicago for the two annual concerts of the orchestra. (Staff Photo)

Discussions Continue On College Architect

Second interviews and a check of past clients has been completed by the Community College District 301 Board in its lengthy effort to pick an architect for the new community junior college.

The final four architectural firms were interviewed by the whole college board and its panel of lay consultants Sunday and Monday evenings.

The four are finalists from a group of 22 firms interviewed by two three-member subcommittees of the seven member board.

The four firms are Caudell, Rowlett and Scott of Houston, Texas; Fridstein and Fitch, Chicago; Orput and Orput, Rockford; and Harry Weese and Associates, Chicago.

IN GENERAL the four can be divided into two groups.

Caudell, Rowlett and Scott and Harry Weese and Associates are nationally known for top architecural designing. The two firms have designed many college-level buildings. They apparently are not as widely known for strong engineering and construction supervision. Some of their work tends to be of expensive design. Both firms are in high national demand.

Fridstein and Fitch and the firm of Orput and Orput have had a more limited college building background, but are highly experienced in Chicago-area construction. Their design work is not in the "Cadillac class" as board member A.M. (Bud) Bernstein described the other two firms. The two smaller firms have a good reputation for engineering, adherence to time schedules and construction supervision.

A POSSIBILITY of using one of the top design firms for the building and campus plan design, one of the smaller firms for engineering, bidding supervision and construction checking has been suggested since the seven - board members appear to be of opposite opinions.

This appeared true of the lay consultants as well.

The lay consultants are Andrew E. Carlson, Palatine; Francis J. Dillon, Elk Grove Village; William T. Liddell and Norval Stephens of Arlington Heights; Robert L. Sales, Rolling Meadows; and Don Truitt of Hoffman Estates.

Typical commentary by board members showed the split in thinking on the architect. Several have stressed the desire for an outstanding college design in keeping with the board's philosophy of making the new college one of the best in the country.

Another view, as illustrated by Bernstein's statement, "They're in the 'Cadillac class.' I'd like a Cadillac, but I can't afford it, and I don't think the junior college district can afford a Cadillac at this time."

DESIGNATION of the finalists among the four firms is expected at the regular college board meeting tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in the administration building of High School District 214, 799 W. Kensington (Foundry) Road, Mount Prospect.

Board members will visit some typical buildings by the architects before a final decision is reached, it was decided at Monday night's special meeting.

Knight, Jonland Cop Class Crowns

Bobby Knight and Gary Jonland emerged as co-champions in the Juvenile boys division in the Olympic Fund Raising Event last weekend to give the Mount Prospect Speed Skating Club its first individual class titles of the new season.

Knight was the winner of the 220 yard sprint while Jonland topped the 440 yard event.

In each event Mount Prospect was first and second although Tom Tagney, another Prospect skater, took fourth in the 220.

Jim Zuckermandel, now in the senior men's division, scored eight points for the Club, winning the two mile feature and finishing second in the three-quarter mile.

An unscheduled fall is what generally is Zuckermandel's strongest race, the quarter-mile, cost him the Senior Men's crown.

Bob Haenisch, who has been slowly improving with each outing, contributed two thirds in the Midget boys class. Todd Jonland also added a point to the club total by placing fourth in the 220 yard sprint.

In the Bantam boys division the Prospect club is equipped with youngsters who have the makings of future stardom. Rich Vehe took two first place ribbons and in each event he was followed across the line by Jim Tagney.

Tom Grunnah and Jimmy Koetter also turned in creditable performances in the Bantam class.

In the Midget girls class Loretta and Theresa Griffin reached the semi-finals but missed scoring by narrow margins. Jeanne Cunningham and Christine Koetter also skated both semi-final races in the Juvenile division.

Mary Cunningham posted a second place in the Junior Girls class, and Mary Lou Haenisch showed improvement in Intermediate action.

Tim Jilek skated in both finals of the Junior boys class but failed to score.

The Prospect indoor skating squad moves to Champaign this weekend for competition at the University of Illinois ice arena.

The Mount Prospect contingent is interested in signing additional skaters, boys or girls. Anyone interested should call Manager Bob Vehe at CLearbrook 3-4191 for furthr club information.

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Returning Sunday from a 10-day eastern vacation were Bill and Dawn Thompson and children, Andrea and Patrick, 1239 N. Race. They flew to West Virginia to visit Dawn's parents, the C. D. McMasters in Morgantown. Bill enjoyed deer hunting while there and was successful in his pursuit of a deer. The Thompsons also visited in Pennsylvania.

Visiting Ron and Mary Ann Landry, 1418 N. Race, the weekend of Nov. 27 was Ron's mother, Mrs. Eileen Landry of Boston.

Bob and Shirle Husted, 1610 W. Olive, were among 14, who attended a party at Romani's Restaurant in Fox Lake Saturday night. Honored guests were Shirle's cousin and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hemingway, who with their six children were en route from Oklahoma City to Frankfurt, Germany, to make their home for the next two years. Frank is with an airline company.

A NUMBER of Terrace couples attended the Newcomers Christmas Dance at the Elks Club Saturday night. Among them were the Jim Rudolphs, Don Teschners, Bill Browns, Ray Loves, John Simpsons and the Hal Robertses.

The Rudolphs entertained the Teschners at a house party after the dance.

Two members of the Warren Blackburn family, 1326 N. Race, celebrated birthdays during the past week. Briggs was 15 Nov. 30; Alison was 13 Dec. 6.

Briggs enjoyed dinner at Wellers on his birthday with his parents; Sunday the celebrants' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Blackburn, came from Chicago to help celebrate the birthdays and on Friday, Alison was hostess at a slumber party for Carol Lepkowski, Julie Stewart, Holly McWhinney and Marcia Holley.

On Dec. 2, Gail Israel and children, Jean Marie and Kevin, 1247 N. Chicago, accompanied by Gail's mother, Mrs. Donald Vietinghoff of Prospect Heights, went to the city to meet Ray's mother, Mrs. Erna Israel, and two of his sisters and their children. They enjoyed seeing the Christmas decorations, shopping and having lunch out.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Jean Clinite. Jean and family were Terrace residents until September, when they moved to Rockford. Jean died Nov. 29 in Rockford Memorial Hospital.

Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

Mr. and Mrs. Edward McMullen and son, Bob, 413 S. Prindle, left Arlington Acres last Tuesday for a new home in Framingham, Mass., and will be missed very much by their friends and neighbors in the area. Barbara is a past vice president of the civic association and served on many of the committees, willingly lending a hand wherever needed. Sincere good wishes for happiness in their new home go with the family.

So that some of their friends could personally say goodbye, the Charles Domborws, 428 S. Prindle, gave a farewell dinner party for Barbara and Ed last Saturday. Guests were the Ed Schneiders, Robert Kremers, Gerald Earls and the Robert Hansons.

One of Barbara's last official acts before starting her final packing was to see that the distaff side of her home's new owners met some of her new neighbors. At a coffee a week ago Wednesday, Barbara introduced Rita Shur to Ann Wolkey, Joyce Wharton, Karol Moller, Carol Roy, Joann Hanson and Penny Earl.

MR. AND MRS. William Jahnke, 2024 E. Park, whose plans for a celebration of their silver wedding anniversary, Nov. 30, included a small at-home party on Nov. 27 for a few friends, were happily surprised that evening to find that their friends had been quietly planning a party of much larger proportions. In all, 15 couples joined the Jahnkes for the celebration, some of them being friends of many years standing.

The following day Viola and Bill left for Oklahoma City to spend a week with the family of her sister and brother-in-law, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Fred Schmidt, who are leaving shortly for France for a three-year tour of duty with the air force.

Doug Stoehr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stoehr, 441 S. Prindle, was 19 Nov. 30, but since he was back in school in Superior, Wis., that day, his parents celebrated the event when he was home for Thanksgiving, with a festive family dinner.

Thanksgiving dinner at the Charles Miner home, 421 S. Gibbons, was unusually festive because they were sharing it with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith and 13-month-old Randa of Gadsden, Ala. Mrs. Smith is the sister of Gail's fiance, Bill Golson, and the families were meeting for the first time.

Lori Spagnoli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Spagnoli, 1815 E. Grove, marked her Dec. 5 birthday by giving a party on Saturday. Ice cream and a cake with seven candles preceded a trip to the movies for Lori and her guests, Lisa Morgan, Mark Bayuk, Laurie Fussell and Wendy Heller of Skokie.

MANY OF THE Newcomer Club members in the area look forward to the monthly tours recently instituted by that organization and the December tour of the Merchandise Mart on Thursday included several local women, among them Carolyn May, Anita Both, Jean Lorr, Fran Lucas, Beverly Brown and Lorraine Soderberg. The miles of show rooms covered on the walk, in addition to proving interesting, served to whet the tourists' appetites for luncheon at Henrici's in the Mart.

A happy 14th birthday was wished to Jennifer Sealock at a family dinner Friday at the Kenneth Sealock home, 521 S. Prindle.

Congratulations and best wishes go to Mr. and Mrs. Raymong Westman, 520 S. Forrest, who were married 32 years Dec.

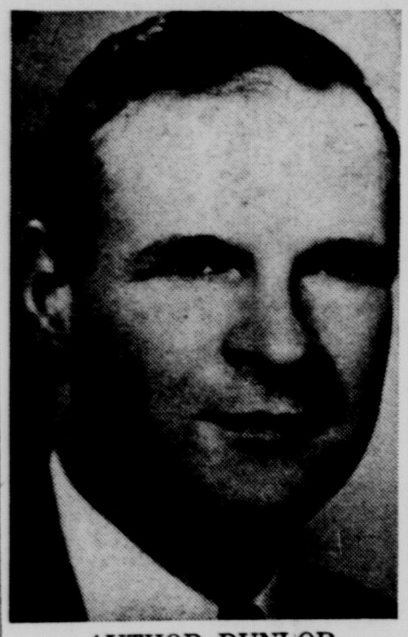
Autograph Party Set For Arlington Author



AUTHOR DUNLOP

A personal introduction to the local public is slated for Arlington Heights author Richard Dunlop Saturday by his publisher, Doubleday & Co.

In keeping with the content and title of his first hardcover book, "Doctors of the American Frontier," the autograph party is to be held at the Hilltop Apothecary and Bookstore, 415 S. State, Arlington Heights, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Dunlop, a local Scout leader who resides at 1115 Mayfair Road, has written about 1,000 magazine articles on a wide assortment of subjects.

BUT HIS FORTES are travel and historical documentaries, and he is the author of the current exceedingly popular Texaco Touring Atlas, and the Rand McNally Travel Guide.

He has also written three paperback travel books, and one paperback novelette, "Young David," based on the Biblical figure.

In addition, he collaborated with Robert West Howard on two books, "This Is the West," and "This Is the South," with the former winning the annual Spur Award for the best nonfiction book on the West.

DUNLOP IS already hard at work on his second hardcover book, entitled "Great Trails of the West," for which he is planning to make an actual covered wagon trip over one of the trails about which he will be writing.

"Doctors of the American Frontier" sold about 5,000 copies in the first 10 weeks it was in print, he reported. (A15

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

BUCKS AND DOES

Many square dancers, quiet doers of good all year 'round, get especially big hearts at Christmastime. Bucks and Does are among 'em. Their Christmas party dance Saturday night will be dedicated to having a good time, of course, but putting Christmas in the hearts of some children is on their program too. Members and all guests attending Saturday's dance are asked to bring suitable gifts for children of fourth grade age (about nine or 10) and younger. Each gift should be Christmas-wrapped and marked to indicate if it is for a boy or a girl.

Sometime after the Christmas dance and before the holiday, Bucks and Does wili play Santa Claus to youngsters of Maryville Training School in Des Plaines. How big St. Nick will appear in the eyes of these kids depends upon how big a big-hearted crowd turns out for Saturday's dance. Y'all come. That's an order!

Saturday's fun begins at 8 o'clock in Dempster Junior High School, Dempster and Route 83, in Elk Grove Township. (Use the school's west entrance, please.) Bob Lewis will be at the mike, sharing it with round dance leaders, Carl and Marie Peterson.

"Professor" Lewis headlined too, when his 70 beginners graduated from the Bucks-and-Does'-sponsored class that began early this season. Caps and gowns were the order of the evening, and Prof. handed out diplomas and congratulations all around. An appropriately decorated cake and congenial cupsa-coffee climaxed the festive evening.

Banner raiding highlighted B & D's last dance when retrievers from The Little Squares of Niles and the Glenview Squares put in an appearance and went out with their respective home pennants. The raiders, lots of other guests and a good membership turnout added up to a 12-square crowd.

There's a Knothead bus trip in the offing for the club, with invitations to include the newly graduated beginners' class. Complete details are yet to be worked out - until they are club members and graduates are merely expected to get wildly excited in anticipation.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

It'll be "Badge Night" tomorrow when Arlington Squares and friends get together in Miner Junior High School, Arlington Heights. Everybody is to wear their total accumulation of badges, and lots of Knotheads, Rovers and Black Cats are expected. Caller Jim Smith will square 'em up at 8:30, immediately following Jerry and Dot Daniels' round dance workshop. Workshop begins at 7:30, refreshments will be served at 11 o'clock and there'll be good dancing with good-natured "badgering" between times.

Arlington Squares have their own banner back again, retrieved during a raid of the Glenview Squares last Friday night. Arlington's own Lenny Roos was calling in Glenview that night which put a sort of forced neutrality upon him.

Tomorrow night's dance winds up the 1965 portion of this season, since the club's next regular date falls on Christmas Eve. Members and guests will be back in the swing of things the second Friday of January, the 14th.

PALATINE SQUARES

At last count about a dozen New Year's Eve party tickets were left and will go on a first-come, first-served basis at the club's next dance, Saturday night. Even if you can't get a party ticket there'll be fine dancing and the usual fun available, starting at 8:30 with the square-up call of club headliner, Art Mathews. Jerry and Dot Daniels will lead the rounds between tips. Pleasant Hill School, Cedar and Illinois Sts., Palatine is the place. Be there?

A-C SQUARE WHEELS

Finishing touches are being put on the super-gala plans for the Deerfield club's Christmas Dance, Dec. 18, and Santa Claus is on the guest list. Jolly Joe Gipson will square 'em up at 8:30, Santa will get there when he gets there, and Glen Dolmar, cueing the rounds, will be in on the act too.

Woodland School, decorated bright 'n' lively, is the pace to go. It's located on Wilmot Road, four blocks north of Deerfield Road; just follow the crowd.

A-C Square Wheels dance the first and third Saturday nights of every month. Further information about the club is available via Ralph Cedergren, phone 537-5110.

PLAIDS AND CALICOS

It's never too early to plan on something as special as the Plaids and Calicos' luau, a Jan. 29 event, and their Saturday night dance will be a fine time to get tickets. Last year's luau, a club "first," was such a zingy success that it's expected everyone will be back for more, besides spreading the good word to all their friends.

Saturday's fun will begin with caller Bob Kim's "square 'em up" at 8:30, sounding off in Schaumburg School, located on east of Roselle Road. Shuffle off to Schaumburg 'n' join the fun. (A15

Teamwork Speeds Eye Donations to Blind

Only 24 Hours for Cornea Transplant

by Lee Sechler
Staff Writer

The Ozark pilot closed down only the two engines on the Fairchild's left wing. This would be a quick stop.

Twisting in his seat to the left and straining his eyes to see in the contrasty night lighting of the airport he watched the state trooper dash to the rear door of the plane with a company employee.

He felt the plane sway and knew that both men had stepped into the main cabin. He also knew both men would soon be leaving the cabin with a small white container—now only minutes away from a southern Illinois hospital.

"The eyes are on the way from the airport," the night supervising nurse said as she replaced the phone. The doctor nodded and finished a note on the chart.

A Paddock Exclusive!

This scene is repeated many times each year in Illinois, and across the country too, and is only part of the complicated operation of the Illinois Eye Bank of the Illinois Society for the Prevention o Blindness. (ISPB).

Eyes donated by persons who die must be removed, checked, patients' doctors notified and the cornea transplant accomplished all within 24 hours.

"This may sound like a lot of time but it isn't," explained Corinne Cloppan of the society.

And she should know.

Miss Cloppan is on call 24 hours a day, because operation of the eye bank is in many respects an emergency operation.

Eyes cannot be banked — saved for future use — and there is no schedule for death of the donors.

The Illinois Eye Bank was formed jointly by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindenss and the Chicago Ophthalmologist Society in 1947.

But the idea of an eye bank is not new—it can be traced back to 1700 and before. Even the ancient Egyptians were making studies.

Eyes are used not only for the transplants, but for research into causes of blindness. Some parts can be preserved and they too add to the list of uses the eye bank has for donated eyes.

Collection centers throughout the state are maintained by the Illinois Eye Bank—some sponsored by local civic groups and others in community hospital.

Eyes removed from donors always go to the receiving center in Cook County hospital where they are checked and then sent on to the top patient on the waiting list maintained by the bank.

Not all blind persons can be helped, the society explains, but all types of eyes are needed by the bank to carry out its purpose.

A special ham radio network has been established across the country and it is on the air to relay information.

When eyes become available a unique framework of cooperation among police, the eye bank, hospitals and some air lines to speed the eyes—sometimes from remote sections—to Cook County hospital and then to the person lucky enough to receive them goes into operation.

The largest number of donations come from the next of kin of a person who died.

This despite the fact that donor cards and legal forms are available to reduce the time necessary to speed the eyes on their short trip to usefulness.

There is no cost either to the person donating the eyes or to the person receiving them.

"The society (ISPB) has never conducted a fund-raising drive, nor participated in federal, state or county funds, or accepted money from the Community Chest for operation," explained a spokesman for ISPB.

This is not because there is an over-supply of money but because the society would rather have five interested members than five million who didn't care.

It is possible for a donor to have an accident anywhere in the world resulting in death and have the eyes put to good use by the eye bank and all because of the donor card carried in the wallet.

Requests for eyes are filled in the order they are received by the bank and all are arranged by doctors. This insures that only those who could be helped are on the list.

How many eyes are needed?

"How high is the sky?" is the reply from those at the eye bank.

Questions concerning donation of eyes should be directed to the eye bank's Chicago office at 220 S. State St. or phone 922-8710. (A-15

Vending Controls: New Problem for Villages

Another Beat for Health Inspector

by Jack Neukom
Staff Writer

Automatic merchandising—the business of selling everything from "soup to nuts" in a vending machine—has mushroomed tremendously in the last five or six years, especially in the area of hot and cold food.

It's now nearly a way of life. Everything imaginable—and eatable—can be purchased with the right combination of coins from a sometimes rebellious machine.

A Paddock Exclusive!

From the early cigarette, candy bar and peanut machines of many years ago, have come mechanical marvels dispensing soups, salads, sandwiches, soda pop, sugary coffee, and sometimes even sympathy.

With the advent of the coin operated meal-in-a-second machine, cities and villages throughout the country have tried in various ways to license, regulate, and sometimes profit from the entire operation.

Municipalities in northwest Cook County and northern DuPage County have set up ordinances setting license rates and generally placing operation of such machines under health codes in regard to sanitary safeguards.

BUT IT WAS amazing to find that several villages had no ordinances or resolutions covering such devices, although our survey did not take in every village in the area.

Most owners of vending companies felt it was essential to have "teeth in licensing and regulating ordinances," but also agreed that too many villages and cities have an excessive license charge in an effort to make money from "the high profits" the vendors are earning.

"This high profit theme is entirely erroneous," a local company owner said. "The 1964 figures on all sales nationally in the vending industry, showed a 3.21 per cent net profit before taxes."

Arlington Heights charges a $5 yearly license for every machine placed in operation in the village, according to Harold Carlson, village license inspector. Outside milk vending machines have a $15 yearly license assessment.

The Arlington Heights ordinance also requires health department inspections at least once a year—sometimes oftener. Another requirement is that each machine must have the company name and address on it at all times.

ROLLING MEADOWS has a staggered license charge for food and beverage vending machines. It costs $10 per machine for those dispensing items costing ten cents or more, and $5 for five cent machines, but the ordinance further sets a limit of $30 chargeable vendors having numerous machines in one location.

R. D. Heninger, Rolling Meadows comptroller, said outdoor milk dispensers are required to carry a $25 annual license, the same as cigarette machines.

A new ordinance on food vending machines was adopted in Palatine early this year, according to Robert Hollander, village manager. It has a $5 yearly licensing rate per machine, with a $15 license required of milk machines.

HOLLANDER SAID the new ordinance closely follows the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department's recommendations in regard to sanitation and inspection.

"We have received the full cooperation of vendors in implementing our new ordinance. We don't even consider this money received from licenses as income. It just pays for our inspection expenses," Hollander said.

NEW ON THE RETAILING scene in many municipalities in the area are vending machines such as these that dispense hot and cold food and drinks. A far cry from the old cigarette and candy machines of the past, these modern mechanical wonders have replaced entire cafeterias in numerous industrial plants. Many cities and villages have health standards. Others are fast following suit. (Staff Photo)

Hollander's comment on license fees as additional income was interesting, because one vendor had said, "It is illegal for a community to license for the sake of raising funds."

"The more rural an area, the higher fee the community charges," a company owner said, and "far more village and communities have illegal and unfair ordinances than those with good ordinances that were drawn up principally for the protection of public health and safety," was the way another vending company owner stated his case.

EVELYN DIENS, village clerk at Wheeling, said the village board's judiciary committee is scheduled to evaluate the present business licensing ordinance the first of next year. The present regulation requires $10 licenses per machine with annual inspections by the health department.

"Licensing as a source of income is not the principal behind our ordinance," Mrs. Diens said. "It's done in an effort to control the village's business areas, particularly in regard to the health and safety of our citizens."

Richard Jenisch, village administrator of Addison, reported his village's ordinance requires an annual license costing $10 each for the first three machines, and $3 for each machine thereafter. The DuPage County Health Department handles inspections in Addison, Jenisch said, which is the case in a large number of villages in DuPage County.

A $10 across-the-board license charge is in effect in Roselle, according to Mildred A. Winkler, clerk, with the same license fee on the books in Hoffman Estates.

ROY JENKINS, village president of Hoffman Estates, said his village has had no difficulties regarding the licensing or cleanliness of vending machines, and no problems are anticipated.

A system of graduated license charges is in effect in Schaumburg. Mrs. Lucille Dobdeck, village clerk, said an ordinance adopted in 1963 requires a $2 license for machine dispensing items for one penny; $10 for five-cent machines; $12—10 cent; $15—15 cents; $20—25 cents; and $25 for machines dispensing items costing 30 cents or more.

The ordinance regulating and licensing businesses in Mount Prospect does not specifically mention vending machines. Ben Hemmeter, acting village manager, said he feels "it is highly desirable that vending machines be controlled in some form or manner."

The Mount Prospect village board presently has the question of licensing vending machines under discussion in committee.

Elk Grove Village, where licensing fees could bring in a lot of money in a year's time, has no ordinance regulating vendors or vending machines.

GEORGE MAJOROS, village manager at Elk Grove, said there are 220 industries in the village with only two having employe cafeterias. The rest either have vending machines, caterers or mobile vendors (trucks bringing hot and cold food at coffee breaks and lunch time). The village health officer, board of health, and village officials are considering such an ordinance right now, Majoros said.

Matt Cockrell, owner of Cockrell Coffee Service in Arlington Heights, said, "Our industry has much to learn and we are continuously trying to overcome our shortcomings."

Cockrell services a number of industrial plants in the area with catered steam table service for the employes. At Martin Metals in Wheeling, he has a fully automatic vending system; at Spot-nails in Rilling Meadows, a partially attended cafeteria vending systems has been set up by Cockrell.

Talk of "syndicate" operation is something else that vendors have to fight time and again. Many people erroneously think that the whole vending industry is overrun by hoodlums, some of the owners said in an interview, but the "truth is that no syndicate would venture into an operation that makes as little profit for work put out as ours does," they said.

MANUFACTURE OF vending machines has become big business since the pace has picked up in food sales across the nation. A few of the bigger companies in the field are Vendo Co., Kansas City; Seeburg Co., Chicago, and National Vendors, St. Louis.

The National Foundation of Sanitation, an arm of the National Automatic Merchandising Association, makes sure that each machine is thoroughly checked out and inspected before it leaves the manufacturer, Cockrell said.

John Auld, who own Barrington Vending Co. Inc., Barrington, said, "I'm not against a licensing fee if it isn't excessive and if we get something for our money."

Auld singled out Palatine in particular, praising the village's system of making regular inspections of all vending operations within its jurisdiction.

The consensus of the men in the business is that licensing and health ordinances are good for the vending industry, and help keep unscrupulous operators down to a very minimum—but that no ordinance should make it a penalty to be in the vending business — something many villages do. (A15

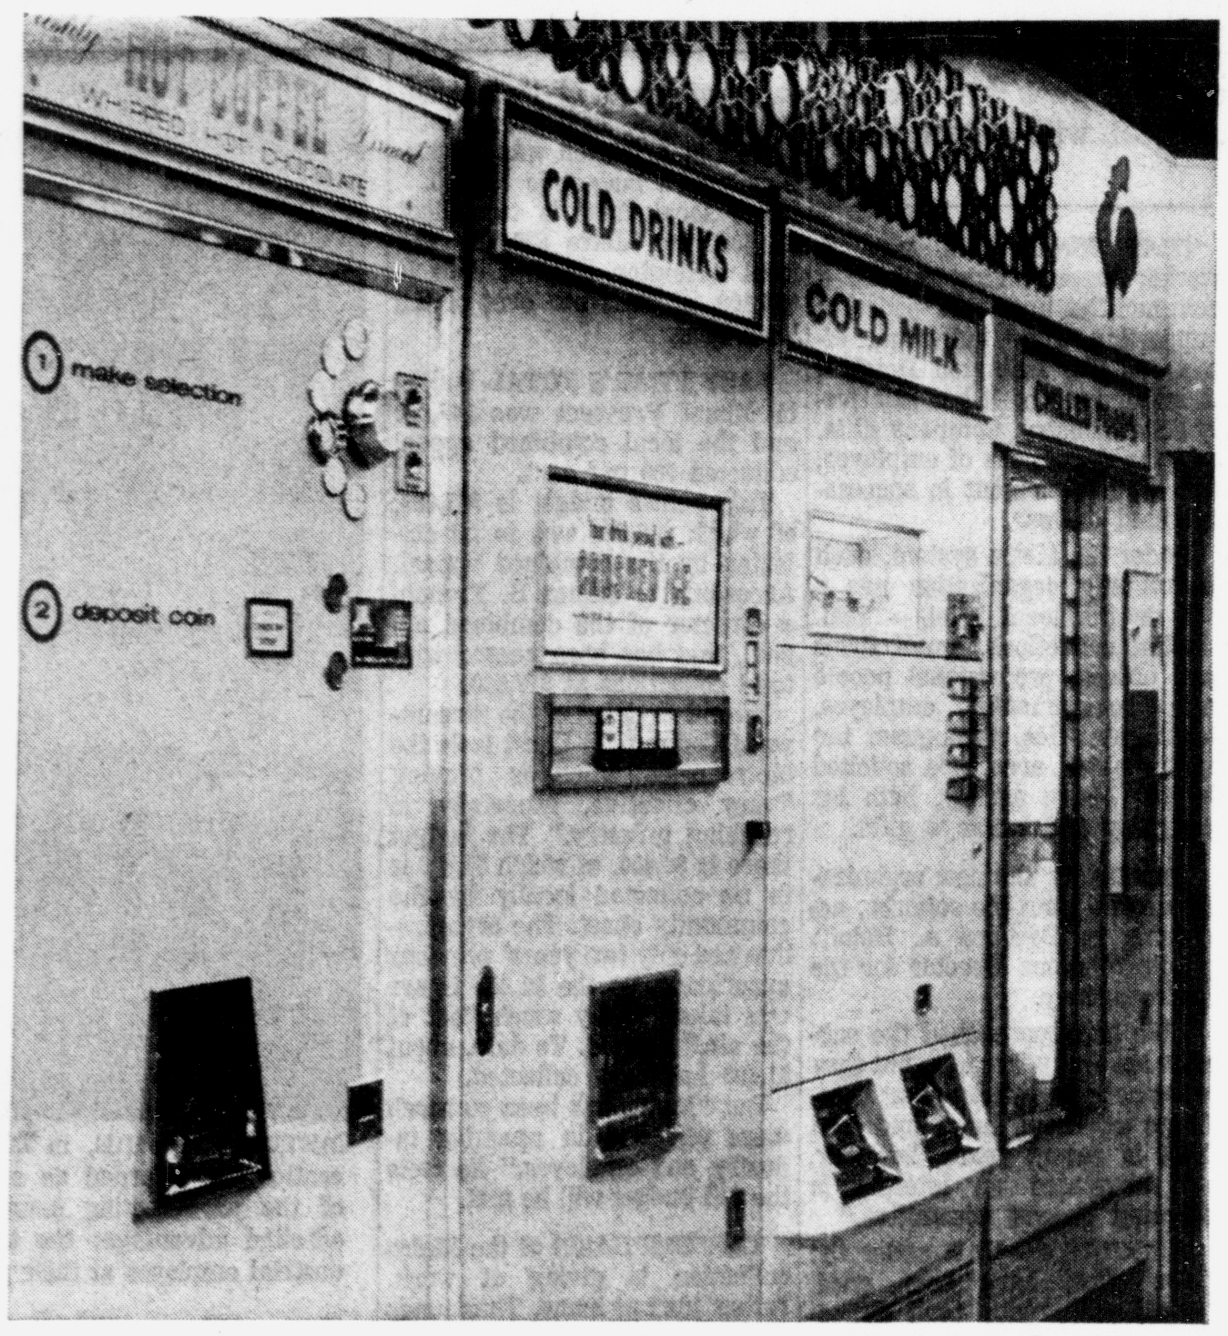
Vending Controls: New Problem for Villages

Another Beat for Health Inspector

by Jack Neukom
Staff Writer

Automatic merchandising—the business of selling everything from "soup to nuts" in a vending machine—has mushroomed tremendously in the last five or six years, especially in the area of hot and cold food.

It's now nearly a way of life. Everything imaginable—and eatable—can be purchased with the right combination of coins from a sometimes rebellious machine.



NEW ON THE RETAILING scene in many municipalities in the area are vending machines such as these that dispense hot and cold food and drinks. A far cry from the old cigarette and candy machines of the past, these modern mechanical wonders have replaced entire cafeterias in numerous industrial plants. Many cities and villages have health standards. Others are fast following suit. (Staff Photo)

A Paddock Exclusive!

From the early cigarette, candy bar and peanut machines of many years ago, have come mechanical marvels dispensing soups, salads, sandwiches, soda pop, sugary coffee, and sometimes even sympathy.

With the advent of the coin operated meal-in-a-second machine, cities and villages throughout the country have tried in various ways to license, regulate, and sometimes profit from the entire operation.

Municipalities in northwest Cook County and northern DuPage County have set up ordinances setting license rates and generally placing operation of such machines under health codes in regard to sanitary safeguards.

BUT IT WAS amazing to find that several villages had no ordinances or resolutions covering such devices, although our survey did not take in every village in the area.

Most owners of vending companies felt it was essential to have "teeth in licensing and regulating ordinances," but also agreed that too many villages and cities have an excessive license charge in an effort to make money from "the high profits" the vendors are earning.

"This high profit theme is entirely erroneous," a local company owner said. "The 1964 figures on all sales nationally in the vending industry, showed a 3.21 per cent net profit before taxes."

Success Is Near for Metro Fund Drive

Some Suburbs Exceed Goals

by Dan Baumann
Staff Writer

The Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy is moving toward the conclusion of its first campaign—apparently a success in most suburban areas.

The Metro agency announced this week it had reached 81 per cent of its $21 million goal, with collections at the $16,940,602 mark.

A Paddock Exclusive!

The new Metro agency is given major credit for the success this year of the larger suburban fund drives and one which perennially has missed its goal — the Arlington Heights United Fund. And while some other drives are still in their early stages, it apparently is well regarded in those areas.

The Metro is a new agency composed of the Community Fund of Chicago, the Red Cross Mid-American Chapter and the Suburban Community Chest Council with its 55 member chests and funds.

IN NORTHWEST suburbia, funds in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Addison, Elk Grove Village, and Streamwood are affiliated through the suburban council.

Metro is an attempt to bring orderliness out of the scattered efforts at united appeals in the metropolitan area; with the rapid growth of suburban areas and the large number of business and industrial firms moving to suburbia, problems and some resentment arose for company managements and their employes. And with it confusion on the part of givers over whether their gifts reached the home community.

But the concept of Metro itself may be confusing. For example, one immediate reaction to the proposal was that it was an attempt to have the suburbs subsidize the Chicago fund.

THAT ISN'T THE way it works; some wealthy suburban communities have had difficulty supporting their individual efforts — like Arlington Heights. A major reason: it has relatively little industry. Company gifts, and the deductions of employes, are a large element in successful fund drives.

Under the Metro system, each community organization has a job on the local level — residential collections, small firms and offices, professional people and governmental employes. Most industries, throughout the metropolitan area, are solicited by the Metro agency, both for company and employe gifts.

Impetus for the new organization came from the suburbs, according to Bernard A. Roloff, public relations director for the Metro agency.

"We had approached the suburbs several years ago, but they were not interested at that time. Some of them have had bad luck in recent years, however, and expressed an interest in forming a joint committee."

RESULTS SO FAR under the joint effort have been good, Roloff said, with total collections 15 per cent ahead of the receipts at this point last year, when the total goal of the three groups was about $19 million.

Roloff said he expects Metro to reach its larger goal this year about Christmas.

The Metro has relieved suburban funds, mostly volunteer units, of much of their fundraising chore. Last year's total budget in Arlington was $47,000. This year's budget is $52,500.

The local fund is to collect $22,500, the Metro $30,000. The local Arlington total to date is $25,160, or 111.8 per cent of the local goal.

LAST YEAR'S TOTAL budget in Mount Prospect was $47,000 and the local combined appeal collected 100 per cent.

This year's budget is $55,000, of which $15,000 was to be collected by the combined appeal. According to James B. French, a director of the combined appeal, that has been passed with total collections at $17,660.

Harold Helfrich of the Streamwood Community Chest feels the Metro organization is proving "very effective, especially in reaching industry." The budget there is $4,400, of which $1,800 is to be collected locally by the community chest. The organization had only two years' previous experience, so the $1,800 figure was taken pretty much "out of the air," he said. To date, about $1,000 has been collected.

But "Metro has been so much more effective in reaching industry and employes," he feels the full budget will be met.

THE EMPHASIS of the Metro collection is giving at work, rather than at home. Thus funds generally are relying less on residential solicitations.

Elk Grove Village's United Fund budget this year is $19,000, a third to be collected locally. Last year's goal was $20,000, of which $15,000 was actually collected.

Residential solicitations — done by mail — are coming in slowly this year, according to finance chairman Grant Watson. About $1,000 has been received, compared with about $2,000 at the same time last year.

"It's a little early" to tell the impact of Metro in Elk Grove Village, according to Stanley Quinn, the fund's general chairman. "But I am optimistic."

REACTION FROM the suburbs is generally "very good," according to Metro suburban division manager Virginia Trescott. "One or two communities have sat on their hands—they may have limited volunteer help—but most have really been working to meet their goals."

Not all suburban chests have joined Metro, among them the Palatine Community Combined Appeal.

Daniel S. Vrabek, of the appeal, cited his organization's enviable record.

"We are one of the few in the area that has hit 90 to 100 per cent without a crutch. Our record over the past four to five years has consistently been very high.

"AT THE SAME time, our collection costs generally have been about 3½ per cent and as low as 2½ per cent."

The Palatine appeal did reduce its budget this year, in a campaign now getting under way. Last year's budget was $24,410. This year, it was reduced to $22,000 in expectation of having more residents solicited by Metro at work.

METRO CRUSADE, in its first year of operation, is regarded as a success by many of the participating community funds. Cook, DuPage Candidates In Contest for IEA Post

Candidates from northwest Cook County and west DuPage County will be vying against each other for one of three Illinois Education Association directorships at the annual convention Dec. 28 to 30.

While the two Chicago area candidates "fight it out," a third candidate from Savannah could steal the election away.

The local candidates are Ernest E. Poe, assistant superintendent, Wheaton elementary schools, and Mrs. Marjorie Olson, foreign language department chairman, Forest View High School, Arlington Heights (Township District 214).

Poe served as president of the DuPage Valley Division, IEA, four years ago. Mrs. Olson was the first president of the Northwest Suburban Division, IEA, last year.

Opposing Poe and Mrs. Olson is William Floyd, superintendent, Savannah schools, and a member of the state committee on legislation.

BOTH DuPAGE Valley Division and Northwest Suburban Division are committed to their candidates. Election materials have been ordered and campaigns laid out.

The major point of disagreement between the two candidates—and the two Chicago-area divisions—is a proposed IEA constitutional revision which would have limited state divisions to 24. This is only two more than the present 22, making eventual partition of some of the massive urban divisions soon an impossibility.

Since representation on state committees and the number of voting delegates is based on the division, this would have continued the Downstate domination of the IEA working machinery.

THE SECOND disagreement would be in the allocation of convention delegates. Under the proposal, each local education association (even if it had only 10 members) would be entitled to a delegate. Thus small districts with 100 (or even less) students would have the same vote as Cook County districts like Palatine-Rolling Meadows elementary schools, which have almost 10,000 students.

Stating awareness that their action could hurt Mrs. Olson's candidacy, the northwest suburban teacher representatives "on principles" voted to propose a new metropolitan education association, breaking away from the state association.

A change in the stand of the state constitutional revision committee to continue convention representation on a membership basis through the various divisions brought an end to the metropolitan proposal.

If the original proposal is supported by the IEA leaders and convention, the Northwest Suburban Division still would initiate a feasibility study on a metropolitan association, bringing the question back before the local teacher representatives.

POE IS KNOWN to favor representation based on school districts, regardless of size. It was reported this type of plan had once been proposed by him. This promotes interest in every district regardless of size.

Other reasons given for consideration of a metropllitan association for present IEA members in the Chicago metropolitan area is the "agrarian philosophy" of the IEA in supporting state legislation. A separate educational association would have a full-time executive secretary and staff to concentrate on urban and suburban educational and professional teacher problems.

Cited as a major criticism in the lowering of representation for Chicago-area schools (where districts are normally quite large) was that even under present delegate apportionment the 25,000 metropolitan teachers have only about one-quarter of the state representation of the approximate 70,000 total membership. The higher-paid Chicago-area teachers pay about half the IEA expenses because of a state graduated dues schedule based on salaries. (A-15

Some Suburbs Exceed Goals

by Dan Baumann
Staff Writer

The Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy is moving toward the conclusion of its first campaign—apparently a success in most suburban areas.

The Metro agency announced this week it had reached 81 per cent of its $21 million goal, with collections at the $16,940,602 mark.

The new Metro agency is given major credit for the success this year of the larger suburban fund drives and one which perennially has missed its goal — the Arlington Heights United Fund. And while some other drives are still in their early stages, it apparently is well regarded in those areas.

A Paddock Exclusive!

The Metro is a new agency composed of the Community Fund of Chicago, the Red Cross Mid-American Chapter and the Suburban Community Chest Council with its 55 member chests and funds.

IN NORTHWEST suburbia, funds in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Addison, Elk Grove Village, and Streamwood are affiliated through the suburban council.

Metro is an attempt to bring orderliness out of the scattered efforts at united appeals in the metropolitan area; with the rapid growth of suburban areas and the large number of business and industrial firms moving to suburbia, problems and some resentment arose for company managements and their employes. And with it confusion on the part of givers over whether their gifts reached the home community.

But the concept of Metro itself may be confusing. For example, one immediate reaction to the proposal was that it was an attempt to have the suburbs subsidize the Chicago fund.

THAT ISN'T THE way it works; some wealthy suburban communities have had difficulty supporting their individual efforts — like Arlington Heights. A major reason: it has relatively little industry. Company gifts, and the deductions of employes, are a large element in successful fund drives.

Under the Metro system, each community organization has a job on the local level — residential collections, small firms and offices, professional people and governmental employes. Most industries, throughout the metropolitan area, are solicited by the Metro agency, both for company and employe gifts.

Impetus for the new organization came from the suburbs, according to Bernard A. Roloff, public relations director for the Metro agency.

"We had approached the suburbs several years ago, but they were not interested at that time. Some of them have had bad luck in recent years, however, and expressed an interest in forming a joint committee."

RESULTS SO FAR under the joint effort have been good, Roloff said, with total collections 15 per cent ahead of the receipts at this point last year, when the total goal of the three groups was about $19 million.

Roloff said he expects Metro to reach its larger goal this year about Christmas.

The Metro has relieved suburban funds, mostly volunteer units, of much of their fund-raising chore. Last year's total budget in Arlington was $47,000. This year's budget is $52,500.

The local fund is to collect $22,500, the Metro $30,000. The local Arlington total to date is $25,160, or 111.8 per cent of the local goal.

LAST YEAR'S TOTAL budget in Mount Prospect was $47,000 and the local combined appeal collected 100 per cent.

This year's budget is $55,000, of which $15,000 was to be collected by the combined appeal. According to James B. French, a director of the combined appeal, that has been passed with total collections at $17,660.

Harold Helfrich of the Streamwood Community Chest feels the Metro organization is proving "very effective, especially in reaching industry." The budget there is $4,400, of which $1,800 is to be collected locally by the community chest. The organization had only two years' previous experience, so the $1,800 figure was taken pretty much "out of the air," he said. To date, about $1,000 has been collected.

But "Metro has been so much more effective in reaching industry and employes," he feels the full budget will be met.

THE EMPHASIS of the Metro collection is giving at work, rather than at home. Thus funds generally are relying less on residential solicitations.

Elk Grove Village's United Fund budget this year is $19,000, a third to be collected locally. Last year's goal was $20,000, of which $15,000 was actually collected.

Residential solicitations — done by mail — are coming in slowly this year, according to finance chairman Grant Watson. About $1,000 has been received, compared with about $2,000 at the same time last year.

"It's a little early" to tell the impact of Metro in Elk Grove Village, according to Stanley Quinn, the fund's general chairman. "But I am optimistic."

REACTION FROM the suburbs is generally "very good," according to Metro suburban division manager Virginia Trescott. "One or two communities have sat on their hands—they may have limited volunteer help—but most have really been working to meet their goals."

Not all suburban chests have joined Metro, among them the Palatine Community Combined Appeal.

Daniel S. Vrabek, of the appeal, cited his organization's enviable record.

"We are one of the few in the area that has hit 90 to 100 per cent without a crutch. Our record over the past four to five years has consistently been very high.

"AT THE SAME time, our collection costs generally have been about 3½ per cent and as low as 2½ per cent."

The Palatine appeal did reduce its budget this year, in a campaign now getting under way. Last year's budget was $24,410. This year, it was reduced to $22,000 in expectation of having more residents solicited by Metro at work.

METRO CRUSADE, in its first year of operation, is regarded as a success by many of the participating community funds. Cook, DuPage Candidates In Contest for IEA Post

Candidates from northwest Cook County and west DuPage County will be vying against each other for one of three Illinois Education Association directorships at the annual convention Dec. 28 to 30.

While the two Chicago area candidates "fight it out," a third candidate from Savannah could steal the election away.

The local candidates are Ernest E. Poe, assistant superintendent, Wheaton elementary schools, and Mrs. Marjorie Olson, foreign language department chairman, Forest View High School, Arlington Heights (Township District 214).

Poe served as president of the DuPage Valley Division, IEA, four years ago. Mrs. Olson was the first president of the Northwest Suburban Division, IEA, last year.

Opposing Poe and Mrs. Olson is William Floyd, superintendent, Savannah schools, and a member of the state committee on legislation.

BOTH DuPAGE Valley Division and Northwest Suburban Division are committed to their candidates. Election materials have been ordered and campaigns laid out.

The major point of disagreement between the two candidates—and the two Chicago-area divisions—is a proposed IEA constitutional revision which would have limited state divisions to 24. This is only two more than the present 22, making eventual partition of some of the massive urban divisions soon an impossibility.

Since representation on state committees and the number of voting delegates is based on the division, this would have continued the Downstate domination of the IEA working machinery.

THE SECOND disagreement would be in the allocation of convention delegates. Under the proposal, each local education association (even if it had only 10 members) would be entitled to a delegate. Thus small districts with 100 (or even less) students would have the same vote as Cook County districts like Palatine-Rolling Meadows elementary schools, which have almost 10,000 students.

Stating awareness that their action could hurt Mrs. Olson's candidacy, the northwest suburban teacher representatives "on principles" voted to propose a new metropolitan education association, breaking away from the state association.

A change in the stand of the state constitutional revision committee to continue convention representation on a membership basis through the various divisions brought an end to the metropolitan proposal.

If the original proposal is supported by the IEA leaders and convention, the Northwest Suburban Division still would initiate a feasibility study on a metropolitan association, bringing the question back before the local teacher representatives.

POE IS KNOWN to favor representation based on school districts, regardless of size. It was reported this type of plan had once been proposed by him. This promotes interest in every district regardless of size.

Other reasons given for consideration of a metropllitan association for present IEA members in the Chicago metropolitan area is the "agrarian philosophy" of the IEA in supporting state legislation. A separate educational association would have a full-time executive secretary and staff to concentrate on urban and suburban educational and professional teacher problems.

Cited as a major criticism in the lowering of representation for Chicago-area schools (where districts are normally quite large) was that even under present delegate apportionment the 25,000 metropolitan teachers have only about one-quarter of the state representation of the approximate 70,000 total membership. The higher-paid Chicago-area teachers pay about half the IEA expenses because of a state graduated dues schedule based on salaries.

NORWESCO Plans Medical, Dental Clinics

by HELENE BRISTOL
Staff Writer

Help from the federal government is being sought for operation of two northwest suburban clinics to provide medical and dental care to 7,280 residents from low-income families.

The federal share of the $506,823 estimated total clinic cost would be $362,334.

The balance of the expenses will be made up in the form of contributions of time, materials and space from the hospitals, and volunteer work by the doctors, dentists, and nurses.

The clinics would be operated at Alexian Brothers Hospital, Elk Grove, and Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

Eligible for care would be all persons on public assistance programs or families with incomes of $3,000 or less. Families with more than two children could qualify with a higher income.

This would be a minimum coverage, with a definite policy to be determined later, according to Virgil Bass. vice-chairman of Norwesco Opportunity Council. Norwesco is making the federal application through the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity and its North Cook County Steering Committee.

THE CLINICS, with provisions for both out-patient visits and hospitalization, would serve the entire north Cook County area except Evanston and New Trier Townships.

Residents from those two townships would continue to use clinics at Evanston and St. Francis Hospitals, Evanston. Because of increased patient loads these clinics are trying to cut back to serving just the two-township area.

Alexian Brothers Hospital is scheduled to open in March or April. Establishment of the clinic would not come until the hospital itself was on a well-organized operating basis, according to Brother Roderick, development secretary for the Elk Grove Catholic hospital.

New facilities at Lutheran General Hospital should be completed by September, Administrator Robert Nast stated. Once an area is available in the addition, the clinic could go into immediate operation, he explained.

ALSO PROPOSED under the Norwesco health plan would be preventive medicine and health education programs in hospitals, schools, churches and other public buildings in the area.

This program would enlarge the present Cook County Department of Public Health projects in the area. At the present time there are 1,025 individuals registered in the health department immunization clinic, with 206 of these Spanish-speaking.

A monthly "well baby" clinic held in the Wheeling Village Hall provides total health services to children up to age four whose families cannot afford private medical treatment. There are 58 children now registered at this clinic, with 14 from Spanish-speaking families.

Another "well baby" clinic was started last month in the Hanover Park park district.

Both clinics are open to all residents of north and northwest Cook County who cannot afford the service privately.

Norwesco hopes to add additional preventive-medicine clinics under the current proposal.

A PUBLIC hearing on the proposed clinics Monday night at Lutheran General Hospital brought no adverse commentary.

The major criticism during the meeting was a statement from Al Peterson, Barrington Township supervisor. Peterson asked why hospitals did not discount their bills to townships for indigent medical care. It was explained that Lutheran General Hospital did discount bills to townships at the rate of six per cent.

Howard Rahlfs, Hanover Township supervisor, noted the Elgin hospitals discounted bills two per cent for him.

Nast stressed that reduced costs to townships for tax payment of indigent patients' bills presented the hospitals with the problem of "taxing" other sick patients with higher bills to make up the deficit. He asked the township representatives if it was better to save community taxpayers' money or the money of patients sick in the hospital.

Bass noted that Elk Grove Township probably had one of the best records for payment of medical bills for indigent patients. But even this township was listed as paying for only six patients last year by Evanston Hospital, he explained. Records showed there were 17 patients from Elk Grove and five from Mount Prospect hospitalized under the clinic program.

CLINIC USE by northwest Cook County residents will tend to increase with closer facilities, Bass explained. He noted many low-income families do not have long-distance transportation available.

Among plans for meeting health needs of poverty-level families would be establishment of a volunteer transportation group for taking families to doctors, hospitals and shopping for food.

A homemaking service to maintain the families while mothers are ill or hospitalized also is being considered, Bass said.

Day-care centers or baby-sitting services to permit mothers to attend clinics or accept part-time employment is to be included in the final Norwesco service program, he added.

These programs are essential, Bass stressed. Because of the distance to Evanston or Cook County Hospital on Chicago's south side many families are forced to omit pre-natal care, overlook visual and dental problems of children and ignore symptoms of illness until a serious medical emergency arises.

THE FINAL clinic proposal was approved by Norwesco last night. It is to be forwarded to the North Cook Steering Committee today (Thursday). That committee is expected to submit the proposal to the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity governing board next Thursday, with the governing board forwarding the proposal before Jan. 1 to the Chicago regional office of the economic opportunity program.

Federal approval, with initial funds, is hoped for within three months, Bass noted.

He explained that part or all of the project could be referred to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington for a health grant instead of providing economic-opportunity funds. Part of the clinic cost also could come under funds available through the federal agricultural migrant worker act of 1962.

LAST YEAR St. Francis Hospital treated 1,910 patients in 7,000 clinic visits. There were 695 patients hospitalized, 131 from outside Evanston and New Trier Townships, including 10 from Arlington Heights and seven from Palatine.

Evanston Hospital served 2,667 patients in 14,353 clinic visits. There were 1,027 patients hospitalized, with 155 coming from Wheeling, Elk Grove and Palatine Townships. There were also three patients from Bensenville and one from Wood Dale in DuPage County.

There were 15 people hospitalized from Arlington Heights, three from Buffalo Grove, 17 from Elk Grove, five from Mount Prospect, six from Palatine, two from Prospect Heights, one from Rolling Meadows and 10 from Wheeling.

There were also 153 clinic visits by residents of Arlington Heights, 25 visits from Bensenville, three from Buffalo Grove, 117 from Elk Grove, 23 from Mount Prospect, 80 from Palatine, 81 from Prospect Heights, nine from Rolling Meadows and 91 from Wheeling.

OTHER PROJECTS currently being prepared by Norwesco include a "Headstart" program for pre-school children in cooperation with local schools and tutorial service for children and adults on both a paid and volunteer basis. The group cooperated in preparing joint nine-district school proposals for a central diagnostic learning center and for a supplementary service and materials center.

Another project being studied by a special Norwesco subcommittee is acquisition of possible sites for low-cost housing. A tract of 20 acres is needed, preferably in the unincorporated area and walking distance to a shopping center. This was the comment of A. M. (Bud) Bernstein, chairman.

ACCORDING TO the county public health department, safe housing which low-income families can afford to rent is desperately needed.

"Most of the Spanish-speaking families live in shack-like structures with no modern sanitary facilities. Among this group there is a marked increase of gastro-intestinal infections during the summer and upper respiratory infections in the winter," the health department reported.

Many oft he Mexican American workers are located in labor camps of substandard housing and trailers not suitable for winter residence, Bass stressed. He noted the growing number of southern white Appalachia workers moving to trailer courts. There are 1,325 trailer units in Elk Grove Township and 1,106 in Maine Township.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM "DOBBY" DOBKIN

Frequently I am asked what is Scotch, and which brand do I recommend. The Scotch whisky we know is a blend of malt whiskies and grain whiskies. Blending of the malt and grain spirits, begun in the mid 1800s, is an art that calls for long years of training. As many as 40 or 50 differen m four grains may be used in one brand. Being a liquor merchant I discovered the best way of answering the numerous queries on what Scotch to serve, was to personally serve various brands in my home. Now, after years of tasting and serving leading brands, I have finally selected as my personal preference the Real Mackenzie Scotch Whisky. "Most of the Spanish-speaking families live in shack-like structures with no modern sanitary facilities. Among this group there is a marked increase of gastro-intestinal infections during the summer and upper respiratory infections in the winter," the health department reported.

Many oft he Mexican American workers are located in labor camps of substandard housing and trailers not suitable for winter residence, Bass stressed. He noted the growing number of southern white Appalachia workers moving to trailer courts. There are 1,325 trailer units in Elk Grove Township and 1,106 in Maine Township. (B10

A PERSONAL MESSAGE FROM "DOBBY" DOBKIN

Frequently I am asked what is Scotch, and which brand do I recommend. The Scotch whisky we know is a blend of malt whiskies and grain whiskies. Blending of the malt and grain spirits, begun in the mid 1800s, is an art that calls for long years of training. As many as 40 or 50 differen m four grains may be used in one brand. Being a liquor merchant I discovered the best way of answering the numerous queries on what Scotch to serve, was to personally serve various brands in my home. Now, after years of tasting and serving leading brands, I have finally selected as my personal preference the Real Mackenzie Scotch Whisky. If you have any beverage problems for your next party, we will be delighted to assist in making your selections. Stop in at our Foremost Liquor Store, 15 S. Brockway, Palatine.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

BEING HELPFUL

How often have you passed up the opportunity to do something for your fellow man? Have you refused to take part in some community effort? Have you looked the other way when a friend or a neighbor was obviously in need?

Maybe you're like the few who never take the time to do anything at all without first asking, "What's in it for me? And, maybe you're like the do-nothings who criticize the "doers" and suggest they participate in numerous activities merely for the "publicity" involved.

Each man seeks his own reward. If you tell yourself you don't care about anyone or about anything, your heart and your conscience will eventually betray you. Someday you'll hear a cry for help, and you'll respond, without searching for a reason or anticipating a reward. When you do, you'll know there isn't any possible way to help others without helping yourself at the same time.

FAMILY POT LUCK

BY HELEN HALE

Palate Pleasers

Add some crushed garlic clove or garlic salt to melted butter, heat and serve over hot, boiled shelled shrimp.

Condensed cheese soup offers an excellent base for lobster removed from shell and diced. Combine with green pepper and a suggestion of onion for seasoning, refill shells and bake until heated through.

Want something special in the way of a topping for hamburgers? Mix a can of dry onion soup mix with a cup of sour cream and ¼ cup of crumbled blue cheese. Top burgers after they've browned.

For sharpening a green salad, toss the whole with drained anchovy fillets, ripe olives and garlic-buttered croutons, oil-and-vinegar dressing.

Large, thin slices of roast turkey can be wrapped around small mounds of the dressing, topped with gravy and heated in a covered casserole.

Broccoli is good with cheese sauce! Cover parboiled spears with the sauce and finish cooking in the oven with the remainder of the dinner.

Helen's Favorite:

Honey Apple Crisp
(Serves 4 - 6)

- 4 cups sliced apples
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ cup honey
- ½ cup enriched flour
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup butter
- ¼ cup chopped walnuts or pecans

Spread sliced apples in shallow, buttered baking dish, sprinkle with sugar and lemon juice. Pour honey over all. Mix flour, brown sugar, salt, butter and nuts. Spread crumb mixture evenly over apples. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve with cream, if desired.

Palate Pleasers

Add some crushed garlic clove or garlic salt to melted butter, heat and serve over hot, boiled shelled shrimp.

Condensed cheese soup offers an excellent base for lobster removed from shell and diced. Combine with green pepper and a suggestion of onion for seasoning, refill shells and bake until heated through.

Want something special in the way of a topping for hamburgers? Mix a can of dry onion soup mix with a cup of sour cream and 1/4 cup of crumbled blue cheese. Top burgers after they've browned.

For sharpening a green salad, toss the whole with drained anchovy fillets, ripe olives and garlic-buttered croutons, oil-and-vinegar dressing.

Large, thin slices of roast turkey can be wrapped around small mounds of the dressing, topped with gravy and heated in a covered casserole.

Broccoli is good with cheese sauce! Cover parboiled spears with the sauce and finish cooking in the oven with the remainder of the dinner.

Democratic Contest Possible in House Remap

Republicans Gain Under Compromise

by NANCY ANDERSON
Staff Writer

Reapportionment of the Illinois House—settled last week by a bipartisan 10-man commission less than a week short of deadline—throws the field wide open to Republicans in the six northwest suburban townships.

And, it may match two Democrats in a head-on collision.

The new 3rd District takes in Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover Townships; half of Northfield Township, and a smidgen of the northwest corner of Maine Township.

The lines were drawn by the commission on appointment by Gov. Otto Kerner after the General Assembly failed to reach a decision this year for the second session in a row. Failure of a similar special commission to come to agreement following the 1963 General Assembly resulted in the freak at-large election last year.

AMONG THE "blue ribbon" freshmen chosen in that election were Mrs. Eugenia Chapman and Attorney Eugene Schlickman, both of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Chapman is a Democrat, Schlickman a Republican.

Re-elected then to his fourth term was attorney Bernard M. Peskin of Northbrook.

Peskin, with John W. Carroll of Park Ridge and Arthur E. Simmons of Skokie, both Republicans, had represented this area, when it was included in the larger 6th District. Both Carroll and Simmons are now in the new 4th District — Niles and Maine Townships.

That leaves the new 3rd District, heavily Republican, with two Democrats and one Republican. Without doubt, one Democrat will have to go.

(Each district elects three House members, and one must be from the minority party in the district, so one Democratic seat is certain.)

THIS WEEK, MRS. Chapman as the first-term Democrat was "not ready to make any kind of statement. I haven't decided not to run. I haven't ruled out the possibility . . . I'm not so sure I won't. I'm in the process of making up my mind."

She said, "I haven't had a chance yet to talk to Bernie Peskin."

Peskin "thinks" he'll run again. "You never know what's going to happen." He was expecting some "candidatitis" from Mrs. Chapman, indicating he wouldn't be surprised if she decided to challenge him for the sure Democratic post.

He estimated the vote "during the last two or three elections as 2½-or 3-1 in favor of the Republicans. It would be extremely difficult to elect two Democrats."

PESKIN HAS BEEN identified chiefly with the young liberal wing of the Democrats in the House, and Mrs. Chapman voted with that group on many issues last spring.

If she does decide to take on the veteran, she's apt to hear from the powers in the party, but what effect that would have is uncertain.

As a general comment, she offered: "I certainly wouldn't rule out the possibility of independent candidates in the Democratic party, or in the Republican party, in the primary for state representatives. All it takes to run is signatures of one-half per cent of everybody in the district who voted for governor in the last election."

MEANWHILE, THE sole Republican was "delighted with the success of the 10-man commission." Schlickman said, "We now have a return to representative government in the state of Illinois."

The compromise remap may turn the tables on the Democrats, who held an exact two-thirds majority in the House, 118-59, as a result of the at-large ballot.

Under the redistricting, the House could go either way, depending on which party controls other state offices.

ON THE OTHER hand, the Senate, reapportioned by the courts, should remain firmly in control of the GOP.

And one Republican who may be interested in a seat in the Senate is Eugene Schlickman. Speculation has been running high that someone may challenge John Graham of Barrington.

First-mentioned possibility is Tom Houser, Wheeling Township committeeman who played a key role in Charles Percy's campaign for governor last year. However, his decision is not expected until Percy announces whether he will run for the U.S. Senate post now held by Paul Douglas.

Second possible challenger is Schlickman, though he puts off questions about the Senate.

In a somewhat qualified statement this week, repeating past comments, he said: "I intend to be a candidate for re-election to the House of Representatives."

BOTH HE AND Houser are classed as more moderate than Graham, who received immediate endorsement from state business groups when speculation about Houser first cropped up. And, Graham has support from the more conservative western section of the district. A Houser or Schlickman candidacy would have to be promoted primarily in the heavier-populated eastern townships.

As for a second Republican representative from the 3rd District, Schlickman said, "It's almost premature to speculate as to who will be running. I would expect as many as up to six candidates — that's not based on any knowledge or information, just a guess." (B10

Q. Do you think that a person is always obligated to give a specific reason when he is compelled to decline an invitation?

A. Although not exactly a "must," still a good, logical reason does have a way of softening a refusal of this kind.

Q. Is it the duty of the bride-elect to buy the dresses and accessories for her bridesmaids?

A. No. She selects the designs and materials, but her attendants must pay for their own outfits.

Q. I've been advised that the fold-over, double-sheet type of personal stationery is out of place for a man. How about this?

A. This is really up to the man himself. Some men regard the single-sheet type of stationery as more masculine than the double-sheet type. But either is perfectly all right.

Christmas Music At Wheeling Sunday

Wheeling High School's second annual Christmas Concert will be presented Sunday at 3 p.m. The concert, presented by the choral and instrumental music departments, will be in the school gym.

The Girls' Glee Club will sing "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day," by John Marks; "Jingle Bells;" and "Shepherds, Shake Off Your Drowsy Sleep." "He Comes To Us;" "Kolyada;" and "Glory to God in the Highest;" will be performed by the Mixed Chorus.

THIS YEAR BOTH the symphony and concert bands will be performing. The symphony band will play two old favorites, "Twas the Night Before Christmas;" and "White Christmas." "Sussex Mummers' Christmas Carol," a modern adaption of the ancient mummer, will also be played by the symphony band.

The concert band will perform another familiar tune, "The Carol of the Drum," by Katherine Davis.

The vocal groups will be conducted by Charles D. Jenks, Dean R. DePoy will conduct the instrumental groups.

Conant Awaiting Exchange Student

by PAT VAN AUKEN

Conant's first International Fellowship foreign exchange student, Graciela Norma Niets of Argentina, will arrive in the United States within the next few days. Graciela will be the guest of Michele Dean and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean in Hoffman Estates.

The Deans are looking forward to the stay of Conant's South American neighbor. Michele and her parents visited the Spanish Southern Baptist church in Des Plaines on December 5. There, they met and talked with other foreign exchange students.

When Graciela arrives, she will probably go to church with Michele's neighbors or Beany Clifford because Michele is not Catholic, but Michele plans to try to go to church with Graciela most of the time.

ONE OF THE handicaps that Michele is concerned about is language. Michele has no background in Spanish at all; luckily, however, Graciela knows how to read English very well. So, if they can't get the ideas across by speaking, they can always write notes.

Graciela has written a couple of letters to Michele (in Spanish) asking her what kind of clothes to bring to the states because of the terrific climatic changes.

This foreign exchange trip won't be completely new for Graciela because her older brother, Horacio, had been a foreign exchange student when he was her age. He is 18 now and attends a university.

Graciela's father is a lawyer. They own an apartment building in the center of Rosario and live in one of the apartments there.

Conant plans to give Graciela a school ring as a token of friendship at an all-school assembly. It will be the job of the students at Conant to show Graciela what Americans are really like. (Y

Rumsfeld Is Honored For Excise Tax Vote

Leading retailers joined Friday in paying tribute to a suburban congressman and in agreeing that repeal of the federal excise taxes is making this Christmas shopping season the greatest by far.

Led by Joseph T. Meek, president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association, the suburban businessmen honored Congressman Donald Rumsfeld, R-13th, at a luncheon meeting in the Orrington Hotel, Evanston.

MEEK SAID the retailers "warmly thanked" Rumsfeld in behalf of the consumers of the 13th Congressional District for the nearly $30 million of Christmas Gift-buying power his vote to repeal the 10 per cent federal retail excises has given to buyers throughout the state.

"The Christmas shopping season is setting all-time records," said Meek, "and this is due in part to the price break customers are getting as the result of the repeal of federal excise taxes on such items as cosmetics, jewelry, furs, luggage and ladies handbags."

He said another benefit of the repeal is lifting from retailers much paper work that consumed time of both clerks and consumers as well as accountants.

Meek presented Rumsfeld with a citation for "his recognition of the necessity for the repeal of the retail excise taxes and its importance to the national economy and consuming public." The scroll also cited "the persistence and leadership Congressman Rumsfeld demonstrated in accomplishing that result."

Meek was one of the national leaders in the long campaign for repeal of what he called "the most unbearable, inequitable and costly taxes in American history."

RECALLING his association's 20-year fight for repeal of the World War II levies, he said this final success "was proof that intelligent and fair pressures applied on congressional minds by frustrated and harassed women consumers can bring about almost any relief desired."

In expressing appreciation for the citation, Congressman Rumsfeld praised the association, adding that repeal was evidence of the success to be won when the goal is a "good and proper one."

He urged retailers to continue their active interest in legislation. "Collective action, dialogue, and debate are desperately needed in national affairs today," declared Rumsfeld. "There are lots of other problems that need the attention of an association such as yours. Just because one given goal has been achieved, don't close up shop. Demonstrate your social conscienceness, both collectively and as individuals." (B10

Mrs. Chapman Will Attend National Education Meeting

Mrs. Eugenia Chapman of 903 N. Kaspar St., Arlington Heights, will go to New York next Tuesday and Wednesday for a national conference to assess educational progress and objectives.

The objectives involved in the discussion have been worked out by four of the leading test development agencies under contract with an independent committee appointed and supported by the Carnegie Corp. of New York, and refined by lay people in four regional conferences.

MRS. CHAPMAN will attend the national meeting as one of three chairmen of the Midwest conference, held last week in Chicago. The conference included lay people from large cities, suburban areas and other types of communities.

The Carnegie group, the Exploratory Committee on Assessing the Progress of Education, has worked for the past six months with teachers and scholars from several subject fields to identify educational objectives on a nationwide scale. Over the past year the committee has held conferences with administrators, curriculum specialists, scholars, measurement specialists, school board members and other laymen interested in education.

Mrs. Chapman long has been involved with local schools, and as a Democratic member of the Illinois House, she was chief sponsor of the successful junior college bills in the 1965 General Assembly.

The Cornegie-backed project is designed to utilize the advice of both professional and lay groups to devise procedures and instruments to assess the progress of education. Such information is needed to provide a sound basis for public understanding of educational needs and the progress being made by the nation's schools, according to the committee.

STATISTICAL procedures for sampling can be used for a small-scale assessment based on only a portion of the population. Such procedures would not furnish scores for individuals, teachers, or schools, but can efficiently serve to identify educational strengths and problems needing national attention and support, Mrs. Chapman said.

Debaters Triumph At DeKalb Tourney

By SARA CUMMINS

Arlington High School's debaters and speakers have been enjoying outstanding success recently.

Among honors captured are a first place for the debate team at the Northern Illinois University tournament Nov. 20 and a fifth place for the individual speech team at the Thornridge High School tournament, also Nov. 20.

The point of debate in the NIU tournament was "Resolved: that the federal government should establish a production of compulsory arbitration for labor-management disputes in basic industry."

ARLINGTON'S debate team, consisting of senior Stan Martens and junior Doug Uselding, on the negative side, and junior Lydia Wilson and sophomore Karen Richards on the affirmative side, won first place against 32 other teams.

At the Thornridge tournament Arlington entered 26 students in the 10-events held. They placed fifth in a field of 30.

Senior Lise Peck received a first-place trophy in verse reading, while Mary Brongel, also a senior, earned a certificate of merit in verse reading.

Junior Pat Rogers won a certificate of excellence in prose reading, while junior Cindy Johnson won a certificate of excellence in play reading.

ALSO ON the varsity individual speech team are Tom Hemnes, Lorna McDougall, Stan Martens, Gail Martin and Patty Smith.

At the individual speech events held at Maine South High School Nov. 11, sophomore Nancy Harris won a certificate of excellence in serious play reading and junior Steve Clark received one in radio speaking, Arlington's beginners participated in this tournament.

There are ten areas which a student participating in individual speech events may enter. They are extemporaneous speaking, radio speaking, verse and prose reading, comedy and serious play reading, after-dinner speaking, original monologue, oratorical declamation, and original oration.

The teams are coached by Thomas Herrman and Mrs. Gail Peistrup. (Y

Conant Awaiting Exchange Student

by PAT VAN AUKEN

Conant's first International Fellowship foreign exchange student, Graciela Norma Niets of Argentina, will arrive in the United States within the next few days. Graciela will be the guest of Michele Dean and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean in Hoffman Estates.

The Deans are looking forward to the stay of Conant's South American neighbor. Michele and her parents visited the Spanish Southern Baptist church in Des Plaines on December 5. There, they met and talked with other foreign exchange students.

When Graciela arrives, she will probably go to church with Michele's neighbors or Beany Clifford because Michele is not Catholic, but Michele plans to try to go to church with Graciela most of the time.

ONE OF THE handicaps that Michele is concerned about is language. Michele has no background in Spanish at all; luckily, however, Graciela knows how to read English very well. So, if they can't get the ideas across by speaking, they can always write notes.

Graciela has written a couple of letters to Michele (in Spanish) asking her what kind of clothes to bring to the states because of the terrific climatic changes.

This foreign exchange trip won't be completely new for Graciela because her older brother, Horacio, had been a foreign exchange student when he was her age. He is 18 now and attends a university.

Graciela's father is a lawyer. They own an apartment building in the center of Rosario and live in one of the apartments there.

Conant plans to give Graciela a school ring as a token of friendship at an all-school assembly. It will be the job of the students at Conant to show Graciela what Americans are really like. (Y

Q. Do you think that a person is always obligated to give a specific reason when he is compelled to decline an invitation?

A. Although not exactly a "must," still a good, logical reason does have a way of softening a refusal of this kind.

Q. Is it the duty of the bride-elect to buy the dresses and accessories for her bridesmaids?

A. No. She selects the designs and materials, but her attendants must pay for their own outfits.

Q. I've been advised that the fold-over, double-sheet type of personal stationery is out of place for a man. How about this?

A. This is really up to the man himself. Some men regard the single-sheet type of stationery as more masculine than the double-sheet type. But either is perfectly all right.

Leading retailers joined Friday in paying tribute to a suburban congressman and in agreeing that repeal of the federal excise taxes is making this Christmas shopping season the greatest by far.

Led by Joseph T. Meek, president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association, the suburban businessmen honored Congressman Donald Rumsfeld, R-13th, at a luncheon meeting in the Orrington Hotel, Evanston.

MEEK SAID the retailers "warmly thanked" Rumsfeld in behalf of the consumers of the 13th Congressional District for the nearly $30 million of Christmas Gift-buying power his vote to repeal the 10 per cent federal retail excises has given to buyers throughout the state.

"The Christmas shopping season is setting all-time records," said Meek, "and this is due in part to the price break customers are getting as the result of the repeal of federal excise taxes on such items as cosmetics, jewelry, furs, luggage and ladies handbags."

He said another benefit of the repeal is lifting from retailers much paper work that consumed time of both clerks and consumers as well as accountants.

Meek presented Rumsfeld with a citation for "his recognition of the necessity for the repeal of the retail excise taxes and its importance to the national economy and consuming public." The scroll also cited "the persistence and leadership Congressman Rumsfeld demonstrated in accomplishing that result."

Meek was one of the national leaders in the long campaign for repeal of what he called "the most unbearable, inequitable and costly taxes in American history."

RECALLING his association's 20-year fight for repeal of the World War II levies, he said this final success "was proof that intelligent and fair pressures applied on congressional minds by frustrated and harassed women consumers can bring about almost any relief desired."

In expressing appreciation for the citation, Congressman Rumsfeld praised the association, adding that repeal was evidence of the success to be won when the goal is a "good and proper one."

He urged retailers to continue their active interest in legislation. "Collective action, dialogue, and debate are desperately needed in national affairs today," declared Rumsfeld. "There are lots of other problems that need the attention of an association such as yours. Just because one given goal has been achieved, don't close up shop. Demonstrate your social conscienceness, both collectively and as individuals."

Mrs. Chapman Will Attend National Education Meeting

Mrs. Eugenia Chapman of 903 N. Kaspar St., Arlington Heights, will go to New York next Tuesday and Wednesday for a national conference to assess educational progress and objectives.

The objectives involved in the discussion have been worked out by four of the leading test development agencies under contract with an independent committee appointed and supported by the Carnegie Corp. of New York, and refined by lay people in four regional conferences.

MRS. CHAPMAN will attend the national meeting as one of three chairmen of the Midwest conference, held last week in Chicago. The conference included lay people from large cities, suburban areas and other types of communities.

The Carnegie group, the Exploratory Committee on Assessing the Progress of Education, has worked for the past six months with teachers and scholars from several subject fields to identify educational objectives on a nationwide scale. Over the past year the committee has held conferences with administrators, curriculum specialists, scholars, measurement specialists, school board members and other laymen interested in education.

Mrs. Chapman long has been involved with local schools, and as a Democratic member of the Illinois House, she was chief sponsor of the successful junior college bills in the 1965 General Assembly.

The Cornegie-backed project is designed to utilize the advice of both professional and lay groups to devise procedures and instruments to assess the progress of education. Such information is needed to provide a sound basis for public understanding of educational needs and the progress being made by the nation's schools, according to the committee.

STATISTICAL procedures for sampling can be used for a small-scale assessment based on only a portion of the population. Such procedures would not furnish scores for individuals, teachers, or schools, but can efficiently serve to identify educational strengths and problems needing national attention and support, Mrs. Chapman said.

Debaters Triumph At DeKalb Tourney

By SARA CUMMINS

Arlington High School's debaters and speakers have been enjoying outstanding success recently.

Among honors captured are a first place for the debate team at the Northern Illinois University tournament Nov. 20 and a fifth place for the individual speech team at the Thornridge High School tournament, also Nov. 20.

The point of debate in the NIU tournament was "Resolved: that the federal government should establish a production of compulsory arbitration for labor-management disputes in basic industry."

ARLINGTON'S debate team, consisting of senior Stan Martens and junior Doug Uselding, on the negative side, and junior Lydia Wilson and sophomore Karen Richards on the affirmative side, won first place against 32 other teams.

At the Thornridge tournament Arlington entered 26 students in the 10-events held. They placed fifth in a field of 30.

Senior Lise Peck received a first-place trophy in verse reading, while Mary Brongel, also a senior, earned a certificate of merit in verse reading.

Junior Pat Rogers won a certificate of excellence in prose reading, while junior Cindy Johnson won a certificate of excellence in play reading.

ALSO ON the varsity individual speech team are Tom Hemnes, Lorna McDougall, Stan Martens, Gail Martin and Patty Smith.

At the individual speech events held at Maine South High School Nov. 11, sophomore Nancy Harris won a certificate of excellence in serious play reading and junior Steve Clark received one in radio speaking, Arlington's beginners participated in this tournament.

There are ten areas which a student participating in individual speech events may enter. They are extemporaneous speaking, radio speaking, verse and prose reading, comedy and serious play reading, after-dinner speaking, original monologue, oratorical declamation, and original oration.

The teams are coached by Thomas Herrman and Mrs. Gail Peistrup. (Y

'New Era' Coming, Kerner Says

Unveil State Outdoor Recreation Plan

▲ MASSIVE program for acquiring land for recreation use is being planned by the state. Main emphasis is to be on obtaining land in and near urban areas, such as above, Cook County's Crabtree Lake Forest Preserve near Barrington. Illinois has the "negative distinction" of having the least amount of recreation land in proportion to its population of any state in the union. (A15

by Tom Edwards
Staff Writer

The state's "first comprehensive plan for outdoor recreation development" was unveiled to the public at a two-day review conference Dec. 2 and 3 at Illinois Beach State Park Lodge at Zion.

Top priority, both for the state as a whole and for municipal aid projects, was made crystal clear:

Illinois is "so desperately in need of (recreation) land, that that is the No. 1 priority," Conservation Department Director William T. Lodge resolutely stated.

"For the first two years all the money (state and federal) will go into land acquisition."

If needed recreation land is not "secured in the next 10 to 15 years, you aren't going to get it," Lodge told the audience, pointing out the increasing scarcity and value of open land.

Gov. Otto Kerner, in a message read to the conference, said the state must "proceed immediately with a land acquisition program . . . there is no time for further delay." He called for a "cooperative effort" and a "new era" in Illinois recreational development.

Main concentration will be on acquiring recreation areas in and near urban areas. "The existing local recreational open space is far below the minimum standard of 10 acres per 1,000 persons," the report stated. There is "approximately a 75 per cent deficient" in this ratio.

LOWEST IN NATION

And, "Illinois has a state park system which ranks lowest in the nation in terms of quantity and facility development," it was reported with lucid candor. There are only 5.6 acres of state park area per 1,000 persons.

In the next five years the state is planning to acquire 76,587 acres costing approximately $50,000,000, it is anticipated the federal government will purchase "at least 188,386 acres" and local governmental agencies are eligible for matching funds to acquire municipal parks.

STRESS URBAN AREAS

In keeping with its stated policy of acquiring land near urban areas, 24,268 of the 76,587 acres the state intends to get will be in northeastern Illinois.

Another 22,941 acres is to be purchased in the region immediately south of the Chicago region, the areas of Kankakee, Peoria and Champaign-Urbana.

Although the land being eyed for parks was not pinpointed, it was stated that in this area the Illinois State Park on Lake Michigan will be expanded, and the state will add substantially to its holdings in the Chain-of-Lakes in the Fox River Valley.

(It was noted in the written report that private development of the Chain-of-Lakes has resulted in extreme water and shore deterioration, and in minimal public access and enjoyment.)

One member of the audience, who said he represented "7,000 boat owners," questioned the priority on land acquisition. Lodge replied, "There are 16 million people who are attending our state parks."

But nevertheless "launching areas and small boat harbors are of a definite high priority," he said.

The first two of the eight "action policies" to implement the plan stress urban recreation development.

HIKING TRAILS

Taking a cue from Milwaukee and San Antonio, one of these two action policies is to "develop watercourses which are pleasant to look on . . . where they pass through the business and residential area of the city."

Trails along rivers, streams, canals and abandoned railroad easements are emphasized within urban areas as well as the country. And there is "no reason" why nature areas can't be established within cities, it is stated.

Heading the list of "potential projects" for northeastern Illinois is: "Develop a system of hiking, cycling and bridle trails to parallel the hundreds of miles of river valley and lake shoreline."

Parks "in the city where the family can picnic . . . and to break up the monotony of buildings and streets" are also stressed.

NEW TWIST

A new twist is a definite emphasis on making Illinois a popular "crossroads state," even to providing campgrounds within municipalities.

"Illinois is a primary mid-continent corridor state," and "cities could provide convenient locations for automobile campers passing through or who wish to visit local attractions."

Aimed at tourism and a better national image, "attractive places for visitors to rest and refresh themselves" is another of the action policies.

In this regard, it is pointed out that "over half the tourist expenditures in Wisconsin come from Illinois," and this state "is the number one exporter of tourists to Florida."

Despite a big population increase, "hunting and fishing license sales are down 12 per cent and 17 per cent respectively" in Illinois since 1955, reflecting the lessening of opportunities for these two activities.

OUTDOOR SURGE

In further validation of the need for greatly expanded outdoor recreation opportunities at home, the plan notes that there has been a 55 per cent increase of camper vehicles since 1960, and there is a "surging demand for all types of outdoor recreation, especially that which is water oriented."

"Although Illinois has many and varied inspiring and scenic areas, the development of recreation facilities has not kept pace with the state's population and economic growth," wrote Gene H. Graves, director of the department of business and economic development, under whose auspices the plan was prepared.

"Many residents seek their recreation in other states or have been forced to accept less satisfying facilities than they deserve."

ADVISORY COUNCIL

An "Illinois Recreation Council composed of members of public agencies and concerned private interests" is to be established, according to the plan.

Considerable interest was expressed in the composition of the council at the conference, and Lodge affirmed that it would be broad.

With the aid of the council, a more detailed comprehensive plan for outdoor recreation is to be completed by 1970.

It is to include site development proposals for the vast amount of land to be acquired beginning now.

FINANCING

A large proportion of the funds for the implementation of the state's outdoor recreation plan (up to 50 per cent of the cost of land acquisition) is to come from the federal government.

Seventy per cent of the available federal monies are to be used for state parks, and 30 per cent is slated for approved recreation projects of local governments.

About $3,458,000 in federal aid will be available for local projects through 1966, Lodge said.

But Roman H. Koenings of the U. S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation warned that funds available to municipalities "won't be spent just to spend them." He indicated local projects will have to be justified according to need.

The departments of conservation and economic development will be the intermediaries between local governments and federal agencies.

Establishment of wildlife sanctuaries, "wild rivers," and genetic preserves, and preserving old tow canals were some of the particular conservation interests expressed from the audience at the conference.

CONFLICTING PROJECT

One salient reservation to the state's over-all program was expressed by a representative of the Wabash River Valley Association.

He noted that the flood plains along some rivers, now wooded and available for general recreation by virtue of their flood susceptibility, are to be opened to agriculture by construction of dams.

He suggested buying these flood plains for the public while they are still cheap.

Lodge hesitantly replied that the reason for building these dams would be to open more land for agriculture.

OTHER POINTS

Other highlights of the plan and conference were:

—Methods of acquiring or "reserving" land for public use were listed, including suggestions for municipalities in regard to zoning and subdivision regulations. Lodge pointed out that governmental agencies now have the power to acquire scenic and recreational "easements" rather than buying the land outright.

—Developing "educational, interpretive and information programs" is one of the action policies. "Most people do not know the common weeds, flowers, birds, trees, or basic landforms of the state . . . and do not understand their relationship and value."

—Means of financing recreation development was delineated for all levels of government.

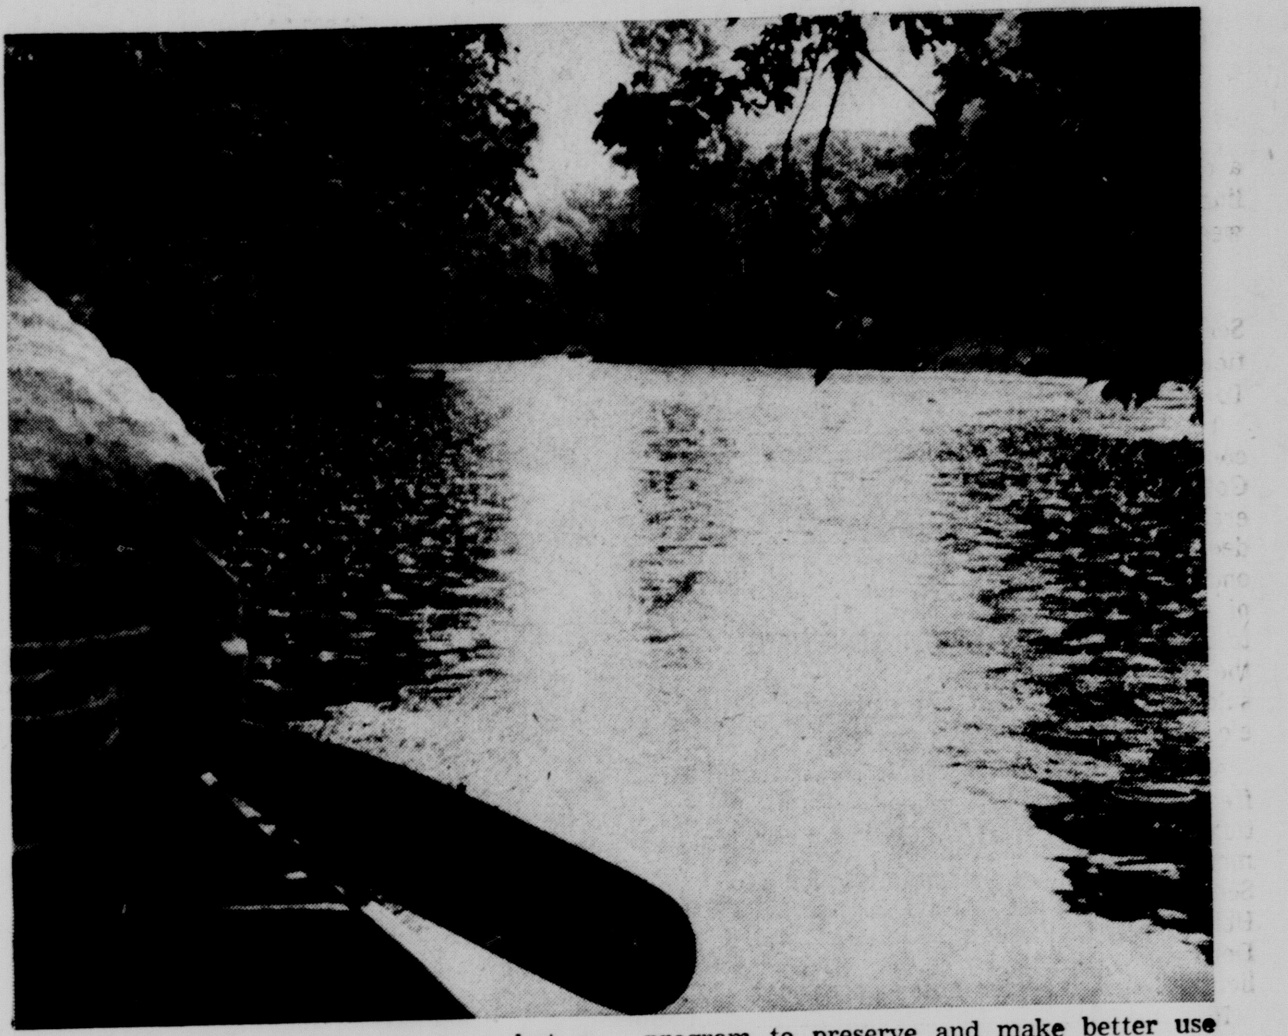
—The Forest Park Foundation of Peoria was praised by Lodge. It recently raised $500,000 through public donations for the acquisition of land for recreation.

—Lodge pointed out that his office can't even publish a special map for canoeists because of the lack of state control over rivers. Except for the water in them, rivers belong to abutting property owners, he said.

—Work on the outdoor recreation plan was begun in October, 1964, and cost about $33,000.

—Keynote of the plan was a quote from the book "Quiet Crisis" by U. S. Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall:

"America today stands poised on a pinnacle of wealth and power, yet we live in a land of vanishing beauty, of increasing ugliness, of shrinking open space and of an over-all environment that is diminished daily by pollution, noise and blight." (A15



NOT THE CANADIAN wilderness, but a scene from the Des Plaines River in the Cook County Forest Preserve. An intensive program to preserve and make better use of Illinois' natural recreation potential throughout the state was unveiled Dec. 2.

Fenton to Present Medieval Concert

"Hodie Christus Natus Est," the Christmas story as it would have been told in medieval times, will be presented by the speech department and the Fenton choirs at their annual Christmas Choral concert Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

An original production, the pageant will incorporate traditional Christmas music and Bible text to tell the birth of Christ against a backdrop of 11th century pages and noblemen. James Skomer, choir director, and Robert Dahlstrom, speech department director, are co-authors of the pageant.

Praetorius's "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by the Boys' Glee club will be one of the basic themes of the Christmas program. Other choir selections will be "There Shall a Star Come out of Jacob" by Mendelssohn, the A Cappella choir; "There is No Rose" by Britten from "Ceremony of Carols," the Treble choir; "Come to the Manger" a lullaby, the Girls' Glee club.

LINDA PLACEK, sophomore, will sing Bach-Gounod's "Ave Maria," and a male trio composed of George Stock, Jerry Phipps and Jim Conard will present "How Far My Crystal Star" from Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

A brass quartet will accompany the choirs in "Wake, Awake" a chorale by Bach. Other musical selections will include "Coventry Carol," "The "Shepherd's Chorus" from "Amahl and the Night Visitors," and "Three Kings" by Cornelius.

Skomer explained that the concert will be held in the evening this year because lighting in the gym demands an evening performance.

Tickets, which may be purchased at the door, are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. (Y

Jr. College Story Told at Assembly

by VICKY DeLUDE

An assembly held at Fenton High School last week revealed the need for the passage of the junior college referendum on Saturday, December 4.

"Acting on the belief that individual initiative is needed for social progress, we wish to inform you of this issue so you can relate it to your parents," said Dr. Martin Zuckerman, superintendent of school district 100 and former principal of Fenton.

After these introductory remarks he introduced Clarence Howell, owner of Plentywood Farm in Bensenville, and the Rev. William Thompson, assistant pastor of Holy Ghost parish in Wood Dale, as two representatives to the county's committee on this referendum.

FATHER THOMPSON spoke next and explained how a junior college would benefit the county. First, he pointed out that, since DuPage is one of the wealthiest counties in the country, it can easily pay for the school; also, tuition would be very low.

"Students could live at home and still acquire the same accredited courses they could at University of Illinois or Northwestern" he said.

He continued, "Many students who don't know what they want to do, who aren't sure whether they want to attend college, or who might not easily be accepted by a four year institution, will have a chance to give it a try."

Adult evening courses will also be provided so that those people who have to work during the day may continue their education at night.

ZUCKERMAN then introduced the chairman of the citizen's committee, Austin Fleming of Hinsdale. Fleming eased the tension and gained student attention by opening his talk with some humor.

His following remarks explained the importance and need for a junior college.

"Today a high school diploma is not enough to equip young people for the future; the world demands specialized training and skills," Fleming said.

"A student with only a high school diploma is just as handicapped as the school drop-out," he added.

Fleming further explained that more and more young people want a college education, but the universities are not prepared to handle everyone; they are limiting their acceptance more each year. "A junior college will make it possible for every high school graduate to have the opportunity to enter college," he said.

THEN FLEMING pointed out that the costs of a junior college will be light due to state aid. State funds will pay for 75 per cent of the building and land, 50 per cent of the cost of teachers and supplies, and 25 per cent of what would be tuition cost.

This means that citizens in DuPage county would pay six cents per $100 assessed evaluation, or a sum of about $6-7 a year for the average family.

With the cost being so minute, Fleming said that citizens should regard this as an opportunity to invest in the future. He further urged students to talk this issue over with their parents and urge them to vote "yes."

Zuckerman closed the assembly by thanking Father Thompson, Howell, and Fleming for their hard work on this committee. (Y

'New Era' Coming, Kerner Says

Unveil State Outdoor Recreation Plan

A MASSIVE program for acquiring land for recreation use is being planned by the state. Main emphasis is to be on obtaining land in and near urban areas, such as above, Cook County's Crabtree Lake Forest Preserve near Barrington. Illinois has the "negative distinction" of having the least amount of recreation land in proportion to its population of any state in the union. (A15

by Tom Edwards
Staff Writer

The state's "first comprehensive plan for outdoor recreation development" was unveiled to the public at a two-day review conference Dec. 2 and 3 at Illinois Beach State Park Lodge at Zion.

Top priority, both for the state as a whole and for municipal aid projects, was made crystal clear:

Illinois is "so desperately in need of (recreation) land, that that is the No. 1 priority," Conservation Department Director William T. Lodge resolutely stated.

"For the first two years all the money (state and federal) will go into land acquisition."

If needed recreation land is not "secured in the next 10 to 15 years, you aren't going to get it," Lodge told the audience, pointing out the increasing scarcity and value of open land.

Gov. Otto Kerner, in a message read to the conference, said the state must "proceed immediately with a land acquisition program . . . there is no time for further delay." He called for a "cooperative effort" and a "new era" in Illinois recreational development.

Main concentration will be on acquiring recreation areas in and near urban areas. "The existing local recreational open space is far below the minimum standard of 10 acres per 1,000 persons," the report stated. There is "approximately a 75 per cent deficient" in this ratio.

LOWEST IN NATION

And, "Illinois has a state park system which ranks lowest in the nation in terms of quantity and facility development," it was reported with lucid candor. There are only 5.6 acres of state park area per 1,000 persons.

In the next five years the state is planning to acquire 76,587 acres costing approximately $50,000,000, it is anticipated the federal government will purchase "at least 188,386 acres" and local governmental agencies are eligible for matching funds to acquire municipal parks.

STRESS URBAN AREAS

In keeping with its stated policy of acquiring land near urban areas, 24,268 of the 76,587 acres the state intends to get will be in northeastern Illinois.

Another 22,941 acres is to be purchased in the region immediately south of the Chicago region, the areas of Kankakee, Peoria and Champaign-Urbana.

Although the land being eyed for parks was not pinpointed, it was stated that in this area the Illinois State Park on Lake Michigan will be expanded, and the state will add substantially to its holdings in the Chain-of-Lakes in the Fox River Valley.

(It was noted in the written report that private development of the Chain-of-Lakes has resulted in extreme water and shore deterioration, and in minimal public access and enjoyment.)

One member of the audience, who said he represented "7,000 boat owners," questioned the priority on land acquisition. Lodge replied, "There are 16 million people who are attending our state parks."

But nevertheless "launching areas and small boat harbors are of a definite high priority," he said.

The first two of the eight "action policies" to implement the plan stress urban recreation development.

HIKING TRAILS

Taking a cue from Milwaukee and San Antonio, one of these two action policies is to "develop watercourses which are pleasant to look on . . . where they pass through the business and residential area of the city."

Trails along rivers, streams, canals and abandoned railroad easements are emphasized within urban areas as well as the country. And there is "no reason" why nature areas can't be established within cities, it is stated.

Heading the list of "potential projects" for northeastern Illinois is: "Develop a system of hiking, cycling and bridle trails to parallel the hundreds of miles of river valley and lake shoreline."

Parks "in the city where the family can picnic . . . and to break up the monotony of buildings and streets" are also stressed.

NEW TWIST

A new twist is a definite emphasis on making Illinois a popular "crossroads state," even to providing campgrounds within municipalities.

"Illinois is a primary mid-continent corridor state," and "cities could provide convenient locations for automobile campers passing through or who wish to visit local attractions."

Aimed at tourism and a better national image, "attractive places for visitors to rest and refresh themselves" is another of the action policies.

In this regard, it is pointed out that "over half the tourist expenditures in Wisconsin come from Illinois," and this state "is the number one exporter of tourists to Florida."

Despite a big population increase, "hunting and fishing license sales are down 12 per cent and 17 per cent respectively" in Illinois since 1955, reflecting the lessening of opportunities for these two activities.

OUTDOOR SURGE

In further validation of the need for greatly expanded outdoor recreation opportunities at home, the plan notes that there has been a 55 per cent increase of camper vehicles since 1960, and there is a "surging demand for all types of outdoor recreation, especially that which is water oriented."

"Although Illinois has many and varied inspiring and scenic areas, the development of recreation facilities has not kept pace with the state's population and economic growth," wrote Gene H. Graves, director of the department of business and economic development, under whose auspices the plan was prepared.

"Many residents seek their recreation in other states or have been forced to accept less satisfying facilities than they deserve."

ADVISORY COUNCIL

An "Illinois Recreation Council composed of members of public agencies and concerned private interests" is to be established, according to the plan.

Considerable interest was expressed in the composition of the council at the conference, and Lodge affirmed that it would be broad.

With the aid of the council, a more detailed comprehensive plan for outdoor recreation is to be completed by 1970.

It is to include site development proposals for the vast amount of land to be acquired beginning now.

FINANCING

A large proportion of the funds for the implementation of the state's outdoor recreation plan (up to 50 per cent of the cost of land acquisition) is to come from the federal government.

Seventy per cent of the available federal monies are to be used for state parks, and 30 per cent is slated for approved recreation projects of local governments.

About $3,458,000 in federal aid will be available for local projects through 1966, Lodge said.

But Roman H. Koenings of the U. S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation warned that funds available to municipalities "won't be spent just to spend them." He indicated local projects will have to be justified according to need.

The departments of conservation and economic development will be the intermediaries between local governments and federal agencies.

Establishment of wildlife sanctuaries, "wild rivers," and genetic preserves, and preserving old tow canals were some of the particular conservation interests expressed from the audience at the conference.

CONFLICTING PROJECT

One salient reservation to the state's over-all program was expressed by a representative of the Wabash River Valley Association.

He noted that the flood plains along some rivers, now wooded and available for general recreation by virtue of their flood susceptibility, are to be opened to agriculture by construction of dams.

He suggested buying these flood plains for the public while they are still cheap.

Lodge hesitantly replied that the reason for building these dams would be to open more land for agriculture.

OTHER POINTS

Other highlights of the plan and conference were:

—Methods of acquiring or "reserving" land for public use were listed, including suggestions for municipalities in regard to zoning and subdivision regulations. Lodge pointed out that governmental agencies now have the power to acquire scenic and recreational "easements" rather than buying the land outright.

—Developing "educational, interpretive and information programs" is one of the action policies. "Most people do not know the common weeds, flowers, birds, trees, or basic landforms of the state . . . and do not understand their relationship and value."

—Means of financing recreation development was delineated for all levels of government.

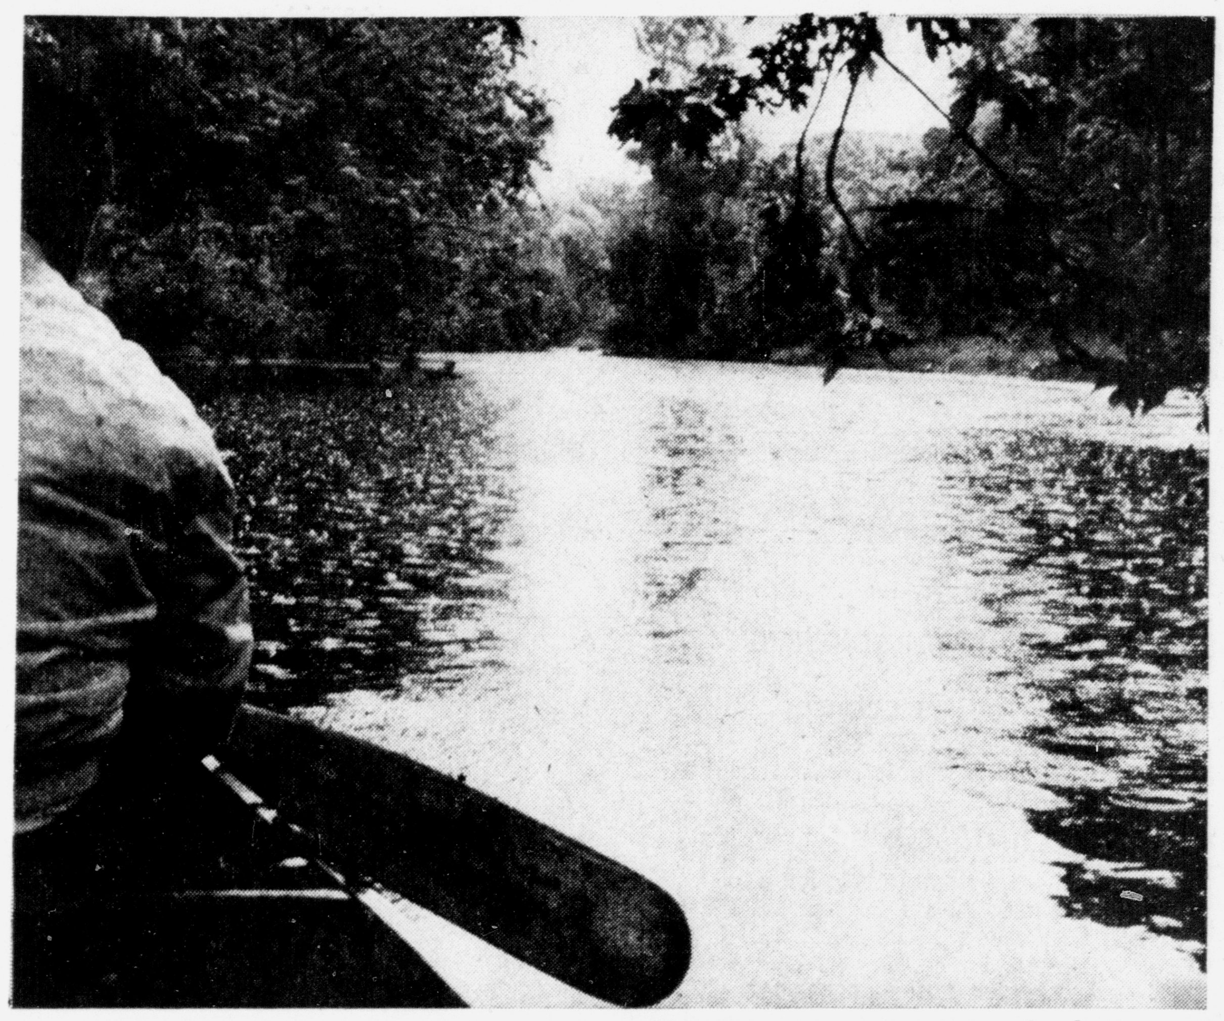
—The Forest Park Foundation of Peoria was praised by Lodge. It recently raised $500,000 through public donations for the acquisition of land for recreation.

—Lodge pointed out that his office can't even publish a special map for canoeists because of the lack of state control over rivers. Except for the water in them, rivers belong to abutting property owners, he said.

—Work on the outdoor recreation plan was begun in October, 1964, and cost about $33,000.

—Keynote of the plan was a quote from the book "Quiet Crisis" by U. S. Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall:

"America today stands poised on a pinnacle of wealth and power, yet we live in a land of vanishing beauty, of increasing ugliness, of shrinking open space and of an over-all environment that is diminished daily by pollution, noise and blight." (A15



NOT THE CANADIAN wilderness, but a scene from the Des Plaines River in the Cook County Forest Preserve. An intensive program to preserve and make better use of Illinois' natural recreation potential throughout the state was unveiled Dec. 2.

Fenton to Present Medieval Concert

"Hodie Christus Natus Est," the Christmas story as it would have been told in medieval times, will be presented by the speech department and the Fenton choirs at their annual Christmas Choral concert Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

An original production, the pageant will incorporate traditional Christmas music and Bible text to tell the birth of Christ against a backdrop of 11th century pages and noblemen. James Skomer, choir director, and Robert Dahlstrom, speech department director, are co-authors of the pageant.

Praetorius's "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" by the Boys' Glee club will be one of the basic themes of the Christmas program. Other choir selections will be "There Shall a Star Come out of Jacob" by Mendelssohn, the A Cappella choir; "There is No Rose" by Britten from "Ceremony of Carols," the Treble choir; "Come to the Manger" a lullaby, the Girls' Glee club.

LINDA PLACEK, sophomore, will sing Bach-Gounod's [illegible] Maria," and a male trio composed of George Stock, Jerry Phipps and Jim Conard will present "How Far My Crystal Star" from Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

A brass quartet will accompany the choirs in "Wake, Awake" a chorale by Bach. Other musical selections will include "Coventry Carol," "The "Shepherd's Chorus" from "Amahl and the Night Visitors," and "Three Kings" by Cornelius.

Skomer explained that the concert will be held in the evening this year because lighting in the gym demands an evening performance.

Tickets, which may be purchased at the door, are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. (Y

Jr. College Story Told at Assembly

by VICKY DeLUDE

An assembly held at Fenton High School last week revealed the need for the passage of the junior college referendum on Saturday, December 4.

"Acting on the belief that individual initiative is needed for social progress, we wish to inform you of this issue so you can relate it to your parents," said Dr. Martin Zuckerman, superintendent of school district 100 and former principal of Fenton.

After these introductory remarks he introduced Clarence Howell, owner of Plentywood Farm in Bensenville, and the Rev. William Thompson, assistant pastor of Holy Ghost parish in Wood Dale, as two representatives to the county's committee on this referendum.

FATHER THOMPSON spoke next and explained how a junior college would benefit the county. First, he pointed out that, since DuPage is one of the wealthiest counties in the country, it can easily pay for the school; also, tuition would be very low.

"Students could live at home and still acquire the same accredited courses they could at University of Illinois or Northwestern" he said.

He continued, "Many students who don't know what they want to do, who aren't sure whether they want to attend college, or who might not easily be accepted by a four year institution, will have a chance to give it a try."

Adult evening courses will also be provided so that those people who have to work during the day may continue their education at night.

ZUCKERMAN then introduced the chairman of the citizen's committee, Austin Fleming of Hinsdale. Fleming eased the tension and gained student attention by opening his talk with some humor.

His following remarks explained the importance and need for a junior college.

"Today a high school diploma is not enough to equip young people for the future; the world demands specialized training and skills," Fleming said.

"A student with only a high school diploma is just as handicapped as the school drop-out," he added.

Fleming further explained that more and more young people want a college education, but the universities are not prepared to handle everyone; they are limiting their acceptance more each year. "A junior college will make it possible for every high school graduate to have the opportunity to enter college," he said.

THEN FLEMING pointed out that the costs of a junior college will be light due to state aid. State funds will pay for 75 per cent of the building and land, 50 per cent of the cost of teachers and supplies, and 25 per cent of what would be tuition cost.

This means that citizens in DuPage county would pay six cents per $100 assessed evaluation, or a sum of about $6-7 a year for the average family.

With the cost being so minute, Fleming said that citizens should regard this as an opportunity to invest in the future. He further urged students to talk this issue over with their parents and urge them to vote "yes."

Zuckerman closed the assembly by thanking Father Thompson, Howell, and Fleming for their hard work on this committee. (Y

Two Principals Judge Schools

LAWRENCE S. JENNESS

BRUNO WAARA

Two High School District 214 principals have been selected in a group of 100 Illinois school administrators for the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools visitation committees.

Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, and Lawrence S. Jenness, principal of Forest View High School, spent two days this week in Champaign in a training session for the 100 visitation committee chairmen.

A SCHOOL visitation, under new North Central procedures for evaluation of high schools, will take from 1½ to 2 days. This will vary with the size of the high school district. Maine Township high schools were the first schools visited under the new plan and the total visitation took more than three days.

Each visitation chairman will be asked to conduct one evaluation check every one or two years.

District 214 Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer stated the district is "highly honored in having two principals selected for this responsibility." He estimated the two administrators would be absent from their posts for a maximum of one week, including the trainng session.

THE VISITATION committee chairman will supervise a meeting of administrators of the district to be visited to select the visitation committee membership from groupings of subject-matter teachers in high schools and colleges, principals, superintendents, personnel from the state Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the local county superintendent.

The visitation committee membership will range from eight to 16 or 18, depending upon the size of the school district.

In the past the North Central Association evaluation procedure has called for small visitation teams. The change was made to bring a wider range of background and knowledge into judging school operations and performance. (ACM-E

Modern Etiquette

Q. I've received an invitation to a bridal shower in honor of a good friend, but I have a previous engagement that will prevent my attending. Should I send a gift to the shower?

A. If you'd like to remain a good friend of the bride-elect, yes.

Q. Is it up to the man or to the woman, who have just been introduced, to say, "I'm glad to have met you," when leaving each other?

A. The man should take the initiative, while the woman responds with a smile and "thank you."

Q. If a double-decker sandwich seems too big and unwieldy to handle with the fingers, isn't it all right to eat it with the knife and fork?

A. No; this type of sandwich must be picked up. Only on the "open-faced" type of sandwich do you use your knife and fork.

Q. May the bride wear her engagement ring to her wedding, and have her bridegroom place the wedding ring on above it?

A. No. On her wedding day, the bride either leaves her engagement ring at home or wears it on her right hand.

Q. When a meat dish is passed to you at the table, and the portion held toward you is too large, too well done, or has too much fat on it, is it all right to search through the portions for a suitable piece?

A. Yes — if you can do so without taking too much time or without disarranging the whole dish.

Q. Should a wrist corsage be worn on the right or left wrist?

A. There is no rule about this — but I should think it would be more convenient for a righthanded person to wear the corsage on her left wrist — and the opposite for a left-

Q. Just what should I do after I have completed the introduction of two other persons? I'm always at a loss in these circumstances.

A. Try to act as a "moderator" for the ensuing conversation. It's nice to introduce a subject you happen to know is of mutual interest to these two persons, and this usually stimulates the conversation.

Tried Soup Lately?

Combining two soups gives variety to meals, lets you try your ingenuity. Start with some of these.

Equal parts of chicken and pea soup give you a soup that tastes as though it had been inspired by a French chef. Garnish with shredded lettuce sprinkled with onion juice.

Condensed tomato soup likes to keep company with clam broth. Toss a few fried croutons on top.

Elegant is the word for mushroom soup combined with chicken soup thinned with water, if condensed is used. Top with whipped cream seasoned with a bit of grated horseradish.

Onion soup combined with a beef vegetable soup gives hearty satisfaction. Serve with hot French rolls, garlic butter.

Cream of shrimp soup makes superb eating combined with oyster stew. Serve with crackers and thick chunks of cheese, fruit to munch.

Helen's Favorite:

Apricot Fluff
(Serves 4)

1 cup heavy cream, whipped
½ cup miniature marshmallows
1¼ cups diced canned apricots
½ cup toasted coconut

Chill cream before whipping. Just before serving, fold in all other ingredients lightly. Pile in sherbet glasses and serve.

Two Principals Judge Schools

LAWRENCE S. JENNESS

BRUNO WAARA

Two High School District 214 principals have been selected in a group of 100 Illinois school administrators for the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools visitation committees.

Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, and Lawrence S. Jenness, principal of Forest View High School, spent two days this week in Champaign in a training session for the 100 visitation committee chairmen.

A SCHOOL visitation, under new North Central procedures for evaluation of high schools, will take from 1½ to 2 days. This will vary with the size of the high school district. Maine Township high schools were the first schools visited under the new plan and the total visitation took more than three days.

Each visitation chairman will be asked to conduct one evaluation check every one or two years.

District 214 Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer stated the district is "highly honored in having two principals selected for this responsibility." He estimated the two administrators would be absent from their posts for a maximum of one week, including the trainng session.

THE VISITATION committee chairman will supervise a meeting of administrators of the district to be visited to select the visitation committee membership from groupings of subject-matter teachers in high schools and colleges, principals, superintendents, personnel from the state Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the local county superintendent.

The visitation committee membership will range from eight to 16 or 18, depending upon the size of the school district.

In the past the North Central Association evaluation procedure has called for small visitation teams. The change was made to bring a wider range of background and knowledge into judging school operations and performance. (ACM-E

Modern Etiquette

Q. I've received an invitation to a bridal shower in honor of a good friend, but I have a previous engagement that will prevent my attending. Should I send a gift to the shower?

A. If you'd like to remain a good friend of the bride-elect, yes.

Q. Is it up to the man or to the woman, who have just been introduced, to say, "I'm glad to have met you," when leaving each other?

A. The man should take the initiative, while the woman responds with a smile and "thank you."

Q. If a double-decker sandwich seems too big and unwieldy to handle with the fingers, isn't it all right to eat it with the knife and fork?

A. No; this type of sandwich must be picked up. Only on the "open-faced" type of sandwich do you use your knife and fork.

Q. May the bride wear her engagement ring to her wedding, and have her bridegroom place the wedding ring on above it?

A. No. On her wedding day, the bride either leaves her engagement ring at home or wears it on her right hand.

Q. When a meat dish is passed to you at the table, and the portion held toward you is too large, too well done, or has too much fat on it, is it all right to search through the portions for a suitable piece?

A. Yes — if you can do so without taking too much time or without disarranging the whole dish.

Q. Should a wrist corsage be worn on the right or left wrist?

A. There is no rule about this — but I should think it would be more convenient for a righthanded person to wear the corsage on her left wrist — and the opposite for a left-

Q. Just what should I do after I have completed the introduction of two other persons? I'm always at a loss in these circumstances.

A. Try to act as a "moderator" for the ensuing conversation. It's nice to introduce a subject you happen to know is of mutual interest to these two persons, and this usually stimulates the conversation.

Tried Soup Lately?

Combining two soups gives variety to meals, lets you try your ingenuity. Start with some of these.

Equal parts of chicken and pea soup give you a soup that tastes as though it had been inspired by a French chef. Garnish with shredded lettuce sprinkled with onion juice.

Condensed tomato soup likes to keep company with clam broth. Toss a few fried croutons on top.

Elegant is the word for mushroom soup combined with chicken soup thinned with water, if condensed is used. Top with whipped cream seasoned with a bit of grated horseradish.

Onion soup combined with a beef vegetable soup gives hearty satisfaction. Serve with hot French rolls, garlic butter.

Cream of shrimp soup makes superb eating combined with oyster stew. Serve with crackers and thick chunks of cheese, fruit to munch.

Helen's Favorite:

Apricot Fluff
(Serves 4)

- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- ½ cup miniature marshmallows
- 1¼ cups diced canned apricots
- ½ cup toasted coconut

Chill cream before whipping. Just before serving, fold in all other ingredients lightly. Pile in sherbet glasses and serve.

Temporary Remedy Is Slated for Ditch Bed

Temporary Remedy—3-42 Ital

A ditch just north of Thurston Drive in Palatine's Winston Park will have its bed covered with gravel to insure run-off of water and rid the bed of depressions.

Village officials hope this remedial measure, which will cost $300 to $400, will suffice until the entire problem of creek drainage in Palatine can be remedied.

The ditch is an auxiliary storm drain dug a year ago to insure against flooding of Winston Park in the north.

The remedial solution only partially pleases the residents along Thurston Drive who fear for the safety of their children.

THE DITCH'S banks are vertical and at points six to 12 feet high.

Main concern of the residents has been the standing water which has turned parts of the ditch into a mucky snare. A few weeks ago a mother related how her child fell into the ditch, and it took all her strength to yank him from the mud.

Residents were hopeful the ditch could be filled in or its banks leveled to a slope.

The ditch cannot at this time be filled in, advised Walter Hodel, consulting engineer to the village. The ditch is still needed, he said, to act as an emergency relief drainage canal for heavy rain storms.

The banks cannot be sloped because utilities are very near to the edge of the ditch.

Residents reported Monday they have had two power failures in recent months because of the crumbling of parts of the banks.

Hopefully, the village will get money from the 1967 Illinois legislature to widen and improve the creek south of the village through the Arlington Park Race Track.

A bill this year was passed for this purpose but vetoed by Gov. Kerner because of lack of funds.

WIDENING AND improving the creek was the recommendation of the village engineers, Consoer, Townsend & Associates, who made a comprehensive study of drainage problems after Winston Park was flooded twice in 1964.

Two weeks ago residents had hoped that if the ditch was still needed, a drainage pipe could be laid and covered.

The village rejected this because of the $18,000 cost of the pipe which would be 1,800 feet long.

The ditch extends along the northern part of Winston Park and enters Salt Creek near Wilke Road. (P

Chief Offers Hints For Winter Driving

A plea to postpone unnecessary travel during winter storm conditions has been made by Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood.

Presence of unnecessary traffic during snow and ice conditions makes cleanup more difficult and creates unneeded hazards for motorists, Calderwood noted.

FOR DRIVING under winter conditions, he offered the following tips provided by the International Association of Chiefs of Police:

1) Check weather reports and adjust driving schedules to allow for reduced speed on slippery streets.

2) Allow considerably more distance between cars in traffic.

3) Equip your car with snow tires and carry reinforced tire chains for severe conditions.

4) Pump brakes when stopping to prevent wheel locking and skidding.

5) Before starting, use a brush and scraper to clear all windows as well as headlights, taillights and directional signals.

6) Correct immediately any defects in equipment that cause trouble or concern during the first snowy weather. (A

College Board Seeks Key Administrators

Three key administrative positions for Community College District 301 were opened by the college board last week.

Dr. Robert Lahti, college president, was authorized to find the "very best" candidates for the three jobs during early 1966. The new personnel probably will start their District 301 duties as they become available from Feb. 1 to July 1.

The three positions are the dean of academic affairs, dean of student services, and head librarian.

IN ALL CASES the college board raised the salary ranges proposed by Dr. Lahti to bring them in line with the top salaries paid by other junior colleges or underlying high schools.

Richard L. Johnson, member from Arlington Heights, said that for key personnel the new community college should "go first class." He was backed by the board in changing the suggested salary range for the academic dean from $12,500-$17,500 to $16,000-$19,000.

Under the qualifications suggested by Dr. Lahti, the academic dean would need a doctorate or equivalent, successful collegiate administrative experience, strong undergraduate and graduate subject matter knowledge, college teaching experience and preferably experience in supervising college curricula.

The age bracket given for all three positions is 35 to 45, although this could vary depending on qualifications.

THE DEAN of student services would need a minimum M.A. degree in guidance, but preference would be given to advanced degrees in college student personnel administration.

The candidate would need current knowledge of trends in college student personnel administration, testing and counseling. Dr. Lahti noted he would prefer experience as a student personnel officer at higher educational institutions.

Dr. Lahti noted that the dean of student services was a major job in community junior colleges since counseling and testing of students played a major role.

Again the board raised the salary level from $12,500-$17,500 to $14,000-$19,000.

THE SHORTAGE of people trained in organizing a modern college library system and the need to work before the college opened to be ready for the first students required the beginning of a search for a head librarian, Dr. Lahti told the board.

He noted that he expected to have a minimum collection of 20,000 books at the college opening, to be increased rapidly to probably 40,000. The head librarian would be required to set up a basic collection without the help of faculty far in advance.

Candidates would need a minimum of an M.A. degree in library science. A current knowledge of library systems, learning resource center trends and modern library practices is essential, Dr. Lahti noted. Experience as a librarian, preferably in a supervisory capacity, is required.

Board members boosted the head librarian starting salary range to $10,000-$12,500 from $9,000-$12,500.

ALL THREE candidates would need a strong commitment to the role of the comprehensive community college, Dr. Lahti stressed.

The college board had previously authorized a search for a college business manager. Dr. Lahti reported there had been "good activity" in response, with applications coming in from New York to California. He said applications for the position would be closed about the middle of December. (B 10

Considers Organizing Drum Club

W. D. Olive, teacher at the District No. 28 schools of Northbrook, is surveying those in this area interested in a Suburban Drum Club. If enough are interested he plans on touring one of largest drum factories in Chicago (Ludwig Drum Co.) by hiring a bus the week of Dec. 27.

If enough are interested and register, future events might include a visit to Old Town and to listen to several combos and a drummer clinic.

For information, contact Olive at 1740 MacLean Court, Glenview, or call PA 4-3937. (B-10

Post Office To Distribute Bundle Labels

On Friday or Saturday of this week postal patrons of Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, and Elk Grove Village will rceive bundle labels for their Christmas mail.

Postal patrons who separate their Christmas cards according to the labels, and tie the bundles securely both ways with the label on top will speed the delivery of their mail by at least one day.

ADDITIONAL LABELS may be obtained at any of the above named offices.

Any cards not covered by the labels should be tied also. By tying the cards in bundles, the facing operation is eliminated and actual distribution can be accomplished much sooner.

Mothers Pen Yule Letters to Santa

By BEVERLY AIRTH

Mothers, are you still running around trying to fulfill the children's wishes for a very Merry Christmas? This year we have had quite a switch at Randhurst. Last year the children's mailbox was filled with letters from little children, but this year mothers are writing in to see what can be done for them too!

A few letters that Santa has shown me read like this:

Santa Baby, The stockings were hung by the chimney with care, except mine, it has a run in it, could you please replace it for me? Size 10 medium. Mrs. Rush.

DEAR MR. CLAUS: Look, I don't mind you coming down our chimney, but would you please use the clothes brush I have provided to brush the soot off your suit and please use the trail of newspaper leading to our tree for your entrance and exit. Thanks, a weary mother.

Dear Santa: Upon our visit to see you at Randhurst, you promised Johnny a $30 space ship and a $25 roadrace set. How do you think he is going to feel when he receives only one of these? From a mother who has spent her Christmas Club check early.

Dear Mr. Santa Claus, this year would you mind using the front door as you ruined our artificial fireplace last year. Please bring me a new set of artificial fire logs for the fireplace as you put your big foot through mine last year. Mrs. Wood, 210 Pine St.

NOT ONLY is the mailbox filled with letters from Mothers, but we also find such goodies as pieces of sticky candy, candy canes, ornaments, decorations, children's art pieces, paste ups, etc. As some children are not quite old enough to know how to write, cutting toys and clothes out of magazines and catalogues and pasting them on plain paper comes easy. Other children find it easier to draw the toys they want for Christmas, others would just as soon give Santa something else, so into Santa's mailbox goes pennies, play money, school lessons, miscellaneous clippings and many, many charming letters.

Santa thought you would like to share in reading some of the delightful letters.

Dear Santa, I want a Morgan dog, clothes for my Penny Bright doll, new shoes I am 6. You are a very fine man, Love, Nancy

To Santa-Dear Sant, from Pam S. S. Black and brown and green and blue and white and red sweater, socks, skirts, books, strech 6 pants. Ho! Ho! Ho!

DEAR SANTA, Please bring me the things I want. The lie detector game and Concentration and Miss Popularity. I want an easel too. I want a cow girl soot. The doll Pepper and Patti and Pattaburp and Tressy and Pentwins and Tiny Thumbalina.

Dear SantaCLass, How do hou feel. I feel very well. I heard the story about your dears. I have two sisters one Laurie and Jill and my big sister is 9 and my little one is Jill. I want a doll. P.S. I like you and I do not know some more toys. Hear is a drawing for you and Mrs. Sante.

Dear Mr. Claus: I love you. Can you come to my house soon? The best day is December 25. Some of the time I am a good girl. These are the things I want. (We're sorry but space won't permit us to list the 25 requested items). (Rh

Unmet Social Needs Plague Area: Experts

By HAROLD STREET

What are the unmet social needs of persons in the northwest suburbs of Chicago?

According to experts in the field of social welfare services, the needs are great, facilities for meeting them inadequate, and the needs will not be met except through new agencies or through expanded programs of existing agencies.

The unmet or partially met needs exist, say the experts, in the areas of family counseling, help for alcoholics (particularly women), youth activities, mental health, child care for needy families, and the stresses that result from the attempt to meet certain standards of living in suburbia.

These needs, and possible ways of meeting them, will be discussed at Wheeling High School at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 14.

THE THEME IS, A child is in trouble; what will we do?

Through the use of the brainstorming technique, permitting thorough exchange of ideas, a panel of experts and the audience will consider the problems and their possible solutions.

Some of the problems have come about because of fantastic growth of the northwest suburbs in recent years, in the view of Paul I. Kliger, one of the panelists. Kliger is director of community organization for the Charles F. Read Zone Center in Chicago, one of the regional mental health centers of the Illinois Mental Health Department.

According to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, the Wheeling area grew 682 per cent from 1950 to 1960, Kliger points out. New communities, he adds, began with no appreciable social, recreational, educational or civic services.

"The isolation of housewives, the creation of new school systems, the rising cost of living, the efforts to maintain certain standards of living in suburbia, and the dearth of recreational and social pathways for the release of normal energy for both youngsters and adults have placed great burdens on these communities.

"The types of problems which have become apparent in terms of treatment needs include mental problems, a certain amount of hidden drinking among housewives, overt alcoholism, rising juvenile delinquency related to hostility, drop-out and employment training problems with teenagers, and similarly related situations."

In the opinion of a high school principal, Ethan Janove, "The most important problem in meeting social needs is ignorance of the people of the general public of the consequences of excluding large segments of people from the 'mainstream' of our culture."

JANOVE IS principal of Brentwood School in District 59 and serves as director of NORWESCO Welfare Council. NORWESCO takes the position that "There are many in our area who are forced to live in substandard housing, have inadequate medical care, lack training for jobs that would offer a future with dignity, and who lack the folkways and mores of our culture. Thus they and their children are barred from becoming part of that culture."

A Protestant pastor in Wheeling, Rev. Edward L. Harding of St. Mark United Church of Christ, sees a long list of unmet needs. One is a "complete lack of low-cost family counseling."

Situations which Harding, as a pastor, would have referred to a public or private agency, were there one available in his area, include problems of early marriage, strained family relationships due to the financial strain of keeping up a high-medium standard of living with a medium income, and parent-child problems.

FOR CHILDREN with a history of delinquency, Harding says, there is a "Nearly complete lack of supervisory personnel for guidance and instruction. A satisfactory youth detention home is needed."

Social workers of the Public Assistance Division of the Cook County Dept. of Public Aid have found that the greatest need in northwest suburban communities is in the area of medical care, Miss Perry Hamilton, public relations consultant for the division says.

The hospital serving these communities, she explains, do not operate general out-patient clinics. Public aid recipients must travel to Evanston for clinic care.

Miss Hamilton agrees with Rev. Harding that another unmet need is the lack of child day care facilities for pre-school children, in order that the mothers may become gainfully employed. What facilities are available are either too costly for public aid recipients or inaccessible to them.

A third area of unmet need, Miss Hamilton says, is housing. "Where good housing is available, it is over the cost standards for public aid recipients."

THE MAIN THING lacking, and the main means of meeting needs that exist in any community, is a basic family agency with available facilities, Miss Mary Young, development director of the Salvation Army in Chicago says.

In the view of Rev. Harding, an over-all coordinated plan must be developed making use of existing services, pinpointing local needs that must be serviced locally and those that can be serviced within a larger geographical area. (B10

3 Area Men Named Aides In Toy Drive

Sargent, Rohde and Kandlbinder are employes of Shell Oil Co. Sargent is assistant personnel manager for their central marketing region, Rohde is Shell Oil's Chicago territory aviation manager and Kandlbinder is merchandising representative for the Chicago division.

LWV Offers Federal Aid Data Pamphlet

Local residents whose interest has been whetted by argument surrounding the District 214 Neighborhood Youth Corps proposal can learn more about federal aid to education programs in a pamphlet published by the League of Women Voters.

Descriptions of current Federal programs dealing with education and employment are covered in two pamphlets available through the local LWV.

Mrs. Frank Moore of Arlington Heights, local league president, says the booklets provide a comprehensive and up-to-date guide to federal legislation, including that passed during the just-ended Congressional session.

THE BOOKLETS are intended primarily as guides for League of Women Voters members engaged in a two-year study and evaluation of federal programs dealing with equality of opportunity for education and employment.

"We think the pamphlets will be helpful to anyone interested in anti-poverty programs or federal aid to aducation," Mrs. Moore said. "You can't be effective in either supporting or opposing such programs if you don't understand how they work and what they're designed to do."

A summary of the most recent federal programs, passed during the 89th congressional session, is included in the league's most recent "Current Review of Human Resources" published in November. Covered are federal aid to distressed regions, Economic Opportunity Act amendmends and major provisions of the Higher Education Act and the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (P. L. 89-10).

An earlier issue of "Current Review of Human Resources" published in January, 1965, covers federal executive agencies dealing with equality of opportunity in education and employment. Its introduction says the 27-page pamphlet is designed to "depict roughly the broad sweep, variety and interlocking nature of federal programs in this field."

Both booklets sell for 50 cents a copy and may be ordered from the local LWV publications chairman, Mrs. John Muller of 642 W. Central, Arlington Heights. (B10

$6.5 Million High School Bond Vote Set for Feb. 5

A bond issue of $6.8 million to build a new sixth high school and purchase the ninth high school site was approved Thursday by the Citizens Lay Committee of High School District 214.

Final consideration of the issue will come before the school board Monday, Dec. 13.

The referendum for the bond issue is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 5.

Included in the total bond issue would be $6.5 million for construction of a new high school at the northwest corner of Willow Road (Thomas Street) and the extension of Waterman Avenue in the Prospect Heights area. The 40-acre site is adjacent to Arlington Heights, about one-fourth mile east of Rand Road.

The new school would have facilities to handle 2,750 students in contrast to the other District 214 schools with capacities of 2,500 pupils. The additional number of students are expected to come from the entire District 214 area since the new school will have some specialized upper-level vocational training facilities.

ARCHITECTS for the new facility are Berger, Kelley, Unteed and Associates of Champaign and Arlington Heights. This is the same architectural firm which designed Wheeling a Elk Grove Schools and the new District 214 administrative center.

For the first time District 214 voters will be asked to approve a bond issue for a new school before the previous school has been completed. The fifth District 214 school in Elk Grove will start operations in September next year.

The ninth high school site is about 40 acres and will cost $300,000. Sellers are Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Ozmun. This is immediately north of the Bonniebrook subdivision on Camp McDonald Road east of Wheeling Road. It lies about one-fourth mile east of Wheeling Road, with the eastern boundary the extension of Coldren Drive.

The tract is just east of St. Alphonsus Catholic School in Prospect Heights. The south boundary of the Catholic school extended a short distance to the east becomes the north boundary of the proposed school property.

THE LOCATION is in the Wheeling school district, but lies in an area considered as east Prospect Heights or north River Trails (Feehanville).

If the bond issue is approved, District 214 will have three vacant school sites. Which of the three is developed first will depend upon residential building activity. The other two sites are at Arlington Heights (State) Road and Dundee Road near Buffalo Grove, and south of Central Road across from Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic Girls High School in Rolling Meadows.

Preliminary estimates on the additional taxes for the new school and building site were $3.46 for a $20,000 home assessed at $8,400 and $4.75 for a $25,000 home assessed at $10,500. For an assessed valuation of $12,600 covering a $30,000 home the additional cost would be $5.64.

With the action of the Federal Reserve Board this week these estimates will probably be increased. (ACM-E

Streets Must Wait Approval

The Palatine village trustees rejected a request Monday that the village accept the Willow Wood subdivision streets but wait for acceptance of the other utilities.

Woman Protests Sticker Fee Raise

A Palatine woman in a letter to the village has objected to the raise in the vehicle sticker fee from $6 to $9.

Like other residents, she has noticed that many of her neighbors do not have vehicle tickers and in the past have not been caught.

The woman, Mrs. Joan Mayer, wrote the following letter:

"PLEASE REGARD this as a protest against the vehicle tax dilevied by the village.

"If the village officials are aware of the many violations and allow the rate to be raised before considering an effective way to enforce the requirement, the owners of licensed vehicles are being taken advantage of.

"I understand violators are fined but certainly more effort could be made to apprehend owners who do not display stickers.

"I OBJECT TO paying a tax when my neighbor enjoys the same services free of charge.

"We in Palatine get precious little for our high taxes as it is."

Ralph Hogenson, finance director, was asked what the general reaction was to the increased fee.

"Well, we've been getting more money and lot more guff from the people," he laughed.

One trustee Monday laughed at himself as he paid his fee because he forgot he had voted to increase the tax and barely had enough money in his pocket to pay for it. (P

Planners Favor Downtown Mall

The Palatine plan commission Tuesday went on record in favor of the general concept of the downtown Palatine mall plan suggested by Trustee Charles Klopp several weeks ago.

Brockway and Bothwell in downtown Palatine would be made malls and a depressed shopper-commuter parking lot would be created at the northeast corner of Palatine Road and Brockway.

The planners recommended that the village make a more thorough study of the mall plan in conjunction with parking needs for commuters and the traffic patterns of the village.

United Citizens Leadership Raps Critics of Mugalian

The Palatine United Citizens Party executive board formally criticized Tuesday Trustees Jack Moodie and Robert Hesse for their opposition to Richard Mugalian as village attorney.

Six of the seven members of the village board and Mugalian are members of the local party.

THE EXECUTIVE board issued the following statement:

"Some members of the Palatine Village Board have sought to remove the village attorney from his post because of his stated intention to enter the election campaign for committeeman of a national political party.

"So far as the Executive Board of United Citizens is concerned, the matter was resolved two months ago when the village board voted to retain the village attorney.

"We believe this action by the village board was based on a correct interpretation of our party's Statement of Principles.

"However, the continuing charges and counter charges have served to obscure the basic issue — so much so in fact, that even the Palatine Enterprise was led to comment editorially in a manner which revealed almost complete confusion as to what is really involved.

"The issue is simply this: Should one's national political party affiliations, if any — or the extent to which one participates in the affairs of that party — have any bearing on his ability to discharge the duties of any elective or appointive office, or other position of trust, within the Village administration?

"The United Citizens Statement of Principles, to which we all subscribe, is eminently clear in the manner in which it points out that national party politics have no useful or desirable role in village government, as well as in excluding one's national party preferences or affiliations as a factor in the selection of candidates for office.

"ADDITIONALLY, Article III, Section 2 of the party's Constitution states:

" 'This organization shall not in any way be affiliated with or support any candidates of any national political party. Members, however, may actively work as individuals in behalf of any national political party or candidate thereof.'

"We believe it is the logical and necessary extension of these principles to believe that it is the privilege, and the duty as they see it, of village officials to support and participate in the affairs of whatever national political parties to which they might be attracted.

"And such has been the practice.

"Throughout the five-year history of United Citizens, there has been — so far as we know — no reluctance on the part of any elected official to engage in, or have his name associated with, the affairs of either of our great national parties.

"Indeed, participation in the affairs of government had brought nothing but credit to the persons involved.

"We see no reason why the responsibilities and privileges of elected officials should not also be extended to all village officers and employees — particularly those who provide professional services on a contractual basis.

"Nevertheless, the question was raised.

"But it also was, we thought, resolved — by a vote of the trustees.

"What has happened since that vote can only be decried.

"WE REGRET that those who are members of United Citizens — and thus pledged to support the Statement of Principles — should either attempt to revive the issue or feel compelled to question the motives of those so doing.

"We are thankful that — thus far at least — the unfortunate dispute has not interrupted the orderly conduct of village government and that its damage has been only to personal feelings.

"We urge that if any animosity exists, it be cast aside in favor of continuing the kind of good, effective, non-partisan village government that is in the best interest of every resident and the basic objective of all United Citizens."

Signed, Executive Board, United Citizens. Roger Bjorvik, Stan Goodrich, Don Jacobs, Paul Jensen, Loren Miller, and Don Sanberg. (P

"However, the continuing charges and counter charges have served to obscure the basic issue — so much so in fact, that even the Palatine Enterprise was led to comment editorially in a manner which revealed almost complete confusion as to what is really involved.

"The issue is simply this: Should one's national political party affiliations, if any — or the extent to which one participates in the affairs of that party — have any bearing on his ability to discharge the duties of any elective or appointive office, or other position of trust, within the Village administration?

"The United Citizens Statement of Principles, to which we all subscribe, is eminently clear in the manner in which it points out that national party politics have no useful or desirable role in village government, as well as in excluding one's national party preferences or affiliations as a factor in the selection of candidates for office.

"ADDITIONALLY, Article III, Section 2 of the party's Constitution states:

" 'This organization shall not in any way be affiliated with or support any candidates of any national political party. Members, however, may actively work as individuals in behalf of any national political party or candidate thereof.'

"We believe it is the logical and necessary extension of these principles to believe that it is the privilege, and the duty as they see it, of village officials to support and participate in the affairs of whatever national political parties to which they might be attracted.

"And such has been the practice.

"Throughout the five-year history of United Citizens, there has been — so far as we know — no reluctance on the part of any elected official to engage in, or have his name associated with, the affairs of either of our great national parties.

"Indeed, participation in the affairs of government had brought nothing but credit to the persons involved.

"We see no reason why the responsibilities and privileges of elected officials should not also be extended to all village officers and employees — particularly those who provide professional services on a contractual basis.

"Nevertheless, the question was raised.

"But it also was, we thought, resolved — by a vote of the trustees.

"What has happened since that vote can only be decried.

"WE REGRET that those who are members of United Citizens — and thus pledged to support the Statement of Principles — should either attempt to revive the issue or feel compelled to question the motives of those so doing.

"We are thankful that — thus far at least — the unfortunate dispute has not interrupted the orderly conduct of village government and that its damage has been only to personal feelings.

"We urge that if any animosity exists, it be cast aside in favor of continuing the kind of good, effective, non-partisan village government that is in the best interest of every resident and the basic objective of all United Citizens."

Signed, Executive Board, United Citizens. Roger Bjorvik, Stan Goodrich, Don Jacobs, Paul Jensen, Loren Miller, and Don Sanberg. (P

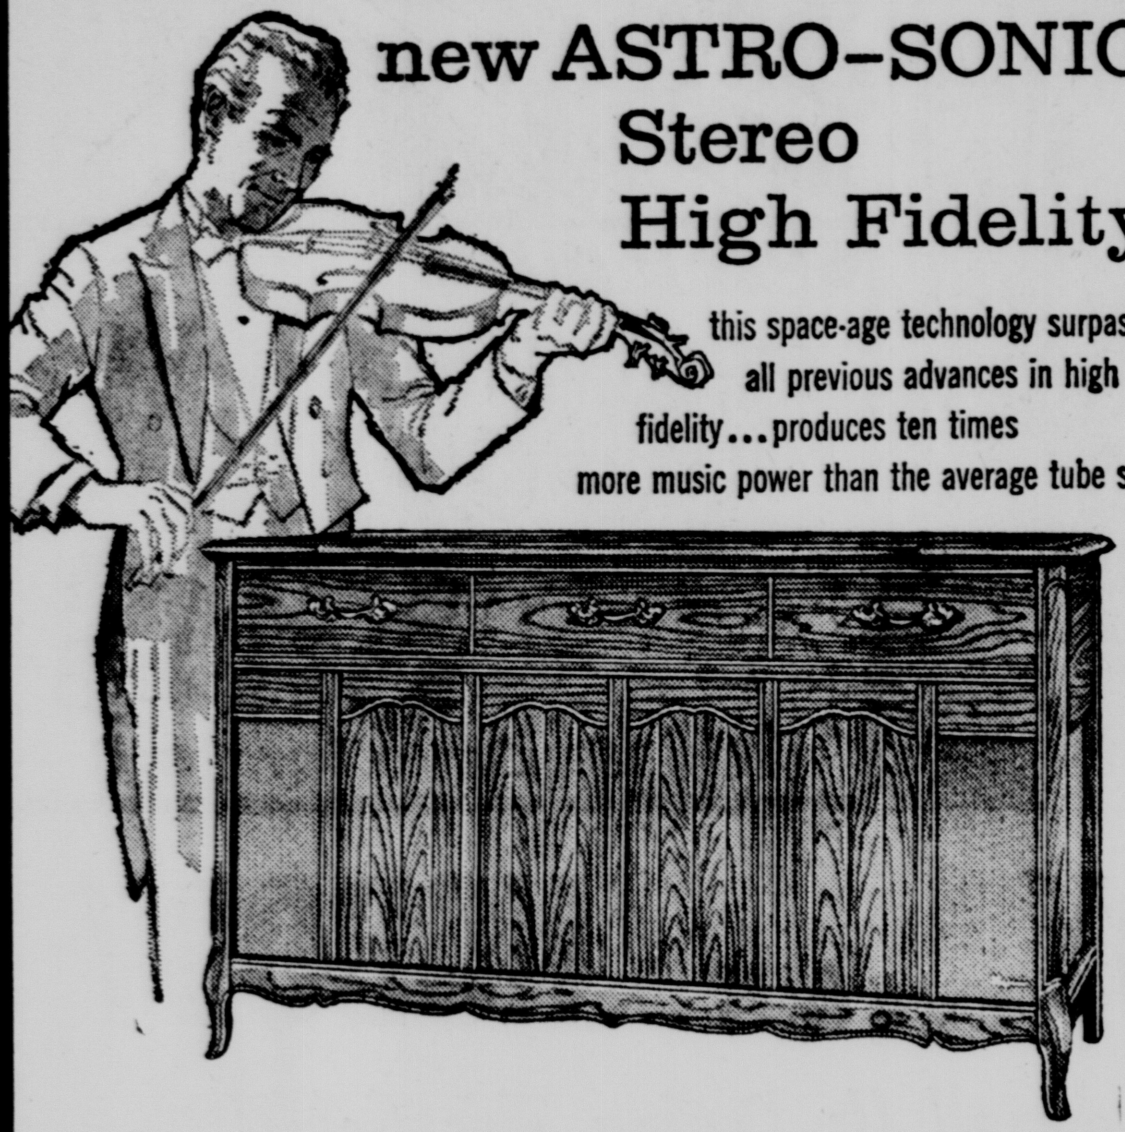
Magnavox

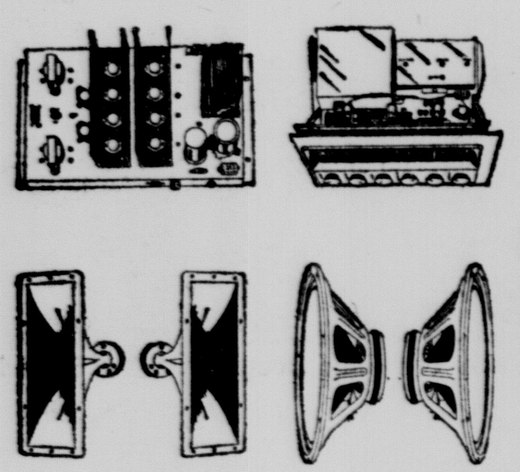
new ASTRO-SONIC Stereo High Fidelity

this space-age technology surpasses all previous advances in high fidelity... produces ten times more music power than the average tube sets



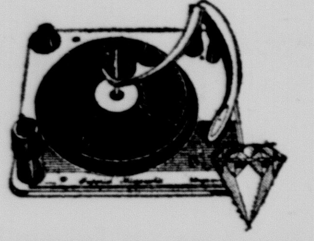
The Astro-Sonic has such great tonal dimension it can fill a concert hall like a great symphony orchestra—and in your home can "whisper" the full beauty of music or shake the walls with the crescendo of a great symphony orchestra—yet all this without a single tube!

Now solid state circuitry—a by-product of the billion dollar space age—provides greater Stereo FM/AM performance with more audio power—has ten times the efficiency of comparable tube sets—yet uses but 1/10 the power—no more than a small electric light bulb.



Vacuum tubes and component. damaging heat—the source of most service troubles—are eliminated—in fact, the Astro-Sonic is so reliable that parts are guaranteed for five years—twenty times as long as the standard industry guarantee for tube sets.

Now, large exponential treble horns—ten times as efficient as conventional cone speakers—reproduce treble tones without a blemish of distortion—high efficiency 15" bass woofers give you bass definition you have never heard before.



The new "Micromatic 60" record player completely eliminates pitch distortion—for turntable speed is as accurate as your electric clock! The new pickup plays at only 1/10 ounce touch, banishing record and stylus wear—therefore the diamond stylus is guaranteed for ten years, and your records can last a lifetime.

Apportionment Is LWV Program Topic

"Apportionment — One Man, One Vote or Not?" is the topic for the local League of Women Voters meeting tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Members of the 100-member local LWV will attempt to reach agreement on whether the league nationally should support or oppose proposed constitutional amendments to allow states to apportion their legislatures on other than a "one man, one vote" basis.

THEY WILL HEAR a panel discuss apportionment, the reasons behind the Supreme Court ruling that state legislatures can only have representation on a population basis, and attempts—primarily by Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois—to amend the U. S. constitution to allow states leeway in determining legislative apportionment.

Presenting the panel discussion will be Mrs. Joseph McIntyre of Hoffman Estates and Mrs. Robert Jacks, Mrs. Russell Gardner and Mrs. Dwight Walton, all of Arlington Heights. Serving as moderator will be Mrs. William Trevor of Rolling Meadows, chairman of the apportionment study.

Christmas decorations and refreshments are being planned by Mrs. Bruce Kelly, Arlington Heights. (ACM

Apportionment Is LWV Program Topic

"Apportionment — One Man, One Vote or Not?" is the topic for the local League of Women Voters meeting tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. in the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Members of the 100-member local LWV will attempt to reach agreement on whether the league nationally should support or oppose proposed constitutional amendments to allow states to apportion their legislatures on other than a "one man, one vote" basis.

THEY WILL HEAR a panel discuss apportionment, the reasons behind the Supreme Court ruling that state legislatures can only have representation on a population basis, and attempts —primarily by Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois—to amend the U. S. constitution to allow states leeway in determining legislative apportionment.

Presenting the panel discussion will be Mrs. Joseph McIntyre of Hoffman Estates and Mrs. Robert Jacks, Mrs. Russell Gardner and Mrs. Dwight Walton, all of Arlington Heights. Serving as moderator will be Mrs. William Trevor of Rolling Meadows, chairman of the apportionment study.

Christmas decorations and refreshments are being planned by Mrs. Bruce Kelly, Arlington Heights. (ACM

Fire Ball Celebration: Birth of a Tradition

What's a Fire Ball?

A Fire Ball is a Christmas tree gathering, bonfire, queen coronation, an all-school mixer, and a new tradition for Wheeling High School. The event will take place Saturday, Jan. 8, under the sponsorship of the Spokesman, the student newspaper.

The post-Christmas affair will also commemorate the Epiphany season. Twelfth Night is the traditional end of the Yule season, and later became known as Epiphany Eve.

Epiphany, Jan. 6, is observed in Christian traditions as the day the Magi visited the newborn Jesus Christ.

Before it became a Christian calendar date, Epiphany was the first day of the old Roman carnival season, which became in the Christian era the first day of the pre-lenten carnival season.

CHRISTMAS IS the first day of the 12 days of Christmas, and Jan. 5 is the last day.

The staff will work in cooperation with the Wheeling Park District, fire department, and police department, in the collection of area Christmas trees and supervision of the bonfire.

It is hoped by the Spokesman that the collection of Christmas trees will be on a class competition basis. The method of queen selection is as yet undecided. Tentative mixer decorations will be centered around a ski-lodge theme.

GENERAL CHAIRMAN of the Fire Ball is Jeanne La Bandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond La Bandt, 3004 N. Lancaster Ave., Prospect Heights.

Other committee chairmen are Kris Gerger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gerger, 1430 Marcy Lane, Wheeling, queen selection; Bob Stilwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stilwell, 726 N. Wayne Place, Wheeling, band and entertainment; Kathie Barnes, daughter of Mrs. Susan L. Barnes, 1060 Wheeling Road, Mount Prospect, decorations.

Ron Poppenhagen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Poppenhagen, 2128 Cherry Hill Drive, Arlington Heights, tickets; Jim Towery, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Towery, 1238 Sarasota Drive, Wheeling, publicity; Emma Visee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Visee, 325 Maureen Drive, Wheeling, refreshments; and Keith Letsche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Letsche, 1005 Wildwood Drive West, Prospect Heights, arrangements. by BECKY HOLLMEYER

Christmas is holly, snow, churches, lights, happy faces, Santa Claus, and music.

The Arlington High School music department will present one phase of Christmas in its annual Christmas Concert, Sunday at 3 p.m. in the boys gym.

The program will commence with Antonio Vivaldi's oratorio, Gloria. This is a 30-minute work sung entirely in Church Latin. The arrangement is for four solo voices, chorus, and orchestra.

Senior choir, mixed chorus, and freshman boys chorus will be directed by Boyd White as they sing Gloria. This is the first time that this oratorio will have been presented in a District 214 high school.

THE SOLOISTS include juniors Linda Heffernan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heffernan, 616 S. Burton, Arlington Heights, and Terry Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Malone, 1703 N. Patton, Arlington Heights.

Senior soloists are Kathy Rausch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rausch, 1534 Kennicott, Arlington Heights, and Linda Piepenbrink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Piepenbrink, 1112 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights.

The freshman girls' chorus will be next on the agenda singing "Do You Hear What I Hear," and "Sleigh Ride." The accompanists are freshmen Anne Zonsius and Lynn Johnson.

Frederick C. Schmoyer, instrumental director, will lead the woodwind choir in Leroy Anderson's, "Suite of Carols." The woodwind choir includes flute, piccolo, oboe, English horn, bassoon, and alto, bass, and B-flat clarinets.

OLD ENGLISH, a harp, and several plaintive duets, and solos, and a girls chorus are featured in Benjamin Britton's, "Ceremony of Carols."

Miss Maribeth Kirchhoff will direct the girls' glee club in this 15-minute number, consisting of eight carols. Accompanying the chorus will be harpist Mrs. Thomas Green, who has played with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Soloists for this musical score include sophomores Linda Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Freeman, 807 N. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, and Kathy Landwehr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Landwehr, 417 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

Sophomore Bonnie Briscoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Briscoe, 433 S. Forrest Ave., Arlington Heights will also perform.

Senior soloists are Sandy Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Snyder, 1312 Leona Terrace, Arlington Heights, and Judy Kunkel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kunkel, 1318 N. Highland, Arlington Heights.

The finale of the program is the "Christmas Cantata," arranged for chorus and double brass choir by Daniel Pinkham. Senior choir will sing this modernistic work which differs greatly from the typical classical Christmas music. (Y

Future Teachers Help at Grade School Tasks

(Too often the "bad" teenager (very much in the minority) receives so much publicity in our news media that people tend to stereotype all teens in this category. The great majority of teenagers are a credit to their parents, schools and communities. To prove this point, High School Highlights begins with this issue a series of articles designed to show the teenager at work helping his school and community—and himself.)

Members of the Forest View High School Future Teachers of America work at local elementary schools during the week. Forty-four students work once or twice a week at 20 area schools.

This project is designed to give students with an interest in teaching career practice in the role of a teacher at a school of their choice near their home, according 5o Miss Rosemary according to Miss Rosemary Chilstrom, advisor.

While at the individual schools, the volunteer students correct papers, record grades, design bulletin boards, file papers, catalog books, tutor some students, and perhaps teach a short lesson.

WORKING AT THE Dunton School is Sandy Lesiak of Arlington Heights.

At Forest View Elementary School in Mount Prospect are Jeanne Erickson and Linda Read.

Also in Mount Prospect at Sunset Park School are Laura Schanken, Kathy Willert, Randi Hagen, Jan Swinford, and Barbara Peters.

At Westbrook are Kathy Pingel, Carol Burmeister, Heidi Reimann, Deanna Hurin, and Carol Scoltock.

Volunteers Also Busy at Hospital

by LINDA STRUMPH and KAREN KARP

Contrary to the belief that all teenagers are self-centered and do no more than what is required of them, there are many who give of their time and talents to help others through volunteer work.

Their reasons for doing this are many and varied, but the two most prevalent are (1) in preparation of future health careers; and (2) for the satisfaction obtained by helping others.

In almost every department of the hospital, volunteer workers are needed to perform the many menial but necessary tasks, such as carrying water, entertaining children who are confined to bed, helping feed patients at meal time, and cheering up the patients through friendly conversation.

Kathy McHugh, a candy striper at Northwest Community Hospital, sums up volunteer work: "It is a wonderful experience for anyone planning to enter the field of health careers."

THE VOLUNTEER work is done by Forest View students at Holy Family, Lutheran General and Northwest Community Hospitals. Those who work at Holy Family are Donna Musengo, Judy Palsczny, Linda Strumph, Susan Waschbusch and Nancy Wesche, all of Des Plaines; also, Peggy Krueger, Kathy Mainzer, and Sue Mommsen, of Mount Prospect.

Jane Schmanke, of Mount Prospect is a volunteer at Lutheran General.

Girls who are volunteers at Northwest Community are Mary Lind, Kathy McHugh, Judie Siewenie, Diane Spillios, and Donna Tyler all of Rolling Meadows; also, Cynthia Howe of Elk Grove Village and Jan Kratky of Mount Prospect.

"These girls deserve much credit and many thanks for serving their community in such a helpful way," according to Mrs. Ivan Hufnagle, school nurse and head of Forest View's health service. (Y

Future Teachers Help at Grade School Tasks

(Too often the "bad" teenager (very much in the minority) receives so much publicity in our news media that people tend to stereotype all teens in this category. The great majority of teenagers are a credit to their parents, schools and communities. To prove this point, High School Highlights begins with this issue a series of articles designed to show the teenager at work helping his school and community—and himself.)

Members of the Forest View High School Future Teachers of America work at local elementary schools during the week. Forty-four students work once or twice a week at 20 area schools.

This project is designed to give students with an interest in teaching career practice in the role of a teacher at a school of their choice near their home, according 5o Miss Rosemary according to Miss Rosemary Chilstrom, advisor.

While at the individual schools, the volunteer students correct papers, record grades, design bulletin boards, file papers, catalog books, tutor some students, and perhaps teach a short lesson.

WORKING AT THE Dunton School is Sandy Lesiak of Arlington Heights.

At Forest View Elementary School in Mount Prospect are Jeanne Erickson and Linda Read.

Also in Mount Prospect at Sunset Park School are Laura Schanken, Kathy Willert, Randi Hagen, Jan Swinford, and Barbara Peters.

Students Offer Ideas on Foreign Exchange Program

by CATHY JENSEN

MALENA GONZALES TRIGUIS, Wheeling High School's American Field Service foreign exchange student from Paraguay, concentrates on her geometry lesson.

Althea Meyer has been at Palatine High School for more than two months. In that time, she has adjusted well to American school life with the help of some of the students.

In discussing Althea's visit and the student exchange in general, students offered a variety of opinions concerning improvement of the program.

Many students believe that the school should send as many students abroad as it will receive. Jan O'Leary, Kathy Sohst, and Katherine Philippe also believe more students should go to European countries rather than to South America.

Palatine High is involved in two separate programs. The IF (International Fellowship) exchanges with South America while the AFS (American Field Service) is connected with Europe and a few separate nations.

It was through the AFS program that Althea came to Pal High this year.

ALTHOUGH SOME of the students believe that the next exchange should be with Europe, it is not certain that a Pal High student can go. According to Doug Spruance, one of the two finalists who may make the trip abroad, "There simply are not enough places open in Europe for American students."

Many students refused to comment concerning the exchange program because they thought their information on the subject was inadequate. They were not aware of Althea whenever they did see her.

Sue Peterson suggested that "Althea should be presented at assemblies, both at Palatine and at Fremd, in order that the students at least become aware of who she is. She could also describe the school and social life in South Africa. If the students gained a general impression of Althea's thoughts and personality, they would be less shy in approaching her. Althea would then feel more at home."

Kathy McIntosh said, "Althea is one of the wittiest students at Palatine High. I wish more people knew her."

THE STUDENTS who know Althea found it refreshing to get an outsider's view of Palatine. From those who don't know her came suggestions such as "Why couldn't she spend her weekends with families other than her host family?"

Most students, even those with no definite suggestions, said that they wanted the exchange program to be more of a two-way deal. The foreign student should not be the only person to benefit from the experience. The students wanted more benefits to come to them in such ways as learning of the customs, geography, culture, and language of the country from which the guest comes. (Y

Forest View Will Host Debaters

By KATHY MAINZER

Forest View High School will host an all-day tournament for the Suburban Interstate Debate League Saturday.

Thirteen participating schools will debate the topic: "Resolved: that the Federal Government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in labor-management disputes in the basic industries."

A TOTAL OF 75 Forest View students will help in conducting the tournament. The majority of them will serve as timekeepers and guides.

Those two will debate on varsity level competition are Robin Omahana, sophomore, and Jorlyce Gunkel, senior, as first and second affirmative speakers.

Kris Knudson, sophomore, and Rosemary Gordon, senior, will compose the negative team speaking against the proposition.

All debaters will compete in four rounds of cross-examination debating.

The results of the debate will appear in next week's paper.(Y

Helping Hand Reaches Out To Handicapped Students

Physically and mentally handicapped students are getting a helping hand in education at Wheeling High School. Wheeling is the only school in High School District 214 that provides facilities and a special staff for programs for the blind, partially sighted, mentally handicapped, and perceptionally handicapped.

Other programs offered at Wheeling accommodate the crippled, deaf and hard of hearing, speech impaired, emotionally disturbed, socially maladjusted, and those with special health problems.

RECRUITMENT chairman for the Council on Exceptional Children (a branch of the National Education Association) and a teacher of the handicapped at W.H.S., Mrs. Carole Shook, emphasizes the need for teachers of the handicapped: "Many handicapped students have no means of education because of lack of facilities and teachers."

She added that less than one-fourth of all handicapped children are being served and more than 200,000 professional persons in special education are needed.

"Any college-bound students would find the special education field very worthwhile, for teachers must present practical material to the handicapped for living a full life after graduation," she said.

MRS. SHOOK added that special education has been given a boost within the last year through state legislation. "Mandatory special education legislation now specifies that the state 'must provide' classes for all handicapped." Classes and programs for the handicapped were optional in school districts before.

Information on various areas of special education, which include special class teachers, school psychologists, school social workers, speech therapists, occupational and physical therapists, can be obtained from Mrs. Shook through the counseling office of Wheeling High School. (Y

School of the Week

Sacred Heart of Mary: A Lively Place to Learn

By ELIZABETH MEYERS, MARY LEE BARTON, and JOANNE SAJDAK

Sacred Heart of Mary High School is but one of a network of schools and colleges conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary on four continents.

The school opened officially in September 1961. Classes were conducted in a wing of St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights. At that time, there were 138 girls enrolled, with a nucleus of five religious and two lay teachers.

The groundbreaking ceremony on the present site of the school was held on September 8, 1962. School opened in the beautiful new building, located at 2800 Central Road, on September 3, 1963. The late Albert Cardinal Meyer presided at the dedication ceremonies on May 9, 1964.

THERE HAS been a steady increase in enrollment to a new high of 875 in the fifth year. A competent staff of 22 religious and 12 lay teachers conduct the school.

All staff members are imbued with the same ideals. They are aware of the objectives of the school, and by continued in-service training and self evaluation, are alert to the changing needs of the students.

In order for the staff to keep abreast with modern methods and achieve effective and creative teaching, the individual teachers and the departments are offered freedom in both content and methods as far as is compatible with the objectives of the school and the aim of the particular course.

As a Catholic school, we can scarcely find a better means of expressing our philosophy than to use the words of Pope Pius XII: "Education consists essentially in preparing man for what he must be and for what he must do here below, in order to obtain the sublime end for which he was created . . . it takes the whole aggregate of human life, physical and spiritual, intellectual and moral, individual, domestic and social . . ."

Sister Columba, RSHM, principle adds: "The student is led to appreciate what is best in the past and to understand and analyze methods of the present. Academic years are not only a preparation for life; they constitute a way of life. The mind and heart of the student are stimulated here and now towards the acquisition of those virtues and habits which she will later require. She is trained to control her own powers and direet her own life in the lights of Christian ideals and principles."

MEMBERS OF THE religious faculty have come to Rolling Meadows from previous assignments in Rome, Paris, Barcelona, Bogota, Florida and Virginia. The faculty has studied in colleges and universities, both national and international. Among them are the Sorbonne, Oxford, Stratford-on-Avon, University of Perugia, Laval, St. John's university, Duquensne, Catholic University, Loyola, De Paul, and the Illinois Institute of Technology.

The school has been approved by the Board of Public Instruction. Application has been filed to North Central Association.

The National Science Foundation and the National Defense Education Association have awarded grants to members of the faculty. Language and English teachers attend seminars and workshops to investigate, evaluate, and share ideas in their specialized areas.

The faculty tries to maintain a friendly atmosphere, conservative but at the same time progressive. A varied activity program is provided through a system of clubs, projects and assemblies all of which receive the enthusiastic cooperation and encouragement of the faculty members who act as moderators.

AT S.H.M. there is an extraordinary relationship between the faculty and students. It is one of respectful friendship, eagerness to learn from each other, and openness.

All knowledge is good be it knowledge for the sake of knowledge or knowledge for the sake of use. The curriculum at Sacred Heart of Mary consists primarily in college preparatory and business courses according to the needs of the individual. Seventy per cent of the students are college bound. All academic subjects are taught on three levels: advanced, college preparatory and general.

To qualify for graduation, each student must have earned 16 units in major subjects. The required subjects are four units of English, three units of social studies, two units of mathematics, one unit of a laboratory science, one unit of fine arts and two units of study in the same field. Religion is taught daily.

Honor course sequences lead to college level work in the senior year in English, mathematics, science and social studies.

THE COLLEGE preparatory curriculum is primarily concerned with knowledge as a stepping stone to the attainment of further scholastic achievement. Last year, 20 per cent of the graduating class earned scholarships.

The science department offers foundations of science, general and advanced biology, chemistry and physics. A three or four year program is offered in Latin, French and Spanish. There is a well-equipped language laboratory. Mathematic courses include algebra, geometry and trigonometry.

The business curriculum is concerned with knowledge for the sake of use in the business world or in everyday life. General business, bookkeeping, typing, shorthand and record keeping are available to the students.

THERE ARE electives offered to juniors and seniors in practical and basic art, voice training. There are excellent facilities for clothing and design.

Physical education program offers gym twice a week for all students.

There is a full time guidance counselor. The Rev. Robert Clark, assistant from St. Colette Church, offers his services as a part-time counselor and he also conducts a marriage course for seniors.

One of the main functions of the guidance department is to assist students in their post high school educational, and vocational plans. Representatives from colleges, junior colleges, professional schools meet with students in conference and lecture sessions.

New features of 1965-66 Curriculum

Advanced placement courses are conducted on a seminar basis. Physics has been added to the science department. Clothing and design are offered for the first time.

The school administration encourages excellence in studies through membership in the National Honor Society and two school honor societies. Scholarships are awarded each fall on the basis of the previous year's scholastic average or index.

Students interested in pursuing activities in the intellectual and cultural level are eligible for The Elan Society, inaugurated this fall. This society will sponsor concerts, lecturers during the year. A concert, "The History of Jazz," was presented last week by David Larsen. The Wisconsin Touring Co. will present "A Man Without a Country" on Dec. 13.

A FILM FESTIVAL will start on Dec. 15, with "All The Kings Men," to be followed with "War and Peace," "Pride and Prejudice," "Tale of Two Cities" and other classics. The purpose of film study is to relate the movie with the novel previously studied in seminar classes. Senior students will evaluate, on a comparative basis, the literary, historical and philosophical implications of both art forms.

SISTER HOPE MARIE R.S.H.M. of Sacred Heart of Mary High School examines a microscopic slide while participating in a Molecular Biology Institute at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, last summer.

The students of Sacred Heart of Mary may particpate in any nine extra-curricular activities.

The Girls Athletic Association is open to all members of the student body. The G.A.A. consists of basketball, volleyball, tumbling, tennis, bowling, modern dance and the Pep Club.

Over 150 students are involved in social work through the efforts of the Social Service Club. Their forces are divided as tutors for the Inner City Project at St. Brendan's School, Chicago, and recreational supervisors at Maryville Academy. Two evenings a month, a group visits the patients at Elgin State Hospital to help them maintain normal social relationships.

This year the Drama Club in conjunction with the Glee Club will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado." S.H.M. participated in Chicago's Drama Festival by a fine presentation of Eugene Ionesco's "The Chairs."

WITHIN THE French Club there is an opportunity for students interested in art and culture of France. The club sponsors a dance in the spring. In the past the French Singing Group has been invited to sing at Northwest Hospital, Loyola Academy Talent Review and the Alliance Francaise, Chicago.

The Glee Club is not an organized club; it is a functional part of the curriculum. A spring recital and a joint concert with St. Viator's Chorus are planned.

The purpose of forensics is to promote a command of dramatic and extemporaneous speaking. There are four divisions: prose and poetry reading, original and non-original oratory, and extemporaneous speaking. Students participate in local and national contests sponsored by the Chicago Catholic Forensic League.

Student publications include the Marimead and the recently published supplement, the Chez-Mead.

The Student Council at SHM helps to create better faculty-student relations as well as student-student relations. This year the Student Council hopes to a Human relations Committee. Other activities planned this year are a fashion show and a Student-Relations Council.

THE LIBRARY CLUB functions with the assistance of 40 participants. There are ample facilities for study, research, film study, seminar discussions and art appreciation.

The Sodality of Our Lady handles mission work and sponsors projects for food and clothing drives.

Social Activites for 1965-66: Mixer and Father and Daughter Dance for the freshmen; Harvest and Spring Dance for juniors and a prom is planned for seniors during the Christmas vacation. Each class level sponsors its own sock hop.

The facilities for spiritual development are available to the students by retreats, days of recollection, First Friday Mass in which there is full liturgical participation. The convent chapel is open for the use of the students.

Girls Take Tests on Home Skills

A 50-minute knowledge and attitude examination which deals with the duties and the rewards of homemaking in today's society were offred senior girls at Forest View and Arlington High Schools Tuesday.

The girls were among more than a half million others in approximately 15,000 of the nation's public, private and parochial high schools who have enrolled in the 1966 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow, sponsored by General Mills.

At stake are awards ranging from attractive pins for each school winner to $110,000 in scholarships for state and national winners.

Local school winners also will have their examination papers entered in state competition. The highest ranking state Homemakers of Tomorrow will then receive $1,500 scholarships. Their schools will be presented sets of Encyclopaedia Britannica by Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc. State runners-up will receive $500 scholarships.

Next spring, State Betty Crocker Homemakers of Tomorrow, each accompanied by her school advisor, will be guests on an expense-paid educational tour to historical centers in the East.

The trip will culminate with the naming of the 1966 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be raised to $5,000. National runners-up will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000, scholarships, respectively.

Judging for national honors is on the basis of original test scores plus personal observation and interviews during the tour. The program is the only national scholarship competition exclusively for high school senior girls.

The examination is prepared by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which also has charge of scoring papers and judging.

Chicago Negro Life Seen On Fenton Students' Tour

By VICKY DE LUDE

Fenton seniors in the world literature class of Mrs. Diane Callin left Fenton High School at 8 a.m. Friday morning to tour "Negro Life in Chicago," one of the intercultural field trips offered by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Due to the illness of Mrs. Callin, Mrs. Virginia McDermott and Richard Carlson acted as the trip's sponsors. The coordinator or guide from the National Conference of Christians and Jews was Mrs. Floryan Tokar.

First stop was at Johnson Publishing Co., 1820 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, which publishes Ebony, Jet, Negro Digest, and Tan. Students were first impressed with the building itself, an old but large house that at one time was a morgue.

THE SENIORS WERE shown the various departments involved in publishing the magazines and asked questions. They afterwards commented on the modern equipment and procedures in contrast with the house itself, and also on the efficiency of an all-Negro staff. Each student received a copy of Ebony as he left.

Next on the agenda was a tour of "Dearborn Homes," 2960 S. Federal, part of five miles of public housing projects by the city of Chicago. A representative explained that this was one of the smaller projects and contained about 800 families of the low income bracket.

He showed the students a model apartment and then took the group to one of the recreation rooms of the project. Also included in the project was a playground, laundry room, and small store. Schools and a public health department were also in the immediate neighborhood.

He said that these apartments were built specifically for people of low income brackets, and only those with a very bad moral background are turned away.

When people begin earning enough so that they can no longer be classified "lower income," they are asked to move.

"About 25-30 per cent of the people living here receive welfare aid," he said.

MOST OF THE parents have little education, so the project cooperates with other groups to encourage the people to return to school, and it helps them find jobs. "Vandalism is the biggest problem of these projects," according to the representative.

Upon leaving Dearborn Homes, the bus drove through the redevelopment project of the Illinois Institute of Technology. In this former slum area, modern apartments are replacing worn out buildings as part of the rebuilding of Chicago.

Next stop was Prairie Shores, 2851 S. Parkway, private housing project for middle and upper middle class. "Seven or eight years ago this was one of the worst slum areas in Chicago; there was much drug addiction, prostitution, and crime," said Jerome Weitzel, who greeted the group and showed them several apartments.

Today there are five large apartment buildings along with a shopping center. The buildings are integrated.

AS THE GROUP went to its next stop, the bus drove through the Lake Meadows Area, another private housing project, and the students were able to compare the past with the present.

On one side of the road were the spacious, new buildings, while the other side contained very bad housing, slum area conditions.

The final place visited was Harlan High School, 9652 S. Michigan. The world literature group was greeted by Arthur Keate, principal, and the Intergroup Relations Club, which promotes better relations between human beings. This group will be visting Fenton High School next semester.

After eating lunch in the school cafeteria, students were given a tour of the school and introduced to some of the teachers. Then everyone met to discuss the school and ask any questions.

FIRST THE SCHOOLS were compared. It was noted that the schedules were different, and the student councils were organized in contrasting ways. Otherwise the schools were very similar.

Then the students began discussing race relations. Harlan is 92 per cent Negro, 8 per cent white, but the students there felt no racial conflict. As one girl said, "It's not 92 per cent against 8 per cent. We're 100 per cent — together."

Interracial dating is accepted by most of the students.

Harlan students confirmed the opinion that parents are the ones with racial prejudice. One Harlan boy explained, "Race prejudice comes from ignorance and tradition. A school like this is very good for dispelling prejudice."

On the way back to Fenton, the students rode through the area around Harlan High School and then through the Woodlawn area. This was to show the importance of keeping up property values.

The purpose of the tour and the final opinion of the students can perhaps be summarized by the "slogan" of the National Conference of Christians and Jews: "Bridging chasms of prejudice, widening personal understanding, and deepening sensitivity to others build foundations for Brotherhood." (Y

Christy Minstrels Coming for Concert

"Green, green, I'm goin' away to where the grass is greener still," are the familiar words of a song made famous by the New Christy Minstrels.

This song and many others will be heard at a March 11 concert arranged by the Palatine and Fremd High School student councils.

Overall chairman for the concert is Rick Dinkel, but a co-chairman from Fremd will be selected along with subordinate committee chairmen from each building for publicity and tickets. There will also be a committee named "The Committee" which will be made up of all the representatives not on the other committees.

COST OF THE concert will be approximately $5,000, which includes the base cost of the Minstrels, plus publicity, tickets, and extra audio equipment.

There will be 3,300 seats available for the concert, which will be held in the Fremd gymnasium.

The great financial involvement of Palatine in the foreign exchange program is the incentive for the concert. (Y

Chicago Negro Life Seen On Fenton Students' Tour

By VICKY DE LUDE

Fenton seniors in the world literature class of Mrs. Diane Callin left Fenton High School at 8 a.m. Friday morning to tour "Negro Life in Chicago," one of the intercultural field trips offered by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Due to the illness of Mrs. Callin, Mrs. Virginia McDermott and Richard Carlson acted as the trip's sponsors. The coordinator or guide from the National Conference of Christians and Jews was Mrs. Floryan Tokar.

First stop was at Johnson Publishing Co., 1820 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, which publishes Ebony, Jet, Negro Digest, and Tan. Students were first impressed with the building itself, an old but large house that at one time was a morgue.

THE SENIORS WERE shown the various departments involved in publishing the magazines and asked questions. They afterwards commented on the modern equipment and procedures in contrast with the house itself, and also on the efficiency of an all-Negro staff. Each student received a copy of Ebony as he left.

Next on the agenda was a tour of "Dearborn Homes," 2960 S. Federal, part of five miles of public housing projects by the city of Chicago. A representative explained that this was one of the smaller projects and contained about 800 families of the low income bracket.

He showed the students a model apartment and then took the group to one of the recreation rooms of the project. Also included in the project was a playground, laundry room, and small store. Schools and a public health department were also in the immediate neighborhood.

He said that these apartments were built specifically for people of low income brackets, and only those with a very bad moral background are turned away.

When people begin earning enough so that they can no longer be classified "lower income," they are asked to move.

"About 25-30 per cent of the people living here receive welfare aid," he said.

MOST OF THE parents have little education, so the project cooperates with other groups to encourage the people to return to school, and it helps them find jobs. "Vandalism is the biggest problem of these projects," according to the representative.

Upon leaving Dearborn Homes, the bus drove through the redevelopment project of the Illinois Institute of Technology. In this former slum area, modern apartments are replacing worn out buildings as part of the rebuilding of Chicago.

Next stop was Prairie Shores, 2851 S. Parkway, private housing project for middle and upper middle class. "Seven or eight years ago this was one of the worst slum areas in Chicago; there was much drug addiction, prostitution, and crime," said Jerome Weitzel, who greeted the group and showed them several apartments.

Today there are five large apartment buildings along with a shopping center. The buildings are integrated.

AS THE GROUP went to its next stop, the bus drove through the Lake Meadows Area, another private housing project, and the students were able to compare the past with the present.

On one side of the road were the spacious, new buildings, while the other side contained very bad housing, slum area conditions.

The final place visited was Harlan High School, 9652 S. Michigan. The world literature group was greeted by Arthur Keate, principal, and the Intergroup Relations Club, which promotes better relations between human beings. This group will be visting Fenton High School next semester.

After eating lunch in the school cafeteria, students were given a tour of the school and introduced to some of the teachers. Then everyone met to discuss the school and ask any questions.

FIRST THE SCHOOLS were compared. It was noted that the schedules were different, and the student councils were organized in contrasting ways. Otherwise the schools were very similar.

Then the students began discussing race relations. Harlan is 92 per cent Negro, 8 per cent white, but the students there felt no racial conflict. As one girl said, "It's not 92 per cent against 8 per cent. We're 100 per cent — together."

Interracial dating is accepted by most of the students.

Harlan students confirmed the opinion that parents are the ones with racial prejudice. One Harlan boy explained, "Race prejudice comes from ignorance and tradition. A school like this is very good for dispelling prejudice."

On the way back to Fenton, the students rode through the area around Harlan High School and then through the Woodlawn area. This was to show the importance of keeping up property values.

The purpose of the tour and the final opinion of the students can perhaps be summarized by the "slogan" of the National Conference of Christians and Jews: "Bridging chasms of prejudice, widening personal understanding, and deepening sensitivity to others build foundations for Brotherhood." (Y

Employers, Students Praise D.O. Program

Activities which range from a discussion of Bertrand Russell's "Mahatma Ghandi" to removing and replacing broken fenders are all within a day's activities for Glenn Krumwiede, 17-year-old diversified occupations student at Fenton High School.

Glenn, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn H. Krumwiede, 343 S. Addison, is one of 26 participants who spend half their academic life in the high school, and the other half in on-the-job training under Fenton's new vocational program.

In the mornings, Glenn attends classes in English IV, social studies, physical education and a related D.O. course. At 1 p.m. he reports to Long Ford in Bensenville, which sponsors his training as a body and fender repairman.

In the shop, Glenn watches and assists mechanics and does minor body repairs under the supervision of Tom Owens. As his skill increases, he will be permitted to do more specialized repairing.

GLENN IS RATED as "excellent" by Supervisor Owens. "He is one of a limited number of men going into this trade who has the ability to feel out imperfections in the automotive outer body," Owens says. "He is eager to learn, picks up instructions quickly, and gets along well with other employees."

The new diversified occupations program receives plaudits not only from the cooperating industries who have asked for more trainees, but also from the students themselves.

Glenn says, "The program has encouraged me to further my education in this trade. I am happy with the training station. They have been very helpful and plan to put me on an apprentice program when I am finished with the course."

THE D.O. PROGRAM is designed to give students an opportunity to train in a skilled occupation while still in high school. Open to juniors and seniors, the program requires students to spend 15 hours a week on the job. They are supervised by an industrial employee and by D.O. co-ordinator Lee Thompson. The students may earn two regular high school credits for their year of participation. They are paid by the cooperating industry at the same rate as any apprentice.

Of the 26 enrollees, six are girls. Nineteen occupations are represented in the program. These include butcher, tool and die maker, auto mechanic, heating and air conditioning technician, electrician, and radio and television repairman.

Training stations are located primarily in Bensenville and Wood Dale.

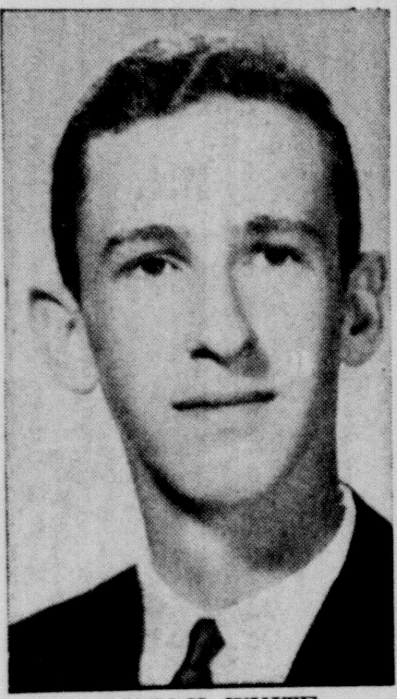
John White Wins Award in English



JOHN H. WHITE

John H. White of Forest View High School has been cited as one of the outstanding students in high school English in the country. The National Council of Teachers of English has named him a 1965 national runner-up in its annual Achievement Awards competition.

Last spring a committee of English teachers from the high school nominated John to represent Forest View in the competition.

The nation's schools nominated almost 8,500 students for the NCTE citation. Of that number, 837 finalists were chosen. They represent 620 schools from 50 states, the District of Columbia, and American Preparatory schools abroad.

IN ANNOUNCING the winners, James R. Squire, executive secretary of the National Council of Teachers of English, stated that the Council recommends these students for college scholarships in 1966. The names of these students are sent to every college and university admissions officer in the country.

In previous years, 99 per cent of the Awards winners entered the college of their choice. Approximately 80 per cent of those applying for scholarships received financial aid.

The NCTE sends to all winners and runners-up scrolls of recognition and it honors their high school English departments with certificates of merit.

Mrs. Josephine Burkham, Mrs. Maryann Dillard Caklinger, and Robert Staley have been John's English instructors at Forest View High School.

John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Abiathar White Jr., 4311 Hawthorne Lane, Rolling Meadows.

Trip Caps Health Study

In connection with the study of health in physical education classes, the senior girls of Lake Park High School visited the Hinsdale last Thursday.

At the museum they saw a movie, "Generation to Generation," and heard a lecture on reproduction and human growth. They also saw a transparent model of the human body and listened to it "talk" to them about the ways in which the body works.

OTHER TOPICS during the course have included mental health, family relations, smoking, and alcohol.

Accompanying the health class on its trip were curriculum coordinator Gene Swierczewski, physical education and health teacher Merry Ring, biology teacher Leonard Boone, and home economics teacher Mrs. Patricia Krupke. (Y

'Thud' Playing This Weekend

Forest View High School's third annual variety show, "Thud" opens tomorrow for a two-day showing. It will be presented in Forest View's theatre.

The plot revolves around an envelope belonging to M & M, head of a world-wide spy organization. The envelope is stolen, and the acts revolve around attempts to recover it.

"THE ACTS look very good," said Mrs. Donna Harris, variety show adviser. "The script writers have put together a very clever plot. This year they have planned some new and different features. There will be many surprises in store for the audience," she added.

New additions to the cast include Chris Blomberg, Tom Byrd, the Reefers Combo, and foreign exchange student Naoki Saito. (Y

Future Teachers of America at Forest View High School are concluding a successful toy drive for "Toys for Viet Nam Week."

The two chairmen of the project — Peggy Sidor, a senior, and Char Derwin, a junior — are very pleased with the response so far.

Besides the FTA, various other clubs throughout the school have been asked to donate time to this project. The Folk Song Club, Future Homemakers, Future Nurses, Future Secretaries, French Club, German Club, Latin Club, Spanish Club, Library Aides, Orchesis, Pep Club, and Volunteers to State Hospitals are some of the clubs that have been approached.

The students spend time after school sewing stuffed animals, making toys out of yarn, and collecting donated articles.

Miss Rosemary Chilstrom, the sponsor of F.T.A., said, "With only one more day to go in this drive, we urge all students to contribute toys. We want to thank all of the students who did contribute."

Students are being asked to contribute toys that are either new or in very good condition. These toys should be made of plastic or cloth.

Metal toys are not acceptable.

The toys, after the drive is concluded, will be sent to Viet Nam, probably in late December, to be given to Vietnamese children.

The drive is being made in conjunction with local GOP groups. (Y

ART PRAISED

Art work by about 75 students from Forest View High School was on exhibit last month in the Fine Arts Building lounge at University of Illinois, Urbana campus.

The display, 100 prints produced by Forest View students since the school opened three years ago, was requested by U. of I. Prof. Harold Schultz. Schultz, a member of Illinois' art faculty, visited the school last year and said he was impressed with the quality of the drawings.

"It is rather unusual to have a high school exhibit in the lounge," Schultz explained, "but we picked these out as something that would be rather good for people to see."

The exhibit was set up in the lounge by William R. Foust and John Doyle, members of the art department at Forest View. Included are block prints, etchings, silk screens and lithographs.

Chemistry Careers Seminar Scheduled

Students from Arlington Heights and northwest area schools have been invited to attend the Chemical Industries Council's Ninth Annual High School Chemistry Career Seminar, Saturday, January 8, at the Pick-Congress Hotel, Chicago.

The seminar will take place in the Avenue East and West, Belmont and Plaza Rooms of the Hotel. Students will attend from 10 a.m. - 12 noon, and from 1:30 p.m. until 3 p.m.

The seminar will feature individual person-to-person counseling by men from chemical and pharmaceutical companies located in the Chicago area.

Representatives from colleges and universities will also be present to counsel students on educational requirements for a career in chemistry.

In addition, panel sessions will cover the basic job areas in the industry — research, production, marketing and miscellaneous job categories.

Member companies and colleges and universities will also provide displays and demonstration. Free educational literature will be available.

Students will view an orientation film, which has been prepared especially for such events by the national Manufacturing Chemists Association.

Palatine Journalists Occupy Cheery Niche

(This is the second in a series of articles saluting the high school publications of our Highlights area.)

Palatine High School seems to have done quite a bit of reflecting. An early publications, the Mirror, has developed into its present publications, the Spotlight and The Cutlass.

In previous years the yearbook was an enlarged publication of the Mirror's June issue. It was designed to honor graduating seniors. Eventually the Spotlight replaced the June issue as the yearbook and the Cutlass became the newspaper.

Publications occupy a small, cheery room, the Penthouse. Located off the girls' gym, it once was a balcony to the gym. Facts, frivolity, and fear can be found within its realms, depending on the nearness of a deadline. Friction may also develop at times, for the Penthouse is shared by both Spotlight and Cutlass staffs.

Serving on the Cutlass editorial board, headed by Binney Williamson, are Art Mugalian, Rick Dinkel, Ed Starkeson, Dave Garland, and Anne Chalfant. Other staffers are Gail Dewey, Mary Salzer, Pam Conklin, Christy Wallace, Judy Carlson, Cathy Jensen, Nancy Maddocks, Brian Trent, Jan Maycan, Bill Castle, Terry Dragoo, Dan Powlowski, and Bob Young. Dale Blyth is a photographer.

The Spotlight's editor this year is Bob Warren. His staff includes Lydia Cini, Pat Dawidiak, Sherry Horobik, George Walgren, Pam VanBoxteale, Barb Schnurpfeil, Dale Sigler, Richard Pierce, Linda Miller, Mary Kupjack, Lynn Jaeger, Jean Kenyon, and Sue Holland.

The business staff is headed by Irv Lewandowski. Working with him are Dave Noonan, Larry Marchel, Tim O'Farrell, Gail Golterman, Blair Hull, Michell Christner, and Gail Warffuel.

Both staffs share Mrs. Florence Salzer as adviser.

William Fremd, the underclass campus of Palatine High, has a journalism club. The president is Dorothy Regan. Last year the club published a mimeographed newspaper, The Dagger, for Fremd High School.

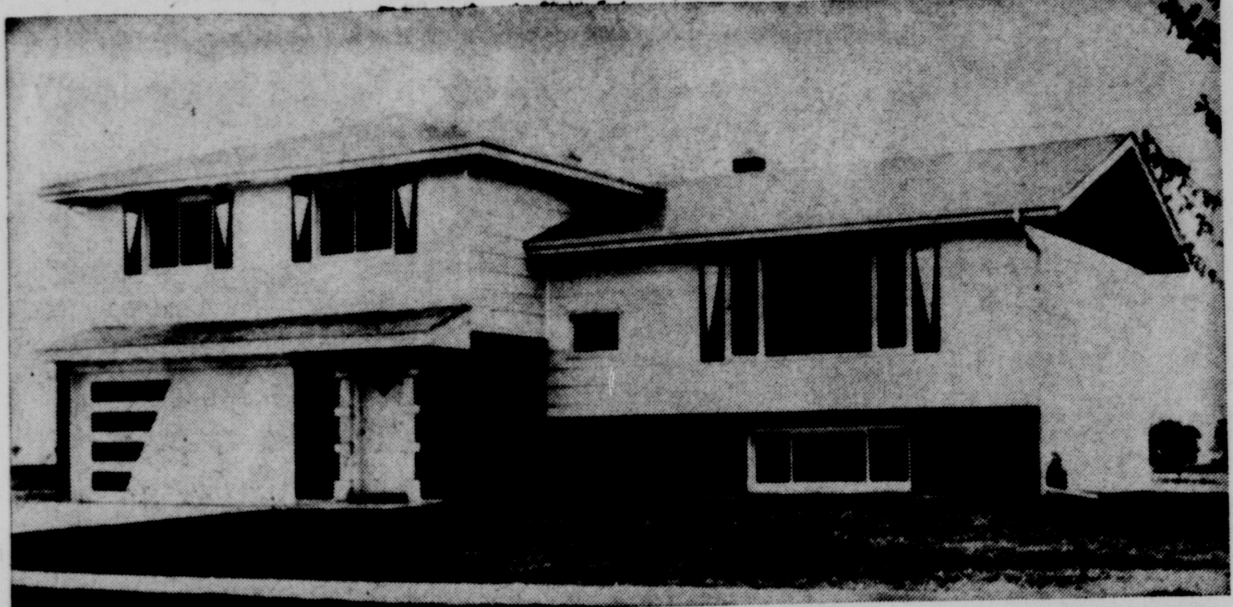
Business Building Improving

'Ultimate' Featured At Fairview Gardens



ONE OF THE MODELS constructed by Bluett Home Builders and featured in the 300-home Fairview Gardens. (15BB

Bluett Builders' tri-level model known as the "Ultimate" is a attraction for buyers and visitors in Fairview Gardens in the Mount Prospect area.

Among optional choices available to buyers, the three-bedroom, two-and-a-half bath home offers a fireplace, increased range of exterior styling, several decor motifs for exterior wall areas and window shutters, and an "expendable" set of basic layouts allowing a fifth and sixth bedroom.

THE TWO additional bedrooms are available in the "Ultimate" for $750 more than the $31,500 cost of the basic four-bedroom design. Other Bluett-built homes include split-level and ranch models with prices from $28,400.

The tri-level "Ultimate" is offered on a lot approximately 75 feet by 135 feet.

Entrance is at grade level, into a wide foyer with a vinyl tile floor in small-stone design. Past a roomy guest closet, the foyer-corridor leads directly back to the family-rec room. This is 25 feet long and 13 feet wide in the basic model, with the lower-level powder room in one corner. In the optional layouts, this area is taken up with the added bedrooms. At the purchaser's preference, a family room readily fits into the basement in the other wing of the house.

ON THE MAIN living level, the living room—24 feet by 13 fet—is reached via two small sets of steps at right angles. With plenty of wall space for the purchaser's decorative ideas the living room opens, in an "L" arrangement, into a dining room.

The kitchen has three entrances and a large informal eating area. Cabinets and work counters are in "L"—with matching built-in range, oven, dishwasher and disposal.

The sleeping level is reached by stairs leading from the home's traffic center, with the upper level distributing corridor expanding into a larger L-shaped area. Four bedrooms and the main bathroom open off this area. The second bath is private to the master bedroom. Closets are double-size, with quiet-sliding doors.

BLUET-DESIGNED homes are open to viewers every day from 10 a.m. till dusk. The community is located just off Rand Road (Route 12) on Wolf Road north of Central Road. (15BB

'Ultimate' Featured At Fairview Gardens

Bluett Builders' tri-level model known as the "Ultimate" is a attraction for buyers and visitors in Fairview Gardens in the Mount Prospect area.

Among optional choices available to buyers, the three-bedroom, two-and-a-half bath home offers a fireplace, increased range of exterior styling, several decor motifs for exterior wall areas and window shutters, and an "expendable" set of basic layouts allowing a fifth and sixth bedroom.

THE TWO additional bedrooms are available in the "Ultimate" for $750 more than the $31,500 cost of the basic four-bedroom design. Other Bluett-built homes include split-level and ranch models with prices from $28,400.

The tri-level "Ultimate" is offered on a lot approximately 75 feet by 135 feet.

Entrance is at grade level, into a wide foyer with a vinyl tile floor in small-stone design. Past a roomy guest closet, the foyer-corridor leads directly back to the family-rec room. This is 25 feet long and 13 feet wide in the basic model, with the lower-level powder room in one corner. In the optional layouts, this area is taken up with the added bedrooms. At the purchaser's preference, a family room readily fits into the basement in the other wing of the house.

ON THE MAIN living level, the living room—24 feet by 13 fet—is reached via two small sets of steps at right angles. With plenty of wall space for the purchaser's decorative ideas the living room opens, in an "L" arrangement, into a dining room.

The kitchen has three entrances and a large informal eating area. Cabinets and work counters are in "L"—with matching built-in range, oven, dishwasher and disposal.

The sleeping level is reached by stairs leading from the home's traffic center, with the upper level distributing corridor expanding into a larger L-shaped area. Four bedrooms and the main bathroom open off this area. The second bath is private to the master bedroom. Closets are double-size, with quiet-sliding doors.

BLUET-DESIGNED homes are open to viewers every day from 10 a.m. till dusk. The community is located just off Rand Road (Route 12) on Wolf Road north of Central Road. (15BB

Announce New Honda Dealer for Suburbs

Northwest suburban cycle fans will have a new Honda scource with the opening of Northwest Honda scheduled for the middle of January at 8107 W. Oak Ave. (Milwaukee Ave. one block north of Dempster St.), Niles.

The new Honda headquarters will be a one-stop Honda shop, says owner and manager William Feigen, for it will include sales, service, parts and accessories and even insurance and financing.

Northwest Honda's modern 4,620 square foot building will be completely air conditioned. The 66 by 20 foot showroom will be paneled in pecan wood and feature a Hi-fi system and drop ceiling with recessed lighting.

THIS GREAT departure from the stereotype of a cycle shop is, Feigen stresses, a conscious effort at a cycle sales and service center with aesthetically appealing lines.

The impetus came from a tour Feigen made of cycle dealers in California where he found the sales rooms pleasing to the eye and ear rather than drab shops.

Feigen feels that the pleasing atmosphere will, in addition to instilling confidence in the product, appeal to adult buyers. While many cycle customers are not adults, they must be accompanied by their parents because they have not reached mimimun legal age.

AS PART of the training prowhich Honda requires of all its dealers, Feigen and one of his mechanics recently attended the American Honda Motors Co.'s mechanics service and policy school in Gardena, Calif. Honda also required that in addition to having trained and competent help available, its dealers must stock a complete line of 16 different Honda models and a complete assortment of parts, which runs into thousands of items.

Feigen, now 35, has been a cycling enthusiast for many years. But he had an outstanding career in marketing before his interest in cycles became irresistible. His past five years have been spent working at the management level which included positions as national sales manager for Coleman Instruments Co. from 1962 until 1964 and national sales manager for Apex Smelting Co. from 1964 until this year. HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

Nearly four-fifths of families purchase Christmas trees between Dec. 10 and 19. As most everyone suspects, cut trees account for nine-tenths of the selection. Other types of trees purchased are sprayed or painted trees, flocked trees, artificial trees, and in some areas, living trees with a ball of soil around the roots.

If you do your tree shopping this weekend, the chances are good you'll bring home a better tree than ever before. That's because nurserymen continue to produce better trees in greater abundance just for the Christmas tree market.

HERE ARE A FEW tips to make your tree selection easier. First consider a "perfect," tree if it is for a picture window, or the center of the room. However, why bother looking for a "perfect" tree if one side goes against a wall or in a corner.

Next, check the bottom whorl of branches on the tree. This is usually where a "crook" may be found. Many times this whorl of branches is incomplete. However, sometimes the tree will look just as good if this bottom whorl is sawed off and the This little trick may enable you to obtain a more inexpensive tree..provide greenery for decorations and if the "crook" is removed, eliminate a problem in setting up your tree.

Remember too when selecting your tree that pines hold needles best, firs next, and spruces last.

After picking out your Christmas tree make your holiday season complete by obtaining your poinsettia. Something new and pleasant has happened to poinsettias in the last five years. New long keeping varieties are now available that will retain their bloom in the home from now until Easter.

I personally kept one of these new Mikkelsen poinsettias until Easter last year. In fact the plant is so sturdy that many people are blooming last years plants for this Christmas. Simply go to your florist and ask for a Mikkelson poinsettia. They come in red, white or pink. Although you will not be able to identify this new long lasting poinsettia, your florist though working with hundreds of plants will be able to point out slight differences in the leaves.

ONCE HOME, place the plant where it will receive bright light but not direct sun. Keep away from radiators and other especially hot dry places. If the Mikkelsen poinsettia is placed in a place that does not agree with it, it will respond by shedding a few leaves. The brightly colored bracts will remain attached.

Obtain the maximum holiday pleasure from this new holiday poinsettia by obtaining it early. (15 BB

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

Nearly four-fifths of families purchase Christmas trees between Dec. 10 and 19. As most everyone suspects, cut trees account for nine-tenths of the selection. Other types of trees purchased are sprayed or painted trees, flocked trees, artificial trees, and in some areas, living trees with a ball of soil around the roots.

If you do your tree shopping this weekend, the chances are good you'll bring home a better tree than ever before. That's because nurserymen continue to produce better trees in greater abundance just for the Christmas tree market.

HERE ARE A FEW tips to make your tree selection easier. First consider a "perfect," tree if it is for a picture window, or the center of the room. However, why bother looking for a "perfect" tree if one side goes against a wall or in a corner.

Next, check the bottom whorl of branches on the tree. This is usually where a "crook" may be found. Many times this whorl of branches is incomplete. However, sometimes the tree will look just as good if this bottom whorl is sawed off and the This little trick may enable you to obtain a more inexpensive tree..provide greenery for decorations and if the "crook" is removed, eliminate a problem in setting up your tree.

Remember too when selecting your tree that pines hold needles best, firs next, and spruces last.

After picking out your Christmas tree make your holiday season complete by obtaining your poinsettia. Something new and pleasant has happened to poinsettias in the last five years. New long keeping varieties are now available that will retain their bloom in the home from now until Easter.

I personally kept one of these new Mikkelsen poinsettias until Easter last year. In fact the plant is so sturdy that many people are blooming last years plants for this Christmas. Simply go to your florist and ask for a Mikkelson poinsettia. They come in red, white or pink. Although you will not be able to identify this new long lasting poinsettia, your florist though working with hundreds of plants will be able to point out slight differences in the leaves.

ONCE HOME, place the plant where it will receive bright light but not direct sun. Keep away from radiators and other especially hot dry places. If the Mikkelsen poinsettia is placed in a place that does not agree with it, it will respond by shedding a few leaves. The brightly colored bracts will remain attached.

Obtain the maximum holiday pleasure from this new holiday poinsettia by obtaining it early. (15 BB

For And About Teenagers

I'M AFRAID TO TELL MY PARENTS ABOUT HIM...

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am 13 years old and in the eighth grade. I am interested in a boy who is a year older, but I am afraid to tell my parents about him. I know they will make fun of me and tell me I am too young to court. I'm even afraid to talk to a boy on the phone because of what they'll say. I can't spend a night with a friend because they suspect I'm only doing so to talk to the boys. Please let me know if girls of 13 years of age should be allowed to court."

OUR REPLY: Everything depends on what you mean by "courting." At thirteen, in this writer's opinion, a girl is too young to begin having dates and going "steady" with a boy. She is not too young to go to parties and social gatherings, properly supervised. She is old enough to talk to boys as well as girls on the telephone . . . within reason. The telephone is a method of communication and should be regarded as such.

When you are allowed to have dates is something your parents will decide. Whenever it happens, you will most likely be kidded a bit. This is to be expected. Take it in the friendly spirit in which it is intended. If you like someone, tell your parents. Only by being honest with your parents will you deserve and earn their confidence.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS. COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE. FRANKFORT, KY.

For And About Teenagers

THE ONLY WAY I CAN "TALK" TO HER IS BY WRITING NOTES.

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I am sixteen and am very bashful. What can I do about it? I like a girl who is about my age. But when I see her in school, I freeze up and can't talk. One day we were walking down the hall at the same time. I said "hi", to her, but was unable to say anything else all the way down the hall. The only way I can "talk" to her is by writing notes. We did this all last year. How can I learn to talk to her and not be so self-conscious? Please help me."

OUR REPLY: The only way you can learn to "talk" to a girl is by talking. Relax. She isn't going to do anything except talk back to you — unless she, too, is bashful. And, this may well be the case.

Certainly you can find a subject to talk about — how the school is faring in sports, whatever may be making news locally or on the national scene, even the weather. If you know of some common interest you both have, a hobby or some school activity, you have a natural topic for conversation. Don't worry about what you are going to say. Relax, be yourself, and you'll have no problem.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS. COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE. FRANKFORT, KY.

The Way We See It

Equal Employment Opportunity Grows

Progress is being made toward achieving equal employment opportunity in Illinois, but there is still a long way to go.

This is the message of the Fair Employment Practices Commission in its annual report after its third year of operation.

On the positive side, the report states: "The Commission believes that problems of unequal employment opportunities can be settled on the local level by conference and negotiation . . ."

On the minus side, it says that progress is not being made at the same rate in all parts of the state, nor in all areas of employment."

To overcome lags, the commission recommends, above all, more communication between the parties concerned. These parties are the leading employers, the minority leaders, the leading union officials, and local school and municipal officials.

The commission has found what so many other groups wrestling with problems have discovered: the first step to a solution is communication between the parties involved.

Another important need is "to increase the number of qualified, trained, and well motivated Negro job applicants of all ages."

Although the report does not say it, still another obstacle to equal job opportunities is housing discrimination, which confines minority groups to the inner city remote from many jobs.

However, several factors are at work to overcome job discrimination.

—Congress has passed laws which clearly establish equality as an urgent national goal.

—The federal civil rights act will bolster the efforts of state and local groups.

—Important resources are being mobilized to improve the education of Negro youth.

—By local initiative, human relations groups are being established in most communities in the state.

Although comparatively few jobs in suburbia are held by Negroes, we can expect the number to increase, perhaps quite rapidly, in the next few years.

This will result from industrial expansion in the suburbs, more qualified applicants from minority groups, changes in housing patterns, and strong grass roots support for equality as part of the "American dream."

The Fair Employment Practices Commission can give important help in this transition. Interestingly, both its chairmen, first Charles W. Gray of Prospect Heights and now Selway H. Torff of Hinsdale, are suburban residents.

Suburbia should use the know-how and good offices of this commission to hasten the day when the dream of equality of employment opportunity is translated into reality in Illinois.

'New Era' for Illinois

There's much to cheer about as a result of the recent two-day recreation conference at Illinois Beach State Park near Zion.

First of all, state officials unveiled a comprehensive plan for outdoor recreation development. Such a plan is long overdue. Illinois is way behind in recreation.

The report noted candidly that "Illinois has a park system which ranks lowest in the nation in terms of quantity and facility development."

Despite population growth, hunting licenses are down 12 per cent since 1955 and fishing licenses down 17 per cent, indicating the decline that has taken place in opportunities for these outdoor activities.

It was also encouraging to see officials determined to emphasize land acquisition above everything else. For the first two years of the plan, all money, both state and local in origin, will go to land purchases.

If land isn't secured in the next 10 or 15 years, it will never be available, William T. Lodge, conservation department director, pointed out.

There was an air of determination to resist special interests who may try to get land acquisition funds diverted to other uses.

Quite rightly, the emphasis will be put on acquiring land in or near urban areas.

Also encouraging was the fact the report was sponsored by the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development. Recognition that healthy economic growth is linked with recreation opportunities is a good sign.

"Many residents seek their recreation in other states," noted Gene H. Graves, director of the economic development department.

The plan aims to transform Illinois from a state which tourists and campers avoid into one which attracts them. If achieved, this will benefit Illinois residents both economically and recreationally.

The development of this plan is important to the future of the state. The public should support its implementation, promptly and fully. As Gov. Kerner said, it can mean a "new era" for Illinois.

The Heart of the Family

Christmas is a time for thankfulness, togetherness, charity. It is a time to acknowledge blessings, for spiritual rejoicing.

Traditionally at Christmastime, our thoughts turn more to home and family than any other season of the year. A prime force in the development of these traditions is the suburban homemaker.

She is the one who bears the brunt of Johnny's tears. She is the one who puts up with the plumber who thinks women are stupid, and knows nothing about needed repairs to the sink.

It is the homemaker who keeps our economy running, with all due apologies to LBJ. And it is she who represents the security, the roots of family living.

This is an appropriate time to pay tribute to the woman of the suburbs and to offer recognition of her important role in the family, civic, and spiritual life of our communities.

She molds, sustains, guides and reassures us throughout the year. She is, in large measure, responsible for what we are, what we want to be.

In this Christmas season, we are privileged to identify the increasingly vital role of the suburban homemaker. To her, for her, we give thanks.

Cash and Christmas

By HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

A majority of northwest suburban women apparently feel Christmas is being transformed to Cash-must.

"Is there too much commercialism in Christmas?" was the question asked for six women in a random survey.

Generally, the response was yes, although one reported that she wasn't sure if the results were harmful or not.

Harmening

Mrs. Robert E. Weed, Arlington Heights, however, said she really didn't think Christmas was becoming too commercialized.

"PEOPLE ARE just buying what they need." she said, "but I do think the meaning of Christmas has changed. I just don't think the religious feeling is there any more.

"I personally think there's too much emphasis on materialism, but that's the way the majority of the people want it. Christmas seems to be evolving into a month-long festival, but I think that's a sign of our prosperity."

A Mount Prospect woman agreed the religious meaning of Christmas semed to be lost, but added later: "I imagine stores have to start early just to get everything ready for shoppers.

MRS. ARTHUR V. Keller, 653 Wren, Palatine, meanwhile, said she definitely felt merchants start their Christmas displays too early.

"By the time it's time," she explained, "you've had it. I kind of like it to start after Thanksgiving myself. It seems like it's getting earlier and earlier every year and by the time December comes around you're sick of it.

"I think most people lack the real ability to appreciate Christmas. Children seem so interested in how many presents they get especially the little ones who go to school and compare the number with their friends. I imagine little ones want everything they see on television, and many times the parents can't afford much."

Mrs. Russell L. Meade, 333 Turner Ave., Roselle, agreed, saying that "as far as businesses are concerned, it's good, but it takes away the meaning of Christmas for the individual. I wonder sometimes if they're going to forget about Thanksgiving."

MRS. MEADE went on to say she thought children have forgotten the meaning of Christmas in many cases and think of it only as a time "when Santa Claus is coming."

"My children are excited about Santa, too," she added, "but, at the same time, they're taught the real meaning of Christmas. There's too much emphasis for many children on gifts."

"It's becoming much too much commercialized in every sense of the word," said Mrs. Earl R. Hamren, 269 S. Park Ave., Wheeling. "We hadn't even gotten to our turkey yet this year when we were presented with Santa Claus."

MRS. HAMREN said she wished "they would go back to some of the more religious Christmas cards, too," and added she felt children "forget sometimes what Christmas is really all about after they watch television."

"I especially don't think the selling of toys in a supermarket is wise," she continued. "The children see these expensive toys and finally badger their parents until they give in."

Mrs. Richard L. Bartels, 220 Fern, Elk Grove Village, meanwhile, agreed with the majority that there may be too much commercialism in Christmas, but added she "really couldn't say if the effect is good or bad."

"Christmas crept up on us this year," she said. "It just doesn't seem like Christmas yet. My two children aren't even too excited."

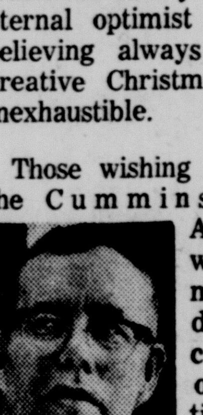
Here Are Award-Winners

by BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

Once again this year I am offering bronze medals for achievement in various kinds of Christmas activities. Many persons consider Christmas traditions firmly fixed. As an eternal optimist I disagree, believing always that the creative Christmas spirit is inexhaustible.

Those wishing to enter for the Cummins Christmas Awards may want a reminder of the different categories of competition. This reminder can be given by recalling the winners of last year's events.



CUMMINS

The medal for earliest rising on Christmas morn was won by the Tostheeter twins, Ken and David. They roused their parents at 3:58 a.m. with a demand that everyone go downstairs and open all the Christmas presents.

THE AWARD for having the greatest number of outdoor tree lights stolen was won by Mrs. Lorimer Seargriddle. Her claim of six thefts totaling 72 stolen light bulbs, consisting of eight strings of six bulbs and two strings of twelve bulbs, was confirmed by official reports in the files of the Arlington Heights Police Department.

Winner of the medal for having the most lopsided Christmas tree was Guy Orlpattle. He submitted a Polaroid photograph showing that his lopsided Scotch pine was kept from tipping over only by means of a guy wire anchored to a screw hook in his living room baseboard.

After some very keen competition, Randy Shagpantz was crowned king of the late shoppers. Randy was having a beer at Mabel & Eddie's tavern at 4:37 p.m. Christmas Eve, when suddenly he leaped from his bar stool, shouting, "I haven't done my Christmas shopping yet!"

HE DASHED from the tavern and returned shortly after the stores closed at 5 p.m. with 17 presents in his arms. This remarkable record of 1.32 shopping minutes per present won for Randy the medal as king of the late shoppers.

Prof. David Clefbender of the Northwestern University School of Music was asked to award the medal for the carol singing group that was most off-key. The medal went to a group organized by the Hackberry Home Owners Association.

"All the groups I auditioned were horribly off key," Prof. Clefbender told me, "but I gave the medal to the Hackberry group when a half-blind 13-year-old dog attacked in an effort to silence them. I have an affidavit stating this was the first hostile act by the dog in its entire lifetime."

FINALLY, THE medal for most audacious Christmas sales promotion by an advertising firm was awarded to the Brogtoot Agency.

Their winning spot radio announcement went: "Why not give your loved ones peace and security this year? Give a gift that shows you care! This year, give a cemetery lot for Christmas!"

Simple Life Has Vanished

By PAT ADAM
Suburban Living Editor

My 12-year-old son took his first long bicycle hike the other day. Not along a quiet country road, the kind I knew as a child, but along a busily traveled street from our town into Evanston. He and his friends had no choice; no matter what route they took, it would have been filled with traffic.

In a way I felt sorry for him and his pals. Except for the forest preserves, they have no rural areas to roam and explore as I did when growing up. But they don't even know what they're missing. They are urban-born and urban-bred and find their adventure where and in what ways they can.

IT'S ONLY natural for youngsters to seek to expand their world beyond their own neighborhoods, and we've left them few places to do it as vacant lots give way to buildings and villages gobble up the rural areas on their edges.

Maybe the lack of places to explore is part of the explanation for seemingly malicious Halloween pranks like the one about which a Fencepost writer complained. Someone wrecked her little folks' jack o' lanterns before they even had a chance to see their dad's handiwork. Perhaps having so few places to roam freely is one reason why some youngsters turn to vandalism for adventure.

Childhood will never be for urban youngsters what it was for those of us who grew up on farms or in small towns or in suburbs not too near the city. They must have substitutes for those rural areas we had to explore.

Some adults complain about so-called "frills" in the education curriculum, but if they thought a little further, they would see music, art, dramatics, athletics and other areas not strictly within the academic definition as today's paths to adventure for many youngsters.

ADAM

The "too many toys" they criticize do include a lot of junk ones, but there also are many that show thought in planning and that provide avenues to creative thinking and adventure.

FOR SOME children, the planned park programs, Little League, Boy Scouts and similar organized activities are the answer to the need for new experiences and an expanding world.

Even what to us adults may appear as frantic dancing, an unreasonable attachment to the automobile or an affinity for only loud music among the teens is partly a manifestation of that need for self-expression and adventure which in our youth was met in other ways.

I feel mine and other suburban children are the poorer for never swimming in a creek so clear one can see the sandy bottom . . . or tramping through the woods in spring searching for violets, better yet, picking huge bouquets of them . . . or ice skating for miles along a frozen winding river . . . trying to balance a bike on a rutty dirt road . . . scrambling carefully under a barbed wire fence so as not to snag one's clothes . . . riding two astride a pony through a pasture . . . marching in a Memorial Day parade to the cemetery at the edge of town . . . I could describe a hundred more such memories.

BUT LIFE was much simpler when I was young, and their more sophisticated ways of seeking adventure most likely will prepare them better for the world they will inherit than mine would.

As they remind me every so often, "Things are different now, Mother." I must agree, somewhat sadly.

I imagine little ones want everything they see on television, and many times the parents can't afford much."

Mrs. Russell L. Meade, 333 Turner Ave., Roselle, agreed, saying that "as far as businesses are concerned, it's good, but it takes away the meaning of Christmas for the individual. I wonder sometimes if they're going to forget about Thanksgiving."

MRS. MEADE went on to say she thought children have forgotten the meaning of Christmas in many cases and think of it only as a time "when Santa Claus is coming."

"My children are excited about Santa, too," she added, "but, at the same time, they're taught the real meaning of Christmas. There's too much emphasis for many children on gifts."

"It's becoming much too much commercialized in every sense of the word," said Mrs. Earl R. Hamren, 269 S. Park Ave., Wheeling. "We hadn't even gotten to our turkey yet this year when we were presented with Santa Claus."

MRS. HAMREN said she wished "they would go back to some of the more religious Christmas cards, too," and added she felt children "forget sometimes what Christmas is really all about after they watch television."

"I especially don't think the selling of toys in a supermarket is wise," she continued. "The children see these expensive toys and finally badger their parents until they give in."

Mrs. Richard L. Bartels, 220 Fern, Elk Grove Village, meanwhile, agreed with the majority that there may be too much commercialism in Christmas, but added she "really couldn't say if the effect is good or bad."

"Christmas crept up on us this year," she said. "It just doesn't seem like Christmas yet. My two children aren't even too excited."

Here Are Award-Winners

by BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

Once again this year I am offering bronze medals for achievement in various kinds of Christmas activities. Many persons consider Christmas traditions firmly fixed. As an eternal optimist I disagree, believing always that the creative Christmas spirit is inexhaustible.

Those wishing to enter for the Cummins Christmas Awards may want a reminder of the different categories of competition. This reminder can be given by recalling the winners of last year's events.

CUMMINS

The medal for earliest rising on Christmas morn was won by the Tostheeter twins, Ken and David. They roused their parents at 3:58 a.m. with a demand that everyone go downstairs and open all the Christmas presents.

THE AWARD for having the greatest number of outdoor tree lights stolen was won by Mrs. Lorimer Seargriddle. Her claim of six thefts totaling 72 stolen light bulbs, consisting of eight strings of six bulbs and two strings of twelve bulbs, was confirmed by official reports in the files of the Arlington Heights Police Department.

Winner of the medal for having the most lopsided Christmas tree was Guy Orlpattle. He submitted a Polaroid photograph showing that his lopsided Scotch pine was kept from tipping over only by means of a guy wire anchored to a screw hook in his living room baseboard.

After some very keen competition, Randy Shagpantz was crowned king of the late shoppers. Randy was having a beer at Mabel & Eddie's tavern at 4:37 p.m. Christmas Eve, when suddenly he leaped from his bar stool, shouting, "I haven't done my Christmas shopping yet!"

HE DASHED from the tavern and returned shortly after the stores closed at 5 p.m. with 17 presents in his arms. This remarkable record of 1.32 shopping minutes per present won for Randy the medal as king of the late shoppers.

Prof. David Clefbender of the Northwestern University School of Music was asked to award the medal for the carol singing group that was most off-key. The medal went to a group organized by the Hackberry Home Owners Association.

"All the groups I auditioned were horribly off key," Prof. Clefbender told me, "but I gave the medal to the Hackberry group when a half-blind 13-year-old dog attacked in an effort to silence them. I have an affidavit stating this was the first hostile act by the dog in its entire lifetime."

FINALLY, THE medal for most audacious Christmas sales promotion by an advertising firm was awarded to the Brogtoot Agency.

Their winning spot radio announcement went: "Why not give your loved ones peace and security this year? Give a gift that shows you care! This year, give a cemetery lot for Christmas!"

Influenza May Hit Hard This Winter

The only good thing that may be said about flu is that it tends to come in regular cycles, giving us an opportunity to prepare for it. And if the cycle remains consistent, it's coming again this winter.

While influenza is usually self-limiting, it's not to be taken lightly. During the last epidemic of Type A virus — the fastest spreading form which tends to flare up every two or three years — official deaths totaled 55,000 from January to April, 1963.

Since Type A didn't make a major appearance last winter, chances are we'll get "hit" this winter. What's more, Type B, the second major form, might also strike.

HOW CAN YOU guard against flu?

Get your flu shots! Now!

A major change was made in flu vaccine in 1963, affording you better protection than ever before. Considered 80 percent effective, it now offers protection against the latest trouble-causing Type A virus as well as Type B. This double duty protection requires two shots, two months apart. (Those who took this safeguard within the past two years only require a single "booster" this fall.)

Expectant mothers, those over 45, people with chronic heart, lung and kidney ailments and those who live in close quarters (nursing homes and dormitories) are especially urged to get their flu shots.

SINCE THERE ARE no antibiotics or "miracle drugs" to combat this virus once you get it, flu can infect the lining membrane of the bronchial tubes and then go on to inflame the air cells of the lungs. These complications can make even young healthy people susceptible to pneumonia. The virus can also produce a rundown condition, resulting in prostration and weakness for weeks, even months, after flu symptoms disappear.

With no specific medical treatment for flu, the symptoms of sudden chills, fever, headache, muscular pains, sore throat, dry cough and nasal obstruction can be treated at home, if these symptoms take on a moderate uncomplicated form.

How can you treat it?

GO TO BED immediately and stay there. Drink plenty of water and fruit juices. Keep your diet light. Keep warm, especially during the sweating period. If necessary, take aspirin for the fever and achiness.

If your temperature climbs or other symptoms become severe, seek medical attention quickly. Measures can be taken to prevent serious complications.

Churchwomen Will Stage Variety Acts

"Christmas Shopping" is the theme of the holiday show to be presented tonight (Thursday) at the monthly meeting of St. Thomas of Villanova Woman's Club, Palatine.

Directed by Mr. and Mrs. John Scanlan with a cast of 25 club members, the variety show will feature acts ranging from a religious number to a mock fashion show and a performance of the Santa dancers.

A DOLLAR grab-bag gift exchange will be included. Also, a collection of gifts for residents of Lincoln-Dixon Schools will be made at this time.

The meeting begins with benediction in the church at 8:15 p.m.

Fluorescent Lights Aid Indoor Plants

For a gardener, happiness is growing plants all year round. And with the help of fluorescent lights, you can do just that, even while winter rules outside.

Indoor gardeners, using readily available fluorescent lighting fixtures about 10 inches above the top leaves of plants, can simulate summer's sunlight. By keeping your plants in red clay pots, as the U. S. Department of Agriculture advises, you'll find it much easier to maintain healthy plants and flowers.

THE CLAY POTS simulate the natural drainage action of good garden soil by leaching out excess water and salts through their sides. This porosity also allows for passage of air into the potting soil, a necessity for healthy root growth.

Remember that different plants require varying amounts of light. For example, chrysanthemums, gardenias, Christmas begonias and poinsettias are called short day plants because they need 10 to 13 hours of artificial light daily.

Long day plants need 14 to 18 hours of light to bloom. Included in this group are China asters, dahlias, fuchsia and nasturtiums.

INDETERMINATE plants will blossom in varying degrees of abundance with anywhere from 12 to 18 hours of light. This includes the majority of house plants such as African violets, gloxinias, begonias, geraniums and coleus.

A little experimentation will show just what is the best amount of light for each plant.

Musicale, Tea By Valpo Guild

Valparaiso University Women's Guild has set its eighth annual Christmas musicale and tea for Sunday, Dec. 12, at 3 p.m. in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Lee and Thacker Streets, Des Plaines.

On the program will be the chancel choir of seventh and eighth graders of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, under direction of Donald Herman. Edwin L. Kirchhoff of Lexington Fields, Palatine, will be guest organist.

Proceeds from a free will offering and Christmas cookie sale at the event will help provide furnishings for a new guild Center of Admissions and for three bells in the carillon tower near the chapel on the Valparaiso campus in Indiana.

Food Is Essential to Holiday Get-Togethers

A COZY FIRE, a prettily set tea table, cruncy good cookies add up to a pleasant holiday get-together with friends or relatives. The recipe for these Cheery Chocolate Fancies and other goodies are in the adjoining column and in Lois Seiler's Cook of the Week feature inside the Suburban Living section.

Visits with friends and relatives are one of the nicest things about Christmas. Whether it's just an intimate chat, a dinner party or an open house, food is an essential ingredient of holiday get-togethers.

Cheery Cocolate Fancies are a delicious three-layer cookie, just right to serve with coffee or tea. Or perhaps you want to serve Frosted Fruit Rolls, an Americanized version of the Czechoslovakian Kolachky.

For a sweet to put on your open house table, try Choco-Walnut Whirligigs, easy to make ahead of time and keep chilled till party time.

A GOOD PUNCH recipe is a lifesaver during the holiday season, and this one for Open House Punch can be made in advance and there's no problem of concocting individual beverages during the party.

CHEERY CHOCOLATE FANCIES

Topping:
2 eggs
1 cup firmly-packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups chopped nuts

Beat eggs until thick and lemon-colored. Add brown sugar and vanilla; mix until well blended. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; blend into egg mixture. Stir in nuts. Spread evenly over chocolate layer. Bake in 375 degree F. oven 15 to 20 minutes. Cool. Cut in 3x1-inch bars. Yield: 3 dozen.

With fingertips make a deep depression in each ball to within ½ inch of edge. Place 1 tablespoon marmalade or preserves in each depression.

Bake immediately in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes, or until done. Frost with confectioners' sugar frosting before serving. Makes two dozen rolls.

Grace Home with Silver For Yuletide Entertaining

In the glow of the Christmas holidays, your home becomes a stage setting.

It is the gracious background for holly massed in a silver pitcher, mistletoe strung from the ceiling, shining ornaments piled in a handsome silver bowl, branches of pine looped along the mantel piece.

Pick up the colors of Christmas in the candles you use in silver holders or candelabra. Cluster crystal and cut glass decanters on a sparkling silver tray and set your silver coffee service where it can be seen and admired. And, of course, used with pleasure all through the holidays.

PLAN AT least one sit down dinner party during the Christmas season. For this use a linen cloth in red or green with napkins in the reverse color. Mass silver tipped pine branches and Christmas ornaments —or holly— in a silver pitcher or a bowl and add silver candlesticks holding Christmas colored candles.

If you've Christmas china patterned in red, green and gold on white, you'll use it, of course. It will be beautiful accompaniment for your favorite silver pattern for silver is very adaptable. Use pine cones tipped with silver to hold place cards.

There are many ways of entertaining during the holidays. Since you want to enjoy the season, too, without exhausting yourself, plan some simple little parties that are fun without tiring you. One of the easiest is the coffee party. For this, you need only your handsome silver coffee service, fresh coffee served piping hot and small sandwiches and cakes. This is a party for close and well-loved friends, cozy, intimate and delightful.

TO ENTERTAIN a number of good friends in one evening, plan an informal buffet. Your silver will grace a buffet table planned around a red-and-green Christmas theme. The decorations here can be a small tree, beautifully trimmed, a tremendous Della Robbia wreath placed on the wall over the table or a handsome arrangement of pine branches and red carnations.

At one end of the table let your coffee service shine in all its splendor. Have lots of bubbling hot coffee ready in the kitchen so that the server can be refilled as needed. Since nothing is cosier than hot coffee in cold weather, there are sure to be demands for second and third cups. Be ready!

Having a shining silver Christmas, the happiest you ever have had!

Scriptures, Poetry Set For Program

A Christmas meditation using scripture and contemporary poetry will comprise a major part of the program at the monthly meeting of Southminster United Presbyterian Church Woman's Association in Arlington Heights next Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Mrs. M. J. Coolbaugh, program leader, will utilize a voice choir for this presentation. The Vocals, a singing group from Forest View High School, will offer a medley of songs of the season.

At the meeting, which begins at 1 p.m., officers for 1966 will be installed by Mrs. William King, wife of the minister of the new Presbyterian Church in Prospect Heights. Mrs. F. M. Brasch will succeed Mrs. Gordon L. Howard as president.

Businesswomen Plan Yule Party

A Christmas party, complete with gifts, games and carols is planned for tonight, (Thursday) by members of Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club. The party will be held in the Carousel Restaurant in Arlington Heights, and each member is asked to bring a grab bag gift for the exchange.

At their November meeting, the group heard Kathryn De Jersey, an astrologist, who explained the influence of the signs of the Zodiac on the physical and mental characteristics of men and women. Members of the audience served as examples.

Curls Take on Lady Look For Holiday, Winter Season

CURLS CONTINUE to make big news in hair fashions. The Lively Curl Look that set the pace for fall hair fashions has grown up into the Lady Curl Look for the holiday and winter seasons.

More dramatic, and definitely not the look for little girls, the Lady Curl Look is designed for the woman who is proud of being a woman, according to the official hair fashion committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The first meaningful use of curls came for the fall season as a revolt against defemininzingly straight hair. Women wanted to look like girls, not boys. Now, just in time for the holiday and winter picture, the little girl curls are growing up into a truly ladylike arrangement.

THE NEW STYLES are neither coy nor pert; the curls convey a note of elegant grooming. Their arrangement is less abandoned than seen for fall.

Dominance of curl formations is in the top front area. This puts the curls right up front where you get their full impact. In many cases, the curls still tumble forward onto the forehead and sides, but now more carefully. However, this arrangement is flexible. With an easy flip of the comb or brush, the curls can be swept off the forehead, either upwards or to the sides. This is particularly convenient for the holidays ahead, since it allows you to cover the social rounds and always with a slightly different coiffure.

Also, the curls can be dressed up to dramatic heights for evening and special occasions. In many cases, hair pieces are used to achieve the desired height and feeling of opulence.

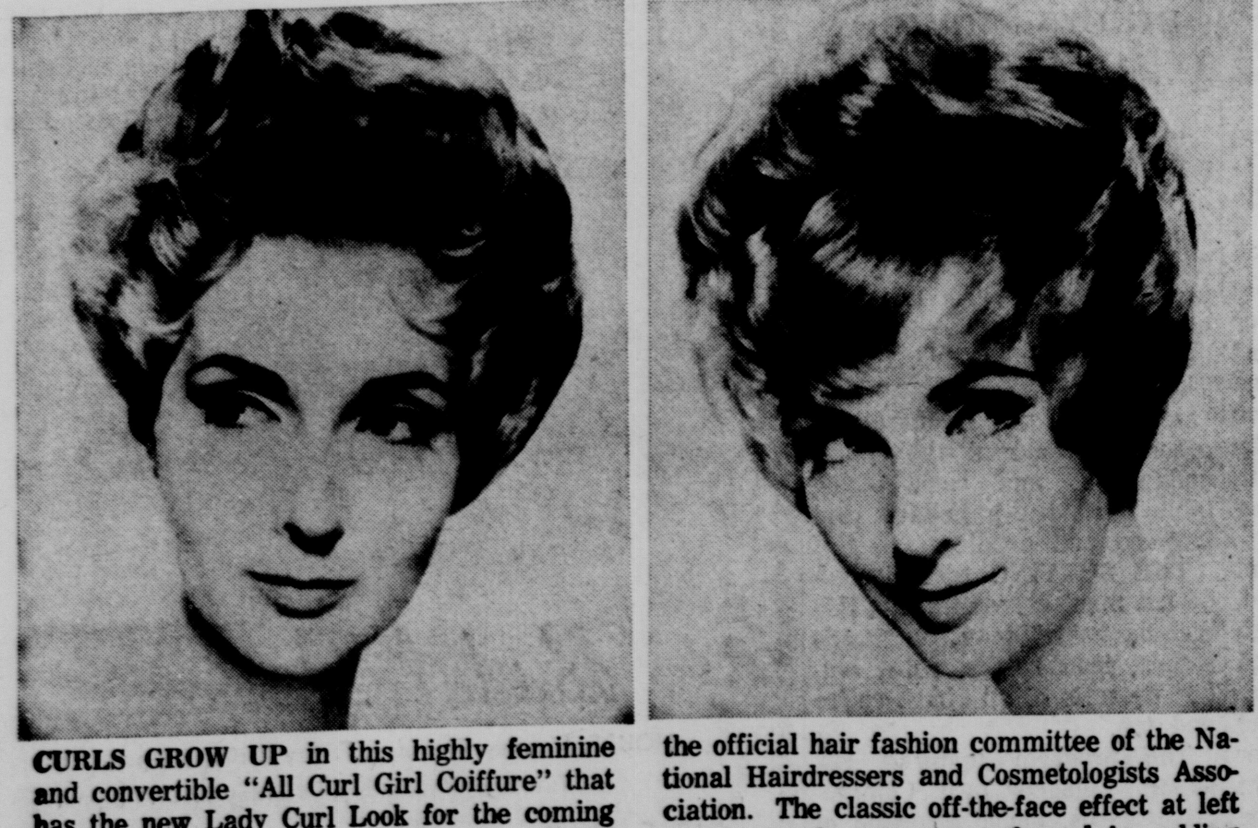
REGARDLESS of the height, the coiffure still conveys a small head appearance. To give its silhouette a slender look and graceful balance, hair at the nape and lower crown area is gently fitted with softly waved movements.

The actual length of the hair continues to depend upon individual needs. Of vital importance is a professionally executed haircut to give your coiffure the architectural balance required for the elegant proportions of the new styles. Shaping technique includes tapering of the hair strands to give desired easy care and curl control.

The length of the hair at the nape area is the shortest, increasing gradually as you move upwards. The greatest length is at the top and front part of the head, decreasing slightly towards the front hairline.

PROFESSIONAL permanent waving will provide needed body and richness to your hair, as well as adding control to keep your curls well-groomed and ladylike.

Soft ladylike colors of muted shades will be particularly popular for coiffures during the winter and holiday season. They will cover the entire field of natural tones among the browns and soft reads, with delicate shades of blonde enjoying special appeal. Several tones of a single color will be used to enhance naturalism, or to define dramatic accents, but the overall appearance must be ladylike.



CURLS GROW UP in this highly feminine and convertible "All Curl Girl Coiffure" that has the new Lady Curl Look for the coming holiday and winter season. The two moods shown are only a few of several that can be combed from one basic setting, designed by the official hair fashion committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. The classic off-the-face effect at left can be made even more formal by adding height with hair pieces.

Mass silver tipped pine branches and Christmas ornaments —or holly— in a silver pitcher or a bowl and add silver candlesticks holding Christmas colored candles.

If you've Christmas china patterned in red, green and gold on white, you'll use it, of course. It will be beautiful accompaniment for your favorite silver pattern for silver is very adaptable. Use pine cones tipped with silver to hold place cards.

There are many ways of entertaining during the holidays. Since you want to enjoy the season, too, without exhausting yourself, plan some simple little parties that are fun without tiring you. One of the easiest is the coffee party. For this, you need only your handsome silver coffee service, fresh coffee served piping hot and small sandwiches and cakes. This is a party for close and well-loved friends, cozy, intimate and delightful.

TO ENTERTAIN a number of good friends in one evening, plan an informal buffet. Your silver will grace a buffet table planned around a red-and-green Christmas theme. The decorations here can be a small tree, beautifully trimmed, a tremendous Della Robbia wreath placed on the wall over the table or a handsome arrangement of pine branches and red carnations.

At one end of the table let your coffee service shine in all its splendor. Have lots of bubbling hot coffee ready in the kitchen so that the server can be refilled as needed. Since nothing is cosier than hot coffee in cold weather, there are sure to be demands for second and third cups. Be ready!

Having a shining silver Christmas, the happiest you ever have had!

Scriptures, Poetry Set For Program

A Christmas meditation using scripture and contemporary poetry will comprise a major part of the program at the monthly meeting of Southminster United Presbyterian Church Woman's Association in Arlington Heights next Wednesday, Dec. 15.

Mrs. M. J. Coolbaugh, program leader, will utilize a voice choir for this presentation. The Vocals, a singing group from Forest View High School, will offer a medley of songs of the season.

At the meeting, which begins at 1 p.m., officers for 1966 will be installed by Mrs. William King, wife of the minister of the new Presbyterian Church in Prospect Heights. Mrs. F. M. Brasch will succeed Mrs. Gordon L. Howard as president.

Businesswomen Plan Yule Party

A Christmas party, complete with gifts, games and carols is planned for tonight, (Thursday) by members of Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club. The party will be held in the Carousel Restaurant in Arlington Heights, and each member is asked to bring a grab bag gift for the exchange.

At their November meeting, the group heard Kathryn De Jersey, an astrologist, who explained the influence of the signs of the Zodiac on the physical and mental characteristics of men and women. Members of the audience served as examples.

Curls Take on Lady Look For Holiday, Winter Season

CURLS CONTINUE to make big news in hair fashions. The Lively Curl Look that set the pace for fall hair fashions has grown up into the Lady Curl Look for the holiday and winter seasons.

More dramatic, and definitely not the look for little girls, the Lady Curl Look is designed for the woman who is proud of being a woman, according to the official hair fashion committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The first meaningful use of curls came for the fall season as a revolt against defeminizingly straight hair. Women wanted to look like girls, not boys. Now, just in time for the holiday and winter picture, the little girl curls are growing up into a truly ladylike arrangement.

THE NEW STYLES are neither coy nor pert; the curls convey a note of elegant grooming. Their arrangement is less abandoned than seen for fall.

Dominance of curl formations is in the top front area. This puts the curls right up front where you get their full impact. In many cases, the curls still tumble forward onto the forehead and sides, but now more carefully. However, this arrangement is flexible. With an easy flip of the comb or brush, the curls can be swept off the forehead, either upwards or to the sides. This is particularly convenient for the holidays ahead, since it allows you to cover the social rounds and always with a slightly different coiffure.

Also, the curls can be dressed up to dramatic heights for evening and special occasions. In many cases, hair pieces are used to achieve the desired height and feeling of opulence.

REGARDLESS of the height, the coiffure still conveys a small head appearance. To give its silhouette a slender look and graceful balance, hair at the nape and lower crown area is gently fitted with softly waved movements.

The actual length of the hair continues to depend upon individual needs. Of vital importance is a professionally executed haircut to give your coiffure the architectural balance required for the elegant proportions of the new styles. Shaping technique includes tapering of the hair strands to give desired easy care and curl control.

The length of the hair at the nape area is the shortest, increasing gradually as you move upwards. The greatest length is at the top and front part of the head, decreasing slightly towards the front hairline.

PROFESSIONAL permanent waving will provide needed body and richness to your hair, as well as adding control to keep your curls well-groomed and ladylike.

Soft ladylike colors of muted shades will be particularly popular for coiffures during the winter and holiday season. They will cover the entire field of natural tones among the browns and soft reads, with delicate shades of blonde enjoying special appeal. Several tones of a single color will be used to enhance naturalism, or to define dramatic accents, but the overall appearance must be ladylike.

CURLS GROW UP in this highly feminine and convertible "All Curl Girl Coiffure" that has the new Lady Curl Look for the coming holiday and winter season. The two moods shown are only a few of several that can be combed from one basic setting, designed by the official hair fashion committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. The classic off-the-face effect at left can be made even more formal by adding height with hair pieces.

Martin Luther Story, Program At Luncheon

Mrs. Ron Nothnagel will present a dramatization of Mrs. Martin Luther at the Christmas luncheon given by the Lutheran Church Women of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, Saturday, Dec. 11 at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Nothnagel is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Chhurch in Chicago. She is active on the program and education committees of her congregational LCW and is the mother of two teen-age sons.

An article in the Maywood Lutheran Seminary Guild-O-Gram describes Mrs. Nothnagel's dramatization thusly: 'I shall never marry,' said Martin Luther, 'because I expect daily to be burned at the stake or assassinated in the streets.' Baffled, rebuffed, curtailed and restricted, Martin Luther soon afterwards met the woman who was not afraid to face death either for herself or her beloved Herr Doktor.

"How this son of a peasant met and married the proud, aristocratic Katherine Von Bora is a love story that lasted 21 years and is not equalled in all Christendom. The first lady of the Christian parsonage tells her story with humor and insight as she relives the years he spent as an affable father who sang, joked and played with his family." (S

Mrs. Gerald Fossler and Mrs. Robert Myers will assist with arrangements.

SPECIAL GUESTS will be women of Northwest Covenant Church, Mount Prospect.

There will also be a small gift table, proceeds of the sales going to a fund to send a gift to the Marvin Wolford missionary family serving in Africa. Handwork, baked goods and other bazaar articles are being contributed to the table. Mrs. Claude Dotson, Mrs. Louis Larson and Mrs. Donald Wetzall are in charge of this project.(S

Martin Luther Story, Program At Luncheon

Mrs. Ron Nothnagel will present a dramatization of Mrs. Martin Luther at the Christmas luncheon given by the Lutheran Church Women of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights, Saturday, Dec. 11 at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Nothnagel is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Chhurch in Chicago. She is active on the program and education committees of her congregational LCW and is the mother of two teen-age sons.

An article in the Maywood Lutheran Seminary Guild-O-Gram describes Mrs. Nothnagel's dramatization thusly: 'I shall never marry,' said Martin Luther, 'because I expect daily to be burned at the stake or assassinated in the streets.' Baffled, rebuffed, curtailed and restricted, Martin Luther soon afterwards met the woman who was not afraid to face death either for herself or her beloved Herr Doktor.

"How this son of a peasant met and married the proud, aristocratic Katherine Von Bora is a love story that lasted 21 years and is not equalled in all Christendom. The first lady of the Christian parsonage tells her story with humor and insight as she relives the years he spent as an affable father who sang, joked and played with his family." (S

Juniors Sample Potluck Supper

"Variety is the spice of five" could well have been the motto of Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club on Dec. 8, when members shared a potluck supper. The affair was co-hosted by the hospitality committee under direction of Mrs. Harold Thompson.

A Christmas atmosphere was created throughout the school auditorium, and each dining table contained a holiday centerpiece and candles.

THE SERVING table included hot meat casseroles, hot fish dishes, baked ham, vegetable salads, fruit salads, rolls, butter, desserts of all kinds, coffee and tea.

The program featured Elk Grove Village's own Community Chorus, under direction of Gerald Baker. Accompaniment was provided by Mrs. Marilyn Jordan. (S

LEADING 600 DANCERS at the grand march of Capers A-Go-Go Ball Nov. 26 were Sue Hoigard, honored queen elect of Bethel 107 Job's Daughters, Palatine, and her escort, Carl Williams. The affair was the main fund-raiser during the term of Mrs. Roy Schaetzlein of Arlington Heights, grand guardian of Illinois. Guests at the dance were from all parts of the state.

Luncheon Planned

At a board meeting held Dec. 6, the United Voluntary Services Golf Swing Club, Chicago area unit made final plans for the organization's fifth benefit luncheon, "Swing into Spring."

According to Mrs. Carl A. Scharninghousen of Palatine, president of the club, the luncheon will be held Jan. 19 in the Grand Ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel. It will include election of officers and a showing of fashions from Bonwit Teller.

Proceeds will go toward programs under way at the four Veterans Administration Hospitals in the Chicago area and also increase funds for the Scholarship Foundation. (S

On State Street

Tradition Goes Awry

By BETTY AINSLIE

Do you do any traditional things before the holidays to make Christmas special?

We have always made a Saturday trip to the Loop to try to eat under the Christmas tree at Field's and generally get into the hustle and beauty of this holiday season, and we also make an evening trip down Michigan Avenue and State Street in Chicago to stare at the decorated windows and store fronts.

Since we have Bill to help us celebrate Christmas this year, we're back to being cautious in our discussions of Santa and just what part parents have in bringing presents. I've a feeling Bill is being nice to his foster parents by letting us have the fun of another Christmas with a child around who believes in Santa Claus. So this year we do want to do all the special things that lead up to this wonderful holiday.

WE DEPOSITED Son No. 1 on a bus for a return trip to college after the Thanksgiving holiday and decided we'd do our auto riding on that Sunday night to view the decorations.

Now we should have had a slight inkling that others had the same idea when it took us a good 20 minutes to get into the stream of traffic from the parking lot. But because we didn't have too much trouble on Michigan Avenue and because we were pleased with Bill's wide-eyed reaction to the lighted trees along that street, we decided to try State Street.

We inched our way bumper to bumper with others who we found out later were leaving the scene of the Santa parade and, of course, were on the wrong side of the street to see Field's windows too closely.

"TURN ON WLS," demanded bored Son No. 2, who had started asking about McDonald's and hamburgers before we left the bus station and was anxious to have his Sunday night hunger satisfied.

Pop, who had been listening and enjoying some opera excerpts, remained immobile. The street lights changed and changed again without our moving.

"Heck," said Bill, missing no opportunity to get on the right side of this new brother of his. "That music is awful."

"Please," insisted Son No. 1. "Only for a minute until I hear what number the song they are playing is — just a second even?"

POP SMOKED his pipe calmly as he settled the car into park and took his foot from the brake. The radio stayed tuned to the opera.

I got a glimpse of Uncle Mistletoe suspended in a Field's window.

"Look, Bill, there's Uncle Mistletoe," I said hurriedly to waylay further argument from the back seat.

"Who's he?" Bill questioned, but not waiting for an answer, continued. "I don't have an Uncle Mistletoe. He's got wings and my uncles don't have any wings."

"But this fellow helps Santa." I was wildly trying to think what Uncle Mistletoe really did and a helper of Santa seemed like a safe answer.

"ELVES HELP Santa." declared Bill flatly. "And elves don't wear wings."

"Well," I said resigned, "just look at the windows. See all the stockings hanging by the fireplace and there's a really big tree all decorated," I pointed hopefully.

Sons and daughter had always enjoyed this ride and felt more excited over Christmas when they were Bill's age.

"Say, there's a hamburger place right over there. Can't we stop? I'm hungry." Bill again sided with his brother.

We moved a few inches as both boys started to wrestle in the backseat.

"How about it, Dad? How about WLS?"

POP GAVE IN and snapped to the loud, bleating cry of WLS on the radio.

"Look at all the old-fashioned store fronts," I said, as we drew even with Carson's. Just then two buses pulled into the line paralleling ours blotting the view.

"I don't see nothin', Ma," Bill stood up suddenly knocking off Pop's hat.

"Bill!" said Pop. "Sit down and look at all the pretty lights."

"Gee," moaned Bill disgustedly, sinking into his seat, his arms crossed across his chest. "I can't see nothin' 'cept a dumb old bus and anyway I'm hot. Let's go home."

SO WITH WLS blaring, Pop made a right turn and headed for the expressway.

"Whee!" Bill bounced from his seat. "We're celebrating Christmas too early. Now I'll be home in time to see Walt Disney." (SSD

Harmonettes To Entertain At Plum Grove

Members of Plum Grove Women's Auxiliary have marked their calendars for 1 p.m. Monday Dec. 13, when they will hear a program presented by the Arlington High School Harmonettes.

The group is made up of 12 girl singers and two accompanists directed by Boyd White, who is in his fourth year at Arlington. He has a master's degree from the University of Iowa and studied with Fred Waring and Robert Shaw.

On State Street

Tradition Goes Awry

By BETTY AINSLIE

Do you do any traditional things before the holidays to make Christmas special?

We have always made a Saturday trip to the Loop to try to eat under the Christmas tree at Field's and generally get into the hustle and beauty of this holiday season, and we also make an evening trip down Michigan Avenue and State Street in Chicago to stare at the decorated windows and store fronts.

Since we have Bill to help us celebrate Christmas this year, we're back to being cautious in our discussions of Santa and just what part parents have in bringing presents. I've a feeling Bill is being nice to his foster parents by letting us have the fun of another Christmas with a child around who believes in Santa Claus. So this year we do want to do all the special things that lead up to this wonderful holiday.

WE DEPOSITED Son No. 1 on a bus for a return trip to college after the Thanksgiving holiday and decided we'd do our auto riding on that Sunday night to view the decorations.

Now we should have had a slight inkling that others had the same idea when it took us a good 20 minutes to get into the stream of traffic from the parking lot. But because we didn't have too much trouble on Michigan Avenue and because we were pleased with Bill's wide-eyed reaction to the lighted trees along that street, we decided to try State Street.

We inched our way bumper to bumper with others who we found out later were leaving the scene of the Santa parade and, of course, were on the wrong side of the street to see Field's windows too closely.

"TURN ON WLS," demanded bored Son No. 2, who had started asking about McDonald's and hamburgers before we left the bus station and was anxious to have his Sunday night hunger satisfied.

Pop, who had been listening and enjoying some opera excerpts, remained immobile. The street lights changed and changed again without our moving.

"Heck," said Bill, missing no opportunity to get on the right side of this new brother of his. "That music is awful."

"Please," insisted Son No. 1. "Only for a minute until I hear what number the song they are playing is — just a second even?"

POP SMOKED his pipe calmly as he settled the car into park and took his foot from the brake. The radio stayed tuned to the opera.

I got a glimpse of Uncle Mistletoe suspended in a Field's window.

"Look, Bill, there's Uncle Mistletoe," I said hurriedly to waylay further argument from the back seat.

"Who's he?" Bill questioned, but not waiting for an answer, continued. "I don't have an Uncle Mistletoe. He's got wings and my uncles don't have any wings."

"But this fellow helps Santa." I was wildly trying to think what Uncle Mistletoe really did and a helper of Santa seemed like a safe answer.

"ELVES HELP Santa." declared Bill flatly. "And elves don't wear wings."

"Well," I said resigned, "just look at the windows. See all the stockings hanging by the fireplace and there's a really big tree all decorated," I pointed hopefully.

Sons and daughter had always enjoyed this ride and felt more excited over Christmas when they were Bill's age.

"Say, there's a hamburger place right over there. Can't we stop? I'm hungry." Bill again sided with his brother.

We moved a few inches as both boys started to wrestle in the backseat.

"How about it, Dad? How about WLS?"

POP GAVE IN and snapped to the loud, bleating cry of WLS on the radio.

"Look at all the old-fashioned store fronts," I said, as we drew even with Carson's. Just then two buses pulled into the line paralleling ours blotting the view.

"I don't see nothin', Ma," Bill stood up suddenly knocking off Pop's hat.

"Bill!" said Pop. "Sit down and look at all the pretty lights."

"Gee," moaned Bill disgustedly, sinking into his seat, his arms crossed across his chest. "I can't see nothin' 'cept a dumb old bus and anyway I'm hot. Let's go home."

SO WITH WLS blaring, Pop made a right turn and headed for the expressway.

"Whee!" Bill bounced from his seat. "We're celebrating Christmas too early. Now I'll be home in time to see Walt Disney." (SSD

Deeke-Dieckhoff Rite Unites Bartlett Pair

The marriage of a Bartlett couple, Barbara Lynn Deeke and Arland Dieckhoff, was solemnized Nov. 13 at 6 o'clock in the Lutheran Church of Our Savior, Elgin.

The bride, daughter of the Vernon Deekes, wore a white satin gown accented with re-embroidered alencon lace on the high neckline, empire bodice and controlled skirt which ended in a chapel train. Her only jewelry was a heart-shaped necklace with a diamond center, a gift from the groom.

Her triple illusion veil was held by a tiny pillbow of the lace, and she carried an arrangement of white roses, stephanotis and ivy on a prayer book.

THE GROOM is the son of the Elmer Dieckhoffs. He was attended by James Jacobson of Elgin as best man and by Wayne Deeke, the bride's brother, and John Whitmer of Bartlett as groomsmen.

Ushers were Ronald Deeke, another brother of the bride, and Ervin Dieckhoff of Bartlett, a cousin of the groom.

Maid of honor was Sandra Brockmann of Garden Prairie, Ill., and bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Mrs. Shirley Whitmer, and Linda Meier of Elgin. All were dressed alike in floor-length burgundy velvet and carried clusters of pink Sensation roses with foliage.

THERE WERE also two flower girls dressed in burgundy velvet, 6-year-old Brenda Hagenow of Mount Prospect and Tammy Niemeyer, 4, of Elk Grove Village, both cousins of the bride.

The bride's 8-year-old brother, Gary Deeke, was ring bearer.

After the double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Clyde Cress and the sermon by Rev. Ronald Meier, the bridal pair were fetedat a dinner at Apple Orchard Country Club by 200 guests.

FOR THE evening's festivities the bride's mother wore a pink satin floor-length dress with a pink orchid corsage. Mrs. Dieckhoff chose a gold floor-length dress and had cream cymbidiums in her corsage.

After a 10-day honeymoon in the east, the groom left for military service at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. Both he and his bride are Elgin High School graduates, and she has been working for the Kroger Co.

Serve Swedish Delicacies to Holiday Callers

Guest Cook Has to Translate Recipes

By LOIS SEILER

An assortment of rich and colorful cookies spells hospitality to holiday callers and adds immeasurably to the festive spirit of Christmas.

Scandinavians are noted for their excellent cookie recipes, and today's cook is no exception.

Mrs. Harry L. Gardell came to the United States from Sweden 15 years ago intending only to visit, but stayed on when a romance with an American blossomed into marriage.

She has translated her Swedish recipes into English for the use of our readers and these authentic Swedish delicacies will add interest to your Christmas assortment.

Ulla Gardell's favorite recipe is one which she learned from her mother, and thus Mrs. Gardell named it after her and calls them Elsa Cookies.

THE BASIC batter for these cookies is a rich butter dough which is pressed into muffin tins. They are filled with either a flavorful coconut or an almond mixture, baked for a half hour and sprinkled with powdered sugar.

"The Elsa Cookies are nice on a cookie tray, or they make an appealing dessert when served with fruit," Mrs. Gardell said.

Children as well as adults enjoy this good cook's Chocolate Stars. They are made from a rich chocolate dough which is rolled out and cut into shapes with a cookie cutter. Mrs. Gardell likes to use the star cutter, but a variety of shapes may be used, if desired.

THE COOKIES are brushed with egg white, sprinkled with a mixture of finely chopped almonds and granulated sugar and baked for 5 to 10 minutes. They are thin and crispy, and as pleasing to look at as they are to taste.

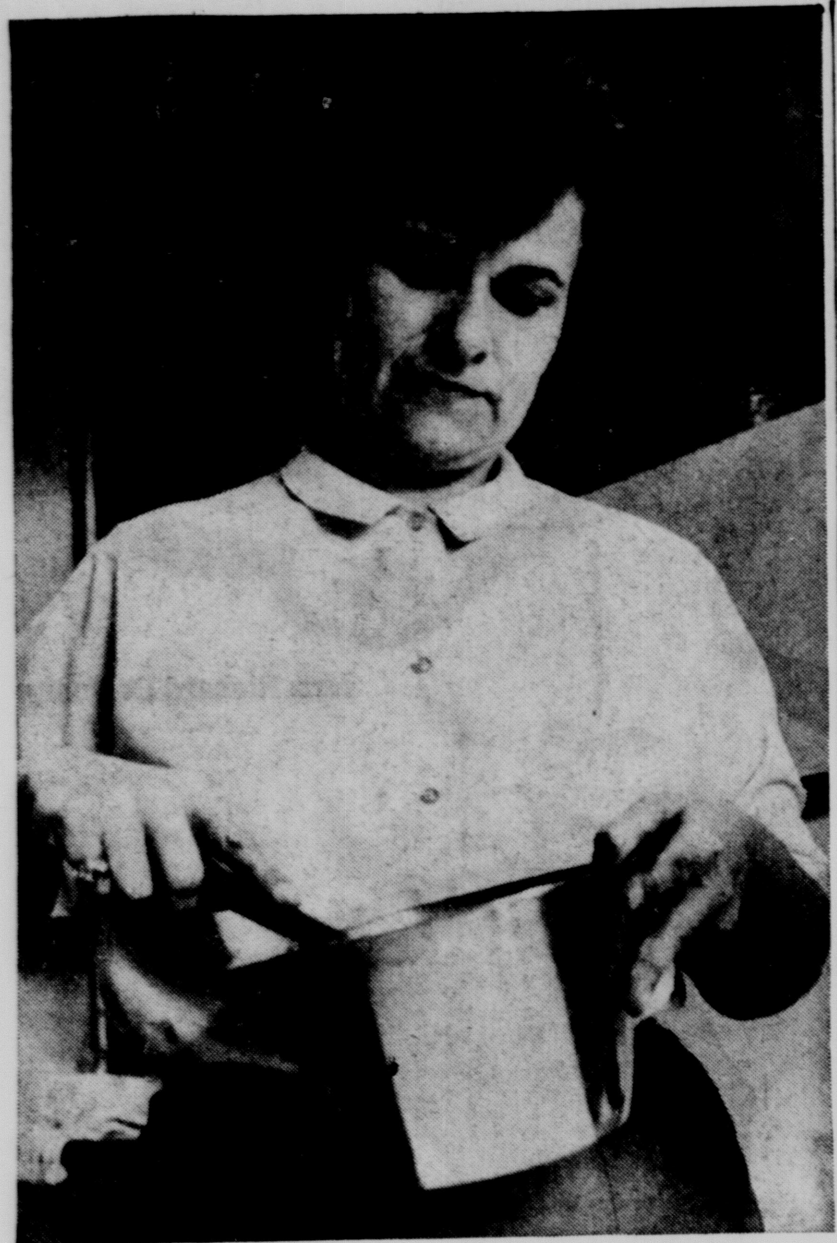
Another of her favorite cookies is good any time of the year as well as Christmas. The Swedish name for this recipe translates into Brown Breads, a delightfully rich and crispy cookie with a nutty flavor.

Quick and easy to make, the buttery dough is flavored with Karo syrup and ground nuts. Formed into rolls, the dough is refrigerated, then sliced and baked.

"Cinnamon may be added to the batter if desired," commented Mrs. Gardell. "Children love these cookies in their lunch boxes or as an after school snack."

ALL OF THESE cookies make a big hit with the Gardells' three children: Tom, 12, who is in seventh grade; Karen, 9, a fourth grader, and Kristine, 5, who attends kindergarten.

The Gardell family lives at 118 Columbia St. in Hoffman Estates. Mrs. Gardell is active in the Women of the Church of the Church of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church.



BUSY BAKING for the holiday season, Mrs. Harry L. Gardell of Hoffman Estates removes some of her favorite Christmas cookies from the oven. Prepared from an authentic Swedish recipe, these cookies are made in muffin tins and have a rich cookie crust with a flavorful almond or coconut filling.

ELSA COOKIES

1 cup soft butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour

Cream butter and sugar together; beat in egg and vanilla. Stir in flour.

Drop one teaspoon of dough in each muffin cup. Press down dough over bottom and sides to form a cup. Chill while preparing the filling:

2 eggs
½ cup sugar
1¼ cups ground almonds or coconut
½ teaspoon almond extract

Beat eggs until very light and fluffy. Add sugar and beat well. Mix in ground almonds or coconut and extract. Spoon into muffin cups and bake in a preheated 325 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Let cool and then remove from tin. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Yield: 2 dozen cookies.

CHOCOLATE STARS

2 sticks (½ pound) butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
2¾ cups all-purpose flour, unsifted
3 tablespoons cocoa

Mix butter and sugar together; add egg and vanilla. Beat thoroughly.

Put flour and cocoa on a board and add the above mixture. Work together to form a dough. Chill dough for a few hours.

Roll out dough very thin and cut with a star-shaped cookie cutter. Place on a greased baking sheet and brush with slightly-beaten egg white. Sprinkle on top very finely chopped almonds mixed with granulated sugar.

Bake at 350 degrees for 5 to 10 minutes until done. Store in a covered tin. Makes 90 to 100 cookies.

BROWN BREADS

2 sticks (½ pound) butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons Karo brown syrup
1 cup ground nuts, any kind
2 teaspoons baking soda mixed in 1 teaspoon water
2 to 2½ cups all-purpose flour

Mix all ingredients together, reserving some of the flour to use when forming the dough into rolls. Form into two rolls, 1½ to 2 inches thick. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours.

Slice and place on greased baking sheet. Bake cookies 10 to 15 minutes at 350 degrees. Cinamon may be added to the batter, if desired.

Cole Slaw Uses Grapes

This is the season for the Emperor grape, that large, dark red grape that makes such a handsome centerpiece and fruit bowl display.

The Emperor grape, which comes from California, is used mostly for wines and raisins, but it is also good as an eating grape. Try it in this recipe for cole slaw.

SAN JOAQUIN EMPEROR COLE SLAW

1/3 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
3 cups shredded cabbage
1 cup diced unpeeled apple
1½ cups seeded, quartered Emperor grapes
½ cup thinly sliced celery
½ cup chopped walnuts

In a small bowl combine first 6 ingredients; blend well. Chill until ready to use. Combine remaining ingredients in a large bowl. Add honey dressing and toss gently to blend mixture well. Chill at least 1 hour before serving. Yield: 6 servings. (SH

Treat Friends to Lemon Marmalade

If you want to say "thank you" in a special way to a friend or neighbor, give a jar of your own homemade Lemon Delight Marmalade, a tart-sweet spread made from fresh fruit.

LEMON DELIGHT MARMALADE

Yield: about 7 medium glasses

3 cups prepared fruit
(6 lemons, 1½ cups water, and ½ teaspoon baking soda)
5 cups (2¼ lb.) sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

First prepare the fruit. Remove skins in quarters from 6 medium-size lemons. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of white part. With a sharp knife or scissors, slice remaining rind very fine—or chop or grind. Add 1½ cups water and ½ teaspoon baking soda; bring to a boil and simmer covered 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Section or chop peeled fruit; discard seeds. Add pulp and juice to undrained cooked rind. Simmer covered 10 minutes longer. Measure 3 cups into a very large saucepan.

Then make the marmalade. Thoroughly mix sugar into fruit in saucepan. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir and skim for 7 minutes to cool slightly and to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with ⅛ inch hot paraffin. (SH members of Prospect Heights Woman's Club used their imaginations and an infinite variety of yule ornaments and decorations to create these gay, holiday chapeaux for their Christmas luncheon last week in Old Orchard Country Club.

Mr. John himself couldn't have done better. Some were beautiful enough to do double duty as centerpieces while the more whimsical would have drawn a chuckle and a "Ho Ho" from Santa himself. But quoth the non-chalant bartender: "Harumpf . . . this is nothin' compared to Easter!"

Diana Planz Wears Keepsake Necklace on Her Wedding Day

For her Nov. 6 marriage to Donald Langguth, the former Diana Planz of Palatine wore a simply-styled white satin sheath dress as a handsome setting for the 60-year-old diamond necklace which she borrowed from the groom's grandmother. The satin floor-length dress had a high neckline, elbow-length sleeves and an empire waistline. The only trim was the white lace which covered the entire sleeves and the fitted high midriff.

The gown ended in a long chapel train and was complemented by an elbow-length veil held by a cap of lace petals trimmed with white pearls and crystals. The bride's bouquet was composed of white Amazon lilies.

SHE IS THE daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Planz of 953 Cornell Road, Palatine. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Langgutth of 710 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights.

The 5 o'clock candlelight wedding was officiated by Rev. Glenn Gumm and Rev. Robert McDonald in St. Paul United Church of Christ in Palatine. It was followed by a buffet dinner for 200 guests in Arlington Heights VFW Hall.

THE BRIDE chose her oldest niece, Paulette Planz of Palatine, as her maid of honor, and there were four bridesmaids. Two were the brides' sisters, Mrs. Muriel Kaage of Edison Park and Mrs. Arlene Bucalo of Wheeling; her cousin, Vernette Sullivan of Des Plaines, and a friend, Ruth Schaefer of Northbrook.

All were gowned alike in American Beauty red velvet gowns, floor-length, with a satin cummerbund, and with matching satin headpieces. They carried white mums arranged in a cascade bouquet.

The groom's brother, Dennis Langguth of Palatine. was his best man, while Norman Raupp of Palatine, Harold Gaeddeke of Poplar Grove, James Barrow of Carpentersville and Arnold Koriath of Arlington Heights seated the guests.

WITNESSING THE double ring ceremony, the couple's mothers were attired in shades which contrasted the attendants' gowns. The bride's mother wore a deep rose floor-length gown with matching accessories and a corsage of white and pink teatearoses. The groom's mother chose a pastel pink with white accessories and had dark red tearoses in her corsage.

Flying to Nassau, the newlyweds spent eight days on the island and are now back to Arlington Heights and living in Arlingdale Garden Apartments.

A graduate of Palatine High School and American Beauty School, the bride is working at the Beauty Bar in Arlington Heights. The groom was graduated from Arlington High and is employed at the Mount Prospect Jewel Food Store.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: To completely refinish an old piece of furniture it is often necessary to remove all of the old finish before bleaching, staining or other wood finishing operations can be properly carried out. For this job, a good grade of commercially prepared chemical paint and varnish remover should be used.

ITEM: Want to lose weight? Take up walking, exercise, or bowl. An overweight woman who eats just enough to maintain her weight can lose about nine pounds in a year by substituting daily an hour of activities such as light gardening work or a brisk walk for an hour of activities she does while sitting.

ITEM: Take seldom-used china and glass out of your valuable kitchen storage space. Store it in a cabinet in the living or dining area.

ITEM: Before hanging up your garments, always close zippers and other openings at the neck and waist. This will help in retaining shape and cut down necessary pressing.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: To completely refinish an old piece of furniture it is often necessary to remove all of the old finish before bleaching, staining or other wood finishing operations can be properly carried out. For this job, a good grade of commercially prepared chemical paint and varnish remover should be used.

ITEM: Want to lose weight? Take up walking, exercise, or bowl. An overweight woman who eats just enough to maintain her weight can lose about nine pounds in a year by substituting daily an hour of activities such as light gardening work or a brisk walk for an hour of activities she does while sitting.

St. James' 'Dinner' Satisfies the Guests

By JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

St. James Theatre Group invited "The Man Who Came to Dinner" Friday night and their ticket-buying guests went home with appetites satisfied. For an amateur group which doesn't pretend to be anything else but, this is a good record. However, it should be pointed out that, in the process of throwing the Moss Hart-George Kaufman main course on the table, SJTG issued a few "burps" which might have seriously affected the audience's reaction to the show.

Number 1: a paragraph written in the program. It stated that director and leading man were going to avoid the Monty Woolley characterization. So what's the first thing you see when Richard Treanor enters? A beard! And not a good one at that, unless you happen to be an employe of Johns-Manville's rockwool insulation division.

NOBLE IDEA, that of being un-Woolley. But when your audience is composed largely of adults who remember and enjoy the story and its original star, why not at least parallel it and him? No, I didn't say imitate—but characterize Sheridan Whiteside correctly.

Dr. Treanor's manner, style and delivery were excellent, but Whiteside came off much too kindly in the first act. When he was to become more completely characterized in acts 2 and 3, there was no noticeable change from schnook to sympathetic. Whether it's Woolley or Treanor, Whiteside is a blunderbustic old crab and a self-centered one at that.

Point number 2: almost everyone in the cast, at one time, permitted laughter to override lines. There are a lot of yuks in "Dinner." Why be impatient with lines? Let the audience laugh, then prepare that audience for more.

POINT NUMBER 3 (this one relates to number two): projection. Everyone needed it, especially Pat Wells as the mother, Roger and Susan Alm, the servants, and Karen Dail, the daughter. For many cast members, diction and enunciation were lacking. The cast was large, much too large to go into all individual performances.

There were standouts: Angela Kessinger's Harriet was a tremendous bit, subdued, not silly, just plain funny; Ray Schneiser's Banjo and Barb Kurp's Lorraine were delightful, although Barb must learn to place more expression in her lines to keep them from sounding "read"; Ed Joyce's Dr. Bradley, John Kavanagh's Beverly Carlton were highly enjoyable, but Mr. Kavanagh's British accent-on-the-fop-side clouded his lines—back of the sixth row, they just weren't distinguishable; Shirley Walters did well as Maggie—a good example of logical casting, voice and appearance-wise; Miss Preen, as done by Rosemary Splitt, was gratifyingly goofy; Charles Willwerth, a believable "head of the house," needs to pick up his cues more rapidly.

"THE MAN Who Came to Dinner" is a joyful play. It is well-written. Even though names and places are dated, the situations surrounding them are hilarious. Why take so many liberties with the book? Why update names from Shirley Temple, Ethel Water, Somerset Maugham, et al, to Julie Andrews, Barbra Streisand, Liz Taylor and Richard Burton? And still mention Zasu Pitts and William Beebe? Either one decade or another would suffice. I'm for keeping a play in the period for which it was meant. In this case, there weren't that many more laughs added.

Direction-wise, Roy Quid paced a fine first act, especially in the opening moments. The second act slowed, then picked up, but the third act dragged much too slowly for an audience waiting for a climax. The finish of act 2 (the Whiteside broadcast) is probably the funniest part of the whole play, but there seemed to be so much confusion and late line pick-up that hilarity and timing suffered. The result was an amusing confusion, not a slaphappy irony.

SJTG'S SET and set design were excellent. Visually, the stage was well-balanced and colorfully in taste. Lighting was late a couple of times where cueing with on-stage action was pertinent. Make-up, by and large, was good, and sound quality could have been improved in the Christmas eve musical opening.

If St. James Theatre Group's renting of the Prospect High auditorium is indicative of breaking out into the open with community drama, I wish them well. They are to be admired for their spirit, and certainly for their attempt at bringing back some of the old standards in the Hart-Kaufman tradition.

As an amateur troupe, they fared well Friday night. And they entertained without shoving any psychoanalytic messages down the throats of their followers. Harder work is ahead for many, of course, if the group is to bring in patrons from all over the Paddockland area.

Teen Combos Give Music Biz a Shot in Arm

Musicians Union Busy Signing Them

by Dan Pribilski
Staff Writer

You say you don't understand the music they play?

At first glance you will understand even less the economics behind them.

The "they" and the "them" are the Lords, Shadows, Novos, Males, Profits, Continentals, Fugitives, Pacesetters, Missfits and on and on.

And little doubt exists that new combos are springing up by the month in suburbia.

They consist of four and five members who churn out the music which is a delight to tens of thousands of teenagers.

In this world of music, the "classics" are those tunes sung by old men like Frank Sinatra and the "standards" consist of "Louey Louey" and "Gloria."

BUT TO GET back to the economics of the matter. The musical supply store salesmen cannot be anything but delirious with joy.

These combos are investing upwards of $400 for their equipment. This seems to be a minimum investment which five teens must assume to make the sounds the teens love.

A more established group may have an inestment of $7,000 or $8,000.

To understand the "why" of the cost is to understand the nature of the music, the nature of the "music halls," and the nature of the musicians.

It is a music the world had to wait for until this century. It is an electronic music relying almost en toto on electric guitars, large amplifiers and public address systems which can compete with the screams of teenagers.

AND THE MUSICIANS are as enthusiastic as the teen audiences. These musicians are teenagers themselves. Many of those they play for are classmates in the area high schools.

These teen musicians enjoy their work and to attain the best in modern sound they are willing to buy all the necessary equipment.

In interviews with the musicians, their most repeated reply to the why of it was "I enjoy playing." For them, the money to be made is a secondary consideration.

Most places they play—park districts, schools, or commercial places like the Cellar in Arlington Heights or the Pink Panther in Deerfield—do not have public address systems or not ones suitable to the music. (The Cellar has been one of the few commercial places with a PA system.)

As a result, beyond the investments in amplifiers so the electric guitars may be heard, the PA system is a very necessary investment.

A RELATIVELY new group—a group that has not played the Cellar—is the Lords. The five members all attend Prospect High School. Their first engagement for money was in September.

Since then they have been playing on the average once a week at schools, park district field houses, and private parties.

They have been getting as a group $25 to $50 an engagement. Soon they will audition at the Cellar and need to join the musicians union. Then they will be guaranteed at least $16 a man or $80 a performance for the entire combo.

Just recently the Lords went over $4,000 in their equipment investment. Their hopes, at the least, are to break even.

A more established group is the Novos, a four-member combo. Besides the usual high school circuit and the Cellar, they have played at the Hotel Allerton and in county fairs.

Len Kerley, an Arlington Heights teen and leader of the Novos, said his group is making $150 to $250 an engagement. His group has $8,000 invested in instruments and equipment.

TWO OF THE Novos attend Barrington High School and the other two are out of school. The group usually works three nights a week.

A second group doing well is the Males. What makes it a unique combo is that besides the usual drums and electric guitars, it has an organ.

The Males come from Addison, Elmhurst and Elk Grove Village.

Richard Hintz, a guitarist with the Males and from Elmhurst, said the group has been getting $150 to $225 and has had an offer for $300 which had to be turned down.

The investment in equipment is $5,000, and the group plays at least once a week.

SUCH GROUPS as the Novos, Males, Shadows, Continentals, and Profits are members of the musicians union.

With the proliferation of so many groups, Local 48, of the American Federation of Musicians, Elgin, has been busy seeing the groups do become union.

Robert Frisch, secretary-treasurer of Local 48, said, "We try to run them down as quickly as we can. It's been our experience the young boys have been exploited."

Talk is buzzing of money and the profits to be made by commercial places.

EVERYBODY IS mentally figuring what is being made," said Paul Samson, the proprietor of the Cellar. "They figure I'm coming out with more than I'm coming out with."

He declined to say how much his overhead is. The Cellar is located in former parochial school building and Samson rents the basement area.

"I feel I'm pretty well exposed—I'm over exposed now," Samson commented as he declined to talk about profits.

People do not realize, he said, the costs involved in insurance, light, heat, paying the combos, (as high as $200), the village license and payments for off-duty police to direct the crowds of youngsters.

Samson charges a $1 admission. The Cellar is open on Friday and Saturday nights. Estimates of crowds range from 500 to 700 a night.

THE TEEN musicians have similar backgrounds.

They enjoyed the record music of the Rolling Stones, Beatles and other well-known combos.

Most took up guitar or other instruments within the past three or four years. Some have only six months or a year's experience on their instruments.

The majority contacted have hopes to become full-time professional musicians though they realize the competition is tough with so many groups.

They generally copy their music right off of the records. Some improvisation is done—often because the big name stars produce sounds and songs too difficult to be mastered in their original form by the youngsters.

But the music is not all pure copy-cat work. The Novos, for instance, are now writing their own songs and doing their own arrangements of well-known rock 'n' roll songs.

They have the advantage of having a couple of members who can read music well, a not very common ability amongst the majority of the teen musicians.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMER

From Horace Abbey, Jackson, Michigan: I remember the day the circus came to town. I wanted to go, but did not expect to do so. We lived 12 miles from town and that was too much of a journey to make in a horse and buggy unless it was strictly necessary.

But, for some reason, mother allowed that I should go. I never teased or demanded, but kept my wishes to myself. I was probably 16 years old and able to do a man's work about the farm.

A trip to town for dad and me meant loss of two day's work. Father was an easy driver. He never used a whip or urged a horse beyond a lazy trot.

After the farm chores were done, we washed and shaved, changed to our "town" clothes. We were in town early enough to see the parade, the big, bright band wagon, the matched teams, lions, tigers and bears, and the performances, all the excitement and strange sights that a circus brings.

Teen Combos Give Music Biz a Shot in Arm

Musicians Union Busy Signing Them

by Dan Pribilski
Staff Writer

You say you don't understand the music they play?

At first glance you will understand even less the economics behind them.

The "they" and the "them" are the Lords, Shadows, Novos, Males, Profits, Continentals, Fugitives, Pacesetters, Missfits and on and on.

And little doubt exists that new combos are springing up by the month in suburbia.

They consist of four and five members who churn out the music which is a delight to tens of thousands of teenagers.

In this world of music, the "classics" are those tunes sung by old men like Frank Sinatra and the "standards" consist of "Louey Louey" and "Gloria."

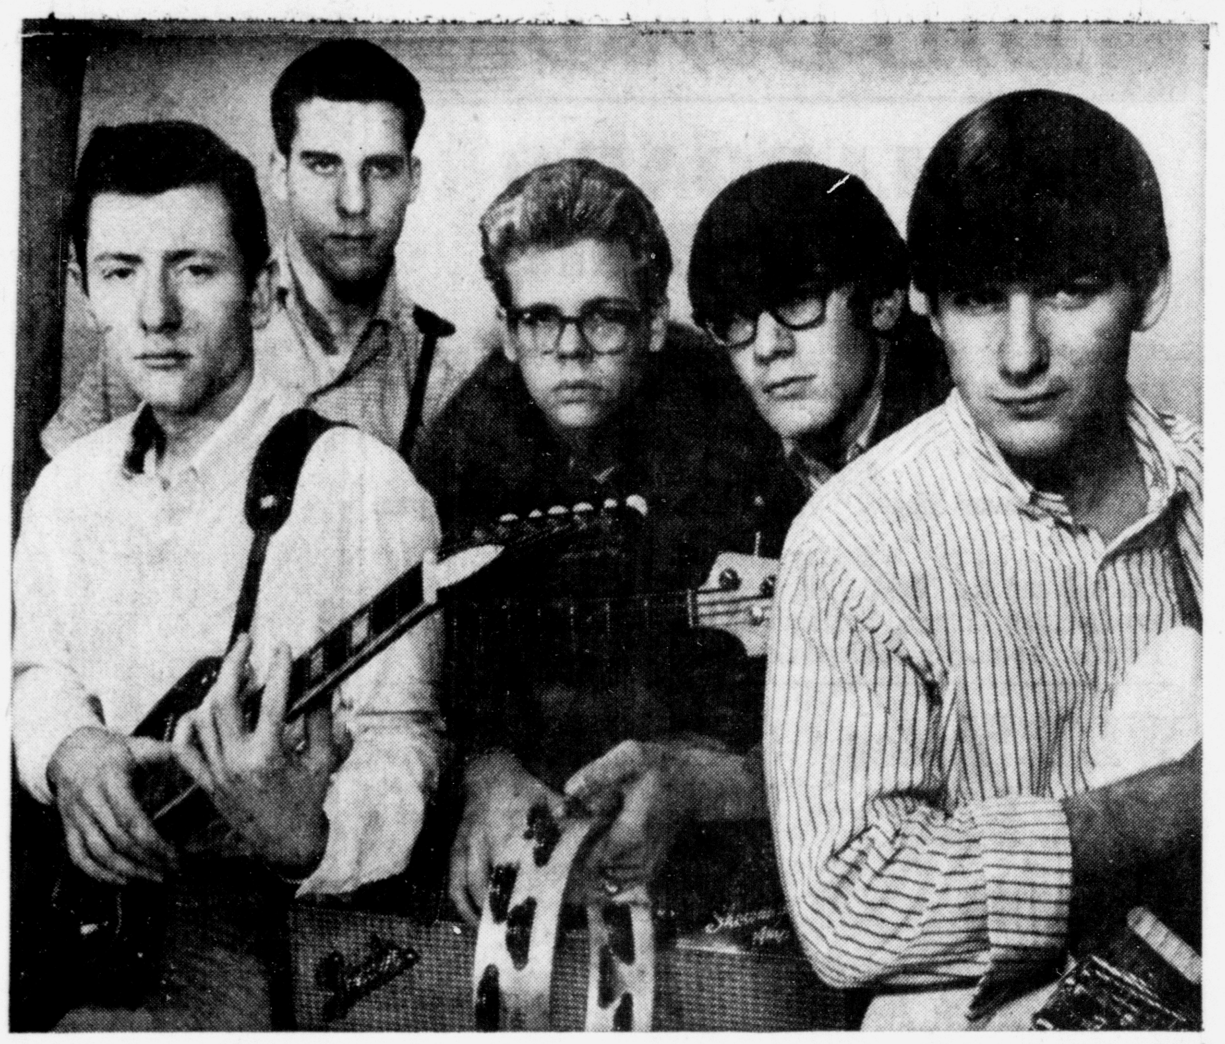
BUT TO GET back to the economics of the matter. The musical supply store salesmen cannot be anything but delirious with joy.

These combos are investing upwards of $400 for their equipment. This seems to be a minimum investment which five teens must assume to make the sounds the teens love.

A more established group may have an inestment of $7,000 or $8,000.

To understand the "why" of the cost is to understand the nature of the music, the nature of the "music halls," and the nature of the musicians.

It is a music the world had to wait for until this century. It is an electronic music relying almost en toto on electric guitars, large amplifiers and public address systems which can compete with the screams of teenagers.



TEEN SOUND—These are the Lords, a relatively new combo and typical of the many now playing in the northwest suburbs. The five are posing around a $1,000 amplifier, one of three required for the three guitarists. They are (left to right) Darryl Einhorn, Phil Sinkovich, Bruce Birkeland, Mark Abernathy and Doug Soderberg. The motivation behind these young men and members of other combos is that they enjoy playing. As one member of the Novos Combo put it, "Playing is the best thing in the world to me." (Staff Photo)

AND THE MUSICIANS are as enthusiastic as the teen audiences. These musicians are teenagers themselves. Many of those they play for are classmates in the area high schools.

These teen musicians enjoy their work and to attain the best in modern sound they are willing to buy all the necessary equipment.

In interviews with the musicians, their most repeated reply to the why of it was "I enjoy playing." For them, the money to be made is a secondary consideration.

Most places they play—park districts, schools, or commercial places like the Cellar in Arlington Heights or the Pink Panther in Deerfield—do not have public address systems or not ones suitable to the music. (The Cellar has been one of the few commercial places with a PA system.)

As a result, beyond the investments in amplifiers so the electric guitars may be heard, the PA system is a very necessary investment.

A RELATIVELY new group—a group that has not played the Cellar—is the Lords. The five members all attend Prospect High School. Their first engagement for money was in September.

Since then they have been playing on the average once a week at schools, park district field houses, and private parties.

They have been getting as a group $25 to $50 an engagement. Soon they will audition at the Cellar and need to join the musicians union. Then they will be guaranteed at least $16 a man or $80 a performance for the entire combo.

Just recently the Lords went over $4,000 in their equipment investment. Their hopes, at the least, are to break even.

A more established group is the Novos, a four-member combo. Besides the usual high school circuit and the Cellar, they have played at the Hotel Allerton and in county fairs.

Len Kerley, an Arlington Heights teen and leader of the Novos, said his group is making $150 to $250 an engagement. His group has $8,000 invested in instruments and equipment.

TWO OF THE Novos attend Barrington High School and the other two are out of school. The group usually works three nights a week.

A second group doing well is the Males. What makes it a unique combo is that besides the usual drums and electric guitars, it has an organ.

The Males come from Addison, Elmhurst and Elk Grove Village.

Richard Hintz, a guitarist with the Males and from Elmhurst, said the group has been getting $150 to $225 and has had an offer for $300 which had to be turned down.

The investment in equipment is $5,000, and the group plays at least once a week.

SUCH GROUPS as the Novos, Males, Shadows, Continentals, and Profits are members of the musicians union.

With the proliferation of so many groups, Local 48, of the American Federation of Musicians, Elgin, has been busy seeing the groups do become union.

Robert Frisch, secretary-treasurer of Local 48, said, "We try to run them down as quickly as we can. It's been our experience the young boys have been exploited."

Talk is buzzing of money and the profits to be made by commercial places.

EVERYBODY IS mentally figuring what is being made," said Paul Samson, the proprietor of the Cellar. "They figure I'm coming out with more than I'm coming out with."

He declined to say how much his overhead is. The Cellar is located in former parochial school building and Samson rents the basement area.

"I feel I'm pretty well exposed—I'm over exposed now," Samson commented as he declined to talk about profits.

People do not realize, he said, the costs involved in insurance, light, heat, paying the combos, (as high as $200), the village license and payments for off-duty police to direct the crowds of youngsters.

Samson charges a $1 admission. The Cellar is open on Friday and Saturday nights. Estimates of crowds range from 500 to 700 a night.

THE TEEN musicians have similar backgrounds.

They enjoyed the record music of the Rolling Stones, Beatles and other well-known combos.

Most took up guitar or other instruments within the past three or four years. Some have only six months or a year's experience on their instruments.

They have the advantage of having a couple of members who can read music well, a not very common ability amongst the majority of the teen musicians.

WLT Slates Next Play Tryouts

Winston Little Theatre's president, Liz Dumler, announces that tryouts for the group's next production, "Exit the Body," will be held Sunday and Monday, Dec. 12 and 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the 1st State Bank of Palatine, 35 N. Brockway St.

Chuck Cole has been selected as the director for the production, scheduled for Feb. 25 and 26 at Palatine High School's Cutting Hall. Cole, of Rolling Meadows, recently directed WLT's "Third Best Sport." He combines 20 years of acting and technical experience with community theatre.

"Exit the Body," a comedy-mystery, received unanimous rave notices when it premiered in summer stock several seasons ago. The story tells of a woman mystery writer's involvement in a hunt for stolen jewels in her rented New England summer house. A body, which reappears hanging in a closet, adds suspense and intrigue.

THE LEADING female roles are those of the attractive mystery writer, her tailored secretary and the local country girl maid. The other female parts are those of an efficient real estate woman and a top flight designer.

Two of the five male characters are small parts, but the rest of the cast is equal in size and humor.

All northwest suburbanites interested in community threatre are invited to come to the tryouts. (Bill

WLT Slates Next Play Tryouts

Winston Little Theatre's president, Liz Dumler, announces that tryouts for the group's next production, "Exit the Body," will be held Sunday and Monday, Dec. 12 and 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the 1st State Bank of Palatine, 35 N. Brockway St.

Chuck Cole has been selected as the director for the production, scheduled for Feb. 25 and 26 at Palatine High School's Cutting Hall. Cole, of Rolling Meadows, recently directed WLT's "Third Best Sport." He combines 20 years of acting and technical experience with community theatre.

"Exit the Body," a comedy-mystery, received unanimous rave notices when it premiered in summer stock several seasons ago. The story tells of a woman mystery writer's involvement in a hunt for stolen jewels in her rented New England summer house. A body, which reappears hanging in a closet, adds suspense and intrigue.

THE LEADING female roles are those of the attractive mystery writer, her tailored secretary and the local country girl maid. The other female parts are those of an efficient real estate woman and a top flight designer.

Two of the five male characters are small parts, but the rest of the cast is equal in size and humor.

All northwest suburbanites interested in community threatre are invited to come to the tryouts. (Bill

KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

Three Clubs Have Class . . .

If you had to pick a "Big Three" in high school basketball in the Chicago Suburban area, you wouldn't get many arguments right now if you selected New Trier, York, and East Leyden—in any order.

Based on early returns, this trio of schoolboy powerhouses looks like the class of the suburban entries although it is early and a lot can happen between now and March.

One thing going for each of these clubs is a good, big center. New Trier has 6-10 Larry Rosenzweig who has made tremendous improvement since entering the Indian lineup as a soph and is now rated among the finest college prospects in the country.

East Leyden ...as 6-8 Jim Bradof, the Des Plaines Valley scoring champ as a junior and a standout rebounder. Bradof was the key man for the Eagles in their march to a Super-Sectional slot last year.

York has 6-8 Larry Saunders, not a "name" player in the Rosenzweig and Bradof class but certainly a reliable workman who can score and climb up on those boards. Saunders, who has grown three inches in one year, reportedly is a much-improved pivotman.

The centers are good but they have capable supporting casts.

Joining Rosenzweig in the New Trier front line is John Holmes (6-3), who also is in his third year as a varsity starter. Coach John Schneiter also has some other size available but his big problem may be finding the ball-handlers to replace Terry Barton and Dave Major, the 1964-65 regulars.

Joining Bradof under the basket for East Leyden are Bill Byrne (6-3), a regular last winter, and Ken Norgaardt (6-3). Coach Norm Goodman also has a 6-3 guard to work with.

York's main scoring punch has been concentrated in Saunders and 6-0 jumping-jack forward Scott Fiene in recent outings, but the Dukes can receive offensive help from any starter. This is a well-balanced outfit.

The weekend schedule affords some interesting bouts for New Trier and York. The Indians catch highly regarded Proviso East on Friday evening, and York tangles with Downers Grove North Friday and Arlington Saturday.

East Leyden should coast. The Eagles meet a weak Downers Grove South five Friday.

There was a prep game in Southern Illinois last weekend in which 112 free throws were attempted and 73 personal fouls called. One club lost seven players on fouls and had another boy thrown out.

More Thoughts On All-Stars

A few weeks ago we kicked around the need for changes in the way some all-conference football teams were selected. We mentioned a preference for two teams of all-stars, offense and defense.

The problems revolving around these all-star squads aren't limited to our area leagues. We note that reporters covering the South Suburban conference also are interested in some changes.

A couple ideas tossed out have some merit. Maybe the players themselves should pick the all-league team. They're the ones who do the blocking and tackling. They should know their opponents as well as anyone.

Another idea was to have the scouts help in the selections. They see practically every team play and note players in detail for their reports.

Let's hope between now and next fall the coaches put some thought into these all-conference teams.

Paddock Publicatons will be directly concerned with only three suburban area leagues next fall — the Chicagoland Prep, Mid-Suburban and the Tri-County. The Chicagoland and Tri-County both pick offensive and defensive teams.

The Mid-Suburban would do well to follow suit, and all three leagues might streamline their methods of selection.

Tower Hill, a tiny Illinois high school, has won three straight basketball games, and the town is going wild. The team is breaking tradition. Over the past six years Tower Hill sported records of 2-21, 3-19, 3-17, 1-19, 0-20, and 1-19. They once lost 35 straight. These are happy days at Tower Hill!!

Tigers' Shers Was A Knight . . .

Prospect high basketball fans and head coach Dick Kinneman are looking at the Elmwood Park box scores with interest these days.

Starting for the Tigers of the Tri-County Conference is Al Shers, a 6-4 junior who prepped at Prospect for his first two years.

Shers made a big splash in his first league test last Friday, dropping in ten baskets and five free throws against Lake Park. That effort put him on top of the Tri-County scoring race.

"Al wasn't real fast but was a good shooter," Kinneman recalls. "He had all the physical capabilities but needed some work on his moves. He was a good prospect though."

Kinneman lost one other standout from that crack frosh club of 1963-64 which lost only two games. Tim Empkie, labeled by Kinneman as "an outstanding prospect," moved to Connecticut, leaving only Tom Lundstedt from that plebe frontline.

Lundstedt has been impressive in Prospect's four contests.

One of Illinois' leading All-State prospects is Mike Reeves, the 6-6 Glenbrook South scoring whiz who has thrown in 108 points in only three games, a snappy 36.0 per game mark. Forest View will try to put the clamp on Reeves this Friday.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

Arlington dropped two basketball cliff-hangers, 59-57 to Maine and 76-75 to Leyden. . .Ron Ashley had 20 against Maine, and Bill Randag contributed 26 against Leyden . . . The wrestlers lost to Waukegan and York.

Seek Rebound After First Loss

Cardinals Await Rugged Cage Twin-Bill; Tackle R-B, York

By BOB FRISK

There's no breather in the West Suburban Conference basketball scramble this winter.

Every game affords a new and complicated set of problems.

Arlington ran into a formidable Glenbard West quintet last Friday, dropping an 84-73 decision, and the Cards catch a double dose of conference power this weekend.

Coach Ted Wissen's junior-dominated entry will host Riverside - Brookfield tomorrow night and then journey to Elmhurst to meet highly-regarded York Saturday.

Riverside opened in league play with a 70-62 conquest of LaGrange for its third victory in four games, and York ran its winning skein to four with a 64-46 thumping of Maine East.

ALTHOUGH Arlington fell to Glenbard in the conference lidlifter, it took a combination of an unusually cold Cardinal team and a red-hot Hilltoper outfit to set up an 11-point difference.

The Cards didn't limit their frigid firing to the field goal department. They also had a dismal night at the free throw line, particularly in the final period when the decision was still within reach.

While Arlington was experiencing its most frustrating night of the young season, Glenbard West was sailing along with some dazzling marksmanship, hitting at a 50-plus percentage clip in each of the four periods.

Wissen's crew is intent on bouncing back this weekend although it is fully aware that the schedule features two demanding assignments.

Riverside - Brookfield, always a threat under head man Ron Nikcevich, appears solid once again and that eight-point win over LaGrange opened a few eyes.

THE BULLDOGS don't have overpowering size, but they're not short either, the starters ranging from 6-1 to 6-3. Mark Schmitz, a 6-3 senior center, threw in 23 against LaGrange, but Riverside has been featuring good balance.

Nikcevich has four seniors and a junior in his starting alignment. Sven Nylen, a 6-1 guard, is the only junior. Lettermen Ken Wall (6-2), Joel Klecka (6-3), and Dave Holub (6-2) round out the top group.

Klecka is playing his third year with the varsity.

Riverside's only loss was a

Returnees Aid Both Fives

Deerfield to Host Knight Cage Forces

by MICHAEL HESS

Christmas is still around a far corner but Prospect cagers have received a present anyway.

All season long the Knights have sought more scoring, rebounding and bench strength. They finally got all three in one package: Don Agard.

Injuries have kept 6-2 Agard sidelined and he missed three games. In a reserve role he returned last week however, and his showing had a lot to do with Prospect's squeezing by Maine South 66-65.

When the Knights travel to Deerfield tomorrow (Friday) night Agard's presents will be most welcome. After all, coach Dick Kinneman's quintet may have considerable trouble with the Warriors.

"Agard can make a big difference for us," commented Kinneman. "He had eight rebounds and nine points against Maine and was outstanding on defense. He should be starting but right now my problem is where to use him."

IN CONSIDERING what game opening slot Agard might fill Prospect headman Kinneman stated that Tom Lundstedt, Dave Kingman and J. D. Thorne won't be moved out as starters. No wonder . . .

Lundstedt, 6-3, fills a forward position for the Knights. In four games he has registered 80 points and 34 rebounds including 27 markers and 10 off the boards against Maine South.

Kingman, 6-4, has come on strong after a slow start. With additional experience he now totals 34 points and 30 rebounds for the season, 24 of those points and 16 of those rebounds in his last two contests.

Thorne, a senior as opposed to the junior status of Lundstedt and Kingman, probably helps the Knights most with his speed, passing and playmaking. Those qualities haven't kept him from soring though and he has popped in 52 points.

Where can Agard fit in? Responded Kinneman: "He may go in for either Tom Beard or Tony Kulasa."

BEARD, 6-3 is Prospect's center and has been his team's top rebounder. He has pulled down 39 since the present campaign began. He has also put in 32 points but was shut out last weekend when facing Maine.

Kulasa has been the Knights member selected to bring the ball down the floor. This job he has done well and has also scored 14 points on very limited shooting from the floor.

"If Agard starts for Beard," said Kinneman, "then Lundstedt or Kingman would move to center and Agard go in at forward. If he replaces Kulasa then Thorne would move back to bring the ball up and Agard would still be essentially a forward."

One other personnel factor enters the picture. No matter whether Agard starts or not the Knights bench is sure to be

St. Viator to Host Marian Central Five

by BOB FRISK

Win on Friday, lose on Saturday . . . that's been the pattern of two weekend basketball doubleheaders for St. Viator's varsity Lions.

There has to be change this weekend.

Coach Larry Nomellini's quintet will be idle Friday but will swing back into action Saturday when it hosts Marian Central of Woodstock in a non-league battle.

The Lions, so close to a sweep last weekend, have two non-conference tussles remaining before moving into the Chicagoland Prep League holiday tournament. A trip to Springfield Griffin follows on Saturday, Dec. 18.

St. Viator will launch league play at St. Ignatius on Friday, Jan. 7.

Nomellini's crew has nothing to be ashamed about after last weekend's split although the Lions aren't convinced they lost to a better club Saturday.

NOTRE DAME came from 12 points down to pull out a 68-64 victory with the Dons' size paying big dividents in the closing minutes. The Lions bumped Carmel on Friday, 80-68.

"Overall, I was very pleased with the ways the boys played over the weekend," Nomellini praised. "We slowed down a little Saturday and started forcing our shots late in the game, but I did feel it was a better effort than Friday.

"However, they showed signs in both games that were encouraging. They moved the ball well Friday and Paul (Pomplun) and Collins (Dan) came up with two fine games. The guards got off some nice passes inside to set up easy baskets."

POMPLUN, the Lions' 6-7 center and only rangy young man in the front-line until Paul Dumke (6-4) returns, enjoyed the finest night of his prep career against Carmel with 30 points and 20 rebounds. He came back with 17 Saturday and now

Two Teams to Test FV Five

To Glenbrook S. Friday; W. Leyden Saturday

by Michael Hess

In darkest Africa a grizzled witch doctor must be sticking voodoo pins into dolls marked "Forest View Basketball."

Falcons cagers have been hit by a disrupting string of sickness and injury. Only black magic could cause such dismal luck.

During the past week two more of coach Ken Arneson's quintet have been struck with various maladies. A pair of others have contracted ailments which might seriously impair their effecttiveness.

What is particularly disturbing about the long doctor lists at FV is the fact that Forest View will be facing its most serious challenges of the season this weekend. A trip to Glenbrook South on Friday will be followed by hosting duties for West Leyden on Saturday.

AS OF THIS writing the toll of disease or accident had claimed the following Falcons:

Jim Baumgardt, 6-5 center, who just recovered from a foot injury and has played only part time in one game this season, was knocked out of action on Tuesday. He has a chest ailment which will keep him out of all practices, any starting line-up and possibly even both games.

Howie Brasch, the 6-3 replacement for Baumgardt in the past, has been hit with similar chest troubles. He too won't practice, start or see much action against Glenbrook or Leyden.

Buckey Jones, whose 15 points in a relief role helped the Falcons beat Deerfield last week, reinjured a back muscle which first bothered him last spring. He may have to wear a brace which could hamper his driving and ball handling which made him so effective as a sub.

BILL WIDENSKI, a starting guard when the season opened, twisted his knee in the second game and hasn't played since. He may be ready this week but his knee makes him a day to day questionmark.

Jeff Grismer has had a recent bout with the flu and was left weakened. His condition helped lower his scoring to just four points when facing Deerfield. However, he will open against glenbrook tomorrow (Friday).

Bob Erlander and Jim Rennhack, who have played on a reserve basis to date, have a throat infection and badly cut chin respectively. Both have missed practice but should be ready this weekend.

Those who are healthy Falcons are Pat Dunnigan, Jim Buckholz and Byron Borgardt. Dunnigan has 64 points and 32 rebounds in three games while Buckholz has chipped in 33 points and Borgardt 34. All three will start, along with Grismer, who has 25 points and 17 rebounds, in games this weekend.

THE FIFTH starter could be Jones if his back holds together. If not the other guard spot will go to reserve senior Steve Mueller, 5-11.

That's the state of the Falcons. They're not up to par but one of their strengths since the season began is that someone always comes through to take up the slack. That's why they are undefeated through the first three '65-'66 games.

Whether Forest View remains without a loss depends not only on how well FV adapts to the string of absences but also on how well the scoring efforts of three opposition players are contained. The three are Mike Reeves of Glenbrook and Rich Izzi and Tony Kotlarz of West Leyden.

Reeves has paced GS to a 2-1 record. He has hit for 31, 35 and 42 points in his three games and is averaging over 13 rebounds per game. At 6-6 Reeves is proficient with a dunk shot but also is a dead-eye from anywhere within 20 feet of the bucket and has enough speed to lead a fast break which he has done many times.

Of the remainder of Glenbrook's line-up the Titans coach Dave Etienne commented: "We play with five others in addition to Reeves. They haven't done much scoring, though they have the potential to get points and they have done very well on offense and on getting the ball to Reeves."

IN THAT SUPPORTING cast there is also a lot of height. Forwards Terry Webb and Scott Packard measure in at 6-1 and 6-5. Reserve forward Dave Schaefer is 6-3. Speed is another factor for the Titans and there is plenty of speed in the GS back court duo Steve

Three Clubs Have Class . . .

If you had to pick a "Big Three" in high school basketball in the Chicago Suburban area, you wouldn't get many arguments right now if you selected New Trier, York, and East Leyden—in any order.

Based on early returns, this trio of schoolboy powerhouses looks like the class of the suburban entries although it is early and a lot can happen between now and March.

One thing going for each of these clubs is a good, big center. New Trier has 6-10 Larry Rosenzweig who has made tremendous improvement since entering the Indian lineup as a soph and is now rated among the finest college prospects in the country.

East Leyden ...as 6-8 Jim Bradof, the Des Plaines Valley scoring champ as a junior and a standout rebounder. Bradof was the key man for the Eagles in their march to a Super-Sectional slot last year.

York has 6-8 Larry Saunders, not a "name" player in the Rosenzweig and Bradof class but certainly a reliable workman who can score and climb up on those boards. Saunders, who has grown three inches in one year, reportedly is a much-improved pivotman.

The centers are good but they have capable supporting casts.

Joining Rosenzweig in the New Trier front line is John Holmes (6-3), who also is in his third year as a varsity starter. Coach John Schneiter also has some other size available but his big problem may be finding the ball-handlers to replace Terry Barton and Dave Major, the 1964-65 regulars.

Joining Bradof under the basket for East Leyden are Bill Byrne (6-3), a regular last winter, and Ken Norgaardt (6-3). Coach Norm Goodman also has a 6-3 guard to work with.

York's main scoring punch has been concentrated in Saunders and 6-0 jumping-jack forward Scott Fiene in recent outings, but the Dukes can receive offensive help from any starter. This is a well-balanced outfit.

The weekend schedule affords some interesting bouts for New Trier and York. The Indians catch highly regarded Proviso East on Friday evening, and York tangles with Downers Grove North Friday and Arlington Saturday.

East Leyden should coast. The Eagles meet a weak Downers Grove South five Friday.

There was a prep game in Southern Illinois last weekend in which 112 free throws were attempted and 73 personal fouls called. One club lost seven players on fouls and had another boy thrown out.

More Thoughts On All-Stars

A few weeks ago we kicked around the need for changes in the way some all-conference football teams were selected. We mentioned a preference for two teams of all-stars, offense and defense.

The problems revolving around these all-star squads aren't limited to our area leagues. We note that reporters covering the South Suburban conference also are interested in some changes.

A couple ideas tossed out have some merit. Maybe the players themselves should pick the all-league team. They're the ones who do the blocking and tackling. They should know their opponents as well as anyone.

Another idea was to have the scouts help in the selections. They see practically every team play and note players in detail for their reports.

Let's hope between now and next fall the coaches put some thought into these all-conference teams.

Paddock Publicatons will be directly concerned with only three suburban area leagues next fall — the Chicagoland Prep, Mid-Suburban and the Tri-County. The Chicagoland and Tri-County both pick of- fensive and defensive teams.

The Mid-Suburban would do well to follow suit, and all three leagues might streamline their methods of selection.

Tower Hill, a tiny Illinois high school, has won three straight basketball games, and the town is going wild. The team is breaking tradition. Over the past six years Tower Hill sported records of 2-21, 3-19, 3-17, 1-19, 0-20, and 1-19. They once lost 35 straight. These are happy days at Tower Hill!!

Tigers' Shers Was A Knight . . .

Prospect high basketball fans and head coach Dick Kinneman are looking at the Elmwood Park box scores with interest these days.

Starting for the Tigers of the Tri-County Conference is Al Shers, a 6-4 junior who prepped at Prospect for his first two years.

Shers made a big splash in his first league test last Friday, dropping in ten baskets and five free throws against Lake Park. That effort put him on top of the Tri-County scoring race.

"Al wasn't real fast but was a good shooter," Kinneman recalls. "He had all the physical capabilities but needed some work on his moves. He was a good prospect though."

Kinneman lost one other standout from that crack frosh club of 1963-64 which lost only two games. Tim Empkie, labeled by Kinneman as "an outstanding prospect," moved to Connecticut, leaving only Tom Lundstedt from that plebe frontline.

Lundstedt has been impressive in Prospect's four contests.

One of Illinois' leading All-State prospects is Mike Reeves, the 6-6 Glenbrook South scoring whiz who has thrown in 108 points in only three games, a snappy 36.0 per game mark. Forest View will try to put the clamp on Reeves this Friday.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

Arlington dropped two basketball cliff-hangers, 59-57 to Maine and 76-75 to Leyden. . .Ron Ashley had 20 against Maine, and Bill Randag contributed 26 against Leyden . . . The wrestlers lost to Waukegan and York.

Seek Rebound After First Loss

Cardinals Await Rugged Cage Twin-Bill; Tackle R-B, York

By BOB FRISK

There's no breather in the West Suburban Conference basketball scramble this winter.

Every game affords a new and complicated set of problems.

Arlington ran into a formidable Glenbard West quintet last Friday, dropping an 84-73 decision, and the Cards catch a double dose of conference power this weekend.

Coach Ted Wissen's junior-dominated entry will host Riverside - Brookfield tomorrow night and then journey to Elmhurst to meet highly-regarded York Saturday.

Riverside opened in league play with a 70-62 conquest of LaGrange for its third victory in four games, and York ran its winning skein to four with a 64-46 thumping of Maine East.

ALTHOUGH Arlington fell to Glenbard in the conference lidlifter, it took a combination of an unusually cold Cardinal team and a red-hot Hilltoper outfit to set up an 11-point difference.

The Cards didn't limit their frigid firing to the field goal department. They also had a dismal night at the free throw line, particularly in the final period when the decision was still within reach.

While Arlington was experiencing its most frustrating night of the young season, Glenbard West was sailing along with some dazzling marksmanship, hitting at a 50-plus percentage clip in each of the four periods.

Wissen's crew is intent on bouncing back this weekend although it is fully aware that the schedule features two demanding assignments.

Riverside - Brookfield, always a threat under head man Ron Nikcevich, appears solid once again and that eight-point win over LaGrange opened a few eyes.

THE BULLDOGS don't have overpowering size, but they're not short either, the starters ranging from 6-1 to 6-3. Mark Schmitz, a 6-3 senior center, threw in 23 against LaGrange, but Riverside has been featuring good balance.

Nikcevich has four seniors and a junior in his starting alignment. Sven Nylen, a 6-1 guard, is the only junior. Lettermen Ken Wall (6-2), Joel Klecka (6-3), and Dave Holub (6-2) round out the top group.

Klecka is playing his third year with the varsity.

Riverside's only loss was a

Deerfield to Host Knight Cage Forces

by MICHAEL HESS

Christmas is still around a far corner but Prospect cagers have received a present anyway.

All season long the Knights have sought more scoring, rebounding and bench strength. They finally got all three in one package: Don Agard.

Injuries have kept 6-2 Agard sidelined and he missed three games. In a reserve role he returned last week however, and his showing had a lot to do with Prospect's squeezing by Maine South 66-65.

When the Knights travel to Deerfield tomorrow (Friday) night Agard's presents will be most welcome. After all, coach Dick Kinneman's quintet may have considerable trouble with the Warriors.

"Agard can make a big difference for us," commented Kinneman. "He had eight rebounds and nine points against Maine and was outstanding on defense. He should be starting but right now my problem is where to use him."

IN CONSIDERING what game opening slot Agard might fill Prospect headman Kinneman stated that Tom Lundstedt, Dave Kingman and J. D. Thorne won't be moved out as starters. No wonder . . .

Lundstedt, 6-3, fills a forward position for the Knights. In four games he has registered 80 points and 34 rebounds including 27 markers and 10 off the boards against Maine South.

Kingman, 6-4, has come on strong after a slow start. With additional experience he now totals 34 points and 30 rebounds for the season, 24 of those points and 16 of those rebounds in his last two contests.

Thorne, a senior as opposed to the junior status of Lundstedt and Kingman, probably helps the Knights most with his speed, passing and playmaking. Those qualities haven't kept him from soring though and he has popped in 52 points.

Where can Agard fit in? Responded Kinneman: "He may go in for either Tom Beard or Tony Kulasa."

BEARD, 6-3 is Prospect's center and has been his team's top rebounder. He has pulled down 39 since the present campaign began. He has also put in 32 points but was shut out last weekend when facing Maine.

Kulasa has been the Knights member selected to bring the ball down the floor. This job he has done well and has also scored 14 points on very limited shooting from the floor.

Cards Face Doubleheader

(Cont. from Preceding Page) four-point decision to touted New Trier. The Bulldogs belted Morton West (77-64) and Oak Park (84-57) in other non-conference games.

AND THEN THERE'S York, Arlington's opponent Saturday. Coach Dick Campbell has molded another powerful club in Elmhurst, and some observers say York could be the strongest outfit in the suburban area.

Prior to that win over Maine last week York had thumped Maine South (81-57), Lockport West (75-54), and Batavia (82-54).

"IT'S STILL EARLY," says York coach Dick Campbell, "but this could be the best club I've had here. At this point we're very satisfied, but we've got a tough weekend with Downers on Friday and then Arlington."

Campbell took the 1961-62 York team to the "Elite Eight" finals and the veteran coach admits his current five "compares favorably" with that state finalist.

"We may be ahead of some teams because not many of our boys were football players," Campbell points out.

YORK FEATURES jumping-jack Scott Fiene (6-1) and Cam Ramsey (6-2) at the forwards with Larry Saunders (6-8) at center. Ned Reese (6-0) and junior Derrick Grove (5-10) handle the guards.

Saunders, who has improved "at least 50 per cent" over last year according to Campbell, is the leading Duke scorer with 77 points in four games. Twenty-five colleges have already expressed some interest in this rangy senior who pulled down 28 rebounds and scored 16 points in a head-to-head battle with Prep All-American Dan Issell of Batavia.

Fiene can climb the boards with boys much taller, and he's already been called for goal-tending this year which isn't a bad feat for someone 6-1.

The one forward spot usually goes to Ramsey, a senior, at the tip-off although soph standout Chris Schweer (6-6) is ready to step in.

Reese, a veteran, and Grove, a much heralded junior, get the first call at guards with Bill Strauch, a 6-0 junior, the first backcourt reserve.

ARLINGTON'S WISSEN will counter Riverside and York with his lineup of four juniors and one senior. Dave Lockwood and Bruce Hubbard will work the forwards with Jim Donchess at center and Steve Allen and Terry Townley at guards.

Donchess pushed in 14 points in a creditable stint against Glenbard as he got a starting nod for the first time. Hubbard chipped in with 16 for the second straight game and topped the rebounding department with ten, six on the offensive boards.

Townley and Allen continue to head the scoring department with Terry now averaging 16.5 over four games. The 5-10 junior has collected 20, 20, and 19 points over his last four outings.

Falcons' Cagers

Another 2-1 record is the property of West Leyden. Izzi and Kotlarz have been most instrumental in compiling that mark.

Izzi, 6-0 senior forward, has averaged 24 points in each outing thus far. He hit a high of 33 points last week. Kotlarz, 5-9 junior guard, missed one game but had 33 and 25 points to show for the two games he did play.

Rounding out the starting alignment for WL will be forward Tom Lafiura, 5-11; center Chick Fugman, 5-11; and either Ron Dustan, 6-0 senior, or Jim Pulsa, 5-10 senior, at the other guard post. In contrast to Glenbrook, West Leyden will not offer FV much trouble in the height department.

Prospect Mat Meet Scheduled For Dec. 22-23

Area wrestling fans should mark Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 22-23, on their calendars.

The Prospect Holiday wrestling tournament will be held on those two days with eight schools battling for honors.

Joining the host Knights will be Forest View, Lake Park, Downers Grove, East Rockford, Glenbard East, Niles West, and York.

Watch these sports pages for further details.

Falcon Frosh in Two Mat Losses

Forest View's frosh wrestlers had a tough week. First they lost last Friday to Niles North 38-10 and then they were topped 34-18 last Saturday by Maine West.

Only wins for the FV frosh against Niles were gained by Don Winkleman and Jim Pierson. Winkleman, at 127 pounds, pinned his opponent in 3:27 while a pin went to Pierson, a heavyweight, in 2:35. Both also won bouts against Maine.

Other points for the Falcons against Maine went to Jim Smith, who pinned his 133 pound opponent in 4:16, and Don Cappeler, at 95 pounds, who registered an 8-6 decision.

Prospect JVs Post Cage Win

Prospect's jayves went into over-time against Maine South Friday night and came out with a 44-42 win.

Coach Don Arseneau's crew found itself deadlocked 39-39 at the end of regulation time.

Although Mike Mueller paced the Knight attack with 12 points, Tom Grafton was the man with the hot hand.

Grafton who totaled 10 points, contributed all of the Knight scoring in the extra stanza. He put together three free throws and a short jumper at the buzzer to put the Knights on the winning end of the over-time thriller.

Prospect Sophs Lose Cage Tilt

A poor second half sent Prospect's soph cagers to defeat before Maine South last Friday. MS won 73-62.

The Knights surged in front in the first half. They were on top 18-13 after one quarter and 36-30 at the intermission. However the margin was cut to 55-50 going into the final period.

Over the last seven minutes Maine pumped in 23 points while Prospect could counter with just seven. That decided the outcome.

High scorer in the game was Phil McGuire of MS who put in 17 points. McIntyre of Maine had 16. Top producer for the Knights was Jim Gumz who totaled seven field goals for 14 points. Gumz was trailed by Marv Hope who tallied 10 markers.

Wildcat Sophs Post Mat Win

Three pins in the last four bouts gave Wheeling's sophomore wrestlers a 26-18 victory over Niles West last week.

Coach Frank Miller's Wildcats trailed 15-11 when Dan Stavros (154), Scott Sword (180), and Ron Frediani (heavyweight) posted falls.

Lions' Cagers

Collins, the 5-10 junior forward, slipped through the Carmel defense for 22 points, hitting ten of 18 shots from the floor. Dan is the squad's second leading scorer after four games with 13.5 average.

The play of John Loughman and Frank Hogan in the backcourt also was encouraging with the duo combining for 60 points in the two games. Loughman continued his steady work as a playmaker and also drilled some long jumpers. You can't leave this 5-9 senior alone or he'll hurt you from out.

HOGAN MADE his presence felt with 38 points in two games, including a 25-point barrage against Notre Dame. Frank appears to be okay now after a bout with illness and that's good news for the Lions. Hogan is one of the finest shooters in the area.

Zones shouldn't bother this St. Viator club with Loughman and Hogan around to fire away from 15-20 feet.

Marian Central faces a busy week, with three games in five days; catching Joliet Catholic and Notre Dame at home before journeying to St. Viator.

"SOME OF THE boys are still showing their football muscles," says head coach Charles Grover, who is in his first year as head man after serving at St. Edward in Elgin for seven years and at Rockford Boylan for three. Grover was an All-State prep at Dundee High School.

"Our front-line hasn't been scoring for us and the guards have had to carry the load," he pointed out. "The kids just aren't working underneath but we hope to solve some of those problems. We're not real big and we have to be more aggressive under the boards."

The tallest man in Marian's starting alignment Saturday will be Gary Anderson, a 6-3 forward. Rich Litchfield is a 6-2 center and Phil Oeffling (6-0) works in at the other forward.

DENNY Jackson (6-0), the only Hurricane with any extensive varsity experience, and Pat Wirtz (6-0) are the guards. Bob Schaefer (5-11) and Jack Hester (5-9) are the top Marian reserves.

Jackson is the key man for Marian, and he scored 11 and 13 against St. Viator last winter in two Hurricane losses (58-57 and 54-50).

The major graduation loss at the Woodstock school was 6-6 All-Stater Paul Nitz, who now plays for the University of Illinois freshmen.

Marian carried a 3-2 record into action this week. The Hurricanes topped Elmwood Park (67-62), East Aurora (63-52), and Rockford Boylan (56-45) and lost to Dundee (48-47) and Immaculate Conception (75-53).

Willowbrook Wins

Falcons Gym Squad Falls in First Meet

Meet number one wasn't exactly a howling success for Forest View gymnasts.

FV's squad opened 1965-66 dual action last Saturday. The opponent was Willowbrook and the Falcons came out on the short end of an 87-42 score at the varsity level.

Best event of the competition for coach Gay Hughes gymnastics squad was the trampoline. On the tramp, senior letterman Dave Hippensteel received 150 points for his routine and came in first. Fourth and sixth in the event went to Tony DiAmico and Bill Glab.

With those three places on the trampoline, Forest View held Willowbrook even, at 11-11, in scoring. In only two other events did FV take more than the minimum six points. On the side horse and horizontal bar the Falcons gained seven points.

D'AMICO WAS third on the horse while juniors Dave Cook and Brice Jay were fifth and sixth. On the H-bar, Garth Freeman gained a second place rating, at 103, and Barry Gustafson ended fifth.

In rings action Freeman and Hippensteel were third and fifth while soph D'Amico, Bob Wilhusen and Glab were fourth, fifth and sixth in tumbling. Parallel bar judging placed Gustafson and Freeman in fourth and fifth.

At the frosh-soph level it was a different story. Forest View won there over Willowbrook by a 68-64 margin.

Firsts for the Falcons F-S crew went to Owsiany, on the trampoline, Olmon, on the horizontal bar, and Murphy in tumbling. Dimas took a second on the tramp and other runner-up positions went to Kratowicz, on the high bar, Stargandt, on the P-bar, and Simon on the rings.

Simon, who got 11 points toward the winning frosh-soph total, also finished fourth on the side horse and parallel bars.

"OUR ONLY good routine on the varsity was Hippensteel on trompoline," said coach Hughes. "We looked bad but still have the potential for a good season. After all, Willowbrook was fourth in the state last year."

Of the frosh-soph showing Hughes stated, "The team, as a whole, looked good considering it was our first meet. We're a little weak on the side horse but should improve there. Our three first place winners looked good with some good second place routines behind them."

Next gymnastics action for the Falcons comes today (Thursday) at home against Glenbrook South. Meet time is 4:15 p.m. Niles East will provide the competition in an away meet on Saturday set to start at 2 p.m.

In Opening Action . . .

Wheeling Gymnasts Divide First Meets

Double dual action last Saturday resulted in one win and one loss for Wheeling gymnasts.

The 'Cats gym squad topped Riverside-Brookfield 81-51 and fell before Niles North 78½-53½. That action opened the '65-'66 season for coach Wayne Selvig's squad.

Against R-B it was Gerry Fontecchio who led the way for the winning 'Cats. He took firsts on the trampoline and in tumbling with scores of 110 and 135 respectively to gain his team 14 points in the meet.

OTHER FIRST for Wheeling went to Mike Bangs and Jim Bowker. Bangs, with a total of 136, won on the parallel bars while Bowker, gaining a 146 rating from the judges, took top honors on the rings. Bangs also took a fifth on the horizontal bar.

Also picking up points for the 'Cats were Greg Shornden, Dick Dyson, Wayne Coats and Don Savage. Shornden was second in both parallel bar and trampoline events and fourth in tumbling. Dyson was second in tumbling and third on the tramp. Coats and Savage were second and third on the side horse.

Fontecchio, Dyson, Bowker and Bangs continued to score well against Niles North but their efforts just weren't good enough to pull out a win.

Only first for Wheeling against Niles went to Fontecchio in tumbling. He also had a second in trampoline. Right behind Fontecchio in both events was Dyson. Bangs and Bowker slipped to second on the parallel bars and rings against Niles.

"Fontecchio did very well against both opponents," said coach Selvig. "I was also encouraged by the performances of juniors Bangs, Dyson and Shornden."

On the frosh-soph level Wheeling's entry faired a little better in the double dual action. The 'Cats F-S aggregation whipped R-B 95-35 and continued with a 71-61 topping of Niles.

HIGH SCORER in the meet for the Wildcats was Dick Ranier. He took first in three events against both opposition units. Ranier won on the horizontal and parallel bars and in tumbling. He was also second on the rings.

Other firsts for the younger Wildcats went to Mike Allen, on the side horse, Rick Orna on the rings and John Grund on the trampoline. Orna was also second on the horizontal bar.

In a special frosh-soph meet held on Monday Ranier was again the Wheeling leader. He took first on the horizontal and parallel bars in addition to a first in tumbling and third on rings to put the 'Cats past New Trier 77½-54½.

Allen, Orna and Grun continued their winning ways also. They repeated on the side horse, rings and trampoline.

Deerfield Tops Falcon Jayvee Five

The Forest View JV basketball team gave a much taller Deerfield quintet a battle in the first half of play, but finally gave way to the Warriors in the second half to drop a 61-40 contest last Saturday in a preliminary tilt in the Forest View gym.

Coach Bob Rees' Falcons led at halftime 26-25, but Deerfield opened up a 14 point lead by the end of the third quarter and rolled on to its third win in four outings.

Forward Scott Archer swished the nets for 15 points to lead the winner's point totals and was followed by guard Jeff Mason who racked up 12 points for the Warriors.

Bob Arnold's nine points paced Forest View, which now sports a record of one win and two losses.

FV	12	14	5	9—40
D	16	9	19	17—61

JV Knights Topple Maine

Prospect's jayvee wrestlers registered a decision, tie, and pin in the first three bouts and went on to earn a 30-13 victory over Maine South last week.

The Knights never trailed after Ricardo Bash gained a 3-2 decision at 95 pounds. Gary Mundt pulled out a tie at 103.

Also scoring points for Prospect were Dick Gewartowski (112), Jeff Hansen (127, Mike Rutkowski (138), Joe Koza (145), Pete Smith (154), Bill Wittmeyer (165), and Bill Kellin (180).

Vet, Reserve Spark Falcons' Cage Win

by MARV PRELLBERG, JR.

Both a veteran and a reserve shared the spotlight in a smashing 76-52 Forest View basketball victory over a visiting Deerfield quintet last Saturday evening.

Leading the way in the Falcons' third straight victory of the season was the familiar name of Pat Dunnigan. The 6-2 senior forward, who is engaged in his third year of varsity cage action, possibly had the best all-around night in his Falcon hardwood court career.

Dunnigan, who played a little over three-quarters of the contest, poured in 28 points against the Warriors. He hit on 11 of 19 field goal attempts and six of nine free throws to register the 28 markers.

NOT ONLY WAS Dunnigan's point production noteworthy, but his floor game and defensive play added much to the Forest View cause. He was pitted defensively against Deerfield's all-league forward Dick McDermott. The Warrior ace had a hard time finding good shots and ended up with a 10 point total for the night, hitting on five of 13 field goal attempts.

Next in the performance spotlight was a gangly, bespectacled guard, "Buck" Jones. The clever ball-handling junior came off the bench early in the second quarter to add another chapter in Coach Ken Arneson's reserve story. Ever since the season opened Arneson has had to call on his reserves to play an important role due to injuries to his starting players.

Prior to this tilt it was reserve center Howie Brasch and reserve guard Jim Buckholz' who were called to front line duty as replacements for injured regulars Jim Baumgardt and Bill Widenski, respectively. Both subs performed well.

THIS TIME Jones put another ace card in coach Arneson's pocket, as he tallied 15 points and surprised all onlookers with his ball-handling tactics.

Also Forest View fans had the pleasure of seeing 6-6 center Baumgardt back in action for the first time this season. Baumgardt was a big help in the Falcon rebounding department and also contributed nine points to the victory cause.

For Deerfield it was a case of balanced scoring, but all were in relatively low figures. The 11 points scored by guard Jerry Carper led the Warriors. Ten points each were registered by McDermott and John Deziel, and nine points were recorded by John Lindquist. However, no Warrior came clost to the Dunnigan point production.

PLAY IN THE opening period indicated that the game might be close throughout. Two quick baskets by Deziel gave Deerfield a 4-0 lead, and the balance of the quarter was nip-and-tuck, as the quarter ended in a 16-16 tie.

The Warriors again took the lead 19-16 early in the second period, and then the Falcons' Jones entered the fracas. The Falcons suddenly caught on fire and quickly jumped out to a 27-19 margin. From that point on Forest View started the romp.

Taking an 11-point, 35-24, lead with them in the second half, Forest View opened up a big gap with a 30 point outburst in the third quarter. Dunnigan poured thru 17 of his point total in this period, and Jones garnered seven of his markers to lead the Falcons to a 65-42 margin going into the final quarter.

The scoring pace slowed considerably in the final stanza, as the Falcons coasted to the 76-52 victory and remained undefeated.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Forest View	16	19	30	11—76
Deerfield	16	8	18	10—52

Split Two Games

Forest View's sophomore basketball team split its games last weekend. First FV lost to Maine West 42-41 and then topped Downers Grove South 65-46.

In the one point defeat at Maine, Mike Messer's 13 points led the scoring for the Falcons. Earl Thomas chipped in with 11 points and was also high in rebounds. He took eight off the boards.

"It was a very tight defensive game against Maine," said Forest View coach Rog Steingraber. "We were out rebounded in the second half and Maine scored on a rebound shot with only five seconds left."

In 3rd Mat Win

Thad Mikols, Tom Paturalski and Frank Abboreno led Wheeling JV wrestlers to a pair of whopping victories last weekend.

On Friday the 'Cats junior varsity pounded Glenbrook South 53-3 and then stomped Niles East 44-6 on Saturday. The record of coach Charles Stuber's squad was moved to 3-0 by the triumphs.

In both meets Mikols, at 127 pounds, Paturalski, at 138, and Abboreno, heavyweight, each won their bouts with pins. Six other Wildcats also gained points against both Glenbrook and Niles.

THOSE SIX taking two wins were Chuck Nute, a pin and decision at 95 pounds; Phil Reed, a pin and decision at 120; Bill Hemme, a pin and forfeit at 133; Phil Peet, a pin and decision at 145; Ken Holliday, a pin and decision at 154; and Pat McGuire, a pin and forfeit at 180.

Steve Haisley and Ken Brown both won bouts against Glenbrook only. They wrestle at 103 and 112 pounds respectively. Coming out on top against Niles was Larry Knaack at 165.

Scoring Record

The Chicago Bears record for most points in a single season is held by Johnny Lujack. Lujack scored eleven touchdowns, kicked 34 extra points and three field goals in the 1950 season for 109 points.

Knights Take Frosh Contest, EG Wins Soph

Prospect and Elk Grove took turns at claiming basketball triumphs in lower level action last week.

The Knights scored with a 51-40 victory on a frosh 'A' level but Elk Grove came through in sophomore action, 56-53.

Prospect never trailed in claiming the frosh victory. Greg Esty was the big man in the balanced Knight attack with 16 points. Ted Passarelli dialed 13 and Rich Andrews 11.

Gary Pleickhardt was high for Elk Grove with 13 points. Joe Kalisz had 10.

Prospect won the frosh 'B' game, 62-22.

The Grove quintet put on a second half rush to pull out a 56-53 sophomore victory. The winners shot 48 per cent from the floor to Prospect's 36 per cent.

Tom Pomey was high for Elk Grove with seven baskets and one free throw for 15 points. Marv Hope collected 17 for Prospect.

Cat Frosh Beat Niles Wrestlers

Only four of 12 bouts were lost by Wheeling frosh matmen last Friday as they defeated Niles West 30-18.

Taking bouts for the 'Cats with pin wins were Bob Carlson, 103 pounts, Jeff Minikel, 154, and Ed Humphries, 165. Getting decisions for the winners were Bob Tipsword, 95 pounds, Jim McCranie, 112, Keith Lewis, 138, Bill Carlander, 180, and Ed Haase, heavyweight.

Cards Handle Palatine JVs

Arlington's jayvee wrestling team scored six straight class victories, two by pins, and rolled to a 32-19 triumph over Palatine last Saturday.

The Pirates held a 19-10 lead after six bouts when the Cards made their move.

Individual winners for Arlington were Ken Hawkes (120), Brad Philo (138), John Moeller (145), Tom Barkulis (154), Brad Somers (165), Tom Hyde (180), and Ron Thompson (heavyweight).

Palatine received points from Brad Molinari (103), Mason (112), Herrman (127), and Grayson (133).

Knights to Host Deerfield Five

Wolf, a 6-1 senior, is extremely fast. His speed kept him at the front of a press which reduced Maine's 19 point third quarter margin and allowed the Knights to win.

"WHEN WE came back in the second half we showed what we're capable of," said Kinneman in reviewing the triumph over Maine. "We played a very poor first half but made the best comeback any Prospect team has made in the school's history."

Against Deerfield the Knights will find another team which has been helped by the return of a previously injured player. Back to bolster the Warriors is 6-2 forward Tom Fuzzey.

Fuzzey played only in the season's first game but he scored 27 points and dominated the boards in that battle. His point punch and rebounding strength is just what Deerfield coach Lyle Frahm wants.

"I've been primarily disappointed with our rebounding," said Frahm. "Our second or third effort has been weak. Also, we've been doing more fouling than we should and we need to take some of the scoring pressure off McDermott."

DICK McDERMOTT, 6-0, missed one engagement this season but has connected for 64 points in three games. Other scoring for the Warriors has been balanced between center John Deziel, guard Gerry Carper and forward John Lindquist. Of that trio, Deziel has done the most rebounding and Carper the most scoring.

Final starter for Deerfield will be 5-9 guard Kevin Morrison.

Both the Knights and Warriors have had similar success thus far. Each has won two of four games. Whichever quintet makes best use of its returnee should step above .500 tomorrow night and that's the best present either could receive either before or after Christmas.

Cards Face Doubleheader

(Cont. from Preceding Page) four-point decision to touted New Trier. The Bulldogs belted Morton West (77-64) and Oak Park (84-57) in other non-conference games.

AND THEN THERE'S York, Arlington's opponent Saturday. Coach Dick Campbell has molded another powerful club in Elmhurst, and some observers say York could be the strongest outfit in the suburban area.

Prior to that win over Maine last week York had thumped Maine South (81-57), Lockport West (75-54), and Batavia (82-54).

"IT'S STILL EARLY," says York coach Dick Campbell, "but this could be the best club I've had here. At this point we're very satisfied, but we've got a tough weekend with Downers on Friday and then Arlington."

Campbell took the 1961-62 York team to the "Elite Eight" finais and the veteran coach admits his current five "compares favorably" with that state finalist.

"We may be ahead of some teams because not many of our boys were football players," Campbell points out.

YORK FEATURES jumping-jack Scott Fiene (6-1) and Cam Ramsey (6-2) at the forwards with Larry Saunders (6-8) at center. Ned Reese (6-0) and junior Derrick Grove (5-10) handle the guards.

Saunders, who has improved "at least 50 per cent" over last year according to Campbell, is the leading Duke scorer with 77 points in four games. Twenty-five colleges have already expressed some interest in this rangy senior who pulled down 28 rebounds and scored 16 points in a head-to-head battle with Prep All-American Dan Issell of Batavia.

Fiene can climb the boards with boys much taller, and he's already been called for goal-tending this year which isn't a bad feat for someone 6-1.

The one forward spot usually goes to Ramsey, a senior, at the tip-off although soph stand-out Chris Schweer (6-6) is ready to step in.

Reese, a veteran, and Grove, a much heralded junior, get the first call at guards with Bill Strauch, a 6-0 junior, the first backcourt reserve.

ARLINGTON'S WISSEN will counter Riverside and York with his lineup of four juniors and one senior. Dave Lockwood and Bruce Hubbard will work the forwards with Jim Donchess at center and Steve Allen and Terry Townley at guards.

Donchess pushed in 14 points in a creditable stint against Glenbard as he got a starting nod for the first time. Hubbard chipped in with 16 for the second straight game and topped the rebounding department with ten, six on the offensive boards.

Townley and Allen continue to head the scoring department with Terry now averaging 16.5 over four games. The 5-10 junior has collected 20, 20, and 19 points over his last four outings.

Falcons' Cagers

Another 2-1 record is the property of West Leyden. Izzi and Kotlarz have been most instrumental in compiling that mark.

Izzi, 6-0 senior forward, has averaged 24 points in each outing thus far. He hit a high of 33 points last week. Kotlarz, 5-9 junior guard, missed one game but had 33 and 25 points to show for the two games he did play.

Rounding out the starting alignment for WL will be forward Tom Lafiura, 5-11; center Chick Fugman, 5-11; and either Ron Dustan, 6-0 senior, or Jim Pulsa, 5-10 senior, at the other guard post. In contrast to Glenbrook, West Leyden will not offer FV much trouble in the height department.

Prospect Mat Meet Scheduled For Dec. 22-23

Area wrestling fans should mark Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 22-23, on their calendars.

The Prospect Holiday wrestling tournament will be held on those two days with eight schools battling for honors.

Joining the host Knights will be Forest View, Lake Park, Downers Grove, East Rockford, Glenbard East, Niles West, and York.

Watch these sports pages for further details.

Falcon Frosh in Two Mat Losses

Forest View's frosh wrestlers had a tough week. First they lost last Friday to Niles North 38-10 and then they were topped 34-18 last Saturday by Maine West.

Only wins for the FV frosh against Niles were gained by Don Winkleman and Jim Pierson. Winkleman, at 127 pounds, pinned his opponent in 3:27 while a pin went to Pierson, a heavyweight, in 2:35. Both also won bouts against Maine.

Other points for the Falcons against Maine went to Jim Smith, who pinned his 133 pound opponent in 4:16, and Don Cappeler, at 95 pounds, who registered an 8-6 decision.

Prospect JVs Post Cage Win

Prospect's jayves went into over-time against Maine South Friday night and came out with a 44-42 win.

Coach Don Arseneau's crew found itself deadlocked 39-39 at the end of regulation time.

Although Mike Mueller paced the Knight attack with 12 points, Tom Grafton was the man with the hot hand.

Grafton who totaled 10 points, contributed all of the Knight scoring in the extra stanza. He put together three free throws and a short jumper at the buzzer to put the Knights on the winning end of the over-time thriller.

Prospect Sophs Lose Cage Tilt

A poor second half sent Prospect's soph cagers to defeat before Maine South last Friday. MS won 73-62.

The Knights surged in front in the first half. They were on top 18-13 after one quarter and 36-30 at the intermission. However the margin was cut to 55-50 going into the final period.

Over the last seven minutes Maine pumped in 23 points while Prospect could counter with just seven. That decided the outcome.

High scorer in the game was Phil McGuire of MS who put in 17 points. McIntyre of Maine had 16. Top producer for the Knights was Jim Gumz who totaled seven field goals for 14 points. Gumz was trailed by Marv Hope who tallied 10 markers.

Wildcat Sophs Post Mat Win

Three pins in the last four bouts gave Wheeling's sophomore wrestlers a 26-18 victory over Niles West last week.

Coach Frank Miller's Wildcats trailed 15-11 when Dan Stavros (154), Scott Sword (180), and Ron Frediani (heavyweight) posted falls.

Willowbrook Wins

Falcons Gym Squad Falls in First Meet

Meet number one wasn't exactly a howling success for Forest View gymnasts.

FV's squad opened 1965-66 dual action last Saturday. The opponent was Willowbrook and the Falcons came out on the short end of an 87-42 score at the varsity level.

Best event of the competition for coach Gay Hughes gymnastics squad was the trampoline. On the tramp, senior letterman Dave Hippensteel received 150 points for his routine and came in first. Fourth and sixth in the event went to Tony DiAmico and Bill Glab.

With those three places on the trampoline, Forest View held Willowbrook even, at 11-11, in scoring. In only two other events did FV take more than the minimum six points. On the side horse and horizontal bar the Falcons gained seven points.

D'AMICO WAS third on the horse while juniors Dave Cook and Brice Jay were fifth and sixth. On the H-bar, Garth Freeman gained a second place rating, at 103, and Barry Gustafson ended fifth.

In rings action Freeman and Hippensteel were third and fifth while soph D'Amico, Bob Wilhusen and Glab were fourth, fifth and sixth in tumbling. Parallel bar judging placed Gustafson and Freeman in fourth and fifth.

At the frosh-soph level it was a different story. Forest View won there over Willowbrook by a 68-64 margin.

Firsts for the Falcons F-S crew went to Owsiany, on the trampoline, Olmon, on the horizontal bar, and Murphy in tumbling. Dimas took a second on the tramp and other runner-up positions went to Kratowicz, on the high bar, Stargandt, on the P-bar, and Simon on the rings.

Simon, who got 11 points toward the winning frosh-soph total, also finished fourth on the side horse and parallel bars.

"OUR ONLY good routine on the varsity was Hippensteel on trompoline," said coach Hughes. "We looked bad but still have the potential for a good season. After all, Willowbrook was fourth in the state last year."

Of the frosh-soph showing Hughes stated, "The team, as a whole, looked good considering it was our first meet. We're a little weak on the side horse but should improve there. Our three first place winners looked good with some good second place routines behind them."

Next gymnastics action for the Falcons comes today (Thursday) at home against Glenbrook South. Meet time is 4:15 p.m. Niles East will provide the competition in an away meet on Saturday set to start at 2 p.m.

In Opening Action . . .

Wheeling Gymnasts Divide First Meets

Double dual action last Saturday resulted in one win and one loss for Wheeling gymnasts.

The 'Cats gym squad topped Riverside-Brookfield 81-51 and fell before Niles North 78½-53½. That action opened the '65-'66 season for coach Wayne Selvig's squad.

Against R-B it was Gerry Fontecchio who led the way for the winning 'Cats. He took firsts on the trampoline and in tumbling with scores of 110 and 135 respectively to gain his team 14 points in the meet.

OTHER FIRST for Wheeling went to Mike Bangs and Jim Bowker. Bangs, with a total of 136, won on the parallel bars while Bowker, gaining a 146 rating from the judges, took top honors on the rings. Bangs also took a fifth on the horizontal bar.

Also picking up points for the 'Cats were Greg Shornden, Dick Dyson, Wayne Coats and Don Savage. Shornden was second in both parallel bar and trampoline events and fourth in tumbling. Dyson was second in tumbling and third on the tramp. Coats and Savage were second and third on the side horse.

Fontecchio, Dyson, Bowker and Bangs continued to score well against Niles North but their efforts just weren't good enough to pull out a win.

Only first for Wheeling against Niles went to Fontecchio in tumbling. He also had a second in trampoline. Right behind Fontecchio in both events was Dyson. Bangs and Bowker slipped to second on the parallel bars and rings against Niles.

"Fontecchio did very well against both opponents," said coach Selvig. "I was also encouraged by the performances of juniors Bangs, Dyson and Shornden."

On the frosh-soph level Wheeling's entry faired a little better in the double dual action. The 'Cats F-S aggregation whipped R-B 95-35 and continued with a 71-61 topping of Niles.

HIGH SCORER in the meet for the Wildcats was Dick Ranier. He took first in three events against both opposition units. Ranier won on the horizontal and parallel bars and in tumbling. He was also second on the rings.

Other firsts for the younger Wildcats went to Mike Allen, on the side horse, Rick Orna on the rings and John Grund on the trampoline. Orna was also second on the horizontal bar.

In a special frosh-soph meet held on Monday Ranier was again the Wheeling leader. He took first on the horizontal and parallel bars in addition to a first in tumbling and third on rings to put the 'Cats past New Trier 77½-54½.

Allen, Orna and Grun continued their winning ways also. They repeated on the side horse, rings and trampoline.

Collins, the 5-10 junior forward, slipped through the Carmel defense for 22 points, hitting ten of 18 shots from the floor. Dan is the squad's second leading scorer after four games with 13.5 average.

The play of John Loughman and Frank Hogan in the backcourt also was encouraging with the duo combining for 60 points in the two games. Loughman continued his steady work as a playmaker and also drilled some long jumpers. You can't leave this 5-9 senior alone or he'll hurt you from out.

HOGAN MADE his presence felt with 38 points in two games, including a 25-point barrage against Notre Dame. Frank appears to be okay now after a bout with illness and that's good news for the Lions. Hogan is one of the finest shooters in the area.

Zones shouldn't bother this St. Viator club with Loughman and Hogan around to fire away from 15-20 feet.

Marian Central faces a busy week, with three games in five days; catching Joliet Catholic and Notre Dame at home before journeying to St. Viator.

"SOME OF THE boys are still showing their football muscles," says head coach Charles Grover, who is in his first year as head man after serving at St. Edward in Elgin for seven years and at Rockford Boylan for three. Grover was an All-State prep at Dundee High School.

"Our front-line hasn't been scoring for us and the guards have had to carry the load," he pointed out. "The kids just aren't working underneath but we hope to solve some of those problems. We're not real big and we have to be more aggressive under the boards."

The tallest man in Marian's starting alignment Saturday will be Gary Anderson, a 6-3 forward. Rich Litchfield is a 6-2 center and Phil Oeffling (6-0) works in at the other forward.

DENNY Jackson (6-0), the only Hurricane with any extensive varsity experience, and Pat Wirtz (6-0) are the guards. Bob Schaefer (5-11) and Jack Hester (5-9) are the top Marian reserves.

Jackson is the key man for Marian, and he scored 11 and 13 against St. Viator last winter in two Hurricane losses (58-57 and 54-50).

The major graduation loss at the Woodstock school was 6-6 All-Stater Paul Nitz, who now plays for the University of Illinois freshmen.

Marian carried a 3-2 record into action this week. The Hurricanes topped Elmwood Park (67-62), East Aurora (63-52), and Rockford Boylan (56-45) and lost to Dundee (48-47) and Immaculate Conception (75-53).

Deerfield Tops Falcon Jayvee Five

The Forest View JV basketball team gave a much taller Deerfield quintet a battle in the first half of play, but finally gave way to the Warriors in the second half to drop a 61-40 contest last Saturday in a preliminary tilt in the Forest View gym.

Coach Bob Rees' Falcons led at halftime 26-25, but Deerfield opened up a 14 point lead by the end of the third quarter and rolled on to its third win in four outings.

Forward Scott Archer swished the nets for 15 points to lead the winner's point totals and was followed by guard Jeff Mason who racked up 12 points for the Warriors.

Bob Arnold's nine points paced Forest View, which now sports a record of one win and two losses.

JV Knights Topple Maine

Prospect's jayvee wrestlers registered a decision, tie, and pin in the first three bouts and went on to earn a 30-13 victory over Maine South last week.

The Knights never trailed after Ricardo Bash gained a 3-2 decision at 95 pounds. Gary Mundt pulled out a tie at 103.

Also scoring points for Prospect were Dick Gewartowski (112), Jeff Hansen (127, Mike Rutkowski (138), Joe Koza (145), Pete Smith (154), Bill Wittmeyer (165), and Bill Kellin (180).

Vet, Reserve Spark Falcons' Cage Win

by MARV PRELLBERG, JR.

Both a veteran and a reserve shared the spotlight in a smashing 76-52 Forest View basketball victory over a visiting Deerfield quintet last Saturday evening.

Leading the way in the Falcons' third straight victory of the season was the familiar name of Pat Dunnigan. The 6-2 senior forward, who is engaged in his third year of varsity cage action, possibly had the best all-around night in his Falcon hardwood court career.

Dunnigan, who played a little over three-quarters of the contest, poured in 28 points against the Warriors. He hit on 11 of 19 field goal attempts and six of nine free throws to register the 28 markers.

NOT ONLY WAS Dunnigan's point production noteworthy, but his floor game and defensive play added much to the Forest View cause. He was pitted defensively against Deerfield's all-league forward Dick McDermott. The Warrior ace had a hard time finding good shots and ended up with a 10 point total for the night, hitting on five of 13 field goal attempts.

Next in the performance spotlight was a gangly, bespectacled guard, "Buck" Jones. The clever ball-handling junior came off the bench early in the second quarter to add another chapter in Coach Ken Arneson's reserve story. Ever since the season opened Arneson has had to call on his reserves to play an important role due to injuries to his starting players.

Prior to this tilt it was reserve center Howie Brasch and reserve guard Jim Buckholz' who were called to front line duty as replacements for injured regulars Jim Baumgardt and Bill Widenski, respectively. Both subs performed well.

THIS TIME Jones put another ace card in coach Arneson's pocket, as he tallied 15 points and surprised all onlookers with his ball-handling tactics.

Also Forest View fans had the pleasure of seeing 6-6 center Baumgardt back in action for the first time this season. Baumgardt was a big help in the Falcon rebounding department and also contributed nine points to the victory cause.

For Deerfield it was a case of balanced scoring, but all were in relatively low figures. The 11 points scored by guard Jerry Carper led the Warriors. Ten points each were registered by McDermott and John Deziel, and nine points were recorded by John Lindquist. However, no Warrior came clost to the Dunnigan point production.

PLAY IN THE opening period indicated that the game might be close throughout. Two quick baskets by Deziel gave Deerfield a 4-0 lead, and the balance of the quarter was nip-and-tuck, as the quarter ended in a 16-16 tie.

The Warriors again took the lead 19-16 early in the second period, and then the Falcons' Jones entered the fracas. The Falcons suddenly caught on fire and quickly jumped out to a 27-19 margin. From that point on Forest View started the romp.

Taking an 11-point, 35-24, lead with them in the second half, Forest View opened up a big gap with a 30 point outburst in the third quarter. Dunnigan poured thru 17 of his point total in this period, and Jones garnered seven of his markers to lead the Falcons to a 65-42 margin going into the final quarter.

The scoring pace slowed considerably in the final stanza, as the Falcons coasted to the 76-52 victory and remained undefeated.

Split Two Games

Forest View's sophomore basketball team split its games last weekend. First FV lost to Maine West 42-41 and then topped Downers Grove South 65-46.

In the one point defeat at Maine, Mike Messer's 13 points led the scoring for the Falcons. Earl Thomas chipped in with 11 points and was also high in rebounds. He took eight off the boards.

"It was a very tight defensive game against Maine," said Forest View coach Rog Steingraber. "We were out rebounded in the second half and Maine scored on a rebound shot with only five seconds left."

In 3rd Mat Win

Thad Mikols, Tom Paturalski and Frank Abboreno led Wheeling JV wrestlers to a pair of whopping victories last weekend.

On Friday the 'Cats junior varsity pounded Glenbrook South 53-3 and then stomped Niles East 44-6 on Saturday. The record of coach Charles Stuber's squad was moved to 3-0 by the triumphs.

In both meets Mikols, at 127 pounds, Paturalski, at 138, and Abboreno, heavyweight, each won their bouts with pins. Six other Wildcats also gained points against both Glenbrook and Niles.

THOSE SIX taking two wins were Chuck Nute, a pin and decision at 95 pounds; Phil Reed, a pin and decision at 120; Bill Hemme, a pin and forfeit at 133; Phil Peet, a pin and decision at 145; Ken Holliday, a pin and decision at 154; and Pat McGuire, a pin and forfeit at 180.

Steve Haisley and Ken Brown both won bouts against Glenbrook only. They wrestle at 103 and 112 pounds respectively. Coming out on top against Niles was Larry Knaack at 165.

Scoring Record

The Chicago Bears record for most points in a single season is held by Johnny Lujack. Lujack scored eleven touchdowns, kicked 34 extra points and three field goals in the 1950 season for 109 points.

Knights Take Frosh Contest, EG Wins Soph

Prospect and Elk Grove took turns at claiming basketball triumphs in lower level action last week.

The Knights scored with a 51-40 victory on a frosh 'A' level but Elk Grove came through in sophomore action, 56-53.

Prospect never trailed in claiming the frosh victory. Greg Esty was the big man in the balanced Knight attack with 16 points. Ted Passarelli dialed 13 and Rich Andrews 11.

Gary Pleickhardt was high for Elk Grove with 13 points. Joe Kalisz had 10.

Prospect won the frosh 'B' game, 62-22.

The Grove quintet put on a second half rush to pull out a 56-53 sophomore victory. The winners shot 48 per cent from the floor to Prospect's 36 per cent.

Tom Pomey was high for Elk Grove with seven baskets and one free throw for 15 points. Marv Hope collected 17 for Prospect.

Cat Frosh Beat Niles Wrestlers

Only four of 12 bouts were lost by Wheeling frosh matmen last Friday as they defeated Niles West 30-18.

Taking bouts for the 'Cats with pin wins were Bob Carlson, 103 pounts, Jeff Minikel, 154, and Ed Humphries, 165. Getting decisions for the winners were Bob Tipsword, 95 pounds, Jim McCranie, 112, Keith Lewis, 138, Bill Carlander, 180, and Ed Haase, heavyweight.

Cards Handle Palatine JVs

Arlington's jayvee wrestling team scored six straight class victories, two by pins, and rolled to a 32-19 triumph over Palatine last Saturday.

The Pirates held a 19-10 lead after six bouts when the Cards made their move.

Individual winners for Arlington were Ken Hawkes (120), Brad Philo (138), John Moeller (145), Tom Barkulis (154), Brad Somers (165), Tom Hyde (180), and Ron Thompson (heavyweight).

Palatine received points from Brad Molinari (103), Mason (112), Herrman (127), and Grayson (133).

Knights to Host Deerfield Five

Wolf, a 6-1 senior, is extremely fast. His speed kept him at the front of a press which reduced Maine's 19 point third quarter margin and allowed the Knights to win.

"WHEN WE came back in the second half we showed what we're capable of," said Kinneman in reviewing the triumph over Maine. "We played a very poor first half but made the best comeback any Prospect team has made in the school's history."

Against Deerfield the Knights will find another team which has been helped by the return of a previously injured player. Back to bolster the Warriors is 6-2 forward Tom Fuzzey.

Fuzzey played only in the season's first game but he scored 27 points and dominated the boards in that battle. His point punch and rebounding strength is just what Deerfield coach Lyle Frahm wants.

"I've been primarily disappointed with our rebounding," said Frahm. "Our second or third effort has been weak. Also, we've been doing more fouling than we should and we need to take some of the scoring pressure off McDermott."

DICK McDERMOTT, 6-0, missed one engagement this season but has connected for 64 points in three games. Other scoring for the Warriors has been balanced between center John Deziel, guard Gerry Carper and forward John Lindquist. Of that trio, Deziel has done the most rebounding and Carper the most scoring.

Final starter for Deerfield will be 5-9 guard Kevin Morrison.

Both the Knights and Warriors have had similar success thus far. Each has won two of four games. Whichever quintet makes best use of its returnee should step above .500 tomorrow night and that's the best present either could receive either before or after Christmas.

Reeves and Balance Bring Losses

Wildcats Five Falls To Both Glenbrooks

by MICHAEL HESS

Where cage scoring is concerned, two types of point producing dominate: the one-man attack and the every-man assault.

Wheeling's quintet ran into both kinds of tallying last weekend. Losses to Glenbrook South, 79-63, and Glenbrook North, 61-52, resulted.

On Friday a one-man show by GS's 6-6 center Mike Reeves spelled defeat for the 'Cats. Reeves hit 18 of 28 goal attempts, added six free throws for 42 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and also played a brilliant floor game.

TOM NEUCKRANZ
42 in 2

On Saturday it was a display of balance which felled the 'Cats. Every GN man produced buckets with Burk Krohe's 15 points, John Arbogast's 14 points and Paul Brubaker's 13 points leading the way.

FOR COACH Mike Owens' quintet the story involved both an individual standout, Tom Neuckranz, and some occasionally fine showings by Skip Grandt and Rex Peterson.

Neuckranz, a senior forward, had 24 and 18 points in the two contests. He shot 15 for 34 from the charity line in addition to pulling down 12 rebounds in his two game effort. The 6-1 'Cats leader also continued his steady passing and ball handling.

Up and down outings marked the performances of Grandt and Peterson against the Glenbrooks. Grandt had 14 points against South and seven against North. He got seven and five rebounds. A 17 point output was Peterson's against South, mainly on sharp, driving lay-ups, and five points were his, all on free throws, in the North encounter.

The Wildcats stayed close for most of the first quarter in the GS game. After three minutes the tally was tied 8-8 but Reeves put in two quick buckets and the totals were never even again. Reeves had 13 points in the starting period and 10 more before the intermission.

SECOND QUARTER shooting troubles a two for 14 mark, caused Wheeling to fall behind 42-26 at the half. Neuckranz had 10 points by that time, Grandt eight and Peterson five. Neuckranz, with seven, and Peterson, with nine points, narrowed the gap to 55-44 with 1:30 left in quarter three.

In that last 90 seconds, however, Reeves garnered eight points. He had 38 points over the first three periods and Glenbrook South led 63-44 as the closing quarter began.

With Grandt and Neuckranz combining for 13 markers the 'Cats got a bit closer before the struggle ended. However the margin was too big to wipe out especially since South's height advantage continued to give them control of both boards.

After that trip to South last Friday, Wheeling returned home to host North the next evening. Again the Wildcats remained close for one period and were down by only four, at 15-11 when the second quarter began. Before the half Krohe and Arbogast, with seven and eight points, helped open a 38-25 advantage.

WHILE WHEELING'S play Friday had been reasonably tight and minus a large number of errors, the big factor Saturday was bad passing and mental miscues. While GN wasn't much better at times, the Spartans were just enough better to maintain their margin through the closing quarters.

Near the end of period three a bucket by Scott Bischoff, who ended with 11 points, put the score at 46-38. Two Neuckranz free throws made it 50-42 going into the last eight minutes.

Krohe put in a lay-up to open proceedings in the last period. Bischoff's bucket put the score at 52-44 and, after Arbogast hit a 15 footer, Neuckranz tapped one in to make it 54-46. Two bad passes gave North two goals and, after a jumper by Neuckranz, another turnover plus a foul sent the GN margin to 61-48.

That was the game.

As a result of the double defeat Wheeling's won-lost record became 1-3. The 'Cats, with some very competant play to their credit, just couldn't cope with either the one-man attack or the every-man assult by the two Glenbrooks.

Even Battle Likely As . . .

'Cat Quintet Travels To Face Niles West

by MICHAEL HESS

If you think picking basketball winners is easy, try predicting the outcome of tomorrow's Wheeling-Niles West affair.

With current season cage activities barely under way neither quintet has had abundant success. However, each has displayed just enough hoop talent so that neither can be made a pre-game favorite.

The Wildcats have won one of four games and in only a single battle have they been badly outclassed. However, the charges of coach Mike Owens are fresh from a double defeat suffered last weekend.

The Indians were set down easily in their four opening outings, being drubbed by an average of 18 points in each. However, under headman Billy Schnurr, they came back to top Maine West 52-41 just five days ago.

CONTINUED similarities can be found when considering Wheeling and Niles West individual personnel.

The 'Cats have one standout scorer in forward Tom Neuckranz. In four games the 6-1 senior has hit for 70 points. He has hit for about 40 per cent from the floor and can connect from underneath the bucket or from outside.

Rebounding for Owens squad has been mainly the chore of Skip Grandt. Grandt, though only 5-11, has grabbed 38 off the boards this year in addition to putting in 39 points.

Backing up Neuckranz and Grandt are four others who can sparkle when the situation demands.

Guard Rex Peterson has speed and a good driving shot which has gained him 40 points. Center Scott Bischoff has 37 points and also gets his share of rebounds. As reserves, Jerry Kerr and Mark Newman have totaled 25 points between them and both fillt he play-makers bill.

IN THE NW camp the top scorer is 5-18 guard Dan Hirshtick. He had 33 points during his last two games and, when he's right, his speed and passing can make the Indians move on offense.

Rebounding by center George Timmings and forward Mike Pepper are listed by coach Schnurr as one of Niles bright spots. Timmings, 6-2, and Pepper, 6-1, have both gotten at least 10 rebounds in every game the Indians have played. They combined for 31 points in two contests last weekend.

Among the supporting cast at Niles West there have been recent changes. Bruce Pindras, 6-1, was switched from guard to forward in the win against Maine West and the shift paid off in key rebounds, points and passes. New to the starting lineup is Lyle Killey, 5-10 guard, who got 10 markers in his only opening assignment thus far.

Past records and individuals then are almost equal for the 'Cats and Indians. Also very much alike are the reasons for each team's unimpressive showing to this point.

"We've played some good ball lately," said Wheeling coach Owens. "However we were a little ragged and careless last Saturday when we lost to Glenbrook North. We had too many turnovers. Now we have to work to eliminate some of our silly little mistakes."

Chimed in Niles Director Schnurr: "We've made a lot of errors this year and they've hurt us. We make obvious errors that we shouldn't and our shooting hasn't been as good as it could be."

IN ONE RECENT game the Indians connected on just 13 of 71 field goal attempts. That's only 18 per cent, very low by any standards, but the figure went up to 34 per cent in the triumph over Maine. The Wildcats have hit close to 40 per cent in each of their games.

And what about the respective coaches feelings toward their opponent tomorrow (Friday) night?

Said Schnurr: "I don't know a great deal about Wheeling. They're pretty much of an unknown quantity but from what I've heard I expect them to be tough."

Said Owens: "We have a chance against Niles if we play a good steady game and can eliminate some errors. However, they might be even with us right now and maybe a little bit better. Also, playing on their floor will give them an advantage."

So there they are, Wheeling and Niles West who meet Friday evening on the NW court. Think it's easy picking a winner? Try it!

FV Wrestlers Stay Unbeaten

"Unbeaten" is a designation which still applies to Forest View wrestlers.

After three meets of the '65-'66 mat season, FV hasn't lost. Coach Hal Henson's crew stopped Arlington to start and then, last weekend, whipped Niles North 25-18 and Maine East 21-15.

The triumph over Niles came on Friday. Tom Bohac, a 95 pounder, got the Falcons off to a good start. He took a 9-4 decision but Steve Dehaven lost 3-0 at 103 to even the score.

Niles went ahead 8-3 with a pin win at 112 pounds but Dave Knudson, 120 pounds, brought three points to FV when he gained a decision 4-0. When Ron McKisic was pinned at 2:14 of his 127 pound bout NN held a 13-6 margin.

BEST, OF FOREST View, gained points at 133 when his opponent was disqualified for unnecessary roughness. The Falcons, Kenny Andrews was defeated 3-2 at 138 and Niles held an 18-13 advantage. Henson's grapplers didn't drop another bout.

Jim Kubik, 145 pounds, fought to a scoreless 0-0 draw. At 154 Pete Phillips won a close 1-0 decision and Brian Lampert also ended ahead by one, 2-1, for a decision at 165 which put Forest View in front 19-18.

Taking what headman Henson termed the "decisive match" was Mike Severns at 180 pounds. He scored on a 4-1 decision. Setting the closing margin was heavyweight Al Gildemeister. He clinched the FV triumph by coming out on top in an 8-7 decision.

Against Maine East the outcome was in doubt until the final two matches.

Bohac won 4-0 at 95 and Dehaven won 5-2 at 103. At 112 and 120 FV's Hansen and Knudsen lost 11-10 and 2-1 decisions. Meet totals were then even at six apiece. Both teams won two of the next four bouts.

McKISIC and Best dropped 10-3 and 2-1 decisions at 127 and 133 pounds. Andrews and Kubic evened things up for Forest View with 3-2 decisions at 138 and 145. Again the meet was even as each mat entry had 12 points.

At 154, Phillips put the Falcons temporarily back in front. He won a one-sided 9-0 decision. Because Lampert lost 2-0 at 165 however, the score was tied for the third and last time. Both sides had 15.

For the second straight meet Severns and Gildemeister wrapped things up for FV. Severns, by a 7-1 count, won at 180 and, at heavyweight, Gildemeister scored a shutout 5-0. Those two set the final totals at 21-15.

IN FOREST VIEW'S trio of wrestling meets this season, three Falcons remain undefeated. Bohac, 95, Phillips, 154, and Gildemeister, heavyweight, all have three wins to their credit.

Glenbrook South will be the Falcons' next opponent. The GS meet comes tomorrow (Friday) at FV starting at 4:30 p.m.

Wildcat JV Cagers Win Two Games

Two games, two triumphs—that's the record of Wheeling's junior varsity cagers.

The 'Cats JV quintet opened '65 - '66 action last weekend. Coach Ted Ecker's five edged Glenbrook South 47-46 on Friday and stopped Glenbrook North on Saturday 54-48.

An early 14-7 lead over South was switched to a 25-22 deficit at the intermission. Wheeling fought back and went on top 35-22 as the final period opened. The lead changed hands several times but South was ahead 46-45 with only 16 seconds left.

THEN, WITH just :01 showing on the clock, Jeff Winterburg his on a seven foot jump shot to give victory to the 'Cats. High scorer for Wheeling was Greg Fedyski with 14 points. Winterburg totaled eight points. Top man for North was Jack Myers with 14.

Against North the Wildcats moved in front 16-13 after one quarter and 30-21 after period two. North came within six, at 34-28, midway in the third quarter but baskets by Jay Newman, Tim Strahan and Winterberg kept the score from getting any closer.

Newman was the high point producer against North. He hit for 17 and was backed up by Winterburg's 13 and Strahan's 12. Best for North was Steve Helfrich with 14.

Reeves and Balance Bring Losses

Wildcats Five Falls To Both Glenbrooks

by MICHAEL HESS

Where cage scoring is concerned, two types of point producing dominate: the one-man attack and the every-man assault.

Wheeling's quintet ran into both kinds of tallying last weekend. Losses to Glenbrook South, 79-63, and Glenbrook North, 61-52, resulted.

On Friday a one-man show by GS's 6-6 center Mike Reeves spelled defeat for the 'Cats. Reeves hit 18 of 28 goal attempts, added six free throws for 42 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and also played a brilliant floor game.

TOM NEUCKRANZ
42 in 2

On Saturday it was a display of balance which felled the 'Cats. Every GN man produced buckets with Burk Krohe's 15 points, John Arbogast's 14 points and Paul Brubaker's 13 points leading the way.

FOR COACH Mike Owens' quintet the story involved both an individual standout, Tom Neuckranz, and some occasionally fine showings by Skip Grandt and Rex Peterson.

Neuckranz, a senior forward, had 24 and 18 points in the two contests. He shot 15 for 34 from the charity line in addition to pulling down 12 rebounds in his two game effort. The 6-1 'Cats leader also continued his steady passing and ball handling.

Up and down outings marked the performances of Grandt and Peterson against the Glenbrooks. Grandt had 14 points against South and seven against North. He got seven and five rebounds. A 17 point output was Peterson's against South, mainly on sharp, driving lay-ups, and five points were his, all on free throws, in the North encounter.

The Wildcats stayed close for most of the first quarter in the GS game. After three minutes the tally was tied 8-8 but Reeves put in two quick buckets and the totals were never even again. Reeves had 13 points in the starting period and 10 more before the intermission.

SECOND QUARTER shooting troubles a two for 14 mark, caused Wheeling to fall behind 42-26 at the half. Neuckranz had 10 points by that time, Grandt eight and Peterson five. Neuckranz, with seven, and Peterson, with nine points, narrowed the gap to 55-44 with 1:30 left in quarter three.

In that last 90 seconds, however, Reeves garnered eight points. He had 38 points over the first three periods and Glenbrook South led 63-44 as the closing quarter began.

With Grandt and Neuckranz combining for 13 markers the 'Cats got a bit closer before the struggle ended. However the margin was too big to wipe out especially since South's height advantage continued to give them control of both boards.

After that trip to South last Friday, Wheeling returned home to host North the next evening. Again the Wildcats remained close for one period and were down by only four, at 15-11 when the second quarter began. Before the half Krohe and Arbogast, with seven and eight points, helped open a 38-25 advantage.

WHILE WHEELING'S play Friday had been reasonably tight and minus a large number of errors, the big factor Saturday was bad passing and mental miscues. While GN wasn't much better at times, the Spartans were just enough better to maintain their margin through the closing quarters.

Near the end of period three a bucket by Scott Bischoff, who ended with 11 points, put the score at 46-38. Two Neuckranz free throws made it 50-42 going into the last eight minutes.

Krohe put in a lay-up to open proceedings in the last period. Bischoff's bucket put the score at 52-44 and, after Arbogast hit a 15 footer, Neuckranz tapped one in to make it 54-46. Two bad passes gave North two goals and, after a jumper by Neuckranz, another turnover plus a foul sent the GN margin to 61-48.

That was the game.

As a result of the double defeat Wheeling's won-lost record became 1-3. The 'Cats, with some very competant play to their credit, just couldn't cope with either the one-man attack or the every-man assult by the two Glenbrooks.

Even Battle Likely As . . .

'Cat Quintet Travels To Face Niles West

by MICHAEL HESS

If you think picking basketball winners is easy, try predicting the outcome of tomorrow's Wheeling-Niles West affair.

With current season cage activities barely under way neither quintet has had abundant success. However, each has displayed just enough hoop talent so that neither can be made a pre-game favorite.

The Wildcats have won one of four games and in only a single battle have they been badly outclassed. However, the charges of coach Mike Owens are fresh from a double defeat suffered last weekend.

The Indians were set down easily in their four opening outings, being drubbed by an average of 18 points in each. However, under headman Billy Schnurr, they came back to top Maine West 52-41 just five days ago.

CONTINUED similarities can be found when considering Wheeling and Niles West individual personnel.

The 'Cats have one standout scorer in forward Tom Neuckranz. In four games the 6-1 senior has hit for 70 points. He has hit for about 40 per cent from the floor and can connect from underneath the bucket or from outside.

Rebounding for Owens squad has been mainly the chore of Skip Grandt. Grandt, though only 5-11, has grabbed 38 off the boards this year in addition to putting in 39 points.

Backing up Neuckranz and Grandt are four others who can sparkle when the situation demands.

Guard Rex Peterson has speed and a good driving shot which has gained him 40 points. Center Scott Bischoff has 37 points and also gets his share of rebounds. As reserves, Jerry Kerr and Mark Newman have totaled 25 points between them and both fillt he play-makers bill.

IN THE NW camp the top scorer is 5-18 guard Dan Hirshtick. He had 33 points during his last two games and, when he's right, his speed and passing can make the Indians move on offense.

Rebounding by center George Timmings and forward Mike Pepper are listed by coach Schnurr as one of Niles bright spots. Timmings, 6-2, and Pepper, 6-1, have both gotten at least 10 rebounds in every game the Indians have played. They combined for 31 points in two contests last weekend.

Among the supporting cast at Niles West there have been recent changes. Bruce Pindras, 6-1, was switched from guard to forward in the win against Maine West and the shift paid off in key rebounds, points and passes. New to the starting lineup is Lyle Killey, 5-10 guard, who got 10 markers in his only opening assignment thus far.

Past records and individuals then are almost equal for the 'Cats and Indians. Also very much alike are the reasons for each team's unimpressive showing to this point.

"We've played some good ball lately," said Wheeling coach Owens. "However we were a little ragged and careless last Saturday when we lost to Glenbrook North. We had too many turnovers. Now we have to work to eliminate some of our silly little mistakes."

Chimed in Niles Director Schnurr: "We've made a lot of errors this year and they've hurt us. We make obvious errors that we shouldn't and our shooting hasn't been as good as it could be."

IN ONE RECENT game the Indians connected on just 13 of 71 field goal attempts. That's only 18 per cent, very low by any standards, but the figure went up to 34 per cent in the triumph over Maine. The Wildcats have hit close to 40 per cent in each of their games.

And what about the respective coaches feelings toward their opponent tomorrow (Friday) night?

Said Schnurr: "I don't know a great deal about Wheeling. They're pretty much of an unknown quantity but from what I've heard I expect them to be tough."

Said Owens: "We have a chance against Niles if we play a good steady game and can eliminate some errors. However, they might be even with us right now and maybe a little bit better. Also, playing on their floor will give them an advantage."

So there they are, Wheeling and Niles West who meet Friday evening on the NW court. Think it's easy picking a winner? Try it!

FV Wrestlers Stay Unbeaten

"Unbeaten" is a designation which still applies to Forest View wrestlers.

After three meets of the '65-'66 mat season, FV hasn't lost. Coach Hal Henson's crew stopped Arlington to start and then, last weekend, whipped Niles North 25-18 and Maine East 21-15.

The triumph over Niles came on Friday. Tom Bohac, a 95 pounder, got the Falcons off to a good start. He took a 9-4 decision but Steve Dehaven lost 3-0 at 103 to even the score.

Niles went ahead 8-3 with a pin win at 112 pounds but Dave Knudson, 120 pounds, brought three points to FV when he gained a decision 4-0. When Ron McKisic was pinned at 2:14 of his 127 pound bout NN held a 13-6 margin.

BEST, OF FOREST View, gained points at 133 when his opponent was disqualified for unnecessary roughness. The Falcons, Kenny Andrews was defeated 3-2 at 138 and Niles held an 18-13 advantage. Henson's grapplers didn't drop another bout.

Jim Kubik, 145 pounds, fought to a scoreless 0-0 draw. At 154 Pete Phillips won a close 1-0 decision and Brian Lampert also ended ahead by one, 2-1, for a decision at 165 which put Forest View in front 19-18.

Taking what headman Henson termed the "decisive match" was Mike Severns at 180 pounds. He scored on a 4-1 decision. Setting the closing margin was heavyweight Al Gildemeister. He clinched the FV triumph by coming out on top in an 8-7 decision.

Against Maine East the outcome was in doubt until the final two matches.

Bohac won 4-0 at 95 and Dehaven won 5-2 at 103. At 112 and 120 FV's Hansen and Knudsen lost 11-10 and 2-1 decisions. Meet totals were then even at six apiece. Both teams won two of the next four bouts.

McKISIC and Best dropped 10-3 and 2-1 decisions at 127 and 133 pounds. Andrews and Kubic evened things up for Forest View with 3-2 decisions at 138 and 145. Again the meet was even as each mat entry had 12 points.

At 154, Phillips put the Falcons temporarily back in front. He won a one-sided 9-0 decision. Because Lampert lost 2-0 at 165 however, the score was tied for the third and last time. Both sides had 15.

For the second straight meet Severns and Gildemeister wrapped things up for FV. Severns, by a 7-1 count, won at 180 and, at heavyweight, Gildemeister scored a shutout 5-0. Those two set the final totals at 21-15.

'Best Comeback Ever'

Knight Rally Stuns Maine South, 66-65

by JIM FRUEHLING

Friday night, Prospect broke a jinx which had seen the Knights drop their first two road encounters by close margins.

The 66-65 shading of Maine South not only gave the Knights their first victory in the visitor's role but balanced their early season record with two games on each side of the won-loss ledger.

A margin of one slim point always implies one of those standing, screaming, frenzied finishes. This ball game was all that but it was also something much more.

The game resembled the picture of a horse trailing the pack as they hit the far turn.

Then, with an impossible burst of speed, the horse starts passing everything on the field and ends up winning by a nose in a photo-finish.

COACH DICK Kinneman spared no superlatives when he summed up his thoughts about the game. "As far as I'm concerned, this is the best comeback of any Prospect team in the history of the school."

If the Knights' finishing kick was sensational, their first half performance represented the other side of the coin. Maine jumped off to a 27-14 lead in the first quarter.

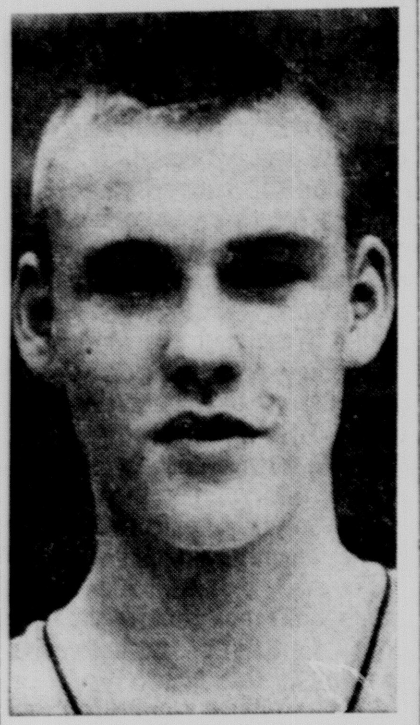
Hot from the field, the Maine South five built up their 13 point lead to a 42-25 point bulge at the half. Coach Kinneman put it mildly when he said, "We were dead in that first half."

A QUICK LOOK at some first half statistics shows how Maine was able to build up a 17 point spread. Maine hit a hot 48 per cent in the first half compared to the Knights' cold 37 per cent. Prospect also lost the battle of the boards 15-11. Kinneman also noted that he was less than pleased with the first half performance of his defense.

The second half opened with little or no difference. With a little more than five minutes left in the third quarter, the Knights were trailing by 18 points. Then, the Prospect all-court press began to force breaks. Dan Agard, the Knights' football all-starter playing in his first game of the season, came off the bench and sparked the rally.

DURING THE last quarter, the Knights completely reversed their first half statistics. Tom Lundstedt put in a busy night at the foul strip putting in 13 free throws and seven baskets to pace Prospect with 27 points. Prospect also started grabbing rebounds with abandon.

The Knights out-rebounded Maine 21-9 in the last half with Lundstedt and Dave Kingman making major contributions. However, the real key to the Prospect comeback can be seen in a comparison with the first half turn-over statistics.



TOM LUNDSTEDT
Comeback Driver

In the first half, the Knights gave up the ball a total of 12 times without getting a shot. In the second half, they reduced this total to a minimum of only three such losses.

THE DESIRE which transforms these statistics into an exciting come-from-behind victory permeated the fourth period. The Knights kept pecking away at that formidable 18 point lead. Finally, with less than a minute remaining, Lundstedt slipped down the lane and flipped in the two-pointer that put Prospect on top to stay.

The defense took over from here, and Maine was unable to get off another shot before the final buzzer.

This victory is certainly a tribute to the coaching of Kinneman. The main ingredient of such a comeback is the ability of a team to retain its composure. This composure can only be instilled by a coach who has the confidence of every squad member.

This victory may also give the Knights an important psychological boost. This new momentum could lead Prospect to a more successful cage season.

Pirates' Soph Mat Unit Wins

Pins by Pat Donahue and Bob Prochnow in the final two bouts enabled Palatine's sophomore wrestlers to pull out a 30-23 victory over Arlington Saturday.

The Cardinals held a 23-20 lead when Donahue and Prochnow recorded their falls, the latter coming in only 29 seconds.

Scoring individual victories for Arlington were Dennis Sadlicki (112), Bob Dabbert (120), Lance Navik (138), Kelly Reid (145), and Doug Sanderson (154).

Other boys claiming Palatine wins were Jim Lynch (95), Jim Williams (127), Bob Esmail (133), and Mike Blake (165). Blake's pin touched off a string of three straight Pirate victories that sealed the triumph.

FV Sophomore Matmen in Split

One up and then one down is the way it went for Forest View soph wrestlers during the past week. First the FV sophomores beat Niles North 28-19 but then they lost to Maine West 37-15.

Taking their bouts in both meets were Ron Dehaven, 120 pounds, who got a pin and a decision, and heavyweight Bob Savage, who also pinned and decisioned his opponents. At 138 pounds Mike Casey took home a pin and a tie for FV.

Four others came out on top for Forest View against Niles. They were Mike Walden, 95 pounds; Ron Traub, 133 pounds; Steve Allen, 145 pounds; and Mark Swanson, 154 pounds. All won with pins.

Next meet for FV soph wrestlers, who now own a 1-2 recrod, will be tomorrow (Friday) at home against Glenbrook South starting at 4:30 p.m.

Knights' Swimmers Lose at Deerfield

Even a new school record couldn't keep Prospect swimmers from losing to Deerfield last Thursday.

The Knights varsity tankmen were swamped by the Warriors 73-21 in the dual meet. An 80-14 margin sent Prospect's frosh-soph unit to defeat.

John Norton set the new school mark in the 100 yard butterfly event. His time was 1:00.5 which was good enough for a first place in the event.

NORTON ALSO had a hand in the only other top spot taken by Prospect in the meet. He teamed with Bob Krysiak, Tom Braakman and Mike Busse to win honors in the 200 yard medley relay. That quartet finished in front with a time of 1:56.6.

The lone second place taken by the Knights was grabbed by Bob Vigstedt in the 100 yard freestyle. Six thirds were taken by coach Don Barrett's Prospect swim team.

Those thirds went to Fred Brereton, in the 200 and 400 yard freestyles; Mike Dombrow, in the 50 freestyle; Jim Cramer, in the 200 individual medley; Krysiak, in the 100 backstroke; and Braakman in the 100 breast stroke.

No firsts were won by Prospect's frosh-soph entry.

SECONDS AT the lower level went to Dave Baxter, in the 50 yard butterfly, and Mark Otto, in the 100 yard individual medley. Otto also took a third in diving. Other thirds for Prospect went to Rowland Firth, who took two thirds, Jim Flynn, Howie Payne, Herb Betts and Tom Richards.

Next meet for Prospect swimmers is tomorrow (Friday) at Maine South at 4:30 p.m.

Topple Pirates

Cards Claim 'Pa's Bucket'

Something unusual happened Saturday. Arlington beat Palatine in varsity wrestling.

These two neighbors have been battling since 1958 for possession of "Pa's Bucket," an award symbolic of mat supremacy between the schools.

Arlington had never seen this award until Saturday.

Coach Julius Fliehler's Cardinals rebounded from an opening setback to Forest View to score a decisive 32-8 victory over John Ellis' Pirates.

Arlington picked up five quick points on a forfeit and never trailed in the non-conference battle. Palatine scored its only markers on a decision by Dave Bettinger at 112 and forfeit victory at heavyweight.

FOLLOWING A FORFEIT at 95 pounds, Arlington's Jay McDonnell, a freshman, whipped Palatine's George Smith at 103 by a 7-3 count, racking up a predicament in the final period while nursing a 4-2 advantage.

Palatine's Bettinger took care of Cardinal soph Ray Smith 7-0 at 112, but Arlington bounced back on the board with Tom McCarthy's 7-4 decision over Wayne Moloznik. McCarthy had lost to Moloznik in district action last winter.

Bruce Conti's 6-0 conquest of Dirk Fugua at 127 put the Cardinals on top 14-3, and Arlington's Chip Douglas toppled Palatine's Howard Tuttle 11-1 at 133.

IT WAS 20-3 Arlington after Dave Gooding disposed of Bill Schroeder 3-0 at 138. The Cards ran their string to five straight victories at 145 with Kirk Wolter blanking Ken Channer.

Arlington's Don Lindmark whipped the Pirates' Jeff Daniels 5-1 at 154 and Mike Jones (165) and Vern Gongol (180) also wrapped up Cardinal wins. Jones whipped Nick Biddle 7-2 and Gongol handled Paul Dolik, a Pirate vet, by a 9-1 score.

Arlington coach Fliehler elected to forfeit the heavyweight bout rather than risk injury to Mark Frase, who is recovering from a sore knee.

"Frase was ready to go, but because the match had no bearing on the outcome I decided to keep him out," Fliehler explained.

John Reed, a promising 265-pounder, got the forfeit win for Palatine.

St. Viator Bumps Carmel

Dons Rally to Top Lions' Five, 68-64

by BOB FRISK

A sophomore guard from Notre Dame High School learned all about the pressure that surrounds a high school basketball game Saturday evening in the St. Viator gym.

Johnny Egart, one of three sophomores on the Don varsity, dropped in seven free throws in the final 68 seconds to keep Notre Dame in command in the wild windup.

Egart's clutch work at the line thwarted every attempt St. Viator made to regain the advantage and handed the visitors from Niles a hard-fought 68-64 non-conference decision.

NOTRE DAME made a stirring comeback to pull out the victory and keep the hosts from capturing their second win in as many nights. St. Viator had toppled Carmel of Mundelein on Friday, 80-68.

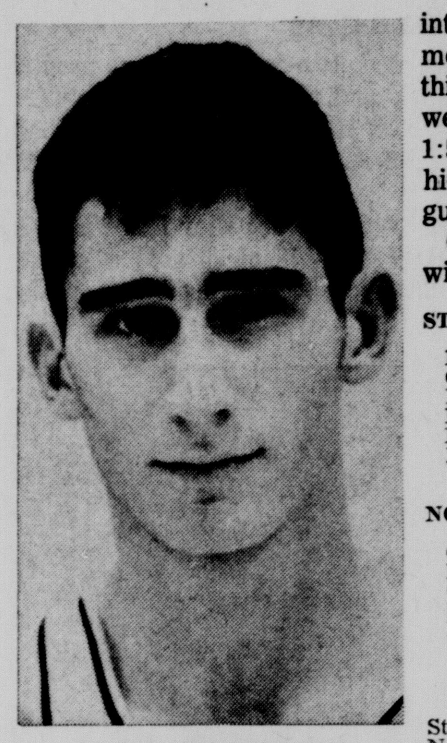
The Lions had the Dons down by 12 points, 42-30, early in the third period Saturday, but the work of Notre Dame's big men under the basket began to pay off. St. Viator's lead was cut to 49-45 at the end of the third stanza, and the Dons regained the advantage with 2:55 remaining.

Barry Hentz, a 6-6 sophomore, threw in the basket that gave Notre Dame a lead it never relinquished over the final three minutes. St. Viator remained in contention, but the Dons' Egart, a 5-9 soph, was the villain with his free throw heroics.

DAN COLLINS slipped in a layup with eight seconds remaining to pull the Lions within two (66-64), but Egart dropped in two more charity tosses in the final second of play.

Junior guard Frank Hogan and senior center Paul Pomplun engineered St. Viator into a 38-30 lead at halftime with Hogan drilling 17 points over the first two periods. Pomplun had 14 by the intermission.

Hogan continued his amazing shooting with two 20-footers to open the second half, pushing St. Viator into a 42-30 lead, but that's when Notre Dame made its move. They outscored the Lions 15-5 over the next six minutes and what looked like a rout turned into a cliff-hanger.



PAUL POMPLUN
Carmel Killer

Hogan was high for both clubs with 25 points, and Pomplun finished with 17.

POMPLUN ENJOYED the biggest night of his varsity carer Friday in Mundelein, dialing 30 points and dominating the boards in leading St. Viator to an 80-68 victory.

Paul tied a school record for baskets in a single game with 12 (Chuck Grandt also had 12 in one contest) and fell only five points shy of the single game scoring mark.Grandthad 35 in one outing last winter. Pomplun had 30 last Friday.

St. Viator never trailed against Carmel after Collins, who enjoyed an impressive night, Pomplun, and John Loughman hit quick baskets for a 6-0 lead.

The Lions were on top 20-15 after one period and 41-32 at halftime with Pomplun and Collins scoring seconds before intermission thanks to two spectacular passes by Laughman.

St. Viator carried a 59-48 lead into the final quarter, but Carmel chopped away to keep things interesting. The Lions were on top by six (74-68) with 1:51 remaining, but Pomplun hit six more points before the gun.

Collins added 22 points for the winners.

Zeller Stars In Two Losses

The offensive efforts of guard Pat Zeller highlighted an otherwise dismal weekend for the frosh-soph basketball Lions at St. Viator.

Zeller contributed 37 of the team's 70 points in a pair of losses to Carmel of Mundelein and Notre Dame.

Pat had 17 Friday evening as the Lion sophs dropped a 46-32 decision to Carmel. He hit on nine baskets and two free throws for 20 markers Saturday in a 54-38 loss to Notre Dame.

In Conference Opener

Hot-Shooting Bards Top Arlington, 84-73

by FRED BOEDEKER

The Arlington Cardinals opened play in the West Suburban Conference last Friday evening by putting their 3-0 exhibition record on the line against a highly regarded Glenbard quintet.

But the Bards, who entered the game with an identical 3-0 mark, parlayed good rebounding with some red-hot shooting to send the Cards home on the short end of an 84-73 score.

The visitors, led by the fine floor play of guard Terry Townley, opened up an early lead and held on to gain a one point advantage at the end of the first period, 18-17.

However, at the start of the second quarter, Glenbard's 6'6" Steve Rapp, got a quick basket to give the home team a lead they were never to relinquish.

COACH TED Wissen's Cardinals kept the game close through the second and third periods and as the fourth quarter began they were down only two points 64-62.

Arlington's Jim Donches, who turned in a fine performance in his first starting assignment of the season, got the first basket of the final stanza to knot the score at 64 all. But Glenbard's high scoring guard Dan Borling sank three straight jumshots from over 20 feet to put coach Gary Williams' five ahead to stay.

The Arlington team had its coldest night of the young season from the floor and they also missed on 11 free throw attempts in the final period. The latter item provided the home team with all the incentive they needed to run the final count to 83-73.

THE VICTORY gave Glenbard a 4-0 mark on the season and labeled them as a power to be reckoned with in the chase for the conference title.

The Bards shot over 50 per cent from the floor in earning their fourth win.

Curt Biggs collected nine field goals and made good on nine straight free throws for 27 points to take an early lead in the conference scoring race. Borling added 20 with some long bombs.

Townley paced the balanced Arlington attack with 19 points on five baskets and nine charity throws. Senior forward Bruce Hubbard collected 16 for the second straight game and also topped the losers in rebounding. Donchess added 14 and Steve Allen 12.

With four juniors in the starting alignment Wissen's squad may just need a few more games under their belt before they are ready to challenge for the lead in the West Suburban Conference.

Arlington resumes league play this weekend with a doubleheader. The Cards host Riverside-Brookfield Friday night and then journey to Elmhurst Saturday to take on highly regarded York.

'Best Comeback Ever'

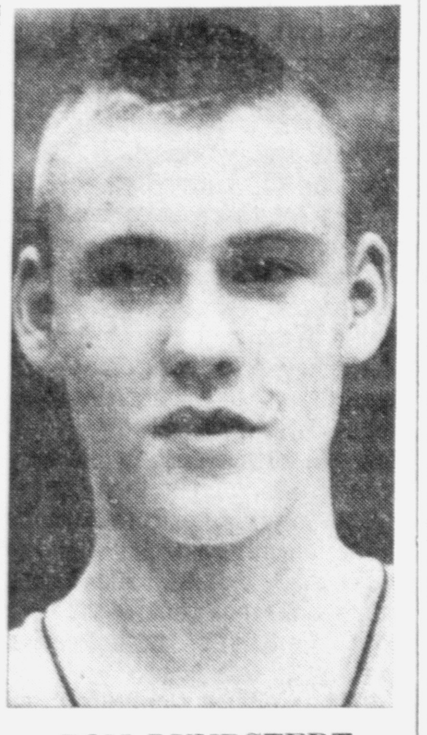
Knight Rally Stuns Maine South, 66-65

by JIM FRUEHLING

Friday night, Prospect broke a jinx which had seen the Knights drop their first two road encounters by close margins.

The 66-65 shading of Maine South not only gave the Knights their first victory in the visitor's role but balanced their early season record with two games on each side of the won-loss ledger.

A margin of one slim point always implies one of those standing, screaming, frenzied finishes. This ball game was all that but it was also something much more.



TOM LUNDSTEDT
Comeback Driver

The game resembled the picture of a horse trailing the pack as they hit the far turn.

Then, with an impossible burst of speed, the horse starts passing everything on the field and ends up winning by a nose in a photo-finish.

COACH DICK Kinneman spared no superlatives when he summed up his thoughts about the game. "As far as I'm concerned, this is the best comeback of any Prospect team in the history of the school."

If the Knights' finishing kick was sensational, their first half performance represented the other side of the coin. Maine jumped off to a 27-14 lead in the first quarter.

Hot from the field, the Maine South five built up their 13 point lead to a 42-25 point bulge at the half. Coach Kinneman put it mildly when he said, "We were dead in that first half."

A QUICK LOOK at some first half statistics shows how Maine was able to build up a 17 point spread. Maine hit a hot 48 per cent in the first half compared to the Knights' cold 37 per cent. Prospect also lost the battle of the boards 15-11. Kinneman also noted that he was less than pleased with the first half performance of his defense.

The second half opened with little or no difference. With a little more than five minutes left in the third quarter, the Knights were trailing by 18 points. Then, the Prospect all-court press began to force breaks. Dan Agard, the Knights' football all-starter playing in his first game of the season, came off the bench and sparked the rally.

DURING THE last quarter, the Knights completely reversed their first half statistics. Tom Lundstedt put in a busy night at the foul strip putting in 13 free throws and seven baskets to pace Prospect with 27 points. Prospect also started grabbing rebounds with abandon.

The Knights out-rebounded Maine 21-9 in the last half with Lundstedt and Dave Kingman making major contributions. However, the real key to the Prospect comeback can be seen in a comparison with the first half turn-over statistics.

In the first half, the Knights gave up the ball a total of 12 times without getting a shot. In the second half, they reduced this total to a minimum of only three such losses.

THE DESIRE which transforms these statistics into an exciting come-from-behind victory permeated the fourth period. The Knights kept pecking away at that formidable 18 point lead. Finally, with less than a minute remaining, Lundstedt slipped down the lane and flipped in the two-pointer that put Prospect on top to stay.

The defense took over from here, and Maine was unable to get off another shot before the final buzzer.

This victory is certainly a tribute to the coaching of Kinneman. The main ingredient of such a comeback is the ability of a team to retain its composure. This composure can only be instilled by a coach who has the confidence of every squad member.

This victory may also give the Knights an important psychological boost. This new momentum could lead Prospect to a more successful cage season.

Pirates' Soph Mat Unit Wins

Pins by Pat Donahue and Bob Prochnow in the final two bouts enabled Palatine's sophomore wrestlers to pull out a 30-23 victory over Arlington Saturday.

The Cardinals held a 23-20 lead when Donahue and Prochnow recorded their falls, the latter coming in only 29 seconds.

Scoring individual victories for Arlington were Dennis Sadlicki (112), Bob Dabbert (120), Lance Navik (138), Kelly Reid (145), and Doug Sanderson (154).

Other boys claiming Palatine wins were Jim Lynch (95), Jim Williams (127), Bob Esmail (133), and Mike Blake (165). Blake's pin touched off a string of three straight Pirate victories that sealed the triumph.

FV Sophomore Matmen in Split

One up and then one down is the way it went for Forest View soph wrestlers during the past week. First the FV sophomores beat Niles North 28-19 but then they lost to Maine West 37-15.

Taking their bouts in both meets were Ron Dehaven, 120 pounds, who got a pin and a decision, and heavyweight Bob Savage, who also pinned and decisioned his opponents. At 138 pounds Mike Casey took home a pin and a tie for FV.

Four others came out on top for Forest View against Niles. They were Mike Walden, 95 pounds; Ron Traub, 133 pounds; Steve Allen, 145 pounds; and Mark Swanson, 154 pounds. All won with pins.

Next meet for FV soph wrestlers, who now own a 1-2 record, will be tomorrow (Friday) at home against Glenbrook South starting at 4:30 p.m.

Knights' Swimmers Lose at Deerfield

Even a new school record couldn't keep Prospect swimmers from losing to Deerfield last Thursday.

The Knights varsity tankmen were swamped by the Warriors 73-21 in the dual meet. An 80-14 margin sent Prospect's frosh-soph unit to defeat.

John Norton set the new school mark in the 100 yard butterfly event. His time was 1:00.5 which was good enough for a first place in the event.

NORTON ALSO had a hand in the only other top spot taken by Prospect in the meet. He teamed with Bob Krysiak, Tom Braakman and Mike Busse to win honors in the 200 yard medley relay. That quartet finished in front with a time of 1:56.6.

The lone second place taken by the Knights was grabbed by Bob Vigstedt in the 100 yard freestyle. Six thirds were taken by coach Don Barrett's Prospect swim team.

Those thirds went to Fred Brereton, in the 200 and 400 yard freestyles; Mike Dombrow, in the 50 freestyle; Jim Cramer, in the 200 individual medley; Krysiak, in the 100 backstroke; and Braakman in the 100 breast stroke.

No firsts were won by Prospect's frosh-soph entry.

SECONDS AT the lower level went to Dave Baxter, in the 50 yard butterfly, and Mark Otto, in the 100 yard individual medley. Otto also took a third in diving. Other thirds for Prospect went to Rowland Firth, who took two thirds, Jim Flynn, Howie Payne, Herb Betts and Tom Richards.

Next meet for Prospect swimmers is tomorrow (Friday) at Maine South at 4:30 p.m.

Topple Pirates

Cards Claim 'Pa's Bucket'

Something unusual happened Saturday. Arlington beat Palatine in varsity wrestling.

These two neighbors have been battling since 1958 for possession of "Pa's Bucket," an award symbolic of mat supremacy between the schools.

Arlington had never seen this award until Saturday.

Coach Julius Fliehler's Cardinals rebounded from an opening setback to Forest View to score a decisive 32-8 victory over John Ellis' Pirates.

Arlington picked up five quick points on a forfeit and never trailed in the non-conference battle. Palatine scored its only markers on a decision by Dave Bettinger at 112 and forfeit victory at heavyweight.

FOLLOWING A FORFEIT at 95 pounds, Arlington's Jay McDonnell, a freshman, whipped Palatine's George Smith at 103 by a 7-3 count, racking up a predicament in the final period while nursing a 4-2 advantage.

Palatine's Bettinger took care of Cardinal soph Ray Smith 7-0 at 112, but Arlington bounced back on the board with Tom McCarthy's 7-4 decision over Wayne Moloznik. McCarthy had lost to Moloznik in district action last winter.

Bruce Conti's 6-0 conquest of Dirk Fugua at 127 put the Cardinals on top 14-3, and Arlington's Chip Douglas toppled Palatine's Howard Tuttle 11-1 at 133.

IT WAS 20-3 Arlington after Dave Gooding disposed of Bill Schroeder 3-0 at 138. The Cards ran their string to five straight victories at 145 with Kirk Wolter blanking Ken Channer.

Arlington's Don Lindmark whipped the Pirates' Jeff Daniels 5-1 at 154 and Mike Jones (165) and Vern Gongol (180) also wrapped up Cardinal wins. Jones whipped Nick Biddle 7-2 and Gongol handled Paul Dolik, a Pirate vet, by a 9-1 score.

Arlington coach Fliehler elected to forfeit the heavyweight bout rather than risk injury to Mark Frase, who is recovering from a sore knee.

"Frase was ready to go, but because the match had no bearing on the outcome I decided to keep him out," Fliehler explained.

John Reed, a promising 265-pounder, got the forfeit win for Palatine.

In Conference Opener

Hot-Shooting Bards Top Arlington, 84-73

by FRED BOEDEKER

The Arlington Cardinals opened play in the West Suburban Conference last Friday evening by putting their 3-0 exhibition record on the line against a highly regarded Glenbard quintet.

But the Bards, who entered the game with an identical 3-0 mark, parlayed good rebounding with some red-hot shooting to send the Cards home on the short end of an 84-73 score.

The visitors, led by the fine floor play of guard Terry Townley, opened up an early lead and held on to gain a one point advantage at the end of the first period, 18-17.

However, at the start of the second quarter, Glenbard's 6'6" Steve Rapp, got a quick basket to give the home team a lead they were never to relinquish.

COACH TED Wissen's Cardinals kept the game close through the second and third periods and as the fourth quarter began they were down only two points 64-62.

Arlington's Jim Donches, who turned in a fine performance in his first starting assignment of the season, got the first basket of the final stanza to knot the score at 64 all. But Glenbard's high scoring guard Dan Borling sank three straight jumshots from over 20 feet to put coach Gary Williams' five ahead to stay.

The Arlington team had its coldest night of the young season from the floor and they also missed on 11 free throw attempts in the final period. The latter item provided the home team with all the incentive they needed to run the final count to 83-73.

THE VICTORY gave Glenbard a 4-0 mark on the season and labeled them as a power to be reckoned with in the chase for the conference title.

The Bards shot over 50 per cent from the floor in earning their fourth win.

Curt Biggs collected nine field goals and made good on nine straight free throws for 27 points to take an early lead in the conference scoring race. Borling added 20 with some long bombs.

Townley paced the balanced Arlington attack with 19 points on five baskets and nine charity throws. Senior forward Bruce Hubbard collected 16 for the second straight game and also topped the losers in rebounding. Donchess added 14 and Steve Allen 12.

With four juniors in the starting alignment Wissen's squad may just need a few more games under their belt before they are ready to challenge for the lead in the West Suburban Conference.

Arlington resumes league play this weekend with a doubleheader. The Cards host Riverside-Brookfield Friday night and then journey to Elmhurst Saturday to take on highly regarded York.

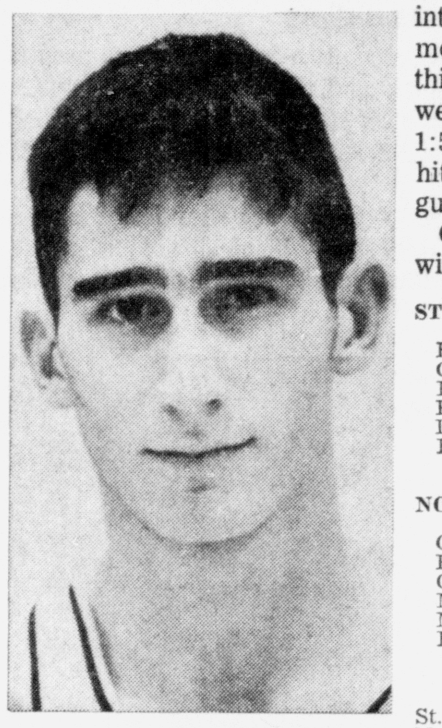
St. Viator Bumps Carmel

Dons Rally to Top Lions' Five, 68-64

by BOB FRISK

A sophomore guard from Notre Dame High School learned all about the pressure that surrounds a high school basketball game Saturday evening in the St. Viator gym.



PAUL POMPLUN
Carmel Killer

Johnny Egart, one of three sophomores on the Don varsity, dropped in seven free throws in the final 68 seconds to keep Notre Dame in command in the wild windup.

Egart's clutch work at the line thwarted every attempt St. Viator made to regain the advantage and handed the visitors from Niles a hard-fought 68-64 non-conference decision.

NOTRE DAME made a stirring comeback to pull out the victory and keep the hosts from capturing their second win in as many nights. St. Viator had toppled Carmel of Mundelein on Friday, 80-68.

The Lions had the Dons down by 12 points, 42-30, early in the third period Saturday, but the work of Notre Dame's big men under the basket began to pay off. St. Viator's lead was cut to 49-45 at the end of the third stanza, and the Dons regained the advantage with 2:55 remaining.

Barry Hentz, a 6-6 sophomore, threw in the basket that gave Notre Dame a lead it never relinquished over the final three minutes. St. Viator remained in contention, but the Dons' Egart, a 5-9 soph, was the villain with his free throw heroics.

DAN COLLINS slipped in a layup with eight seconds remaining to pull the Lions within two (66-64), but Egart dropped in two more charity tosses in the final second of play.

Junior guard Frank Hogan and senior center Paul Pomplun engineered St. Viator into a 38-30 lead at halftime with Hogan drilling 17 points over the first two periods. Pomplun had 14 by the intermission.

Hogan continued his amazing shooting with two 20-footers to open the second half, pushing St. Viator into a 42-30 lead, but that's when Notre Dame made its move. They outscored the Lions 15-5 over the next six minutes and what looked like a rout turned into a cliff-hanger.

Hogan was high for both clubs with 25 points, and Pomplun finished with 17.

POMPLUN ENJOYED the biggest night of his varsity carer Friday in Mundelein, dialing 30 points and dominating the boards in leading St. Viator to an 80-68 victory.

Paul tied a school record for baskets in a single game with 12 (Chuck Grandt also had 12 in one contest) and fell only five points shy of the single game scoring mark.Grandthad 35 in one outing last winter. Pomplun had 30 last Friday.

St. Viator never trailed against Carmel after Collins, who enjoyed an impressive night, Pomplun, and John Loughman hit quick baskets for a 6-0 lead.

The Lions were on top 20-15 after one period and 41-32 at halftime with Pomplun and Collins scoring seconds before intermission thanks to two spectacular passes by Laughman.

St. Viator carried a 59-48 lead into the final quarter, but Carmel chopped away to keep things interesting. The Lions were on top by six (74-68) with 1:51 remaining, but Pomplun hit six more points before the gun.

Collins added 22 points for the winners.

Zeller Stars In Two Losses

The offensive efforts of guard Pat Zeller highlighted an otherwise dismal weekend for the frosh-soph basketball Lions at St. Viator.

Zeller contributed 37 of the team's 70 points in a pair of losses to Carmel of Mundelein and Notre Dame.

Pat had 17 Friday evening as the Lion sophs dropped a 46-32 decision to Carmel. He hit on nine baskets and two free throws for 20 markers Saturday in a 54-38 loss to Notre Dame.

'Cats Matmen Split 2 Meets

One and two but no more . . .

Twelve days ago Wheeling wrestlers won their first meet of the season and first in school history. Last Friday the 'Cats' mats entry won its second meet. That string stopped on Saturday.

Glenbrook South was victim number two for coach Art Kraft's squad which won by a 22-20 margin. A 24-16 setback at the hands of Niles East followed for Wheeling.

Against GS, action started with the Wildcats falling behind 9-0.

Rex Meisenheimer dropped his 95 pound bout on a 4-0 decision. A pair of 4-2 decision defeats for Ray Weidner and Dennis Kniep at 103 and 112 pounds followed. Three straight wins for Wheeling came next.

AT 120 POUNDS, Karl Meisenheimer pinned his opponent in 4:55 making the score 9-5. A 6-4 count gave Al Eisenstien, at 127, his match and Jerry Hawkinson swamped his 133 pound competition by a 13-4 total. The meet score then found the 'Cats ahead 11-9.

Glenbrook South went in front for the last time when Chris Hodge lost a 12-3 decision at 138. Wheeling took three of the last five bouts.

Matt Porzel, at 145 pounds, pinned his GS enemy in 5:22 and the Wildcats were on top for good 16-12. Rich Haddock won 3-2 at 154 pounds just before Paul Berwanger, at 165, dropped a very close 1-0 bout setting the totals at 19-15. Putting the victory away for keeps was Wheeling's 180 pound entry Ted Armstrong. He won an 8-1 decision.

Setting the final tally against Glenbrook South was the heavyweight match. At that top weight Ray Pace was pinned by Bruce Erb, Glenbrook's all-state football lineman, in 1:19.

Individual triumphs for headman Kraft's grapplers were not so frequent against Niles. There were only four 'Cats who came out on top.

MEISENHEIMER, Rex this time, pinned his opposition at 95 pounds. Time of the bout was 1:52. Eisenstein and Haddock, at 127 and 154, took decision, by 9-2 and 2-1 margins.

Last points for Wheeling against NE went to Hodge. He received a forfeit win at 138.

All other 'Cats, Weidner, Kneip, Karl Meisenheimer, Hawkinson, Porzel, Berwanger, Armstrong and Pace, were defeated in their matches by the decision route.

After three meets there is one Wheeling mat entry who hasn't lost a bout. That's Haddock at 154. He owns a first meet tie and two decision victories.

Next action for the Wheeling matmen will come tomorrow (Friday) at home. The opponent will be Niles West in a meet scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

Second Win for FV JV Matmen

Losing just three out of 12 bouts, Forest View's JV wrestlers won their second straight meet of the season last Friday. FV's junior varsity whipped Niles North 35-9.

Winning for the Falcons on pins were Mike Messer, 133 pounds; Ray Vitha, 145 pounds; Mark Frankel, 154 pounds; and heavyweight Phil Reder. Taking decisions for coach Maury Levy's squad were Mann, at 103; Bob Urban, at 120; Taylor, at 127; Gary Rohner, at 138; and Spencer Dreischarf, at 165.

Next meet for Forest View's junior varsity matmen will be tomorrow (Friday) at home against Glenbrook South. Starting time for the meet is 4:30 p.m.

Falcons' Frosh Win, Lose Pair

Forest View freshman cagers could do no better than break even in four games last weekend.

The Falcons frosh A team lost to Maine West 42-32 last Saturday but then beat Downers Grove South 47-27 on Monday. High man in the Maine game was John Calvello who had 12 points. Keith Bauer had 13 and Thor Hibbler 12 points to pace FV against DGS.

At the B frosh level there was also a loss to Maine West. The score was 33-32. Steve Brown has 12 points and Doug Dahle nine points in the Falcons cause. The B triumph came Monday by a 52-41 margin over Wheaton North. Mike Kinneman had 20 points in that game while Brown and Dahle hit 11 apiece.

Cards' Swimmers Top East Leyden

Arlington's varsity swimmers posted five firsts last Thursday as they splashed their way to a 50-45 victory over East Leyden in the opening dual meet of the 1965-66 season.

Coach John Gardner's Cardinals, third in the St. Viator Invitational Relays the previous week, topped four individual events and the freestyle relay in knocking off the host Eagles.

East Leyden won the frosh-soph meet, 50-45.

Arlington flashed two eight-point events in conquering the East Leyden varsity. Mike Brown and Dick Witcher finished 1-2 in diving, and Don Johns and Decker claimed the top two slots in the distance freestyle.

LOWELL CHRISTY, a junior, covered the backstroke in 1:07.2 for another first, and John Erickson, another third-year-performer, posted a 1:14.2 clocking for a first in the breastroke.

The Cards also won the distance freestyle relay with a unit of Scott Guilfoil, Dick Price, Greg Stafford, and Dick Tucker.

Claiming individual seconds for Arlington were Dick Robinson in the 100 free, Dick Tucker in the 50 free, Russ Larson in the individual medley, and Stafford in the middle distance free.

Arlington picked up six firsts in the frosh-soph meet with Jim Philo ruling both the breastroke and individual medley. Other winners were Bill Kervick in the butterfly, Bob Miller in diving, Cary Oliver in the backstroke, and the medley relay unit of Oliver, Tom Walsh, Kervick, and Miller.

Arlington was slated to swim against Lake Forest yesterday (Wednesday). They'll journey to Elgin Larkin Friday afternoon.

Elk Grove Tops Soph Mat Test

Niles East coasted on a freshman level, but Elk Grove headed the sophomore class last week in wrestling competition.

Niles posted a 43-3 frosh triumph. Grove won the sophomore meet, 36-16.

Peter Hagen was the only Grove winner in the freshman meet.

Lion Tankers Whip Prospect

St. Viator's swimmers overwhelmed Prospect High School at two levels last Saturday as the area schools launched their dual meet schedules.

Coach Charles Mondi's varsity Lions posted a 62-33 victory, and the St. Viator sophs won, 78-17.

Don Barrett's Prospect crew figured in two records for the meet.

The Knights' Bob Krysiak set a school mark in the 100 yard backstroke with a snappy 1:05.3 clocking, and Prospect set a pool record in the 200 medley relay with a unit of Krysiak, Tom Braakman, John Norton, and Mike Busse covering the distance in 1:51.9.

St. Viator landed eight firsts in varsity action, yielding only to the Knights' 200 yard medley relay and to John Norton in the 100 fly and Krysiak in the 100 backstroke.

THE LIONS set team records in the 50 freestyle with Renny Tague posting a:24.1 and in diving with Dave Chantry showing a 57.25.

Also scoring firsts for the varsity Lions were Rick Withrow in the 200 free, Fred Schmidt in the 200 individual medley, Kevin Shea in the 100 free, Withrow in the 400 free, Rick Kalinowski in the 100 breastroke, and the 200 freestyle relay team of Richardson, Massey, Jim Cronin, and Shea.

On a frosh-soph level the powerful hosts landed eleven firsts in an easy 61-point triumph.

St. Viator took both relays with units of Saigh, Klein, Bill McCaffery, and Mike Kaminski (200 medley) and Marty Wendel, Vallely, Albers, and Ed Leadley (200 freestyle).

Other meet winners were Albers in the 150 free, Leadley in the 50 free, Hibbs in the 100 individual medley, and 50 fly, Mullan in diving, Vallely in the 100 free, Saigh in the 50 backstroke, Soper in the 300 free, and Bolash in the 50 breast.

Prospect landed six seconds.

Cards Stop Niles West

Senior Jim Johannesen, one of the state's finest gymnasts, flashed to three firsts for 21 team points Friday as Arlington High School overwhelmed Niles West 78-54 in varsity gym competition.

Johanesen captured the tumbling, high bar, and parallel bars events in leading coach Tom Walthouse's Cardinals to their second straight victory of the young season.

Arlington also won the frosh-soph meet, 91-41.

"We worked hard during the week doing routines and it showed against Niles West," Walthouse said. "We looked 75 per cent better than we did against Palatine in the opener. Niles has a strong apparatus team."

JOHANNESEN posted a 138 score in tumbling with two 69s, showed a fine 170 (one 90 card) on the high bar, and added a 167 on the parallel bars.

Bert Schmitt and Frank Nastal each collected nine points for Arlington. Schmitt took a second on the parallel bars and fifths on rings and high bar. Nastal, only a soph, was third on the trampoline and second in tumbling.

Roy Rettburg added seven points with a 168 routine and first place on the rings, and Rich Atwater ruled the tramp with a 106.

ARLINGTON SWEPT the top three slots on the tramp and in tumbling and yielded point honors in only two events, the side horse and high bar.

On a frosh-soph level the Cardinals were paced by Wayne Crockett, Lee Brown, and Bob Ekstrand.

Crockett won the side horse and rings and finished second on the parallel bars; Brown took the high bar and parallel bars; and Ekstrand won tumbling and placed third on the side horse.

Knights' Wrestlers Whip Willowbrook

After a false start, Prospect's matmen moved back on the winning track last Friday.

Opening their wrestling season the Knights lost to Willowbrook. But, by a 29-15 count, coach Dick Mudge's crew have resumed their victory ways. First victim of the year was Maine South.

The competition opened with Gary McMarrow, of Prospect, dropping an 11-0 decision at 95 pounds. Dave Holmes, at 103, evened things up by taking a 2-0 decision. Knights grapplers split the next four bouts.

Forrest Lang was decisioned 5-0 at 112 pounds but Bob Hines put the men of Mudge ahead on points with a pin at 3:26 of his 127 pound bout. When Bill Kalvog also won, by a 5-0 margin at 127, Prospect went on top 11-6.

EVENING UP OF the score resulted from Jim Herod's loss at 133 pounds. He was pinned in 2:30 of the bout but the outcome wasn't in doubt after that because the Knights didn't lose again.

Vince Curry took a default call over his opponent at 138, Gary Cobe drew 1-1 at 145, and a 10-1 margin gave Rick Bertoglio the decision at 154. Something a bit unusual happened at 165 pounds when Marty Destafanis decisioned the MS entry 16-13.

"That 165 bout was particularly outstanding," commented Mudge. "It's not often that 29 points are scored in a single bout."

In the final two matches of the meet, Tom Mading, at 180 pounds, drew at 2-2 and then heavyweight Dave Chapman wound things up with a 3-1 decision win.

"The squad wrestled a much improved meet over their opening loss to Willowbrook," summed up Mudge. "However, due to the fact that we had three sophomores and four juniors in the line-up, we need a lot more work."

Switch Meets

Prospect's wrestling schedule for the coming weekend has been changed. Instead of meets on both Friday and Saturday night the Knights will wrestle both Arlington and Deerfield tomorrow evening (Friday) starting at 6:45 p.m. The meet will be held at Prospect. There will be no mat meet for the Knights on Saturday.

With Top Potential . . .

Knights Initiate '65 Gymnastics

"Defeat" is an uncommon word for Prospect gymnasts.

Two years ago the Knights gym squad ran up an 11-2-1 mark in dual meets. Last season they had a 13-1 record, were undefeated Mid-Suburban League champs and finished seventh in state action.

Tomorrow (Friday) the 1965-66 gymnastics campaign begins at Prospect. According to coach Rick Farris, losing might become a bit more common before the current schedule is completed.

"It's a little too early to know what we have," says Farris, "but I doubt if we can tie last year's record. We're just too young and need too much experience. After the middle of January we should know a lot more about just how far we can go."

REGARDLESS of Farris' hesitation concerning the coming season, on paper at least the Knights look tough. They have seven returning lettermen plus a handful of performers up from a standout frosh-soph team.

Leading the returnees are seniors Stu Bedford, Rick Carr and Bruce Cole. All three won emblems a year ago.

Bedford's event is the parallel bars. He won there in only one dual meet last season but came on strong near the end of the year to get third in the M-SL conference meet and then, with a score of 162, take seventh in the state meet.

On the trampoline, Carr came in first 11 times during duals action in '64-'65. He was second in league competition. For Cole the year held five wins in duals on the side horse.

Behind Bedford on the P-bar are two juniors and a soph. Neil Wells and Jeff Long are the juniors. They were second and third in the frosh-soph M-SL meet one year ago. The sophomore is Bruce Boult.

BOULT IS probably the best underclass prospect at Prospect. As a freshman on the Knights lower level team, he was third in the conference meet in tumbling and fourth in the all-around event. He garnered 14 firsts in duals in parallel bars, high bar and tumbling. He'll be in the same events plus all-around this season.

Senior letter wearer Bill Nendel and juniors Bill Wendling and Jim Sestrahan back up Carr on the tramp. Sestrahan was the frosh-soph champ of the M-SL and Wendling was third in the conference meet.

The other sophomore up on the varsity plus a senior and junior will vie with Cole on the horse. Paul Zander is the senior while Jim Anderson, who won seven duals and was second in the conference with the frosh-sophs, is the junior and Ken Barr, fifth in league with two duals wins as a freshman, is the soph.

Pacing the Knights high bar entries will be juniors John Hardt and Jim Liston and senior Dane Jenning. Liston was third in the M-SL meet on the frosh-soph level. Hardt earned his letter with the varsity last season.

Two juniors, who were one-two in the event as lower level conference meet performers, appear to top the Prospect rings contenders. They are Bob Destafanis, who won five duals and the league meet, and Vince Franzone, who also took five duals. Senior Bill Kroll is also a possibility on the rings.

IN TUMBLING a pair of returning lettermen will get strong support from a frosh-soph champ. Those with letters are senior Bob Goffinski and Rick Burger, a junior, while the F-S leader is Mike Coughlin. Goffinski took three dual wins and fifth in the conference while Burger was second in the M-SL and also had three dual meet victories in his event. Frosh-soph tumbling champ Coghlin had nine individual first in dual meet action one year ago.

In all-around, coach Farris tabs Destafanis and Hardt, in addition to Boult, as his best possibilities. Destafanis was second in frosh-soph all-around last year.

The outlook for coming competition on Prospect's frosh-soph level is doubtful. Last season coach Fred Gaines went undefeated, at 14-0, in duals and took the conference title. Headman Farris spots Bill Van Ski, on the rings and in all-around, and Nick Peneff, on trampoline, as being pre-season standouts.

WORK FOR the Knights starts tomorrow when they host Niles East in a meet set to start at 7:30 p.m. Niles East was just behind Prospect in last year's state meet. The Trojans were eighth.

Should the Knights find any defeats during the coming campaign it will be an uncommon experience. It would be an even more uncommon experience for their coach. Director Farris, entering his seventh season as a gymnastics mentor, has guided his teams to a brilliant overall 68-8 record in dual meets.

Pirate Frosh Matmen Whip Cards, 40-13

Palatine's frosh wrestlers jumped out to a 13-0 lead after three bouts Saturday and coasted in with a 40-13 victory over Arlington High School.

Six pins highlighted the match with Pirate grapplers chalking up five of the falls.

Individual winners for Palatine were Dennett by default at 95 pounds, Berthold (103), West (112), Tersen (133), Hein (145), Goodman (154), Gill (165), and Mikulan (heavyweight).

Copping victories for the Cards were Jack Dabbert (120), Richard Ehlers (138), and McCoy (180).

Wildcats' Sophs Win Cage Game

A third victory in a row was gained by Wheeling soph cagers last Saturday. They topped Niles West 56-55.

Coach Gary Tjarks 'Cats got off to a narrow 14-12 lead after one quarter and increased their margin to 32-22 at the half. Niles cut the gap to six entering the final period, at 46-40, but Wheeling held on for its triumph.

High scorer for the Wildcats was Robin Melzer. He popped in six field goals and 13 free throws for 25 points. Melzer now has 70 points in this season's four contests. Phil Smith added 15 points to the winning total against Niles.

Cat Frosh Lose Cage Struggles

Defeats were handed Wheeling's frosh cagers last Saturday. The 'Cats fell before Niles West 44-33 at the A level and 51-40 in frosh B play.

An early Wheeling lead disappeared in the A contest. The 'Cats were up 22-15 at the half and 31-30 after three quarters but couldn't hold on. High men for the losers were Carl Friche, with 17 points, and Ron Ring, with 13 points.

In the B game, Ken St. Onge added 19 points to the losing cause. St. Onge now has 56 points in three games this season.

'Cats Matmen Split 2 Meets

One and two but no more . . .

Twelve days ago Wheeling wrestlers won their first meet of the season and first in school history. Last Friday the 'Cats' mats entry won its second meet. That string stopped on Saturday.

Glenbrook South was victim number two for coach Art Kraft's squad which won by a 22-20 margin. A 24-16 setback at the hands of Niles East followed for Wheeling.

Against GS, action started with the Wildcats falling behind 9-0.

Rex Meisenheimer dropped his 95 pound bout on a 4-0 decision. A pair of 4-2 decision defeats for Ray Weidner and Dennis Kniep at 103 and 112 pounds followed. Three straight wins for Wheeling came next.

AT 120 POUNDS, Karl Meisenheimer pinned his opponent in 4:55 making the score 9-5. A 6-4 count gave Al Eisenstien, at 127, his match and Jerry Hawkinson swamped his 133 pound competition by a 13-4 total. The meet score then found the 'Cats ahead 11-9.

Glenbrook South went in front for the last time when Chris Hodge lost a 12-3 decision at 138. Wheeling took three of the last five bouts.

Matt Porzel, at 145 pounds, pinned his GS enemy in 5:22 and the Wildcats were on top for good 16-12. Rich Haddock won 3-2 at 154 pounds just before Paul Berwanger, at 165, dropped a very close 1-0 bout setting the totals at 19-15. Putting the victory away for keeps was Wheeling's 180 pound entry Ted Armstrong. He won an 8-1 decision.

Setting the final tally against Glenbrook South was the heavyweight match. At that top weight Ray Pace was pinned by Bruce Erb, Glenbrook's all-state football lineman, in 1:19.

Individual triumphs for headman Kraft's grapplers were not so frequent against Niles. There were only four 'Cats who came out on top.

MEISENHEIMER, Rex this time, pinned his opposition at 95 pounds. Time of the bout was 1:52. Eisenstein and Haddock, at 127 and 154, took decision, by 9-2 and 2-1 margins.

Last points for Wheeling against NE went to Hodge. He received a forfeit win at 138.

All other 'Cats, Weidner, Kneip, Karl Meisenheimer, Hawkinson, Porzel, Berwanger, Armstrong and Pace, were defeated in their matches by the decision route.

After three meets there is one Wheeling mat entry who hasn't lost a bout. That's Haddock at 154. He owns a first meet tie and two decision victories.

Next action for the Wheeling matmen will come tomorrow (Friday) at home. The opponent will be Niles West in a meet scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

Second Win for FV JV Matmen

Losing just three out of 12 bouts, Forest View's JV wrestlers won their second straight meet of the season last Friday. FV's junior varsity whipped Niles North 35-9.

Winning for the Falcons on pins were Mike Messer, 133 pounds; Ray Vitha, 145 pounds; Mark Frankel, 154 pounds; and heavyweight Phil Reder. Taking decisions for coach Maury Levy's squad were Mann, at 103; Bob Urban, at 120; Taylor, at 127; Gary Rohner, at 138; and Spencer Dreischarf, at 165.

Next meet for Forest View's junior varsity matmen will be tomorrow (Friday) at home against Glenbrook South. Starting time for the meet is 4:30 p.m.

Falcons' Frosh Win, Lose Pair

Forest View freshman cagers could do no better than break even in four games last weekend.

The Falcons frosh A team lost to Maine West 42-32 last Saturday but then beat Downers Grove South 47-27 on Monday. High man in the Maine game was John Calvello who had 12 points. Keith Bauer had 13 and Thor Hibbler 12 points to pace FV against DGS.

At the B frosh level there was also a loss to Maine West. The score was 33-32. Steve Brown has 12 points and Doug Dahle nine points in the Falcons cause. The B triumph came Monday by a 52-41 margin over Wheaton North. Mike Kinneman had 20 points in that game while Brown and Dahle hit 11 apiece.

Forrest Lang was decisioned 5-0 at 112 pounds but Bob Hines put the men of Mudge ahead on points with a pin at 3:26 of his 127 pound bout. When Bill Kalvog also won, by a 5-0 margin at 127, Prospect went on top 11-6.

EVENING UP OF the score resulted from Jim Herod's loss at 133 pounds. He was pinned in 2:30 of the bout but the outcome wasn't in doubt after that because the Knights didn't lose again.

Vince Curry took a default call over his opponent at 138, Gary Cobe drew 1-1 at 145, and a 10-1 margin gave Rick Bertoglio the decision at 154. Something a bit unusual happened at 165 pounds when Marty Destafanis decisioned the MS entry 16-13.

"That 165 bout was particularly outstanding," commented Mudge. "It's not often that 29 points are scored in a single bout."

In the final two matches of the meet, Tom Mading, at 180 pounds, drew at 2-2 and then heavyweight Dave Chapman wound things up with a 3-1 decision win.

"The squad wrestled a much improved meet over their opening loss to Willowbrook," summed up Mudge. "However, due to the fact that we had three sophomores and four juniors in the line-up, we need a lot more work."

Switch Meets

Prospect's wrestling schedule for the coming weekend has been changed. Instead of meets on both Friday and Saturday night the Knights will wrestle both Arlington and Deerfield tomorrow evening (Friday) starting at 6:45 p.m. The meet will be held at Prospect. There will be no mat meet for the Knights on Saturday.

Knights Initiate '65 Gymnastics

"Defeat" is an uncommon word for Prospect gymnasts.

Two years ago the Knights gym squad ran up an 11-2-1 mark in dual meets. Last season they had a 13-1 record, were undefeated Mid-Suburban League champs and finished seventh in state action.

Tomorrow (Friday) the 1965-66 gymnastics campaign begins at Prospect. According to coach Rick Farris, losing might become a bit more common before the current schedule is completed.

"It's a little too early to know what we have," says Farris, "but I doubt if we can tie last year's record. We're just too young and need too much experience. After the middle of January we should know a lot more about just how far we can go."

REGARDLESS of Farris' hesitation concerning the coming season, on paper at least the Knights look tough. They have seven returning lettermen plus a handful of performers up from a standout frosh-soph team.

Leading the returnees are seniors Stu Bedford, Rick Carr and Bruce Cole. All three won emblems a year ago.

Bedford's event is the parallel bars. He won there in only one dual meet last season but came on strong near the end of the year to get third in the M-SL conference meet and then, with a score of 162, take seventh in the state meet.

On the trampoline, Carr came in first 11 times during duals action in '64-'65. He was second in league competition. For Cole the year held five wins in duals on the side horse.

Behind Bedford on the P-bar are two juniors and a soph. Neil Wells and Jeff Long are the juniors. They were second and third in the frosh-soph M-SL meet one year ago. The sophomore is Bruce Boult.

BOULT IS probably the best underclass prospect at Prospect. As a freshman on the Knights lower level team, he was third in the conference meet in tumbling and fourth in the all-around event. He garnered 14 firsts in duals in parallel bars, high bar and tumbling. He'll be in the same events plus all-around this season.

Senior letter wearer Bill Nendel and juniors Bill Wendling and Jim Sestrahan back up Carr on the tramp. Sestrahan was the frosh-soph champ of the M-SL and Wendling was third in the conference meet.

The other sophomore up on the varsity plus a senior and junior will vie with Cole on the horse. Paul Zander is the senior while Jim Anderson, who won seven duals and was second in the conference with the frosh-sophs, is the junior and Ken Barr, fifth in league with two duals wins as a freshman, is the soph.

Pacing the Knights high bar entries will be juniors John Hardt and Jim Liston and senior Dane Jenning. Liston was third in the M-SL meet on the frosh-soph level. Hardt earned his letter with the varsity last season.

Two juniors, who were one-two in the event as lower level conference meet performers, appear to top the Prospect rings contenders. They are Bob Destafanis, who won five duals and the league meet, and Vince Franzone, who also took five duals. Senior Bill Kroll is also a possibility on the rings.

IN TUMBLING a pair of returning lettermen will get strong support from a frosh-soph champ. Those with letters are senior Bob Goffinski and Rick Burger, a junior, while the F-S leader is Mike Coughlin. Goffinski took three dual wins and fifth in the conference while Burger was second in the M-SL and also had three dual meet victories in his event. Frosh-soph tumbling champ Coghlin had nine individual first in dual meet action one year ago.

In all-around, coach Farris tabs Destafanis and Hardt, in addition to Boult, as his best possibilities. Destafanis was second in frosh-soph all-around last year.

The outlook for coming competition on Prospect's frosh-soph level is doubtful. Last season coach Fred Gaines went undefeated, at 14-0, in duals and took the conference title. Headman Farris spots Bill Van Ski, on the rings and in all-around, and Nick Peneff, on trampoline, as being pre-season standouts.

WORK FOR the Knights starts tomorrow when they host Niles East in a meet set to start at 7:30 p.m. Niles East was just behind Prospect in last year's state meet. The Trojans were eighth.

Should the Knights find any defeats during the coming campaign it will be an uncommon experience. It would be an even more uncommon experience for their coach. Director Farris, entering his seventh season as a gymnastics mentor, has guided his teams to a brilliant overall 68-8 record in dual meets.

Pirate Frosh Matmen Whip Cards, 40-13

Palatine's frosh wrestlers jumped out to a 13-0 lead after three bouts Saturday and coasted in with a 40-13 victory over Arlington High School.

Six pins highlighted the match with Pirate grapplers chalking up five of the falls.

Individual winners for Palatine were Dennett by default at 95 pounds, Berthold (103), West (112), Tersen (133), Hein (145), Goodman (154), Gill (165), and Mikulan (heavyweight).

Copping victories for the Cards were Jack Dabbert (120), Richard Ehlers (138), and McCoy (180).

Wildcats' Sophs Win Cage Game

A third victory in a row was gained by Wheeling soph cagers last Saturday. They topped Niles West 56-55.

Coach Gary Tjarks 'Cats got off to a narrow 14-12 lead after one quarter and increased their margin to 32-22 at the half. Niles cut the gap to six entering the final period, at 46-40, but Wheeling held on for its triumph.

High scorer for the Wildcats was Robin Melzer. He popped in six field goals and 13 free throws for 25 points. Melzer now has 70 points in this season's four contests. Phil Smith added 15 points to the winning total against Niles.

Cat Frosh Lose Cage Struggles

Defeats were handed Wheeling's frosh cagers last Saturday. The 'Cats fell before Niles West 44-33 at the A level and 51-40 in frosh B play.

An early Wheeling lead disappeared in the A contest. The 'Cats were up 22-15 at the half and 31-30 after three quarters but couldn't hold on. High men for the losers were Carl Friche, with 17 points, and Ron Ring, with 13 points.

In the B game, Ken St. Onge added 19 points to the losing cause. St. Onge now has 56 points in three games this season.

Letters to the Editor

'TV Theatrics' Accusation Is Answered

This is in response to Mr. Aussem's letter in last week's paper. I was one of the 30 people who worked so hard to get out the vote in the school referendum. If "TV Theatrics" got out the vote I am happy for it. At least they were honestly employed. There are several points I would like to make in response to Mr. Aussem's arguments.

(1) The school board does make the final decisions—that is true. But their decision was made upon the recommendation of our Citizen's Advisory Council. This group worked for many months studying the problems.

(2) The groups and committees for progress do not intend to "rest on their laurels" as Mr. Aussem says.

Our Industrial Development Committee intends to work very hard and to assist other groups in trying to bring in commercial or industrial development. Many people here are against this, too, but we must have it or our tax burden will become too great.

There will be another school bond vote in the foreseeable future. Of couse—there must be. This is a growing community and we must provide a place for our children. But, in the meantime, before another referendum is needed we hope to help to bring in industry so that some of our tax burden will be relieved.

(3) Mr. Aussem says it is wonderful to be for progress so long as the other fellow pays for it. I am a taxpayer and so is every member of the Board of Education and the Citizens' Advisory Ctuncil. We are not exempt from the increased taxes which will result from the recent referendum. Nor, may I point out, are we exempt from our responsibility to our community. We just happen to believe in education and know we must pay for it!

Happy Accident

Saccharin was discovered by accident in 1879 by C. Fahlberg and Prof. Ira Remsen at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Suicide is the nation's tenth ranking cause of death in the United States, taking 20,000 lives annually.

Reporters Praised for 'Excellent' Job

I wish to express to you my appreciation for the excellent coverage given to the tax rate referendum in Roselle School District No. 12 by the Roselle Register.

Dave Hanks, your reporter in our area, has presented the story in a clear and objective manner which is a credit to the "fourth estate." It is my opinion that this young man has a tremendous potential in his chosen field. At this writing we do not know whether the referendum will succed. If it succeeds the excellent cooperation of the Roselle Register will be one of the major factors.

I am sure that I express the feelings of the Board of Education when I acknowledge the fine reportorial skill of Dave Hanks and Richard Leonard who serve the Roselle Area.

Pastor Prays For Return Of True Faith

Yesterday evening I heard an "editorial comment" given by news commentator Alex Drier, in which he said something to the effect that not enough "average Amricans" were expressing their opinion. So I've decided I'm enough of an "average American" to finally sit down and write my opinion. I think I'm well qualified as an "a.A.," since I'm from a middle class family in the nice suburban Midwestern town of Arlington Heights. I'm also a Missouri Synod Lutheran, which, I guess, would put me a little on the conservative side of center, theologiczlly. I am also, however, preparing for the ministry—being at present a vicar in Hickory, N.C., and this puts me in a definite minority group, and one which is apt to voice its opinion more frequently than others — but I still think of myself as an "average American."

As an "average American," now, I express my opinion. And, as a Lutheran Christian, I have one major concern: to see all people brought to faith in Jesus Christ. The only way I can see this accomplished is in a world which has freedom in the way that the United States of America offers it. Therefore, I am opposed to Communism. A lot has been said about North Viet Nam — and I must admit that I pray for the people of North Viet Nam, and for the people of Red China, Cuba, and Soviet Russia. I do not pray for them because of their ideologies, but because I believe that too have souls which need salvation, and I believe this salvation can only come through faith in Jesus Christ, the Son of God. So I pray for this conversion. But I also pray for America, because America, which has had this essential faith, seems to be losing it. And without a faith in Jesus Christ, I don't think anyone has a chance — especially on a national level. So I also pray for a return to the true faith here in the United States also.

This is, more or less, my opinion. I presume it can be shot full of holes by those more intellectually adept than I, but I wanted to express it. Mr. Drier gave me the impetus. I hope and pray that there are others — many others — who feel about the same way I do.

May God, in Jesus Christ, our Advent King, bless you and our nation.

Stalled Driver Gets a Ticket

This morning I saw a policeman lend a helping hand to a motorist in distress. She had been driving west on Euclid and her car had stalled at Rohlwing Road. As I drove past I could see that the officer, foot on bumper, pad on knee, was conscientiously writing a ticket!

Critical of Local Industry Pay, Conditions

After reading the article in the Elk Grove Herald of Nov. 25, Centex Jobs Open, by Joan Lorenson, I feel that you have only been informed of the employers' side of the story.

Speaking from the employes' side of the story, which would require considerable space, the major problems haven't been touched; that is, substandard wages, working conditions, and poor talent among the supervisory employes.

Speaking as a potential employe, who lives locally, these are some of the reasons I am employed outside of the village industrial area.

'TV Theatrics' Accusation Is Answered

This is in response to Mr. Aussem's letter in last week's paper. I was one of the 30 people who worked so hard to get out the vote in the school referendum. If "TV Theatrics" got out the vote I am happy for it. At least they were honestly employed. There are several points I would like to make in response to Mr. Aussem's arguments.

(1) The school board does make the final decisions—that is true. But their decision was made upon the recommendation of our Citizen's Advisory Council. This group worked for many months studying the problems.

(2) The groups and committees for progress do not intend to "rest on their laurels" as Mr. Aussem says.

Our Industrial Development Committee intends to work very hard and to assist other groups in trying to bring in commercial or industrial development. Many people here are against this, too, but we must have it or our tax burden will become too great.

There will be another school bond vote in the foreseeable future. Of couse—there must be. This is a growing community and we must provide a place for our children. But, in the meantime, before another referendum is needed we hope to help to bring in industry so that some of our tax burden will be relieved.

(3) Mr. Aussem says it is wonderful to be for progress so long as the other fellow pays for it. I am a taxpayer and so is every member of the Board of Education and the Citizens' Advisory Ctuncil. We are not exempt from the increased taxes which will result from the recent referendum. Nor, may I point out, are we exempt from our responsibility to our community. We just happen to believe in education and know we must pay for it!

Reporters Praised for 'Excellent' Job

I wish to express to you my appreciation for the excellent coverage given to the tax rate referendum in Roselle School District No. 12 by the Roselle Register.

Dave Hanks, your reporter in our area, has presented the story in a clear and objective manner which is a credit to the "fourth estate." It is my opinion that this young man has a tremendous potential in his chosen field. At this writing we do not know whether the referendum will succed. If it succeeds the excellent cooperation of the Roselle Register will be one of the major factors.

I am sure that I express the feelings of the Board of Education when I acknowledge the fine reportorial skill of Dave Hanks and Richard Leonard who serve the Roselle Area.

Pastor Prays For Return Of True Faith

Yesterday evening I heard an "editorial comment" given by news commentator Alex Drier, in which he said something to the effect that not enough "average Amricans" were expressing their opinion. So I've decided I'm enough of an "average American" to finally sit down and write my opinion. I think I'm well qualified as an "a.A.," since I'm from a middle class family in the nice suburban Midwestern town of Arlington Heights. I'm also a Missouri Synod Lutheran, which, I guess, would put me a little on the conservative side of center, theologiczlly. I am also, however, preparing for the ministry—being at present a vicar in Hickory, N.C., and this puts me in a definite minority group, and one which is apt to voice its opinion more frequently than others — but I still think of myself as an "average American."

As an "average American," now, I express my opinion. And, as a Lutheran Christian, I have one major concern: to see all people brought to faith in Jesus Christ. The only way I can see this accomplished is in a world which has freedom in the way that the United States of America offers it. Therefore, I am opposed to Communism. A lot has been said about North Viet Nam — and I must admit that I pray for the people of North Viet Nam, and for the people of Red China, Cuba, and Soviet Russia. I do not pray for them because of their ideologies, but because I believe that too have souls which need salvation, and I believe this salvation can only come through faith in Jesus Christ, the Son of God. So I pray for this conversion. But I also pray for America, because America, which has had this essential faith, seems to be losing it. And without a faith in Jesus Christ, I don't think anyone has a chance — especially on a national level. So I also pray for a return to the true faith here in the United States also.

This is, more or less, my opinion. I presume it can be shot full of holes by those more intellectually adept than I, but I wanted to express it. Mr. Drier gave me the impetus. I hope and pray that there are others — many others — who feel about the same way I do.

May God, in Jesus Christ, our Advent King, bless you and our nation.

Stalled Driver Gets a Ticket

This morning I saw a policeman lend a helping hand to a motorist in distress. She had been driving west on Euclid and her car had stalled at Rohlwing Road. As I drove past I could see that the officer, foot on bumper, pad on knee, was conscientiously writing a ticket!

Critical of Local Industry Pay, Conditions

After reading the article in the Elk Grove Herald of Nov. 25, Centex Jobs Open, by Joan Lorenson, I feel that you have only been informed of the employers' side of the story.

Speaking from the employes' side of the story, which would require considerable space, the major problems haven't been touched; that is, substandard wages, working conditions, and poor talent among the supervisory employes.

Speaking as a potential employe, who lives locally, these are some of the reasons I am employed outside of the village industrial area.

Letters to the Editor

Incensed by Critic's Corner Article on Displaying Flag

By now you have undoubtedly received letters from quite a few Elk Grove Village Americans expressing their deep concern over Joan Lorenson's article which appeared in the Critics Corner on November 25, Thanksgiving Day, in the Elk Grove Herald.

I, too, am very concerned about Miss Lorenson's point of view — and also quite shocked! Shocked because it is a direct rebuttal to a request made by Jack Pahl, President of Elk Grove Village, to all Elk Grove Village Americans to join him in his plans to "personally take the opportunity not only on National Day but on each of the four days in the Thanksgiving weekend to visibly express my thanks to the American G-I, and also for being an American, by displaying the American flag in front of my home. I am asking you to join me in this expression of appreciation by displaying your flag each of these four days in front of your home."

Are we to understand that Miss Lorenson advocates that we do not fly the flag — in fact, we don't ever fly the flag? Is she saying we should never again visibly manifest our pride and thankfulness for being an American? That we should not display our appreciation for the tremendous sacrifices made by millions of Americans from the beginnings of our country enabling us to enjoy a standard of living and freedom never experienced in the history of the world? And, although she did not say it explicitly, is she advocating that the American flag should not be publicly displayed anywhere — in our court rooms, hospitals, churches, factories, Nation's Capitol, State Capitols, and class rooms . . . unless we're at war?

I have two sons, ages 5 and 6. Within the first week of kindergarten and first grade both of my boys knew the Pledge of Allegiance to the American Flag. They know in their own way, because I have told them so and they have learned it in school, that the flag symbolizes freedom. And, in their own ways, they do understand what freedom is because I have told them also. And believe me, they do understand that American boys are dying right now to preserve this freedom. That is why they ask me every weekend to put the flag out in front of our home. And, this I do every weekend when the weather permits . . .and it is done with pride and appreciation and a complete understanding of what the American flag represents Enclosed with this letter is a drawing made with Crayola of the American flag by my 6-year-old son. If the day ever comes that young children won't know how to do this because they have never seen the American flag, that is the day, in my opinion, the Communists' plan to infiltrate and completely dissipate the American spirit has succeeded. That is why I am concerned about Miss Lorenson's opinion. I don't think it was appropriate, in fact, I think it was highly indiscreet, unpatriotic, and dangerous! Illogical also, for if Miss Lorenson understood what the American flag symbolizes, she would have never employed her original premise in which she refers to the "pop-art" treatment of the flag on girdles.

As is too often the case today, the people who enjoy the wonderful freedom we do in this country completely ignore the sacrifices which have been made to achieve this fredom. I have enclosed an article which appeared on the front page of the Nov. 28 Chicago Sunday Tribune in which the Sidney, Australia Sunday Telegraph stated that . . ."the western world would fall like a plum into the hands of Communism except for the vast strength of America." The editorial was titled, "You Should Know About This and Say 'Thank You'!" Why is it the Australians can say thank you to the American G-I, but, according to Miss Lorenson, we should not express our thanks by displaying our Flag.

"I'm also appalled at Miss Lorenson's admonition not to display the flag for fear . . . "the tangible gesture may provoke bitterness toward those in conscience who will object to Viet Nam policy by White House picketing." What's more important — visibly giving heart to out G-I's who are risking life and limb for our liberty and peace in the world — or — appeasing those weird, bearded, shaggy, draft-card-buring "patriots" . . . who can fearlessly protest, but not protect, what the overwhelming majority of Americans believe is right.

Finally, Miss Lorenson, who tries to surround and protect herself with sage quotations, is, in fact, inferring that every person displaying the American flag is an ass when she quotes "one J. S. Zimmerman" (whoever he is) in her second to the last paragraph as saying . . . "love of one's country should be more than love of an ass for its stall."

I believe that Miss Lorenson, who calls herself a "patriot" (why the quotation marks if she intended the word to mean what it really means) and who obviously is able to fearlessly protest, owes every person who read her editorial and believes in displaying the American flag an apology — but I'll bet she doesn't have the courage to do it.

I hope her editorial never gets into the hands of our fighting G-I's — it would truly be a shame. I also hope I never read anything like this again in your paper — or any paper.

Policemen Help Parents Teach Their Son a Lesson

We feel that too much is printed about the few cases of "bad cops." My wife and I are extremely grateful that we live in the suburban N.W. area and even more so now because of the FINE police forces in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines; we're very proud of them. They take an intense interest in crime—and eventual criminal - prevention instead of only working on current problems!

Not many adults can say they haven't stolen or lied in the growing-up "process." I used to have the biggest collection of tire valve-caps and hub caps in a not unrough Chicago neighborhood. Yet parents wonder where they have gone wrong if their children acted like they did. We'd like to advise parents of Mount Prospect and Des Plaines that if their children do get into trouble that they should visit their police force(s). Our recent experience was wonderful if you can call it that!!

Some time ago a mother of our son's playmate called us wondering where "the boys" got so many varied toys. This led to our son's confession that a "gang" had been stealing from Zayre's and another store. These "kids" were all under 13, attended church, had had ample allowances, etc. — we all know they're good kids. But remembering our own trips to the woodshed years ago something had to be done to point out the seriousness of the "crime" and where it could lead to.

Our first stop was Zayre's (our son was along) where we met Security Officer Levine — a FINE policeman! We returned what toys our son still had plus paid the value — amount (which he'll reimburse us for). Officer Levine spent close to a half hour talking to our son — and as on our next "stop" many statements were repeated we'll include them later herein—explaining how serious stealing was, that they have many plain clothes detectives throughout the store who apprehend many persons each week (!!), etc. Our son was dumbfounded and started to really realize the wrong he had done. Officer Levine is tops in our book!!

We then returned an item to a small Mount Prospect store and then drove to the Mount Prospect Police Station asking for an officer who could talk to our son. We were politely ushered into Sgt. Doney's office—he was in the midst of typing up a report but immediately stopped and gave us a full half hour of his time. Both officers covered: the seriousness of stealing; where it could lead to (a reform school and later on jail — and they described "conditions" there); what a "record" could mean — loss of citizenship, right to vote, no travel outside of the country, loss of bonding privileges, poor chances at getting employment, no credit privileges, possible refusal of admission at a service academy (where our son wants to go!!) —even not being able to get a liquor license! As parents we even learned a few things!

Sgt. Doney told us the "sentence": writing 1000 times (very neatly) "I shall not steal"; and house confinement for two weeks. Our son had to return to the sergeant in two weeks with his "composition" for release.

We were gratefully amazed at the seriousness both officers "took." They were dead serious, yet extremely polite. We guess we were never aware of this obviousness as daily they face "grown-up" crime breakers and risk their lives in so doing.

We know both gentlemen got "through" to our boy who was upset for awhile but later told us — "I really like those officers and realize that they helped me." He has no disrespect for police — to the contrary he's gained much respect — as have we. We're extremely proud of our suburban police forces!! —and very thankful for them.

PTA Absence From Forum Is Explained

In reporting the forum sponsored by the United Citizens Party (to ask questions or complain about policies to governments operating locally in Palatine), the writer expressed his opinion that "interestingly enough, representatives from the PTA which made the complaint did not appear at the forum."

He was referring to the Winston Park PTA which has been trying to get a change of zoning of 40 miles per hour in front of the school.

The Winston Park PTA did not need to send representatives to the forum to ask questions or complain because all questions to local governing bodies concerned had been made and not any of them have jurisdiction over the zoning of a state highway. No complaints could be made because the PTA, as an organization, had none to make.

In fact, they are very appreciative of the fine cooperation they have received, particularly from the local police authorities. They have been doing everything possible to promote the safety of our children.

Also, the material sent to the Palatine Enterprise was not a letter of complaint but an article to inform the public as to what had taken place to alleviate the situation and there had been no success in reducing the speed zoning. It was felt that publicity would help the cause and this proved to be true.

A similar article of information was sent to the Chicago Tribune and inquiry on their part may have been the reason for the zoning reduced to 30 m.p.h. the next day. If our local paper had also made inquiries, perhaps we could have received the 20 m.p.h. zoning usually posted in school areas, which is what we requested.

Opposed to Censorship of Library Books

I am a senior at Palatine High School and a person concerned about the criticism I have heard leveled at the Palatine Public Library.

It has been said that a far too liberal approach has been adopted in the selection of books —that too much allegedly salacious literature has been introduced to the Palatine Library. Liberty, individual freedom and freedom of the press are continually emphasized throughout our school careers but apparently they are nothing more than unattainable ideals rather than a way of life.

A library is a house of books —all types of books written by various authors possessing differing concepts of morality. To exclude one book from the library on the dubious criteria of its "suitability" is to eliminate one man's thoughts on an issue though constitutionally he has a right to be heard.

To assert that any one book is unfit for reading is to say that one concept of morality should take precedence over another. To condemn a book or an author or a librarian is to say that one ideology possesses greater validity than another.

I remind not only those critics of the Palatine Library but also the proponents of censorship that in condemning literary liberality, the end of individualism and intellectualism is also proclaimed.

Council Researches Issues Does Not Sponsor Solutions

In reading your front page article last Thursday on our general meeting on vandalism in Arlington Heights, it is apparent that your paper was disappointed and surprised that Commco did not immediately undertake a vigorous campaign against vandalism.

Let's get the record straight as to the role of the Arlington Heights Community Council in this Village.

According to its rules, Commco is a fact-finding and coordinating body. At the request of an organization or individual, it researches a problem or project and presents its findings to its membership and the general public, in order that any interested groups within the Village could sponsor further activity regarding the specific problem or project. Should one or more groups adopt such a project, Commco will assist them through providing additional research data and/or coordinating activities of several groups working on the same project.

Commco does not sponsor or adopt projects itself. That is not its responsibility.

This is what is being done in regard to the vandalism problem. Research was carried out, the matter presented on the Nov. 30 program; further details will be presented in its regular letter to member organizations; assistance will be provided to any group desiring to sponsor anti-vandalism as a project.

This was fully explained by me to your reporter in an interview after the Nov. 30 meeting. It was omitted from your article, although the section of the interview relative to possible future meetings on this topic was fully covered.

Next time, let's report the whole story, not tell part of it by implication.

We then returned an item to a small Mount Prospect store and then drove to the Mount Prospect Police Station asking for an officer who could talk to our son. We were politely ushered into Sgt. Doney's office—he was in the midst of typing up a report but immediately stopped and gave us a full half hour of his time. Both officers covered: the seriousness of stealing; where it could lead to (a reform school and later on jail — and they described "conditions" there); what a "record" could mean — loss of citizenship, right to vote, no travel outside of the country, loss of bonding privileges, poor chances at getting employment, no credit privileges, possible refusal of admission at a service academy (where our son wants to go!!) —even not being able to get a liquor license! As parents we even learned a few things!

Sgt. Doney told us the "sentence": writing 1000 times (very neatly) "I shall not steal"; and house confinement for two weeks. Our son had to return to the sergeant in two weeks with his "composition" for release.

We were gratefully amazed at the seriousness both officers "took." They were dead serious, yet extremely polite. We guess we were never aware of this obviousness as daily they face "grown-up" crime breakers and risk their lives in so doing.

We know both gentlemen got "through" to our boy who was upset for awhile but later told us — "I really like those officers and realize that they helped me." He has no disrespect for police — to the contrary he's gained much respect — as have we. We're extremely proud of our suburban police forces!! —and very thankful for them.

PTA Absence From Forum Is Explained

In reporting the forum sponsored by the United Citizens Party (to ask questions or complain about policies to governments operating locally in Palatine), the writer expressed his opinion that "interestingly enough, representatives from the PTA which made the complaint did not appear at the forum."

He was referring to the Winston Park PTA which has been trying to get a change of zoning of 40 miles per hour in front of the school.

The Winston Park PTA did not need to send representatives to the forum to ask questions or complain because all questions to local governing bodies concerned had been made and not any of them have jurisdiction over the zoning of a state highway. No complaints could be made because the PTA, as an organization, had none to make.

In fact, they are very appreciative of the fine cooperation they have received, particularly from the local police authorities. They have been doing everything possible to promote the safety of our children.

Also, the material sent to the Palatine Enterprise was not a letter of complaint but an article to inform the public as to what had taken place to alleviate the situation and there had been no success in reducing the speed zoning. It was felt that publicity would help the cause and this proved to be true.

A similar article of information was sent to the Chicago Tribune and inquiry on their part may have been the reason for the zoning reduced to 30 m.p.h. the next day. If our local paper had also made inquiries, perhaps we could have received the 20 m.p.h. zoning usually posted in school areas, which is what we requested.

Opposed to Censorship of Library Books

I am a senior at Palatine High School and a person concerned about the criticism I have heard leveled at the Palatine Public Library.

It has been said that a far too liberal approach has been adopted in the selection of books —that too much allegedly salacious literature has been introduced to the Palatine Library. Liberty, individual freedom and freedom of the press are continually emphasized throughout our school careers but apparently they are nothing more than unattainable ideals rather than a way of life.

A library is a house of books —all types of books written by various authors possessing differing concepts of morality. To exclude one book from the library on the dubious criteria of its "suitability" is to eliminate one man's thoughts on an issue though constitutionally he has a right to be heard.

To assert that any one book is unfit for reading is to say that one concept of morality should take precedence over another. To condemn a book or an author or a librarian is to say that one ideology possesses greater validity than another.

I remind not only those critics of the Palatine Library but also the proponents of censorship that in condemning literary liberality, the end of individualism and intellectualism is also proclaimed.

Reader Asks More News of Wayne Township

I debated about renewing my subscription because I live in the west end of DuPage County in Wayne Township and whenever there is an election or issue on anything, Wayne Township is never covered. Could something be done about this?

We aren't that far from Roselle, yet our township is never included. Our home is on the borderline of Bloomingdale and Wayne Townships.

Council Researches Issues Does Not Sponsor Solutions

In reading your front page article last Thursday on our general meeting on vandalism in Arlington Heights, it is apparent that your paper was disappointed and surprised that Commco did not immediately undertake a vigorous campaign against vandalism.

Let's get the record straight as to the role of the Arlington Heights Community Council in this Village.

According to its rules, Commco is a fact-finding and coordinating body. At the request of an organization or individual, it researches a problem or project and presents its findings to its membership and the general public, in order that any interested groups within the Village could sponsor further activity regarding the specific problem or project. Should one or more groups adopt such a project, Commco will assist them through providing additional research data and/or coordinating activities of several groups working on the same project.

Commco does not sponsor or adopt projects itself. That is not its responsibility.

This is what is being done in regard to the vandalism problem. Research was carried out, the matter presented on the Nov. 30 program; further details will be presented in its regular letter to member organizations; assistance will be provided to any group desiring to sponsor anti-vandalism as a project.

This was fully explained by me to your reporter in an interview after the Nov. 30 meeting. It was omitted from your article, although the section of the interview relative to possible future meetings on this topic was fully covered.

Next time, let's report the whole story, not tell part of it by implication.

Children's Home Says 'Thank You'

Just a hasty work of thanks to you for your fine cooperation with our League.

We who do this volunteer work for the children — often sandwiching it in with school lunches, diaper changes, church work, and other activities—are fully aware that we would be lost without the gracious assistance of folks like you. Thanks again so much.

The letter was addressed to the National office of the Boy Scouts of America. Many like it arrive every week.

For lack of leaders or sponsors, thousands of boys never become Scouts. They want to . . . and they need to.

You've got to help. Your club, your religious group, your company, your organization.

More than a million people are helping already . . . but it's not enough.

Call us. We'll explain the ways by which you can strengthen the most important youth movement in America.

The Cub Scouts—for boys 8 to 11 years; the Boy Scouts—11 and older; the Explorers, 14 and up.

Your son may be waiting.

CONCOURSE SPORTS CHALET has been one of the moving forces in the Paddock Classic Traveling League in the past two weeks. Two Saturdays ago, the Chalet men beat Bill Cook Buick 5-2 to knock the team out of first, and this past Saturday, Sports Chalet ran the same score against City Welding Sales to move up to fifth, only three points from fourth. The team members, pictured here, are Bob Gill and Tony Sasso, front row, Tom Kouros, Mike Wagner Jr. and Ray Neumann, back row. (Staff Photo)

Sports Chalet? Look In Basement and 5th

(This is the second in a series of articles on the sponsors in the Paddock Classic bowling leagues for men and women.)

Glance at the current Paddock Classic Traveling League standings . . .

Occupying the number five slot among PCTL entries is Concourse Sports Chalet. Easy to find, wasn't it?

Now attempt to locate the establishment which sponsors that fifth place team . . .

Sports Chalet is located on the concourse level of the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect. It may not be so easy to find!

The maze of ground level stores in Randhurst's colorful complex may keep many from ever discovering the concourse or lower level areas. At least that's the opinion of Jack Olson, part owner and manager of the Chalet.

"This concourse level of the center," says Olson, "is not exposed the way the upper level is. We're in the basement at Randhurst and that's the easiest way to tell people how to get here. We need exposure. That's why bowling and the Paddock League have been so good for us."

OLSON, A co-owner of Sports Chalet with Fred Schmednecht, is a 32-year-old bachelor resident of Rolling Meadows. A former Illinois Bell employee, Olson came to this area from Joliet over a year ago and opened his sporting goods store on September 17, 1964.

"We opened with skiing and Olson, "but now, while we specialize during some seasons, we carry a full line of goods including apparel in almost any sport.

In the fall and winter Sports Chalet concentrates on skiing, bowling and hunting. Olson has facilities for melting the bindings and fitting skis. At the Chalet any kegler can purchase his ball, have it individually fitted and then drilled and engraved. There is also a complete line of guns, shells and clothing especially for the hunter.

As the seasons shift into spring and summer the efforts of Sports Chalet to accommodate the sportsman shifts also. Golf, Tennis, baseball and water equipment then draws attention.

For the linksman there are clubs, balls, shoes, bags, carts and every other accessory items needed for a perfect 18. Rackets, presses, balls and all correct court attire are offered for the tennis fan.

THOSE IN favor of diamond play, whether on an individual or team basis, will find that the Sports Chalet is prepared. Gloves, hats, spikes, bats, balls and uniforms are all available. "We can do team or league business if desired," states Olson.

Last season there was a demand for surf and scuba gear — suits, masks, fins, snorkles —and so the Chalet now serves both casual and passionate water buffs. "There was also an interest in archery," Olson remembers, "and we have arrows, bows, targets, gloves, strings, quivers and cases."

Working 12 hours per day (9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.) at the Chalet keeps Olson busy and he finds very little time for taking part in those recreations he helps others enjoy. However he does get a chance to follow the PCTL team he sponsors.

"I know those on the team have the potential to pull up even further as the season goes by," said Olson.

Those on the team and their current Paddock bowling averages are Bob Gill (191.3), Tom Kouros (191.2), one of the PCTL founders, Ray Neumann (188.1), Mike Wagner Jr. (186.1), Tony Sasso (178.2), and alternate Ron Steil (181.1). Concourse Sports Chalet is currently in that fifth spot and seem on the way up.

IN THE future when glancing at the Paddock Classic Traveling League standings, Concourse Sports Chalet may be even higher up in the ranks and even easier to locate. Looking for sponsor Sports Chalet in the future should also now be easier.

"We're in the basement at Randhurst," concludes Olson.

For Classic Team

Schmidt Named All-Star Captain

George Schmidt of Addison will captain the Paddock Classic Traveling League All Stars, it was announced this week by Bob Paddock, PCTL board chairman.

"Schmidt proved his ability to bowl under fire last year when he carried a 200 average into the final weeks of the PCTL season," stated Paddock, "yet, finished the season at the magic mark in spite of the pressure. George's popularity was proved this season when he was given 38 votes in the election of the all-opponents' team." He is carrying a 197 average to date this year.

THE ALL STARS will be competing in a series of special matches pitting the best of the Paddock Classic league against best possible competition from the Chicago area. Local fans will be watching these matches with interest to see how their favorites perform.

Bowlers in the league selected the best squad to represent the league, with balloting restricted to an all-opponent's aggregation. Each team conducted a secret ballot.

LES ZIKES of Palatine, president of the league and a member of Morton Pontiac fivesome, garnered 34 votes. He carries a 195 average in the traveling league, though he also has a 204 mark in the Miami Bowl Classic league.

Other leaders included Joe Simonis (31 votes) of Des Plaines, with a 201 average and leading the loop: Don Christensen of Arlington Heights (196); Al Jordan of Rolling Meadows (185); Bob Gill of Mount Prospect (191); and Ted Zimmerman of Des Plaines (197).

Brass Rail Triumphs, Widens PCTL Lead

The Brass Rail must be getting a little more accustomed to first place in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The last time the Railers moved to the top—four Saturdays ago—they relinquished it to Bill Cook Buick after only one week.

They took the lead back two Saturdays ago, and this time, they seem to mean to hold on to it. This Saturday, in fact, they kept it by striking down the Buick men, the other prime pretender to the PCTL throne. The Railers wouldn't be budged, and won 5-2.

While that dispute was being settled, Karlsen Pharmacy continued its quiet surge by slipping into a tie for second with Bill Cook Buick. Karlsen's cooled Morton Pontiac 5-2, and thereby set up a showdown with the Buick team this coming Saturday.

FIVE TO TWO WAS clearly the most popular score of the week. Jeffery Lanes, prodded by a brilliant series from Paul Zubak, knocked down still-slumping Brim's Pioneer Lanes by that margin, and Concourse Sports Chalet did it to City Welding Sales and Service.

There was a moment in the Brass Rail-Buick confrontation when they were all tied up once again. They had gone into the meeting separated by two points in the standings, and Buick got them back by winning the first game 1014-973. But The Brass Rail, cashing in on the rolling of Ted Zimmerman and John Giovannelli, came back with the winning margin in games two and three and the point for total pins.

Zimmerman ended up the best for both teams, rounding out a 209-186-236—631 series. Giovannelli had a 620, with his third game also a 236. For Bill Cook Buick, Al Haase had 601 and Norb Leja 594.

KARLSEN PHARMACY had another blistering night on its home Striking Lanes, totaling a scorching 3016 pins for the night. Morton, which had been keeping alive the best streak in the PCTL, bowled 2965 as a team, but it just wasn't enough.

The Pharmacy quintet was led by the Simonis act, with Herm crashing a series of 224-256-208—688 and Joe 237-235-153—625. Bob Glaser, with a 242 third game, contributed a huge 640 for Morton, while John Miller had 611 and Ernie Koche 606. But there wasn't enough to go around to overcome the big Karlsen scores.

The Jeffery-Pioneer match was bowled almost a week early, with the teams meeting the last Sunday in November at Pioneer Lanes. Zubak was a singular standout, and the difference in the challenge. He was not only the only man on either team over 600, he finished with 226-222-228—676.

DON CHRISTENSEN, the next best for Jeffery, was 107 pins back of that. And substitute Ralph Karkow, with 577, was the best for Pioneer, as the one-time league kings operated again with a couple regulars out.

Concourse Sports Chalet continued to close in on the first division with its 5-2 final over City Welding at Thunderbird Bowl. Chalet, with 44 points, passed Morton in the standings, moving into fifth just three points removed from fourth.

Chalet had two men cashing in over 600. Tony Sasso was clearly the best, with 202-203-225—630, and Tom Kouros came in with 604. City Welding had no one moving into the happy circle, as Dick Wirtz and Bob Hurwitz tied for team honors with 570.

This Saturday, The Brass Rail will draw Morton Pontiac in its effort to make it three straight weeks on top. They'll meet at Morton's home Beverly Lanes, with Morton seeking to bounce back. Karlsen Pharmacy and Bill Cook Buick will have their second place dispute out at Rolling Meadows Bowl. Jeffery Lanes will meet City Welding at Thunderbird, and Brim's Pioneer will meet the surging five from Sports Chalet at Gunnell's Lanes.

Steve's Stricken 3-1

Lattof Quells New Menace

Not by much, but still on top.

That's the status of Lattof Chevrolet in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League, with the Lattof ladies weathering still another direct assault on their supremacy.

The latest challenge came from Steve's Restaurant, the most torrid team in the league until last Saturday night.

Steve's had taken 11 of a possible 12 points the previous three Saturdays, and kept the touch through the first game in its showdown with Lattof at Rolling Meadows Bowl. But Lattof's — anchored by Peggy Harris, Rose Kraft and Vi Douglas — resisted again and came on for a 3-1 win.

Steve's not only failed in the bid for the top, but slipped from two to four points off the pace and fell into third place. Morton Pontiac, with a 3-1 final over Rolling Meadows Bow, stayed just a hop behind the leaders.

River Rand Bowl, the third of the three teams menacing Lattof, faltered with a 3-1 shocking at the hands of last place Striking Lanes, making its difference with Lattof five points.

THE LATTOF heroics started with an 895-861 defeat in the first game, and at that point the distance between the two teams was a single point in the standings.

Then in game two, with Vi Douglas' 206 game the prime factor, Lattof's came back with a three pin edge, enough to get the point back. The third game victory was keyed largely by Peggy Harris' 223, as she wrapped up a 565 series, equal to the best of the night in the league. Rose Kraft had a balanced 553 series, which contributed heavily to Lattof's getting the point for total pinfall as well.

Steve's Harris, Delores by name, also had a 565 series, including a 206 game. But the bridge between that and her teammates' scores was too great, and Lattof ended up with a 30-pin bulge in the match, and three points.

MORTON, remaining just two points behind Lattof, was led by Nancy Dietz, who had the evening's third 565 series and the best game of the night, a 233. Juanita Davis checked in second for Morton with 529.

RMB received a 535 from Marlene Smith and a 533 from Esther Hugo, but had three series under 500.

Elsie Slove paced the upset as Striking Lanes rose up to strike down River Rand Bowl. Elsie rolled a 544 series, 37 pins better than teammate Marge Duffy, who had a 223 game in her total.

THAT 223 WAS a key contribution, because it was 35 pins better than the best rolled by River Rand in game three, and Striking won that stanza by 28.

It turned out to mean ultimate defeat for River Rand.

CONCOURSE SPORTS CHALET has been one of the moving forces in the Paddock Classic Traveling League in the past two weeks. Two Saturdays ago, the Chalet men beat Bill Cook Buick 5-2 to knock the team out of first, and this past Saturday, Sports Chalet ran the same score against City Welding Sales to move up to fifth, only three points from fourth. The team members, pictured here, are Bob Gill and Tony Sasso, front row, Tom Kouros, Mike Wagner Jr. and Ray Neumann, back row. (Staff Photo)

Meet The Sponsor: 2

Sports Chalet? Look In Basement and 5th

(This is the second in a series of articles on the sponsors in the Paddock Classic bowling leagues for men and women.)

Glance at the current Paddock Classic Traveling League standings . . .

Occupying the number five slot among PCTL entries is Concourse Sports Chalet. Easy to find, wasn't it?

Now attempt to locate the establishment which sponsors that fifth place team . . .

Sports Chalet is located on the concourse level of the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect. It may not be so easy to find!

The maze of ground level stores in Randhurst's colorful complex may keep many from ever discovering the concourse or lower level areas. At least that's the opinion of Jack Olson, part owner and manager of the Chalet.

"This concourse level of the center," says Olson, "is not exposed the way the upper level is. We're in the basement at Randhurst and that's the easiest way to tell people how to get here. We need exposure. That's why bowling and the Paddock League have been so good for us."

OLSON, A co-owner of Sports Chalet with Fred Schmednecht, is a 32-year-old bachelor resident of Rolling Meadows. A former Illinois Bell employee, Olson came to this area from Joliet over a year ago and opened his sporting goods store on September 17, 1964.

"We opened with skiing and Olson, "but now, while we specialize during some seasons, we carry a full line of goods including apparel in almost any sport.

In the fall and winter Sports Chalet concentrates on skiing, bowling and hunting. Olson has facilities for melting the bindings and fitting skis. At the Chalet any kegler can purchase his ball, have it individually fitted and then drilled and engraved. There is also a complete line of guns, shells and clothing especially for the hunter.

As the seasons shift into spring and summer the efforts of Sports Chalet to accommodate the sportsman shifts also. Golf, Tennis, baseball and water equipment then draws attention.

For the linksman there are clubs, balls, shoes, bags, carts and every other accessory items needed for a perfect 18. Rackets, presses, balls and all correct court attire are offered for the tennis fan.

THOSE IN favor of diamond play, whether on an individual or team basis, will find that the Sports Chalet is prepared. Gloves, hats, spikes, bats, balls and uniforms are all available. "We can do team or league business if desired," states Olson.

Last season there was a demand for surf and scuba gear — suits, masks, fins, snorkles —and so the Chalet now serves both casual and passionate water buffs. "There was also an interest in archery," Olson remembers, "and we have arrows, bows, targets, gloves, strings, quivers and cases."

Working 12 hours per day (9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.) at the Chalet keeps Olson busy and he finds very little time for taking part in those recreations he helps others enjoy. However he does get a chance to follow the PCTL team he sponsors.

"I know those on the team have the potential to pull up even further as the season goes by," said Olson.

Those on the team and their current Paddock bowling averages are Bob Gill (191.3), Tom Kouros (191.2), one of the PCTL founders, Ray Neumann (188.1), Mike Wagner Jr. (186.1), Tony Sasso (178.2), and alternate Ron Steil (181.1). Concourse Sports Chalet is currently in that fifth spot and seem on the way up.

IN THE future when glancing at the Paddock Classic Traveling League standings, Concourse Sports Chalet may be even higher up in the ranks and even easier to locate. Looking for sponsor Sports Chalet in the future should also now be easier.

"We're in the basement at Randhurst," concludes Olson.

For Classic Team

Schmidt Named All-Star Captain

George Schmidt of Addison will captain the Paddock Classic Traveling League All Stars, it was announced this week by Bob Paddock, PCTL board chairman.

"Schmidt proved his ability to bowl under fire last year when he carried a 200 average into the final weeks of the PCTL season," stated Paddock, "yet, finished the season at the magic mark in spite of the pressure. George's popularity was proved this season when he was given 38 votes in the election of the all-opponents' team." He is carrying a 197 average to date this year.

THE ALL STARS will be competing in a series of special matches pitting the best of the Paddock Classic league against best possible competition from the Chicago area. Local fans will be watching these matches with interest to see how their favorites perform.

Bowlers in the league selected the best squad to represent the league, with balloting restricted to an all-opponent's aggregation. Each team conducted a secret ballot.

LES ZIKES of Palatine, president of the league and a member of Morton Pontiac fivesome, garnered 34 votes. He carries a 195 average in the traveling league, though he also has a 204 mark in the Miami Bowl Classic league.

Other leaders included Joe Simonis (31 votes) of Des Plaines, with a 201 average and leading the loop: Don Christensen of Arlington Heights (196); Al Jordan of Rolling Meadows (185); Bob Gill of Mount Prospect (191); and Ted Zimmerman of Des Plaines (197).

Brass Rail Triumphs, Widens PCTL Lead

The Brass Rail must be getting a little more accustomed to first place in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The last time the Railers moved to the top—four Saturdays ago—they relinquished it to Bill Cook Buick after only one week.

They took the lead back two Saturdays ago, and this time, they seem to mean to hold on to it. This Saturday, in fact, they kept it by striking down the Buick men, the other prime pretender to the PCTL throne. The Railers wouldn't be budged, and won 5-2.

While that dispute was being settled, Karlsen Pharmacy continued its quiet surge by slipping into a tie for second with Bill Cook Buick. Karlsen's cooled Morton Pontiac 5-2, and thereby set up a showdown with the Buick team this coming Saturday.

FIVE TO TWO WAS clearly the most popular score of the week. Jeffery Lanes, prodded by a brilliant series from Paul Zubak, knocked down still-slumping Brim's Pioneer Lanes by that margin, and Concourse Sports Chalet did it to City Welding Sales and Service.

There was a moment in the Brass Rail-Buick confrontation when they were all tied up once again. They had gone into the meeting separated by two points in the standings, and Buick got them back by winning the first game 1014-973. But The Brass Rail, cashing in on the rolling of Ted Zimmerman and John Giovannelli, came back with the winning margin in games two and three and the point for total pins.

Zimmerman ended up the best for both teams, rounding out a 209-186-236—631 series. Giovannelli had a 620, with his third game also a 236. For Bill Cook Buick, Al Haase had 601 and Norb Leja 594.

KARLSEN PHARMACY had another blistering night on its home Striking Lanes, totaling a scorching 3016 pins for the night. Morton, which had been keeping alive the best streak in the PCTL, bowled 2965 as a team, but it just wasn't enough.

The Pharmacy quintet was led by the Simonis act, with Herm crashing a series of 224-256-208—688 and Joe 237-235-153—625. Bob Glaser, with a 242 third game, contributed a huge 640 for Morton, while John Miller had 611 and Ernie Koche 606. But there wasn't enough to go around to overcome the big Karlsen scores.

The Jeffery-Pioneer match was bowled almost a week early, with the teams meeting the last Sunday in November at Pioneer Lanes. Zubak was a singular standout, and the difference in the challenge. He was not only the only man on either team over 600, he finished with 226-222-228—676.

DON CHRISTENSEN, the next best for Jeffery, was 107 pins back of that. And substitute Ralph Karkow, with 577, was the best for Pioneer, as the one-time league kings operated again with a couple regulars out.

Concourse Sports Chalet continued to close in on the first division with its 5-2 final over City Welding at Thunderbird Bowl. Chalet, with 44 points, passed Morton in the standings, moving into fifth just three points removed from fourth.

Chalet had two men cashing in over 600. Tony Sasso was clearly the best, with 202-203-225—630, and Tom Kouros came in with 604. City Welding had no one moving into the happy circle, as Dick Wirtz and Bob Hurwitz tied for team honors with 570.

This Saturday, The Brass Rail will draw Morton Pontiac in its effort to make it three straight weeks on top. They'll meet at Morton's home Beverly Lanes, with Morton seeking to bounce back. Karlsen Pharmacy and Bill Cook Buick will have their second place dispute out at Rolling Meadows Bowl. Jeffery Lanes will meet City Welding at Thunderbird, and Brim's Pioneer will meet the surging five from Sports Chalet at Gunnell's Lanes.

Steve's Stricken 3-1

Lattof Quells New Menace

Not by much, but still on top.

That's the status of Lattof Chevrolet in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League, with the Lattof ladies weathering still another direct assault on their supremacy.

The latest challenge came from Steve's Restaurant, the most torrid team in the league until last Saturday night.

Steve's had taken 11 of a possible 12 points the previous three Saturdays, and kept the touch through the first game in its showdown with Lattof at Rolling Meadows Bowl. But Lattof's — anchored by Peggy Harris, Rose Kraft and Vi Douglas — resisted again and came on for a 3-1 win.

Steve's not only failed in the bid for the top, but slipped from two to four points off the pace and fell into third place. Morton Pontiac, with a 3-1 final over Rolling Meadows Bow, stayed just a hop behind the leaders.

River Rand Bowl, the third of the three teams menacing Lattof, faltered with a 3-1 shocking at the hands of last place Striking Lanes, making its difference with Lattof five points.

THE LATTOF heroics started with an 895-861 defeat in the first game, and at that point the distance between the two teams was a single point in the standings.

Then in game two, with Vi Douglas' 206 game the prime factor, Lattof's came back with a three pin edge, enough to get the point back. The third game victory was keyed largely by Peggy Harris' 223, as she wrapped up a 565 series, equal to the best of the night in the league. Rose Kraft had a balanced 553 series, which contributed heavily to Lattof's getting the point for total pinfall as well.

Steve's Harris, Delores by name, also had a 565 series, including a 206 game. But the bridge between that and her teammates' scores was too great, and Lattof ended up with a 30-pin bulge in the match, and three points.

MORTON, remaining just two points behind Lattof, was led by Nancy Dietz, who had the evening's third 565 series and the best game of the night, a 233. Juanita Davis checked in second for Morton with 529.

RMB received a 535 from Marlene Smith and a 533 from Esther Hugo, but had three series under 500.

Elsie Slove paced the upset as Striking Lanes rose up to strike down River Rand Bowl. Elsie rolled a 544 series, 37 pins better than teammate Marge Duffy, who had a 223 game in her total.

THAT 223 WAS a key contribution, because it was 35 pins better than the best rolled by River Rand in game three, and Striking won that stanza by 28.

It turned out to mean ultimate defeat for River Rand.

Driver Test Station Planned for Area

Site Choice Expected Soon

by Dan Pribilski
Staff Writer

A state drivers' license testing center is being planned for northwest suburbia with its location most probably either at Arlington Heights or Palatine.

Joseph Montgoemry, chief examiner in the drivers license division in Springfield, said a decision will be made within a few weeks regarding the location.

"The purpose will be to take the workload off of the Libertyville center," Montgomery said.

A Paddock Exclusive!

He said information regarding the location will be officially released as soon as definite plans are made.

One problem, he noted, will be deciding where a site may be obtained.

Other decisions to be made, Montgomery said, include costs, whether examiners will be transferred from other centers, and how long the state will commit itself to one site.

PADDOCK Publications Inc., in September pinpointed the need of a northwest suburban center in an article on the Libertyville center.

The Libertyville center has been and is a source of irritation to the people because of its inability to handle on a day-to-day basis all the license applicants. Many times people are sent home because the center cannot handle all the applicants.

Part of the plight of Libertyville is that the people have not been willing to travel from northwest suburbia to more distant stations such as the one on Elston Avenue in Chicago. The Elston Avenue center is better equipped to handle large numbers of applicants.

THE LONG WAIT—People line up at the Libertyville drivers license testing center. This is a common scene at the center, and for the people a frustrating one. It is hoped locating a station either in Arlington Heights or Palatine will relieve the workload of the Libertyville station. A big factor in the workload is the 3,000-plus high school students who are tested yearly. (Staff Photo)

(A-15

Pleased over the possibility of an Arlington Heights or Palatine center are the heads of the driver education programs in the area's high schools.

HIGH SCHOOL District 214, the largest in the area encompassing Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, has had over 2,900 students yearly seeking to qualify for a driver's license.

In addition, District 214's driver education program instructs around 900 more from the Catholic high schools.

"It would help very much," commented the head of District 214's driver education program, Howard J. Lester.

"The young people now go either to Libertyville, or sometimes Elston Avenue or Elgin. It would make it much handier for parents."

Lester explained that a student's parents take him to the testing center. The delays involved in Libertyville have angered parents, Lester said.

Clark Bailey, the Palatine-Schaumburg High School District 211 driver education head, also was pleased at the news.

AN EXAMINER comes to the high schools for the tests. But this presents a problem, nonetheless, because it is difficult to have all the youngsters tested.

Bailey said the district has 1,000-plus go through its driver education program in a year.

Lake Park High School, District 108, in north DuPage County, has a lesser problem in getting its youngsters tested because of its smaller enrollment.

But a northwest suburban station probably would help, said Ralph W. Krupke, head of the Lake Park High School driver education program.

Presently, most Lake Park students go to Lombard and a few to Elgin, Krupke said. Lake Park has 250 to 300 students enrolled in the driver education program, he said. (A15

SUNDAY'S SERMON

FORGIVENESS

Have you ever said to someone, "I forgive you," while saying saying to yourself, "But I won't forget?"

You cannot forgive with words. You are only going through the motions. Forgiveness must come from the heart. It must be sincere.

Learn to forgive. Learn to be tolerant. Be sure the day will come when you will want someone to forgive you and, when the day comes, obtaining forgiveness may be the most important goal in your life.

It is not always easy to forgive. It is even more difficult to forget. But, there is a great measure of satisfaction to be earned through the act of forgiving. Try it and see. You'll find that you stand straighter, stand taller and feel warmer inside as you look the world in the eye.

Driver Test Station Planned for Area

Site Choice Expected Soon

by Dan Pribilski
Staff Writer

A state drivers' license testing center is being planned for northwest suburbia with its location most probably either at Arlington Heights or Palatine.

Joseph Montgoemry, chief examiner in the drivers license division in Springfield, said a decision will be made within a few weeks regarding the location.

"The purpose will be to take the workload off of the Libertyville center," Montgomery said.

He said information regarding the location will be officially released as soon as definite plans are made.

A Paddock Exclusive!

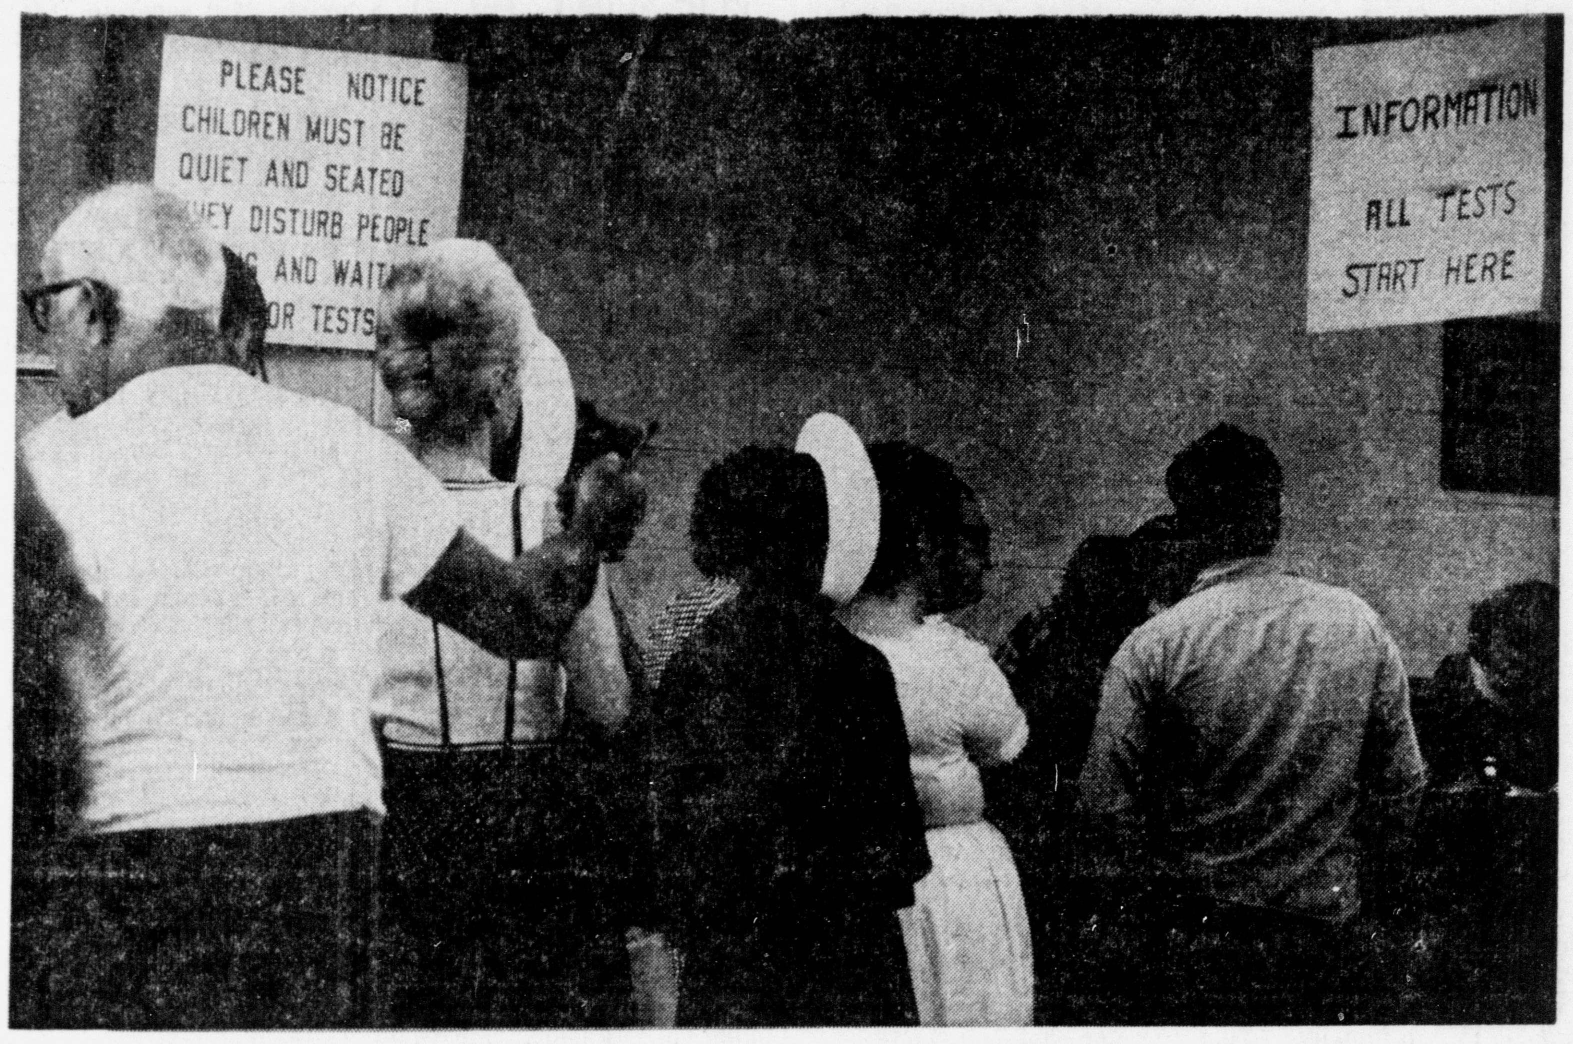
One problem, he noted, will be deciding where a site may be obtained.

Other decisions to be made, Montgomery said, include costs, whether examiners will be transferred from other centers, and how long the state will commit itself to one site.

PADDOCK Publications Inc., in September pinpointed the need of a northwest suburban center in an article on the Libertyville center.

The Libertyville center has been and is a source of irritation to the people because of its inability to handle on a day-to-day basis all the license applicants. Many times people are sent home because the center cannot handle all the applicants.

Part of the plight of Libertyville is that the people have not been willing to travel from northwest suburbia to more distant stations such as the one on Elston Avenue in Chicago. The Elston Avenue center is better equipped to handle large numbers of applicants.



THE LONG WAIT—People line up at the Libertyville drivers license testing center. This is a common scene at the center, and for the people a frustrating one. It is hoped locating a station either in Arlington Heights or Palatine will relieve the workload of the Libertyville station. A big factor in the workload is the 3,000-plus high school students who are tested yearly. (Staff Photo)

(A-15

Pleased over the possibility of an Arlington Heights or Palatine center are the heads of the driver education programs in the area's high schools.

HIGH SCHOOL District 214, the largest in the area encompassing Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships, has had over 2,900 students yearly seeking to qualify for a driver's license.

In addition, District 214's driver education program instructs around 900 more from the Catholic high schools.

"It would help very much," commented the head of District 214's driver education program, Howard J. Lester.

"The young people now go either to Libertyville, or sometimes Elston Avenue or Elgin. It would make it much handier for parents."

Lester explained that a student's parents take him to the testing center. The delays involved in Libertyville have angered parents, Lester said.

Clark Bailey, the Palatine-Schaumburg High School District 211 driver education head, also was pleased at the news.

AN EXAMINER comes to the high schools for the tests. But this presents a problem, nonetheless, because it is difficult to have all the youngsters tested.

Bailey said the district has 1,000-plus go through its driver education program in a year.

Lake Park High School, District 108, in north DuPage County, has a lesser problem in getting its youngsters tested because of its smaller enrollment.

But a northwest suburban station probably would help, said Ralph W. Krupke, head of the Lake Park High School driver education program.

Presently, most Lake Park students go to Lombard and a few to Elgin, Krupke said. Lake Park has 250 to 300 students enrolled in the driver education program, he said. (A15
